Three Students Take Wrong Chance

Three Babson undergraduate seniors have been discussed from College funds and possibly by the Globe News this past week.

All three men were found guilty of plagiaristic practices in the writing of their undergraduate Industry Analysis Thesis by a committee of top administrative and faculty personnel.

Two men convicted freely when confronted with the evidence while the third man refused to admit plagiarism even though 80% of his report was quoted from one source, verbatim without quotation marks.

The committee comprised of the Dean of Men, Student Registrar, Dean of Faculty, Mr. Carpenter, and President Trim gave careful consideration to the three men, but refused outside ground action when confronted with the evidence of deception, ignorance, and cheating on the part of the third man.

The committee allowed each man a hearing before any member of the administration and faculty as they desired at the same time consulting with each of the families.

Note should be carefully taken that all F.A. grades remain temporary until final investigation has been made.

PURCHASED manuscripts now in existence have been carefully observed to the I.A. Dept. Students should be reminded that purchase of a manuscript may involve receipt of stolen property in which case legal complications can result.

DR. TRIM APPOINTED BY GOVERNOR PURCULO

In a terse release from the office of Governor Peter Puriculo, it was announced that Dr. Gordon M. Trim has been appointed to the Massachusetts Theodore Roosevelt Centennial Commission. It is the object of this commission to commemorate this centennial celebration of Theodore Roosevelt in some way during this year.

In an interview with Dr. Trim the question was posed as to how the commission would commemorate this centennial celebration. Dr. Trim said, "As a child of the Democratic Party, I am unable to define a political philosophy."

There is a national commission to organize the whole commemorative activities. They have turned the problem over to each of the states to handle as they see fit. The governor of each state is the Honorary Chairman. In the case of Massachusetts the acting chairman is Dr. James P. Baxter, III, president of Williams College.

In other news activities of M.I.T.'s Voodoo are adequate funds, we will be unable to have the members of their respective college chapters. Babson has risen from the Babson chapter was in first place in the contest of college chapters. Babson has risen from the possible length of the beards. It is to be the first attempt at having the senior class elect the person whom they wanted to dedicate their yearbook to.

According to the admission office there are 162 members in the Junior Class. Of this total 131 voted in the election, or 81% of the class.

Congratulations are in order to the new officers with best wishes for the coming year.

HOBOS SCHEDULED FOR GREEN ACRES

For a period of four days now many of us have been in a state of one of bewilderment. The reason for this kind of bewilderment is to be found in the contest of deceptions, ignorance, and cheating on the part of all men.

It might be interesting to contemplate the possible length of the beards. Estimates have been made that a beard grows from 1/30 to 1/50 inch per day. Since few men have been growing them for sixteen days it is probable that any will have grown an inch in length. This is, however, purely an estimate and in no way the lengths for this year. BUSINESS MGR. SELECTED

The Student Council on Tuesday May 6 elected the new Business Manager of the Babson Globe-News. The new Business Manager is Bill Marcus and the new Business Manager is Bill Marcus.

The new Business Manager is Bill Marcus. His past experience includes work in the business activities of M.I.T.'s Voodoo.

NOTICES

DO NOT GO TO CLASS SATURDAY, May 17. This will be no instructive at all.

This is a test for Spring Carnival. It is for the Faculty and the Administration.

It may not be right, but it is a thought for the future. Finally will be held within thirty days. WATCH FOR THE FINAL EXAMINATION SCHEDULE IN THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE BABSON GLOBE-NEWS.

This will be the final examination for the Babson Globe-News this year. Due to inadequate funds, we will be unable to meet the demands of a weekly publication. A proposed budget for the coming year will be submitted to the Student Council, and it is the firm hope and belief, that an increase in monetary contributions will be directed toward the Babson Globe-News.
Let me wonder at the printer's nature of life. Can see is an attempt we conduct ourselves in a mature manner. It's the purpose. Frankly, I fail to see upon us. One of these demands is that, one day, assume positions of responsibility. One day, must one promise not be a 'full-fledged hobo' must one promise not to bathe for a week? Although the promised curfew is 10:00, we still walk around like a slob for a week. A new parking lot was put up in College Hall. The last date which the plaque which is given to the winner of a faculty-student match.

To the Editor:

Dear Editor:

As a member of the Senior Class I was asked to select an individual whom I thought to be worthy of a designation. My vote, like those of the rest of my fellow classmates, will not receive any consideration. As a senior I feel that the yearbook is the property of the Senior Class, and I feel that the ballots should be counted. (Name Withheld)

Letter to the Editor

I wish to react to a front page news story appearing in the May 3 issue of the Globe. The question in question is headlined "Boho Week Stories Start on Page 2." I cannot help but be curious as to what makes students (or anyone else, for that matter) decide to shag off their obligations (i.e. the obligation of basic human cleanliness) for an hour, a day, or in this case a week, merely because they fancy easy oats. We live in a society which makes certain demands upon us. One of these demands is that we conduct ourselves in a mature manner. I am not involved in the personnel manager's office. My opinion, is not a manifestation of a mature approach to life. I should like to close this blast session with a brief reference to the closing passage of the article in the May 6th issue. It read as follows, "This should prove to be quite an enjoyable week, so let's hope everyone cooperates in realizing Hoho Week's purpose." Pragmatist, I feel to see what enjoyment can be derived from walking around like a slob for a week. As to the intention in the purpose of this idiotic idea, the only apparent purpose I can see is an attempt to emulate the lowliest in the animal kingdom. It very likely seems like the type of behavior one would expect from men who will ultimately be responsible for the business in the world.

One brief question to the organizers of Hoho Week: is their purpose to qualify as a full-fledged hobo or must one promise not to bath for a week? Hopefully,

Laurence B. Gordon
Director of Publicity

In no way was it ever thought that to participate in Hoho Week it is necessary to eliminate bathing from one's normal routine. Merely because an individual does not shower or wear a suit, does it mean that he is not responsible enough to attend college or assume his place in the world of business? Such a week as this can, it seems, be thoroughly drawn out to extreme, but certainly any college campus is capable of knowing when he needs a bath.

LETTER TO EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I enjoyed your editorial in issue number 22. It seems to me that we should have additional tennis courts here at Bascom.

Winning the job is no snap today. A letter of introduction may get you past the Personnel Manager. It is nice to see a chat with Dr. Harrison. It is nice to see your fellow employees. Keep this in mind when the Personnel Manager will tell you what you plant to flourish. However, careful planning. There's cultivating, and there's cultivating.

The stock market's climb to a high last week of 464.5 on the Dow Jones Industrial Average is an indication of high confidence is beginning to build up in the securities market. This is expected to be re­hearsed by heavy and continuous buying of stocks in the mutual funds. An astute observer will notice that only those stocks showing good earnings this first quarter are responding to the upward trend in the market to any considerable degree. Therefore, any premature buying in cy­clical stocks before subsequent reactions have materialized will be taking a great deal of unnecessary risk.
BURNHAM WINS TROPHY

O May 7 Babson held its annual intramural swimming meet. Twenty-two teams turned out for the event. Last year’s winner of the Babson Trophy which is awarded to the outstanding swimmer was set by Gary Burnham of Bryant. Burnham paced his Bryant team to a hard fought 28-24 win over South.

Individual winners were Rosenthal in the 50 yard freestyle, Burnham in the 100 yard freestyle, Hooper in the 50 yard back stroke, Hopkins in the butterfly, Bryant in the medley relay, and South in the freestyle relay.

A K Psi SET FOR GREEN ACRES TOURNAY

With a 2-0 record, the Brothers of Alpha Kappa Psi have assured themselves of a game at Green Acres during Spring Carnival. The two wins were registered against the Vet’s Club 20-11, and Delta Sigma Pi 9-7. Paul Gass was credited with both wins.

In the game against the Vet’s Club, it took an eight run fifth inning to turn the tide. Going in to the top of the fifth, the Snapgers were behind 11-5. It was Dolph Hanser who delivered the winning blow, with two down and bases loaded. Against the Brothers of Delta Sigma Pi, it took a combination of clutch hitting, fielding, and pitching, as the Snapgers were always being threatened. It was a ball lined off the pitcher’s bare hand into fielding, and pitching, as the Snapgers were behind 11-5. It was Dolph Hanser, which was swamped south by the score of 16-2.

It is evident, from the scores of the last two games, that our intramural teams are quite offensive minded. Word has it that some of the teams are holding double sessions to tighten up their defense.

BRYANT SOFTBALL LEADER

With the so-called coming of spring the softball intramural season has begun. The first four games on the schedule were called off due to inclement weather.

If you could change one golf rule, which one would it be? This question was put to a number of golf pros and amateurs just recently. The majority of them stated that they would like to have the rule that charges you a stroke and distance when you drive out of bounds changed. As Ken Venturi, San Francisco golf pro and right now the hottest golfer on the pro tour, stated, “The penalty is in effect two strokes if you drive out of bounds, but you lose only one stroke if you miss the ball completely which is without a doubt the worse shot in golf, not to say humiliating.”

How many times have you missed breaking 90 or 90 just because of one bad hole where you hit one or two balls out of bounds? If you are the average golfer, the answer to this question will be many times. This rule imposes more of a handicap to the average golfer than it does to the golfer who shoots in the 70s. If one takes time to look at the USGA rules, he will find that the rules are made up with the golf pro in mind. I think that it’s about time that the USGA began to think about the average golfer. If the pros think that the rules now in effect are too harsh, how is the weekend golfer going to do?

Now, I am not recommending an overall change in the golf rules, but I feel that the USGA could modify the three or four rules that at this moment put the average golfer on the defensive rather than on the offensive. This could be done by making two different acts of rules, one for amateurs and the other one for the pros. By doing this, the professionals will still have to play superb golf in order to win, and the amateur will be able to play better golf because many of the psychological hazards will be erased from his mind.

If the USGA follows its present course, within the next ten years the only people that will be able to play golf will be the pros. It seems that every year the USGA comes up with a new rule that places the average golfer at a disadvantage. Today the beginning golfer not only has to learn how to hit the ball, but he has to learn a hundred and one different rules that cut down his chances to remain a popular sport among people of all ages. If the USGA comes to its senses and begins to think of the golfer that can’t go out and shoot a 72 every day of the year!

"For A Woman..."

"Dedicated to You, Mattie"

By R. C. Student

For woman's love, a man will fight
To conquer her, with all his might.
And her request, he will fulfill
With all he has, in strength or skill.

But we wonder if it is best,
To be subjected to her test.
We may know something of her heart,
But all we know is only part.
A woman's love is not so free
That we can take or let it be.
She has the right to choose her mate;
So with a woman I hesitate
To satisfy her every desire,
For fear to another she may aspire.

Remember this and one more thought,
A woman's love cannot be bought.
It must be nurtured through the years,
With happiness, kindness—maybe tears.

Off the Cuff — from page 2

...and well, and you must continue to dress properly. When a job is filled, the winner then becomes part of a company. As part of that company, he is an ambassador and representative both during and after business hours.

In order to succeed in your first interview, remember these points:
1. Dress neatly.
2. Have your resume, a short experience-biography, neatly typed and firmly in hand.
3. Have a good working knowledge of the business of your prospective employer.
4. Be on time for your appointment.
After the interview, write a note to the employer, thanking him for his time and saying that you will consider it a privilege to work for his company and to be employed by his company.

We, as college students and graduates, have an advantage. However, competition is stiff and jobs are tight this year. Your prospective employer wants to know what you have that will benefit him. He wants to know your qualifications and is less concerned with what you want. If you have the qualifications, believe me, you will be more than welcome and your desires will be answered — by his choice of you for the job.

Good hunting, and good luck!
