Godfredson Wants to Change
Genders Again, Provides Details on Jerry Springer Show

By RuPaul

In a stunning revelation, Professor Laura Godfredson wants to change her gender back to male after becoming a female just a few months ago.

"I want to become a man again," Godfredson said.

"It's no fun being a woman," she said.

Godfredson explains that since becoming a woman, she has yearned to be a man again because "men can just do things that women can't do."

Although she just revealed her desire yesterday on The Jerry Springer Show, Godfredson already has the full support of President Leo Higdon.

"Whatever Laura wants to do with herself, I, as well as Babson College, am in full support of her, or is it him, or..."

Stunned students have mostly shared the same reactions.

"Will he or she just make up its mind already?" several students echoed upon watching Godfredson on Springer yesterday.

According to medical professionals, no human has ever changed gender twice and no medical procedure exists for performing such a feat. Godfredson has not yet announced any plans of actually becoming a man again, but she was seen wearing a man's suit yesterday, and she also started letting her facial hair grow out.

"Men have it all," Godfredson said. "Women just cook, clean, and well that's it. I am tired of washing dishes, I want to have some fun. I want to be a man again."

BISO IN NEGOTIATIONS TO PURCHASE BABSON COLLEGE

Lots of Changes Planned/Jackie Chan to Replace President Higdon

By Mixin' Matthew Rubin
BCR General Manager

Sources from both sides tell this newspaper that the Babson International Student Organization (BISO) is in negotiations to purchase Babson College for $4.2 billion.

According to our sources, BISO would contribute the money to a capital campaign in exchange for legal titles and control over the school.

This newspaper has learned that if the deal goes through, BISO has plans for a plethora of changes beginning with the administration.

Leo L. Higdon would be replaced as President of the school with action star Jackie Chan while Frank Milliken would be replaced by star pitcher Hideo Nomo as athletic director.

Connie Bosse, Steve Schiffman, ev-everyone in Class Deans and the Registrar's offices, as well as about 95% of all faculty will lose their positions should the deal go through.

Other changes proposed by BISO include changing motor vehicle rules.

In particular, any American-made car would be automatically impounded, and any car valued at over $40,000 could park anywhere on campus at any time. Additionally, valet parking would be offered at all academic buildings as well as the Reynolds Campus Center and Trim Dining Hall.
Furthermore, BISO wants to institute such amenities as room service

Godfriedson Wants to Change Genders Again

Rumors about Godfriedson's decision began circulating around campus earlier this week after several faculty overheard the professor talking in a masculine voice. One faculty member claimed that Godfriedson was recorded in her that, "When I am a woman, I feel like a sex object, but when I am a man, I feel like I'm in power."

Godfriedson told Springer that, "I originally changed genders after losing a bet to Lee (Hidgon). We bet on the men's soccer team. He took Bab-son on and had to spot him 11 goals. Well, the men's soccer team actually decided to show up and play that day and they lost 10-0. Well, the loser had to do whatever the winner wanted, and well, you see Lee... he was a crazy present dent."

Springer then asked Godfriedson if she would have forced Hidgon to change genders if he lost.

"No" Godfriedson lamented. "I would have made him get it on with Parley O'Day. Those two were just meant for each other, don't you think?

Short guy and tall guy, smart guy and dumb guy, regular screen and flat screen, it would have been a beautiful display of contrasts."

The Blank Center Finally Gets A Name

After going months without a name, the new building dedicated to entrenepreneurship will be named Beaver Center after the school's mascot.

Another student noted, "I chickened when my friend said he couldn't find the entrance to the Beaver (Center)."

President Higdon said, "I am excited about the Beaver. Of course, I've always liked it (as a name).

Blank explained in his release that it would have been too egotistical to name a building after a person or family, so he wanted to name it after something that the entire school could relate to.

"The Beaver is the mascot and represents Babson more than anything else besides good, but the Creed Center just didn't have the same ring to it as the Beaver Center. Great entrepreneurs will someday get their starts at the Beaver Center, and I look forward to welcoming everyone into the Beaver Center."

Rob Callahan Suspends Burl Hash's Email Privileges

Burl last seen running across the catwalk at Sorenson laughing hysterically

In the recent firestorm of controversy about the abuse and flagrant disregard of the Babson computer code of ethics by Burl Hash, Director of the Sorenson Center for Arts, Rob Callahan in the Office of Student Affairs has suspended Burl's email privileges.

Burl was reportedly unfaithed by this decision. "Those bastards are just out to get me because I like art. I don't give a shit about the bottom line. The numbers are not important."

To that end, Burl has been sending an average of 12 emails a day and students are beginning to respond. Some for and some against. In fact in a most recent de-data sent, the Hacker and CAB have decided to let the opposing students battle it out another in a contest to the death, in Sorenson. Call s5860 for tickets (Mr. Hash should be sending refill-complete emails around shortly.)

The rules are simple, in a fight to the death where the winner takes all (including the losers BMW's and Porsche), everything goes. Slapping, scratching and spitting are allowed, but Hacker advises "if they really want to win, the Babson men are going to have do better than that."

The Babson women are advised that though it is a fair game it is dishonest-oral to eat your opponents heart while he watches.

If a member of the anti-Hash team wins, they get to kick his ass; whereas if a member of the Hash team wins, they get to...well, kick his ass (but respectfully of cause). Besides just kicking his ass, the win-er get to use a marker to draw hair on his shiny little head... again, only respectfully. Pictures of the fight will, of course, be sent out by email ever ten to twenty minutes. So far the first round will consist of Edgard 'always same leather jacket' Sandino vs. Dieder 'Don't Pick with photography' Woody. Though Mr. Sandino has been given 1000-to-

1 odds, Hacker claims that it will still be an exciting match. "If anything, it will still be fun to watch Ms. Woody rip off parts of her opponent and feed them to... suppository style."

A betting pool has been set up, please call Burl Boy for more info. Be sure to listen to the syndication of the fights on BCR's "Not-Quite A Celebrity Deathmatch." Yup, you'll get an E-mail about this too!
Students like to binge on alcohol and drugs, so we might as well teach them to binge well...

President Higdon officially launched Babson's new curriculum today in a spine tingling speech that is sure to upset alumni and a range of other prudes. Higdon announced changes that will see Babson move to a reality based college program, where students will have to learn the ropes of real life, interesting and cool. Higdon explained, "students like to binge on alcohol and drugs, so we might as well teach them to binge well...

new alcohol based assessment program, the Gross Plastered Average (GPA): "We will be using a breathalyzer to test the alcohol level of each student before class. Students will be required to maintain an average blood alcohol level of 0.05% or greater, or else be expelled." Students who average 1.26% or higher will be placed on the Class Drunk List.

Sean Caraher, Sober Man on Campus, was initially shocked at the new curriculum. However, he has since embraced the new program: "To be honest, I have been a closet alcoholic for months," Sean said. "It wasn't easy to handle all the fame and love letters I received for my articles published. I needed an outlet." Students applauded the decision to change the structure of the curriculum. Richard Murray, 01, blurted his praise: "Screw business. Screw IMC. Let's get obliterated, bitches!" Higdon offered three sample subjects to highlight the eye-popping changes Babson is undergoing:

- All Things Alcohol 1570 (ATA 1570)
- Prerequisites: Fake ID, solid stomach base, and an insatiable desire to get blotted. Course Outline: This subject will initiate freshmen into the art of getting hammered. Mandatory classes will be held three nights a week in the back room of Rogers' House. A significant proportion of the semester will be spent sampling new cocktail recipes made exclusively by Babson professors. "Hacker's Happy Hour" will take place every Thursday night, with Dean Hacker serving a range of nasty concoctions.

- Students will be required to attend Knight Parties, where "Jimmy," a renegade public safety officer, will teach students the delicate art of ratcheting up someone else's ID band. Students will also be taught how to purchase alcohol from nearby liquor stores. Of course, classes will explore other pertinent drinking issues, such as vomiting etiquette, ping pong rules, keg stands and dancing like a plan- tered freak.

- Assessment:
  - Spillage Minimization - 15%
  - Mid-Semester Blood Alcohol-15%
  - Longest Drinking Spree on a Wednesday Night - 10% (Last Liver Working Assignment - 20%)
  - Hooking up while hammered Project - 10%
  - Final Binge Party Performance - 30%
  - Naps Every Afternoon
  - Winter Session 2560 (NEA 2560)
  - Prerequisites: Bags under eyes, brutal hang- over, teddy bear, and sexy pajamas.

  - Course Outline: This subject will investigate the diverse joys of pajama parties.

  - The first half of the semester will consist of a series of lectures on important nap issues, such as pajama selection, wet dreams and scruffy hair maintenance.

  - Students will be expected to miss class on a regular basis in order to meet the sleep participation grade for the course.

  - In the second half of the semester, mixed-sex sleep teams will be formed. Team members will be required to get naked, hop under the covers and fool around on a daily basis.

  - Students keen to enhance their grade are welcome to join the Pillow Selection Committee, a group that is dedicated to finding the perfect pillow for Babson students.

  - The final exam will consist of a "Sleep Off," where students will compete against each other to see who can sleep for the longest period of time. Random drug tests will be enforced to weed out cheating pot- heads.

- Assessment:
  - Sleep Participation - 20%
  - Naughty Pajamas Assignment - 5%

Babson’s Habitat for Humanity Spring Break Scandal

By J.P. Freely

Babson’s Habitat for Humanity, a group which has supposedly spent the last six spring breaks building homes in remote locations has become victim to a so-called scandal by its co-leaders Karen Borgiaii and Mike Salvi. Salvi and Borgiaii were instrumental in raising the $16,000 necessary to go on this years trip to New Orleans. However, on the morning of March 14th, 28 Babson students were left stranded at Logan Airport when they came to discover that there were no tickets in their name. Borgiaii and Salvi were nowhere to be found.

BCR investigators have confirmed that Salvi and Borgiaii were actually in Panama City, Florida drinking and partying. The two apparently embezzled the Habitat money they paid for their lavish tastes. They were spotted on MTV’s Spring Break program whooping it up at our expense. The total amount sto- len, $15,849. Apparently Thursday will be Emmanuel black with all 42 episodes being shown over the next three years. These movies will be edited to get rid of the small fragments of film where a plot is actually introduced and no nudity or sex takes place.

BISO IN NEGOTIATIONS TO PURCHASE BABSON

The deal, which began when a stu- dent member of BISO needed to find a way to quickly get rid of “some pocket change” of a few hundred American dol- lars so his parents would give him more spending money, should be completed by the end of next month.

The only issues that need to be worked out still are compensation packages for departing employees, fire code rules for setting up beds in rooms, and at least one token American remains at the school for each of the next 100 years. Also, the school wants to maintain the Beaver as its mascot, while BISO ei- ther wants the Supra, the Porsche, or the Armani as the school’s mascot.

Babson officials finally admitted to altering the physically altering all Babson women so that they would have a deep re-shipment of men and avoid any type of sexual activity at all cost. This is accomplished by removing the female students’ sexual organs during a surgical procedure conducted during the BEAP program.

Dean Bonnie Boise found that this procedure was done to teach the male students self control and prevent them from actually going out and having a good time on weekends. Dean Boise and others believe that removing the Babson women actually experienced an enjoyable night while on campus, they may try to escape the wrath of an integrated curriculums.

One side effect of the Libido removal is that all of the girls, whom were major hothouses in high school, begin to grow facial and body hair in strange places, become fat, and are constantly in a bad mood. This has worked out perfectly for Dean Boise and the fat look and the poor appearance of the Babson females prevents male students from being distracted by their disfigurements.

Luckily for Babson males though, Kappa Gamma Gamma has found a way to reverse the procedure and has been reinserting sexual libidos in all of its members for the past two years. In fact, some believe that Kappa girls are given drugs and the entire Babson Medical team's efforts to remove sexual libido in order to make the sorority the most popular on campus.

Babson Men Suck It Up

Associated Press

In a nationwide poll of female college seniors, Babson College men were shown to be the worst hook-ups.

Hobble kissing, poor personal hygiene and bad timing were among the top reasons that Babson men came in dead last place among their peers across the country.

One woman, a la. Bruiser—described a disastrous hook-up in which she was almost "hoovered to death" by her partner during their first meeting

"Not only did she have the odors of a skunk mixed in with the scent of her face," she later said. "She was the only victim of a Babo guy's love for the vomit ...

Sweet Baby Jane vividly remembers a horrible situation she was placed in when her boyfriend brought her to her one night.

"He stuck around until way after ev- er everyone had left," Jane stated. "When he said he wanted to listen to some music, I thought there was no harm in it."

Little did she know the wretched ex- perience she would be in for. Before Jane knew it, her friend had closed and locked the door and wanted to dance to his favorite song.

"He played that song over and over again and I didn't change it, even when I refused to dance. And, to make things worse, he sat between me and danced by himself in front of me."

Jane desperately tried to save him and kick him out when he threatened to make her sit down. That is when she finally made his move — by jumping on top of her.

"I was trying not to laugh while he kissed me all over, and I was unzipping his fly and taking off his pants. I was just being through being nice to him and showed him the door.

Although Jane remained friends with the sad fellow, he was still labeled as yet another Babo guy to watch out for behind any closed door.

"I was so angry at myself for not being interested and thinking it was important."

Unfortunately, the two ended up in her room that night. As they began to kiss for the first time, she discovered his bottom lip had a mind of its own.

"I thought he had only had a slight glipse as to what I was in for. The worst moments of my life were soon to come.

The boy's pathetic hand started to wander, and, instead of any pleasure there was only pain."

"I think some of his buddies better called him the 'male female anatomy' because he do have two breasts and they do con- sist of more than just a nipple," Nips bluntly stated.

This boy decided that pinching, and squeezing, and twisting was to be a good thing.

"Boy was he wrong. I can still feel the pain to this day," Nips fumed.

And, in addition to permanently bruising her breast, the kid didn't leave until it was 7AM the next day. "I talked about a sad case of the Babson hook-up blues."

Several other women highlighted men's hygiene habits as a main reason for the campus's bad hook-up rep. "Tootsie" recalls one particularly rau- chy night when a usual hook-up re- niu med - and the relationship - with her foul mouth.

The Front Gate house has been closed for years. There are no plans to re-open it. Babo ‘Entrepreneurs’ Trade Sex for Flash Lights

By Mr. Procrastination

Last Monday night during the black out many people decided to wait in their rooms and wait for the power to resume. After hoping that the power would ‘back up on soon’ the students decided to continue to wait a bit longer.

Somehow, after Babson College Public Safety arrived giving flashlights to those who were lucky enough to get a loaner. All of the students who were to ‘earn’ those flashlights were too dumb to go to the library. The Babo officers realized “hey, these kids are so stupid that they’d do for anything.”

Soon after, they decided that flashlights were not enough. Many of the students would have to ‘earn’ those flashlights. Not that there was really a choice since Babo told them that they had to get the entrance to the building and therefore changing an exit fee.

Confessions of a BCR Shock Jock

By Carol Hacker

Dean of Affairs

Why am I admitting this? Why am I telling you all this? Cause I can’t take it anymore.

I am one of the self proclaimed "shock jocks" at BCR. And I would like to reveal a few things about myself.

First of all, I am a fairly faced looser who moonlights as Mr. Love Master on my weekly show. I give you all bongo advice and insult you when your down. The way I see it is that if your down enough to call in, you’re fair game.

I am aware that no one is listening and thus I can get away with a lot more sh*t than that damn newspaper thing, I think it is a newspaper that requires reading, and you know how that goes.

Recently I told you about the dangers of premartial sex, boy was I on a roll. I told you about the public in thinking sex is good at anytime. When I flip into the broadcast booth and have all these lights and cool switches on. I flash. When I imagine all the people hanging on every word (all five of them) I feel even cooler. And when someone calls me and acknowledges my existence, boy I get a hard on that size of a paper clip, boy I do feel marthy.

Just me and me alone.

I love pretending I know what I am talking about. And if I don’t and you try to prove it, I can hang on your ass and just make fun of your “incompetence” and even add funnny sounding effects to distort your point of view.

In summation, I am the king of the world.

FREE condoms at Health Services every day, every time except on weekends

That was a smart idea, but there are condoms in the library second floor bathrooms for a small fee.)

English to Become Official? Maybe? Language of the EU

By Amanda Hunkins

The European Commission have just announced an agreement whereby English will be the official language of the EU rather than German, which was the other possibility.

As part of the negotiations, Her Majesty’s government has agreed that English spelling had some room for improvement and has accepted to invest in a plan that would be known as the "Anglo." I hope they replace the old "c." Certainly, this will make the evil sound a lot more with joy. I hope "hard c." will be dropped in favor of the sound of the "k." This should clear up confusion and keyboards can have 3 less letter.

There will be growing public enthusiasm in the second half of the year. However, when the trouble once "ph" will be replaced with the "f," this will make word like "coffee" 20% shorter.

I can’t really tell what was really going on... but strange noise was repeated.

How to Treat a Wellesley (College) Princess

By Dr. Love
The Physician

That's it! I give up! We just don't care anymore. That's right, you heard me, we at health services just don't care anymore.

As far as we are concerned you can go out and drink all you want, have random sex with multiple partners and wear in-line skate/bike/skateboarding helmets. Go ahead and take Chreatine until your head turns blue, drink all the water you want while in the world, country, and get all hopped up on illicit drugs.

Lord knows you're not going to listen to anything anyway, so you might as well go ahead and do whatever you want. Besides, if all of you actually listened to my advice we'd all be out of a job. So live it up every chance you get.

We hope you get plastered every night and wake up so Knight parties, at Health hangover that you don't services we can prescribe even known your name, any type of barbiturate.

I would like to invite you all to a ten leg party down here in Hollister every Saturday night.

Hello, all binge drank in college and I am ashamed to admit that I did. So go out there and do it again. In fact, I would like to invite you all to ten leg party down here in Hollister every Saturday night. Forget about those twenty Ways to Treat a Wellesley Princess

1. Make sure to remember her sexual preference. Write it on your hand. Write it on your arm. This is a must. If you remember the color of her jockstrap, go home buddy. Go home now.

2. When you arrive to get back in the kitchen, make sure to say please. Remember, she can probably beat the crap out of you, so if you don't ask nicely and she's tried, she may just bash your head in with the beat cleaner.

3. Do not mention that you are from Babson. She uses Babson students as rags to wipe the oil off her new Harley. She uses Babson students as doorstops to stuff her new books, stuffed with Hillary Clinton and that you hate Bill.

4. Ask her questions. Lots of them. Ask her what she thinks of Martina Navratilova. Ask her if her brother has longer hair. Ask her if her arm is surgically attached to her roommates because they always seem to be arm-in-arm. And let's face it, most Wellesley College students quite enjoy mulling about their own interests. Moreover, this will give you a feel for her sense of humor, intelligence, and sexual orientation.

5. Try to be witty. Manipulate her intelligence in a professional manner. You must not let her catch you doing this. I repeal: you must not let her catch you.

6. Understand that less is always more. A true player will leave the Wellesley Princess flustered. Touch on interesting facts about yourself and move on before she fully understands. Curiosity leads to attraction. Attraction leads to interaction. Interaction leads to wild nights of steamy lesbian sex. Or so I've been told.

7. Listen and remember. If she prefers it on top, remember it. If she has a thing for K.D. Lang, remember it. Start to build a database of things you can use to remember personal details is essential, and will have significant ramifications for the first date - think positive.

8. Be original, and make sure you are able to tell engaging stories. The story of god story telling should never be underestimated. My personal favorites: wandering through San Francisco and getting picked-up by a transvestite, watching two Wellesley College girls beat forty MTV frat boys, and locking myself in the girls bathroom in tenth grade.

9. Have condoms. Even if you are straight and know she is not, believe in yourself and believe that if she knocks back, it is her loss. Say it with me now: no means no. If she is not ready, she will, make sure you have 911 set in speed dial on your cell phone. Cover your family jewels, and take it like a man (or woman).

10. At all times, be spontaneous. Right after a bad date. Make your passing moment memorable by adopting a dynamic framework. If you succeed in securing a first date, pick her up by bending your knees (you don't want to look cheap) Drive to the beach, go to a comedy club, just don't forget her other girlfriend may get jealous and she could beat you like a red-hot switchblade.

11. Never stare at her breasts. This is hard (pun definitely intended). Quick glimpses are encouraged, but anything longer than .267 seconds and it's "game over."

12. Do believe in Pathetic Stereotypes. So, the sublime beauty goes to Wellesley College. This makes her a lesbian. No need to open up your mind here. You already know the truth.

13. Avoid giving her more than three compliments. Then again, if you can come up with three compliments, you are probably either too smart for your own good or brain-dead. Moreover, you must restrict yourself to one physical compliment. Try and make it original. My favorite: "You have nice 26 inch pythons. You make Hulk Hogan look like Kate Moss."

14. At no time behave in an immature manner. Do not give her a high five. Do not swear excessively. Do not boast about how many vodka shots you had at the bar last week. The reason being is that she will probably high five you so hard, your hand will be red for days, most of the swear words you use will turn her on even more, and she can probably drink way more vodka shots than you can.

15. Do not stop talking to her because she has a girlfriend. Ignoring her because she has a girlfriend is shortsighted and foolish. Seriously, how much pleasure can she get from one of those plastic thingies anyway?

16. Never act too keen or desperate. Do not offer to take a bullet for her after her first meeting. Do not offer to drive to Kansas to pick her up. Do not do anything that will cause a further imbalance in power. Remember, she can already kick your ass from here to Bangkok.

17. Do not become an intoxicated, slurring loser. Many fresh-seconds consume exceedingly high levels of alcohol as a mechanism to deal with nervousness. This is a bad move. Stumbling and slurring are not attractive qualities except to the really scary population of Wellesley, and trust me, you don't want any part of them although they may want a part of you and that part doesn't reside between your legs.

18. Avoid demanding her phone number too early in the conversation. If the call is going well, she will initiate or suggest a future meeting. Prematurely requesting her digits is like pushing into a line at Disneyland - it is wrong, you want her to be sexy, and you won't get to go on "the ride," and she will beat you up again and again.

19. Do not use all your classic material. Although it is tempting, you must not use your best lines, best stories, and funniest jokes at the initial stage. If you do, the first date at Butch's Burgers and Beers will be a disaster. It's all about layers (or at some point, hopefully, the lack thereof).

20. Never speak of the princess. Have you been reading about Wellesley? The CIA is more lax than that. Even if you get by the B.A.B.O.G. graduated security guards, you still have to deal with the next superstars of G.L.O.W. upon entering any building or walking across campus.
Soberman On Campus Found Smashed in Cancun

That's right that guy who preaches every week about sobriety and alcohol free fun was found passed out on a bench in Cancun. His blood alcohol level was 1.2 well above the legal limit. Several Babson Free Press sources say they saw the Soberman doing jello shots, funneling hard liquor, and dancing nude with several women. He was heard shouting, "Bartender pour me another hard grenade. This "B-t is great." The Soberman returned to Babson a few days ago and was asked to comment on these allegations. He replied, "This is absolute bull—I may have taken a sip but I never swallowed. My favorite drink is still orange juice and that's all I'm going to P&F—ING say about that."

The Babson Free Press has decided to suspend the Soberman's weekly article pending further investigation.

SMOC is drunk. Enough said.

Flow Blown Finds New Strategy: SEX!

After a semester of less than perfect business record, the FME business FLOWBLOW decided to alter their name and service niche. "Our previous business model was focused on getting the campus laid, by supplying flowers, balloons (rubber, mylar, latex, ribbed, etc) and other assorted "romantic" gifts. The problem we found is that none of the men want the women on this campus... so we saw ourselves getting screwed," said the Flow Blown CEO.

In what could only be described as a strategic point of inflection, they repositioned themselves (on their hands and knees) and opened up for business. "We brought in some depressed Wallstreet brokers and change the" Pop. Men love blowjobs, and boy do these girls suck!" stated the Flow Blown CEO. The initial reaction form the professors was less than receptive, but once the CEO agreed to give them semester passes they readily agreed. "How could we give up this opportunity...an uh... to encourage the entrepreneurial spirit..." by their professors stated.

Now with their new "up and coming" business model, Flow Blown is blowing away the competing FME businesses. Through rumors that "Spread the Love" is considering a change to "Spread the Legs," have not yet been substantiated, Flow Blown's CEO stated "we feel confident that being the first will give us a brand recognition and secure this market for us."

Flow Blown is now ready to take your orders with many options to choose from such as: their "in room" service, a variety of "techniques", a variety of women and of course their most requested service "the Peppermint Almond(ite) treatment."

Babo places 107th in first annual Public Safety games

BY JAY - JAY
Bosun of Babson Public Safety

Babson Public Safety participated in the First Annual Public Safety Games last week in Boise, Idaho. Finishing in a not so respectable 107th place out of 107 teams, Babo needs a lot of practice before they participate next year.

The Public Safety Games, fashioned after the Olympics, featured twenty-two events ranging from fire-alarm response to parking ticket writing to theft detection. Babo received one gold medal over the entire nine-day event. New parking officer, Debbie Gimmetz, took home the gold in the parking ticket writing contest. The contest, which consisted of five elimination rounds, called for officers to write as many tickets as possible in a ninety-minute period broken down into two forty-five minute halves. While her closest competition wrote a total of 212 tickets worth just over $2,500, Gimmetz wrote 3,452 tickets in the final round that had a total value of $294,762. Over the five rounds, Gimmetz wrote a total of $1,054,576 in tickets.

After receiving her medal, Gimmetz commented, "It was just another typical day for me. I tend to write about 3,000 tickets an hour at Babson, usually for violations that never really occur. Aren't those computerized tickets nifty?"

In other competition, Babo not only placed dead last in fire alarm response time, they were also disqualified for never responding at all after judges waited five days for them to respond to an alarm in the building next to the dispatch center.

Asked for an explanation about his squad’s poor performance, Chief Ray McKeehan said, "We did nothing different in the competition than we do in real life at Babson. I am proud of my squad's efforts and I hope no one died in the fire."

In the most heated competition of the day, Babo placed 91st in the keg apprehension exercise. In this event, an illegal party is staged in a dorm room with a keg hidden amongst a group of about 45 students in various states of drunkenness. Rowing officers must find the party, break into the room, apprehend the keg, and temporarily remove all of those guests who are underage.

Babo took three hours to find the party despite the fact that an on-duty Resident Assistant told them where the party was. Then, Babo couldn’t lift the keg because it was too heavy for officers Andrew Walker and William Burke.

Eventually, Babo drove one of its sport utility vehicles up to the door and tied a chain to both the keg and the car, and drove the keg out of the room and back to headquarters where the on-duty officers drank themselves into oblivion.

Babo fared better in the moving car violation contest. In this event, an officer is given any equipment asked for and he has to find and report seven moving car violations in the shortest time possible. In the first hour, Babo missed a herd of 102 cars, driven by MBA students leaving class, going 98 miles per hour in a 20mph zone and bowing over 18 unsuspecting undergraduate students.

However, the next afternoon, Officer Burke caught four cars going 27mph in a 20mph zone. After the first three cars got away by driving off-campus, Burke finally stopped a kid in a yellow Ferrari, but the kid couldn’t speak English and drove away. Finally, after 25 hours of reading Playboy and Hustler in his car, Burke stopped his seventh car and reported a speeding violation.

Babo finished 88th in this event.

SPORTS NEWS FLASH!
Globetrotting to be announced as new spring sport

It has been recently decided by the Athletic Department that "Globetrotting" will be recognized as a new Spring sport.

Starting next year it will be considered a Varsity Sport and rumors have it that alumni Julie Byrne is going to return in the Coaching position. For those of you underclassmen who have yet to learn of the sport of Globetrotting, pay attention.

In order to Globetrot, one must wait until the middle of the night when the rest of campus is sleeping or out at a party. Then the person must run up to the Globe behind Coleman and wait until the coast is clear. When you are sure that no one is watching, you drop your pants around your ankles and proceed to trot around the campus of the Globestand. You must make it around a full two times or your trip is invalid.

This can be an individual or a team effort. Team effort, however, are a lot more sportsmanslike and fun and can get you a higher point score.

An email will be sent out early next year for all those who are interested. Previous
