"You never lose, but sometimes the clock runs out on you."

Vince Lombardi
In attempting to maintain and nurture a high-quality business school, it is often difficult to maintain and nurture a top-notch sports program. Academics and sports often make strange bedfellows as many coaches at Babson College know. It is not unusual for Babson to receive applications from superior athletes who unfortunately, do not measure up to the ever-increasing standards of the College.

Another factor of key importance is money. The funds are provided in part by increasing tuition costs. The NCAA has ruled against division III schools offering scholarships which means many athletes have to rely on the next best thing, financial aid. However, more than one has found these grants not large enough and, as a result, transferred to schools which offer more or ones with lower tuition.

But in spite of these formidable hardships, sports at Babson College have still managed to shine. This is due in large part to the type of athlete that comes to Babson. Very seldom is he or she the superstar, but more usually a good athlete who makes up for his lack of talent with spirit, desire, and hard work.

As the school continues to grow, the sports program will receive water and light to prosper.
