One of the most important problems faced by a young man in his late teens is the choice of his life's work. The United States Bureau of Labor Statistics reveals that eighty-seven out of one hundred gainfully employed persons work at some phase of business.

Business needs men who have both a strong preparation in such fundamental business tool-subjects as Accounting, Distribution, Economics, Finance, and Production and a broad cultural background in liberal arts subjects. The Babson course of study gives a man this strong preparation in business and liberal arts areas.

Small classes taught by successful businessmen, field trips, the case study approach to business problems, the use of motion pictures, intensive educational and vocational counselling with students - such procedures develop men with a vocational purpose, well prepared to assume immediate business responsibilities upon graduation.

Training men for business is Babson's Business.
