THAT FIRST IMPRESSION!

Business executives, particularly sales managers, realize the importance of the first impression in their salesmen’s contacts with prospects. Salesmen consider their “approach” as much as the rest of their presentation.

We believe these factors should be reckoned with in correspondence, that is, in doing business by mail. When your customer receives a business letter from you, he certainly receives some kind of impression from the physical characteristics of the letter-head. When he takes your letter-head in his hand, does a crisp crackle suggest high quality, and does a pure white or clear bright tint suggest cleanliness?

To get that favorable first impression, put your letter-head on a good grade of Rag-content bond paper. Among the papers of this kind which we manufacture is

ARTESIAN BOND

Loft-dried and hand sorted; in white and ten brilliant colors.

We will be glad to tell your printer where he can get ARTESIAN BOND, if he has forgotten.

WHITING-PLOVER PAPER COMPANY

Stevens Point, Wisconsin.
IT IS OUR HONEST ENDEAVOR:
to manufacture such High Grade Tires and to so conduct our business, that every customer of ours will be completely satisfied, so that whenever he speaks of us to his friends, he will then and always recommend
