Gerardo, My dear son ...

How much you have grown up...

In doing so, you have given me this great satisfaction at this stage of your life by graduating from college...

As you now know my son with your hard work and dedication what you have achieved away from home is just an example of what you can accomplish in life.

Between triumph and hard work more and more is waiting for you in the future. Your courage, faith, humbleness and the great heart you have are your tools to obtain your dreams...

I can not be prouder of you and your accomplishments thus far, your family and friends admire you.

Your victory is my victory...

Hijo mio te preparé con amor para la gran carrera de la vida. Te espero en la meta para besarte la frente y secarte el sudor...

Love you with all my heart, God bless you...

Imagine life as a game in which you are juggling five balls in the air. You name them - work, family, health, friends, and spirit - and you're keeping all of these in the air. You will soon understand that work is a rubber ball. If you drop it, it will bounce back. But the other four balls - family, health, friends, and spirit - are made of glass. If you drop one of these, they will be irrevocably scuffed, marked, nicked, damaged, or even shattered. They will never be the same. You must understand that and strive for balance in your life.
