Student Life
This year Babson students and faculty provided over 15,000 hours of community service!

Sigma Phi Epsilon put together a coat drive

Sigma Kappa organized a blood drive

Bernon hosted a pumpkin carving event for Camp Sunshine

FME businesses donated a record-breaking $62,500.00 in profits to various charities.

These charities included local chapters of the YMCA, the Boys & Girls Club, the Association for Retarded Citizens, March of Dimes, Special Olympics, as well as Cradles to Canyons, and the Dana Farber Institute.
In October Babson students used Reynolds to carve pumpkins for the Camp Sunshine/Life is Good Pumpkinfest. This charity event will take place in the Boston Commons and will try to break the world record for amount of lit jack-o-lanterns, which now stands at 28,952. The Pumpkinfest will also raise money for Camp Sunshine, a retreat in Maine for children with life-threatening illnesses and their families. The camp offers 24-hour medical assistance.
400+ freshman
- Played the name game
- Moved heavy boxes (or watched parents move heavy boxes)
- Sat in the circle of trust
- Saw the beaver fully suited

Some
- Will live without air conditioning
- Will live without private refrigerators... or bathrooms
- Will live without cars

All
- Will brave FME
Outside of sports and frat life there are organizations. Speaking from experience, they are not always the most attended or the most organized, but they are an essential outlet where Babson students can get involved without getting a car. Every year BDE hosts one of the hottest events on campus, while BOA hosts some of the hottest events off campus like this years’ $30.00 ski trip.

You’d be surprised at how many people get freaked out by tall people.

Dustin Kim, using a lethal weapon on campus... again.

One of the few organizations where people sign themselves up to be taken and conquered, usually by Mortiz.

The Latin Club leans back.

BSU hosted speakers on campus this year for black history month. As well as displaying photography of strong black leaders in the Reynolds Campus Center.

DJ Hageman stares out at the camera with little sympathy for the captive. Also implicated in the incident is former president Jennifer Sanchez.
October 20, 2004. First title since 1918. The first team to win a best-in-seven series after being down 0-3 in games in the 2004 World Series. They won 3-0 in the final game against the St. Louis Cardinals. Derek Lowe six innings, one hit. Three outs away from taking a sweeping from the Yankees and going against the Cardinals who had won 105 games in 2004. The bloody sock of Kurt Schilling as he pitched on one ankle and the jesus hair of Johnny Damon. Boston "lost" Alex Rodriguez and won a world series. This is what legends are made of.

Side note: Pedro Martinez is a traitor.

"We're going to enjoy it a bit and give up a bunch of hugs and kisses right now, and do what champions do -- celebrate." -- Red Sox leadoff batter Johnny Damon
Here we go Red Sox, here we go.

It's all about the Red Sox this year baby. Screen savers, hats, and bracelets, Merri caught the fever.

On the 1, on the streets, in the stadium, on balconies, on rooftops, out windows, in apartments, in houses, in dorms, on the hill and outside of Pietz, this is what we were saying, "Believe it baby, believe it - it's a miracle."

Johnny Damon's home run... need I say more?

Dress for Success

Is that Mark Wating or does Manny have a brother at Babson College?

I don't know what felt better... winning the World Series or winning an iPod.

Can you feel the excitement?

Restivo's shirt says it all!
