Sen. Charles E. Goodell

"Once again the students of this nation will go door to door to call for peace in Vietnam. Their constructive expression of indignation over this senseless war is truly a high form of patriotism."

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield

"The type of nonviolent action which the Moratorium asserts is not only highly commendable but also sorely needed."

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy

"The Vietnam Moratorium is the most significant demonstration of opposition to the war in Vietnam since the primary results of 1968. It is the only way that the people of the country can demonstrate a second judgment on the war in Vietnam to those who hold political power."

Sen. George McGovern

"I would hope that the Moratorium observance will make clear to the Administration that in the continuance of this senseless bloodshed lies the seed of national tragedy. It is an effort which merits the responsible participation of all Americans who are anxious to reverse a policy of military attrition and moral disaster."

Cesar Chavez

"There is no chance of achieving full participation for all of our citizens in our own system here in America so long as our government is preoccupied with interfering in the affairs and aspirations of other poor people around the world. I therefore hope that all Americans will join in and support the activities of the Vietnam Moratorium Committee."

Joseph Duffey

CHAIRMAN, AMERICANS FOR DEMOCRATIC ACTION

"The moral, physical and economic health of America depends upon an end to the war this year, not next year or the year after. A.D.A. urges its members and local chapters to give full support to the Vietnam Moratorium."

Rabbi Maurice Eisendrath

"To save one life is to save the world, but to stand idly by the blood of one brother is to destroy the world."

WASHINGTON - The Vietnam Moratorium, a series of national, escalating anti-war actions, will begin October 15. Students at more than 500 colleges are already committed to spending the day in the community with door-to-door campaigns, teach-ins, rallies, and vigils. Accompanying the campus-based actions will be organized efforts by business, clergymen, community groups and labor. All activities are directed against continuing United States action in Vietnam.

The Moratorium has the endorsement of the National Americans for Democratic Action, the National Student Association, the New Mobilization Committee, and the National New Democratic Coalition.

Coordinated by a Washington office, the one-day October National office is staffed with veterans of the McCarthy and Kennedy campaigns. Among those are Sam Brown, 26,

The Vietnam Moratorium day is a short while off and I'm sitting here at my desk trying to think up a persuasive argument as to why you should participate, but I don't have any good sounding rhetoric to write it would be absurd in the face of such colossal human tragedy, so I'll just say it how I feel, as of October first 1969, thirty-nine thousand men have died and two-hundred and fifty thousand have been wounded in Vietnam, and no one knows why, yet next week the New York Times will publish a long list of fearless names, more dead, another group of unanswerable question marks. Dr. John Kenneth Galbraith

"Everyone who has been lecturing students on the wickedness of violence should welcome this opportunity to reassert peacefully their opposition to the continued pressure from the military leadership."

Richard N. Goodwin

"This Moratorium is an unusual opportunity for those of us who believe that public policy can be made to yield to citizen action without violence or coercion. It opposes the superior moral force of peace to the alluring insanity of war."

Fannie Lou Hamer

"With the kind of pain we are undergoing here in Mississippi, to have black and white men dying in Vietnam is a shame and disgrace. It is essential that we support the Vietnam Moratorium Committee’s efforts to end the war."

Dr. Reinhold Niebuhr

"Let us all support the students who are trying to stop, by their Moratorium, this disastrous, costly and pointless war."

Paul Schrade

"On October 15th, the American people will have a chance to make President Nixon stop the killing and end this immoral war."

Benjamin Spock, M.D.

"Only public pressure for immediate withdrawal will persuade Nixon to end the war. The Vietnam Moratorium will help build that pressure."

Adam Walinsky

"By the awful grace of God, we are the survivors. Others have given their lives for us—in Vietnam, and here in America. On October 15th, we begin to pay our debts."

George Wiley

EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR, NATIONAL WELFARE RIGHTS ORGANIZATION

"Ours is a government that has imposed immense suffering on poor people in Vietnam and poor people in this country. On October 15th, we must demonstrate, dramatically and directly, our outrage against these policies and our commitment to change the nation’s priorities."
Politics—cont.

True, this is a democratic society. True, we are taught not to infringe on the rights of the minority. But, true also, the very government which supposedly shields those constitutional rights, makes smoking marijuana a felony without any substantial medical proof that it is even harmful. If this hypocritical government is allowed to infringe on minority rights, colleges should be able, and most definitely are almost obligated, to close down schools in protest of this immoral and illegal war.

I am not saying that an ultra-conservative, pro-Vietnam institution of higher learning should close, what I am saying, is that if an administration of a school or its Student Government believe that the school should shut down, but fail to pass a resolution stating such a stand merely because they may infringe upon a few, they are as much the criminals as those who were the cause of the war in the first place. This paper has stated Eldridge Cleaver’s quote before but at this time it is imperative that it be repeated—“If you are not part of the solution, you’re part of the problem.”

To those people who say that a school would not be closed because a majority of the students are not really committed to immediate unilateral withdrawal of all U.S. forces from Vietnam, I have only this to say. Neither is the reciprocal, the majority is for the war, necessarily true. To say so would be a fallacy. In other words, all those not for immediate unilateral withdrawal, or even for an end to the war without a U.S. victory, are not necessarily pro-Vietnam. It is a sad fact, but there is only a small percentage of people committed to either extreme. The rest—the mass, the majority, the middle—are uncommitted.

Memo:
Please put a notice in the newspaper regarding the consequences of dishonesty in securing newspapers from the machine in the mail room.

A. Mattson

For a moment, college leaders must forget about the big mass in the middle. They must take a stand, and in what is right, even if it means “infringing” on the rights of a few.

The war has been going on too long, too many have died, too many have been maimed, too many have lost loved ones, to let a chance like the Moratorium slip by our fingers.

The editors of this paper take such a stand. We support the shutdown of Tubalene College on Wednesday, October 15. You can’t please all of the people, all of the time and politics will only lead to destruction. Let this college aid in whatever small way it can in attempting to end this mass catastrophe, before the moratorium dies—eventually drawing us with it.

Baboons would be completely on its own. The remainder of the budget would come from their own sources. Such areas as commercial advertising, sponsors, patrons, and the selling of subscriptions, as well as the donations of those students who felt so inclined to improved the quality of their yearbook. In such a situation those students who desired to support the book monied out, while those who were unable to do so would not be unjustly taxed for a product they didn’t want.

In a school such as this the selling of advertising, should present no great problem. Last year’s total sale of $1,100, was pitiful; however, last year the need did not exist for a concentrated effort to be directed towards the sale of advertising.

Many other aspects of the production of the book such as a $425, discrepancy between the total photography budget and the amount received by the photographer, and the salary allocation to the editorial staff, would of necessity, be more closely controlled.

Is not a country worth defending capable or decency protected voluntarily? If a nation is “great” should not a large part of its citizens rally to her defense out of rational self-interest to preserve that which they value?

Unfortunately, liberals and conservatives usually prefer to evade such questions. The New Left feels there should be either a draft or lottery for “social projects,” i.e. Peace Corps, against the system. The reactionary right views the draft as a re-affirmation of short hair, God, “clean, patriotic thinking,” discipline for “mis-guided youth,” and outright political oppression. Both left and right are wrong—both reaction the State’s prerogative to initiate control over an individual.

Slavery cannot be compromised a “fair” draft or an “equitable” lottery cannot exist, since it is unable to evade. Regardless of who is choosing or how they are choosing people to sacrificed for the State, this sacrifice is wrong. The only solution is a volunteer system.

To assure civilian control, voluntary armies should be supported by voluntary donations. Higher salaries for a smaller, more efficient military under civilian control assures freedom. Slavery does not.

For those who whine: “No one will voluntarily support an army! People must be forced,” THE LIBERTARIAN poses the following: If you are willing to donate, what makes you think other people are not? If you are unwilling to do so, then by what possible criterion can you determine their will and force others to support a force others do not wish to support?

For if a country is truly free, it should be defended by free men.

One thing which Miss Stimpel felt very strongly about, was her adverse feelings toward those students who take a day off from school, but fail to make an active part in any peace effort. She would support some sort of a peace demonstration on the part of those girls at Lasalle who do take the day off. The demonstration can come about in many forms, she stated, such as trips to Boston where large protests are planned.

Monday, at Lasalle there will be a meeting to decide just what exactly should be planned for those at the school demonstrating against the war.

Dr. Dinklespiel & IDS

Following his graduation from Amherst College in 1957 where he gained academic honors and a membership in Phi Beta Kappa, Dr. Dinklespiel served for four years in the Military Assistance Planning Division of the Office of the Secretary of Defense. His graduate study occurred in the period 1961-67 during which time he earned his M.A. and Ph. D. at Harvard University. During 1961-65, he was a Harvard University and an Amherst College Fellow. During the period 1965-66, he was awarded the Ford Foundation Foreign Area Fellowship in Latin American Studies. His thesis concerned administration and economic development in Venezuela, a country in which he has spent considerable time. Portions of his thesis have appeared in Regional Planning for Development: The Experience of the Guayan Program of Venezuela, edited by Lloyd Roblin (M.I.T. Press 1966). Dr. Dinklespiel became an Instructor at Amherst College in 1965 and an Assistant Professor in 1967.

At Babson College, Dr. Dinklespiel will coordinate the interdisciplinary courses, teach in this area and offer a political science elective in the spring term.

Considering the obvious - the introduction of such a course as IIE being a rather revolutionary one in such a conservative business school - the LIBERATED PRESS felt that a short interview with a member of the faculty who is teaching the course would prove enlightening.

Dr. Dinklespiel was asked to comment on IIE in general, answering such questions as to his feelings on the course's purpose, curriculum, etc. The course in IIE (It is a two term course) will be divided into four main parts:

1. The first will examine the vital information issue of student unrest on campuses. Such unrest will be divided into two main parts: alienation and activism.

The second part of the course will take a comparative perspective of American students in general, topics such as student politics and the French student revolt will be discussed.

The third part of the course will look at the attitudes of youth, which will become specialized in the last quarter to attitudes of students in American colleges.

Dr. Dinklespiel feels that a course in IIE is an "educational experience that addresses them [the students] as citizens," as it examines their feelings on such topics as moral, social and political concerns.

"It can't teach a student how to think," Dr. Dinklespiel went on to say, but he hopes it will prove intellectually rigorous enough so that it can do something for the thinking apparatus," Dr. Dinklespiel felt that it is basically designed to "stimulate moral and political concern." Examining such fields as "where they sit as students in society."

Dr. Dinklespiel was asked considering the novelty of such a course - how he plans to go about conducting it. He said that there is no basic plan set down on paper, and instructors with different backgrounds will do different things. His attempt is to act not so much as an instructor, or a mediator between debates, but rather as a "stimulator" who will try to make things "explicit and a lot clearer" to students so that they "can learn more about society."

When asked why Babson would undergo such a change by offering the course, Dr. Dinklespiel felt that it is probably an attempt by the administration to "attract better students, improve the quality of the the student body," as well as a strong desire to "branch out."

Asked of the overall reaction by fellow faculty members, Dr. Dinklespiel said it met with "favorable reaction."

Babson Takes Assumption 2-1

Babson heads for its third confrontation with Boston University this Saturday with a 3-1 record. The score was written out over Assumption College yesterday afternoon. The game was controlled mostly by Babson who took 35 shots during the game. We passed and checked the ball well, Assumption battled very hard but they just did not have the skills to match Babson.

The score at half time was 1-0 for Babson. The goal was scored early in the first quarter with a cross kick by Chayot Sanoomwong with John Novak taking the pass and scoring the goal. The coach chided into the team at half time to inspire a stronger effort in the second half. Mr. Barrett is a proud coach who desires the best from each of his players. He has an inspiring person to play for in an winning in all important.

In the second half Assumption came back in the third quarter with a direct kick that was blocked in, John Ticker scored the winning goal on a superb kick which had a down spin on it and caused the goalie to misjudge it. Outstanding players were Mike Krier and Bill Rodgers on defense. The ball was well controlled by our players with Sanoomwong, Kejlandor and Frank passing very well. However, Bill Rodgers managed to be the outstanding game player throughout the game.

Saturday, Sept. 27 saw the Babson soccer team lose 2 to 0 in a game against Southern Conn. The Conn. team is perhaps the best team in New England this year so that gives an idea of our team's strength.

A 2 1/2 hour bus ride did not help Babson get into the play at the beginning of the game. A further hindrance was the S. C.'s smaller soccer field. However Sheldon Bhaloe deftly scored two goals during the heavy Babo attack. Sheldon robbed S. C. man of a goal early in the game and went on to play an excellent game.

The first half ended with the score 2 to 0. The first goal was scored on a well executed pass and gave Sheldon a little chance. The second was scored on a corner kick as a S. C. member alertly headed the ball into the goal.

Thesecond half was well played by Babson with our team carrying the attack most of the last quarter. Adjustments were made by the players which produced a stronger defense.

The offense was adjusted by Coach Hartwell to help stifle the S. C. attack at its birth. This adjustment was necessary to make up for the excellent speed, tackling and trapping of the S. C. team.

All in all the Babson team made a fine showing. They worked the ball well, played a good pass and go game and adjusted to take advantage of the S. C. team's best possible. Some of the bright spots for Babson were John Watson who played a hellish game at half-back; Sheldon Shalome in goal; and freshman Bill Rogers. Bill is an offensive lineman who will bear watching in the weeks ahead.

Sports - Babson had one goal called back, Saturday, Oct. 4 has Boston U. here against Babson soccer team.
