Circle K

Circle K, the largest collegiate service organization in North America, is an organization which combines social activities with service activities that help the school and community. This year Babson Circle K focused on working with two groups, besides participating in many other volunteer functions. United Cerebral Palsy (UCP) was one group and the mentally handicapped at the Newton, Weston, Wellesley (NWW) Drop-in center was the second group.

This year Circle K started off with a big bang. The Great Rubber Duckie Race is held every year to raise money for United Cerebral Palsy. Ira Hirsch and Kristi Bianco, two dedicated Circle K’ers, dressed up as big yellow ducks and waddled around for the whole afternoon. As the year progressed, Circle K continued to work United Cerebral Palsy and participated in several UCP phonathons.

Every other Wednesday night Circle K’ers would attend the Newton, Weston, Wellesley (NWW) drop-in center. NWW is a place where mentally handicapped people gather together to socialize. With themes like Wild Animal Night, Crazy Hat Night, and parties to celebrate holidays to name just a few, everybody who attended had a really enjoyable and rewarding experience. There were many other various activities that we participated in.
