Seniors Celebrate Four Years of Accomplishment
25 Awards For Excellence Given

MICHAEL JACOBS
Executive Editor

Fifty seniors received a total of twenty-five different awards for excellence in academics and co-curricular activities yesterday at the Senior Awards Ceremony in Knight Auditorium.

Gretchen Mohr won the most prestigious award of the program: the Roger W. Babson Award. This award is given "to the graduating senior who has excelled in scholarship, co-curricular activities, and leadership.

Other winners of "All-College" Awards, those awards given to students excelling in both academics and co-curricular activities, include Christosula Phillips and Shiv Singh. Phillips won the Michael J. Conlon Spirit Award and co-won the George Macy Wheeler Award with Singh.

Sixteen other seniors also earned recognition in the "All-College" Awards section of the program. These students won Student Contribution Awards.

On the academics side, sixteen awards were handed yesterday. Benjamin Hers and Lindsay Horner each won two academic awards. Heron won the Financial Executives Award and the Carroll W. Ford Scholarship, which is presented to the graduate with the highest cumulative grade point average in the graduating class.

Horner won the Arts and Humanities Award for her excellence in liberal arts courses and the Communications Award for her excellence in communications courses. In addition to winning the Babson Award, Mohr also won the top award for overall academic performance and excellence in campus/investment courses. Thirteen other seniors won eleven other academic awards.

Seventeen students earned recognition through four different awards for Campus Life and Student Leadership. Mary Ellen Aeling, Joshua Corson, Jeffery Della Sorese, Paul Judice, and Phillips all received Student Government Awards.

Seven students won College Judicial Board Awards, while Erinn Angeles, Kevin Black, Allison Carlo, and Jay Rivers were honored for their work as members of the Class of 1999 Steering Committee. Lisa Tuttle received the remaining Campus Life and Student Leadership Award for her work in the Creative Arts.

In addition to the "All-College," Academic, and Campus Life and Student Leadership Awards, Who's Who Among Students in American Higher Education recognized the student with the highest cumulative grade point average in the graduating class.

The Class of 1999 Commencement exercises were held on the Upper Athletic Fields on May 15, 1999 at 10 a.m. President Leo Higdon shared his thoughts with the students and their families.

Higdon Wishes Seniors A Fond Farewell
LEO L. HIGDON
President of Babson College

To the Babson College Class of 1999:
I would like to extend my best wishes to all of you on your graduation from Babson College. I want this class to know that I am proud of what you have accomplished. Your exceptional academic and extracurricular contributions will always be remembered, as will your tremendous spirit. I have had the chance to get to know many of you, and I have enjoyed the times we have spent together. I am confident that the attributes that brought you success at Babson will extend into the next stages of your life. Continue to work hard, and let your commitment to learning be a lifelong process—both in your professional and personal life.

This is by no means the end of your association with Babson. Maintain ties with the people who move the most of the most of the best students, faculty, and administrators. And, of course, if I will always be interested in hearing from you, please stay in touch.

Best of luck, and enjoy the exhilaration of this special occasion.

The Class of 1999: An Impressive End to the 20th Century
ROSS SANGER
News Editor, Fall 1995
This article is reprinted from the September 7, 1995 issue of The Babson Free Press.

Today, an anticipated 401 students became the last Babson students of the 20th century. Theses men and women will be joined by 91 transfer students to become the most geographically and culturally diverse group of students to enroll at Babson.

This accomplishment was made possible by the picking and choosing from the largest pool of first-year applicants to ever apply as well.

The statistics show an overwhelming trend of interest in attending Babson, and interested people make the school year in Babson.

Among the most amazing feat was stellar performance in international representation. Students are expected to come from 39 countries and territories outside of the United States to attend what U.S. News and World Report classifies as the best Business Special school.

People who are attending other foreign universities are interested enough to come visit our community as transfer students. Worldwide has not conquered the prevailing local spirit however.

38% of the new arrivals will be from Boston or other cities in Massachusetts. Even more dominant is the level of students writing from New England, 53%. Regardless, wherever you come from, you have an instanteous thing in common with someone, origin.

The 1995 Commencement speakers consisted of the three honorary degree recipients, Oscar Arias Sanchez, William Croickshank, Jr. and William F. Glavin, and the Senior Class speaker, Salvatore D’Agostino.

The speakers for the Commencement are chosen by the Honorary Degree Committee, chaired by Dean Donna Shea and comprised of faculty, administrators, and two student representatives. The speakers are not paid and receive an honorary degree instead.

Dr. Arias Sanchez won international recognition for his efforts to establish peace in Central America. For these efforts, he was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1987. He used the monetary award he received from the Nobel Foundation to establish the Arias Foundation for Peace and Human Progress.

He has served in several positions in the government of Costa Rica, including Minister of Planning and Economic Policy, Congress and finally President of the nation of Costa Rica.

Dr. Arias has been the recipient of distinguished awards and honorary doctorates from colleges and universities such as the University of Dortmund.

William Croickshank, Jr. has a long and respected history with Babson College. In addition to being an active alumus, Croickshank has been a member of the Corporation, a member of the Board of Trustees, a recipient of the Babson Medal, President of the Alumni Association and was recognized as Volunteer of the Year in 1999.

In addition to these honors, the Croickshank Alumni Leadership Award. Croickshanks is also an active civic leader in Wellesley.

William F. Glavin was Babson’s 13th President and served from 1984 to 1997. He retired in 1997 after eight years in office. He is seen as an innovator in higher education curriculum reform.

Glavin’s tenure at Babson had a significant impact on the campus.

including the establishment of the William F. Glavin Center for Global Entrepreneurial Leadership, and the dedication of the Glavin Family Chapel.

In addition to his leadership at Babson, Mr. Glavin has extensive corporate experience, including a 34-year career at Xerox Corporation, where he rose to the rank of Vice Chair.

The speaker that was chosen to represent the Senior Class is Salvatore D’Agostino. Sal has been extremely involved during his time at Babson.

He was a member of the Varsity Golf Team, a Staff Writer for the Babson Free Press and a Coordinator for the Admission Assistant Program.

Sal will be sharing his thoughts regarding his time at Babson during the past four years. President and CEO of EMC Corporation, Michael Ruttiger, will be the Honorary Degree Recipient and speaker at the Graduate Commencement Ceremony. Colleges and Universities Awards were given to fourteen seniors. Of the fourteen recipients of the Who’s Who Awards, eight were recognized at the Fall 1998 Undergraduate Awards Ceremony, nine of them received other awards yesterday.

Ten Seniors Win Letter Awards in addition to Friday’s awards, ten winners of the first annual Babson Letter Award were announced last Thursday night at the Last Pub Night.

The award was established this year to recognize senior students whose involvement and participation in co-curricular activities has enhanced the campus.

The winners included Chrsisy Phillips, Amber Hescott, Mike Salvi, Jeff Delia, Revero, and Wendy Burns. Other honorees were Karen Borgiolli, Kevin Black, Martin Devota, Fernando Moraes, and Jessica Truta.

Students, faculty, and administration nominated winners last month. According to Phillips, "The award is designed to recognize seniors that have displayed true commitment and involvement during their time at Babson." Phillips helped to establish this new award because she felt it, "would help to promote school spirit and encourage participation." In addition to the Babson Letter award given to Seniors in recognition for their achievement, Babson letters were given to all varsity athletes this semester.

Class of 1999 is Impressive

For those who do not find an origin story, I am from a small town from which to start a conversation, there are other things to try. I am not sure if I am the only one to talk about newspapers, you have a 1 in 2 chance of hitting a nerve with someone who was an editor of their school newspaper or yearbook.

You might also try talking about volunteer work, since 242 students considered themselves active in this area. Some new students were student council members (100), a few (27) ran their own businesses, and others fell, ask them what dorm they live in since 98% live on campus. With these things to talk about, no friendship should be destroyed. The class of 1999 and the recent transfer students promise to be an interesting bunch.

Welcome, and do not be afraid to ask the people in this room what the most interesting people are.

Commentation

I really love the way they use that word. How it rolls off the tongue as we all sit in the sunlight. I am happy to reinforce their ideas.

The whole thought of it is really very interesting. And I am happy to think of them as I am about the let's see.

It sure feels like an ending.

I feel like I am walking out the door, and I am and then I can hear behind me... changing the locks.

Right now... I am remembering freshman year... all the laughter and walking away... I didn't feel.

Those first few nights in a strange bed with bad lighting and a quiet room... We have to make sure that we don't let us just be another Kennedy... and they did.

We missed mom's cooking

We missed our friends and each other and most of all... a school.

We didn't want to get back.

We had giant snowball fights in the quad.

We drove to Dorchester at 2 in the morning for bowling and thought it was great.

We could never quite figure out how to get to IHOP.

We invited our high school sweethearts for a first time of real taste, real freedom.

We were sure.

We went to the Harvest Hall and the Snowball.

We loosed up our ties and danced like Idaho.

We crammed ourselves into crowded rooms.

To receive a drink from a kid we all called Potato Head...

We ran through the library at 2 in the morning to finish a stats project.

And the Greek bunch group meetings sitting around and large tan wood tables in suitably.

We called back home and told them how great things were.

We found her and talked about what we would do.

We made the score of a lifetime the first time Petters first called us.

We found the digit of a cricket screech and laughed right out loud.

We wrote the papers full of RS and printed them up at four in the morning.

We sat in Pepino's and tossed away walking tails.

And we were actually rejected from taking TIME.

We were up for substance fees and had a beer with the RA.

We sat in freshmen hallways and talked to people for hours.

While the Janitors were by and asked what the heck we were doing?

We signed up at the same time that we.

We found them and made boring presentations.

We made fun of... and they made fun of us.

We went to parties and knew everyone there by name.

And slowly lost touch with our great professor.

We were scarred to death of a man named Fritz.

We were an ending if you could.

Our professor was a cybernetic organism.

And our astronomy professor was dressed like James T. Kirk for our first year.

We saw things in a different light after Petters' poetry class.

We smashed our glasses cause they were left on the alarm clock the night before.

We went to the bars on Tuesday nights and wondered why we were always so tired.

We bred in Forest or North then moved to Central and Putney.

We lost track of the time.

We made and realized that it is better to live alone.

We fell in love and out of love.

We had a crush on someone and never had the guts to tell them.

We regretted it actually liked that.

We answered questions in interviews in the same suit we wore the day before.

And we did not call a cab.

We had the greatest time of our lives at Senior Week.

We survived the Senior Hall Final Four.

We watched President Higdon burst into a June Senior Hall.

We went to the Cape and played in the sand.

We had laid down and started playing at night.

And everyone there was smiling.

Through all the years...

We saw some friends leave.

We watched others become our family.

We为主线了关于进步的意识.

And told our parents, that it was no big deal.

And we played our own song slowly from a third floor room in Pitts, while being able to just barely see a sun on the upper fields.

And we sat in that dorm room with dim light around us, and wrote long-winded poems with scattered clatterings... just to say something simple.

This is an ending... and we can celebrate that.

But it is merely the end of the beginning for all of us...

And the start of something new.

Former President Kriebel Dies

AIMEE M. DOLLINGER

ASSISTANT EDITOR

Former Babson College President Henry A. Kriebel, age 90, passed away on May 8, 1999 after a short illness. He is survived by his wife Carrie. They were married for 57 years.

Kriebel came to Babson as Chairman of its Accounting Department, and rose to the post of Dean of Faculty, where he served until the death of President Gordon Trim in 1971.

His tenure as President of Babson College was from 1961 to 1974.

A significant achievements were made during President Kriebel's time in office. President Kriebel's time at Babson Institute to Babson College and the Accounting Division; the school's name change from Babson College to Babson School of Executive Education was established; and Babson became a co-editorial institution.

Determined the Keys To Our Future
CHRISSEY PHILLIPS
SGA PRESIDENT, 1998-1999

To the Class of 1999:
Babson College is a place that we the senior class chose to call home for four years of our lives. Through out these four years we have learned that Babson is not simply a college, it is a community. We have been given the opportunity to live and learn with people from all walks of life. It's hard to believe how quickly four years can fly by. It feels just like yesterday that I was running for Student-Body President and trying to think of ways to make a difference for our school. As we think about our time at Babson we are prepared to tackle the toughest challenges, the greatest successes, and the myriad of opportunities that may come our way.

I quote Roger Babson, "There is no corner on opportunity. Our lives and the world are filled with opportunities, and only a few are ready to be grasped in time."

One of the most interesting things about college is that every moment is a new beginning, and we can always face the past and start all over again, no matter how many mistakes we have made, and no matter how many opportunities we have missed.

The man who wrote the fallacy about oppor... (text truncated)

As we lift our tassels and move them to the left side of our caps, it will be a moment of reflection. A passing of time and tradition that has been such an important part of our undergraduate experience at Babson.

As we graduate, we have prepared ourselves through our short time here to be summed up in that one scene, that one dance floor. Together, as a group, with concern for petty differences: that I will always remember life at Babson. Sure along the way we had our differences - we are all human af- ter all. Still as I remember the scenes in the barn in Woo- dstock and the faces at the Ball or the rauco... (text truncated)

Determined the Keys To Our Future

Babson College is a place where we have been challenged, accepted, respected and I have belonged. I can still remember the last day of orientation when it was time for our parents to leave us in our new home.

As my parents were leaving, holding back tears, they turned to me and said, "As your parents, we have given you roots to keep you grounded and wings for you to fly." As we have reached new heights and accomplished more than anyone could have ever imagined.

The faculty, administration, and students have given us more than we could have ever asked for. All of us should feel prepared to go on and open the next door in our lives, whatever that may be. Some of us may try our keys in Accounting, and Investment Banking, the Peace Corp and Graduate School. From now on doors that we never knew existed will open up one after the other. The locked doors that were once barriers are now opportunities waiting to be opened up to them. Babson has truly given our class the keys to success. We will be prepared to become leaders no matter where our futures may take us.

What It's All About...
SAL D'AGOSTINO
CLASS OF 1999

So I am under a pretty harsh deadline here, just stepping off the bus from the Cape. The whole class is and I have just returned, and we are all re- laxing, decompressing and enjoying another round of fun and celebrating.

We are all dancing or drinking or laughing out loud and chatting with a friend of our tips on us shoulder, looking over the whole crowd and saying, "This is the greatest class ever!"

Now I have heard that more than a few times this week and myeward answer is always to agree right away. The more that I think about it the more realize why I agree, though. Seeing us all together without little white jackets and aprons holding us, that is what it is all about. All of this college stuff with the papers and the exams and everything that we put ourselves through in our short time here can be summed up in that one scene, that one dance floor. Together, as a group, with concern for petty differences: that I will always remember life at Babson. Sure along the way we had our differences - we are all human after all. Still as I remember the scenes in the barn in Woodstock and the faces at the Ball or the rau... (text truncated)

Congratulations from Campus Life!

I hope that a few years from now you will all look back on your four years at Babson College and truly believe that they were the best years of your life. Right now you’re probably wondering where the past four years have gone!

I wanted to congratulate each of you on achieving such an important milestone in your life. Your upcoming graduation is an exciting time which will become part of your memory book and your families.

As you leave the campus and make your final tours as students through Reynolds, Trim, and the suites, I hope you recognize your graduation not as an ending but rather as simply a starting point for a new chapter in your life. Your graduation is an outstanding achievement! As you embark on your professional careers and strive to maintain the many friendships that you have created at Babson, I hope you keep in mind that a strong set of personal values will help you shape the right decisions in life which ultimately will be your true measure of success.

Marshall Field once wrote the following twelve reminders to all of us that can be helpful in sustaining a sound sense of personal values:

- The value of time
- The success of perseverance
- The pleasure of working
- The dignity of simplicity
- The worth of character
- The power of kindness
- The influence of example
- The obligation of duty
- The wisdom of economy
- The virtue of patience
- The improvement of talent
- The joy of originating

Again, congratulations on your upcoming graduation! I look forward to seeing you all at Babson’s homecoming celebration!

Best Wishes,

CONGRATULATIONS!
We in the Public Safety Department would like to wish the graduating class much success in their lives after Babson.

During the past four years, we in Public Safety have had the chance to meet and interact with many of you through the Student Government Organization, other student groups, at student functions, sporting events and when we could provide you with any of our services.
Because of this, many personal friendships have grown. As Director, I have had numerous opportunities to interact with a great number of Seniors, and through this, I have made many friends. I am sure that some of these friendships will continue for years to come.

ONCE AGAIN, CONGRATULATIONS ON YOUR SUCCESS AND WE WILL BE WAITING TO HEAR GREAT THINGS ABOUT YOU IN THE FUTURE.

Remember: "Go not where the path may lead;
go instead where there is no path,
and leave a trail."

Greg,

You are a very special individual. We are very proud of you, and all you have accomplished in the past four years. May all of your endeavors bring success, and may good health, joy, and happiness follow you throughout your life.

With all of our love,
The Phillips Family

Mom and Dad,

Where do I begin? Four years ago you left me at Park Manor North and here I am now on my graduation day. At the end of freshmen orientation I can still remember the words you left me with. You turned to me and said, “As your parents, we have given you roots to keep you grounded and wings for you to fly.” Thanks to all of your love and support I have soared higher than I ever possibly imagined. Thank you for believing in me, supporting me, and encouraging me to make a difference for others.

Love Always, Chrissy
Dear Chrissy,

God blessed you with unique talents and abilities, and you have used those gifts well! You've taken nothing for granted; rather, you have worked hard to prepare for a challenging future.

Just as important as the lessons that you've learned in the classroom are the ways that you've grown as a person. The friendships you have formed and the deeper understanding you have acquired of yourself and others.

As you celebrate this milestone in your life and look towards a new horizon, never forget what has brought you this far.

Remember the love of your family and friends. Remember your own sacrifice and hard work. And remember that God has a special plan for your life.

You have so much to be thankful for and so much to look forward to!

May today mark the beginning of many new joys and accomplishments and a continuation of all the good things that you have already achieved.

Congratulations on your graduation! You may really never know how much you mean to us, how many warm memories you are apart of, and how many dreams you've inspired, but, hopefully you know how very much you are loved.

With all of our love Dad, Mom, Michael and Yiayia Koula.

The “Intoxication and Nipple Sucking” Theory of College

ROHAN FORD
Steve Warren

I experienced an intense moment of academic vomit the other day. What is academic vomit? Academic vomit is defined by the Underage Binge Drinking Society of Babson College as “the uncontrollable and organic moment when a student throws out all his notes, papers and assignments at the end of a semester.”

Many students are so overwhelmed by academic vomit that they are forced to make a running throw for the trash can. The prevalence of academic vomit can best be explained by my “intoxication and nipple sucking” theory of college.

This theory hinges on the belief that the majority of students do not attend college to remember specific details from specific classes. Instead, the “intoxication and nipple sucking” theory suggests that students spend $120,000 and four years of their lives to forge insane memories of deviant college activities – like getting drunk and sucking on nipples.

Let me justify my startling theory with two recent examples. Forty-three days ago I was fortunate enough to participate in a drinking game with some of my buds. It was one of those games where you had to occasionally introduce a rule.

Bored with lame rules such as “no drinking with your preferred hand,” I decided to introduce a rule that will stay etched in drunken history for at least 84 more beers.

The rule was simple. And, mean. It involved one of my guy pals. The rule stated that every time this dirty dog consumed alcohol, he had to jump to his feet, lift his shirt and scream the words, “I LOVE MY NIPPLES!” It was hilarious.

More recently, I had a joyous dining experience with Sal D’Agostino in Trim Dining Hall. Sal and I were indulging in some tasty beverages when a sublime creature walked into Trim. To Sal’s approval, this phenomenal creature was wearing ultra-tight white leggings. Sal turned, and in his most potent New York tongue asked whether she was wearing any underwear. Burdened by this question, I glanced at the car and quickly replied, “She’s wearing a G-string.”

Sal smirked and proceeded to ask what my credentials were to be making such a juicy claim. Deadpan, I exclaimed, “My major is Vis-ible Poetry Lives.” It was a beautiful college moment.

Indeed, college is not about remembering specific details from specific classes.

College is about calculating the best meal-deal from Dominos. College is about showing off all of your pubic hair. College is about over-analyzing Julia’s lesbian kiss on Party of Five.

College is about removing underwear with one hand and three toes. College is about finding your ugly picture in the campus newspaper. College is about driving to Mobil at 4 AM.

College is about dreaming. College is about falling in love. College is about losing love and learning to deal with the pain.

Alas, it is my humble opinion that college is best defined by random moments of intoxication and nipple sucking rather than textbooks and early morning classes.

So here is my hope. I hope that you guys – the graduating class of 1989 – value your diploma for the right reasons. Value your diploma for what you have learned about life, the friendships you have made, and the insane memories you have forged.

Value these things for the rest of your binge drinking lives.

ROHAN FORD, Erik Murray & Mike Murphy, the three bumbling drunks on campus, contemplate shaving off their public hair and a world without nipples.
