Members of the Class of 1995:

Please accept my sincere congratulations on your accomplishments, and my personal best wishes as you move into a new, exciting and challenging world. Always remember that you have earned your degree from the finest undergraduate school of management in the country and that your Babson education has prepared you well to face the future.

You should be very proud, both as individuals and as a class, of all that you have achieved. I have had the opportunity to meet many of you, and I feel that Babson has benefited greatly from your enthusiasm and the contributions that you have made. You have impressed many of us with your thirst for knowledge and your eagerness to excel, whether in the classroom, the athletic arena, or in one of the many cocurricular opportunities that you found at Babson.

Remember that commencement was not an end but a new beginning, one that you can face with confidence and self-assuredness. Remember, too, the importance of balance in your life. I believe strongly that you must balance your personal life with your career goals and help those in society not as fortunate as you. Consider that success in life requires a commitment to business, personal interests, and outside activities. It is the combination of these three elements that will allow you to lead a fulfilling and gratifying life.

Again, I congratulate you and wish you well. It is my sincere hope that you will enjoy to the fullest whatever endeavor you choose in the years ahead, and I look forward to your returning to your Babson home as active and loyal alumni.

Sincerely,
