1967 BABSONIAN

CHARLTON MILLS,
EDITOR-IN-CHIEF

ALAN D. OAK,
BUSINESS MANAGER
Master, shall I begin with the usual jokes
That the audience always laughs at?

Aristophanes
His soul swooned slowly as he heard the snow falling faintly through the universe and faintly falling, like the descent of their last end, upon all the living and the dead.

James Joyce
Alone, alone all, all alone;
Alone on a wide, wide sea.

Samuel Coleridge
Rather than love, than money, than fame, give me truth.

Henry David Thoreau
Each venture
Is a new beginning,
With shabby equipment always deteriorating
In the general mess of imprecision of feeling.

T. S. Eliot
Except during the nine months before he draws his first breath, no man manages his affairs as well as a tree does.

George Bernard Shaw
dawn . . . dusk twixt must be swiftly significant or pass and be forgotten with the rest.

DEDICATION

Fifty years reaches well into the life span of any man; it is a time when he is most productive. Yet, when he looks to the future, he sees the end is not far off. In the life span of a college, fifty years is but a short time indeed; it is a time for sending down taproots, for reaching out into the soil to gain strength.

Babson will celebrate its fiftieth anniversary in 1969. These first fifty years are but a prologue to the future. It is with the future—the new Babson—that we must all be concerned. We graduating seniors have been fortunate enough to see Babson give breath to a new spirit, a new enthusiasm, a whole new outlook for the decade of the 70's. These are not idle words, for actions have already spoken ever so much more loudly than the words. Each of us has had the opportunity to express his hopes for the future of his college; some of us have had the opportunity to help in the formulation of plans for the new Babson. But Babson has just begun. The involvement of each graduate in the development of his college in the crucial decade ahead will help assure the new Babson. It is to building the future of Babson—the pursuit of excellence in collegiate education for business leadership—and all that implies—that this publication is dedicated.

metal working techniques

—help to straighten production "kinks"
in aerospace projects

KAUPP facilities include high efficiency metal forming machines housed in ultra-modern metal-working plants. KAUPP craftsmen have been supplying precision metal components to industry since 1924, and are thoroughly familiar with the problems of forming modern metals and alloys for both commercial and military requirements.
