Actions, implications discussed in wake of Saturday brawl

By Elliot Chambers

No disciplinary action will be taken against any Babson student in the wake of Saturday night's brawl outside of the Delta Sigma Pi fraternity house, although the implications of the event are being studied carefully by the College.

The incident, which was precipitated by people from off-campus, was handled well by the students involved, according to Babson Security Chief Robert Drapeau. The students involved were very cooperative, he noted, adding "the fraternity was doing what they were supposed to do, they were taking care of their responsibility.

The brawl was called Open Rush Night, in Park Manor Central. According to Drapeau, several individuals from Dedham were refused entrance to two of the freshman fraternities, which resulted in a brawl.

A student called the Warren Street Police, who called Babson Security to confirm the reported incident which occurred last Friday.

Babson Security was involved in all the action, Drapeau reported, but other police departments took back up. The Dedham police, after putting out the windows of a few of the left cars, decided to close off the street. A student who called the Warren Street Police said he had been threatened by a stranger in the Administrative building, "ouling Beverly this last night."

A student employee, whom Drapeau declined to name, investigated and was pushed down and "hushed in the skull." As a result, charges of assault and battery have been filed against the Dedham man, who is as yet unidentified, until the court papers have been served.

"The cause of the problem." Drapeau stated, "is that we have an open campus. Every weekend we have an increase in the number of outsiders that come on campus." He feels that, as a result, the Campus Police will have to "become a little more aggressive in the area of trespassing." Drapeau added that with the advent of the drinking age, there are more smaller events on campus, which are easier for outsiders to get into, as opposed to campus-wide events.

Drapeau related that the reason Security was not around in force that night was because the papers filed by the Greek Council would have been "closed," meaning within each fraternity. Security is required to card at the door and check for liquor.

"It is not my intent to shut down campus social life, we must work with the students for better control." Drapeau stated. He also reported that the colleges are considering the possibility of adding staff on the activities. The shortage of staff has been a problem in the past.

Digital and other major corporations make donations to Babson College

By Gary Dressler

Digital Equipment Corporation has made a donation of $50,000 to Babson College, according to Susan Puder Hall, Director of Corporate Donations, as part of the schools efforts to solicit funds from the business sector.

Babson College is currently in the second year of a three year Capital Drive Campaign. Corporations as well as Alumni have so far donated a sum of $800,000. This money is being used in many different ways. A portion is being used to aid the New Newton Library, the renovation of the New Newton Library, the New Student Residence Hall, and the Endowment for Student Support.

According to Puder Hall, these corporations consider their donations not only to aid the school, but to be something in return. They give money, as an investment and hope, for the baby graduates' students as they have in the past. Babson College has earned the respect of these corporations and has had a great influence in convincing them it is worthwhile to give donations. Digital Corporations gave a good example on how the Babson name has spread. There are currently more than twenty Alumni of Babson employed at Digital. Almost thirty more people from Digital are at Babson's evening school.

Students commended at Government meeting

by Veronica Grant

President Duncan Donahue announced at Student Government that the administration had commended the behavior of Babson students during a fight yesterday afternoon.

A group of non-Babson students was the cause of a brawl which ended in one non-Babson student being arrested. Both Vice President Stakes and the Babson College Police felt that the problem was handled well by the students.

Eleven people were nominated for All College Council, with the elections to be held at next Tuesday's meeting.

Alumni plan many events for Homecoming '79

by Cathy Cassady

Homecoming 79, Alumni/Fall Weekend, to be held October 26, 27, and 28 will include many activities for both alumni and students.

According to Joseph Mehoney, Chairman of Alumni Relations, the plans are tentatively set. However, there will be a Greek Council Insurance, which will be put on the lawn of many other fraternities and Sorority Alumni will be invited to this event. The Young Alumni Council is planning the Home- nessy Brothers Band at the pub. The Black Alumni Council is having a jazz band in the Fo'c'sle.

Saturday morning will be registration for alumni. Tags will be given out to students, alumni, guests and staff. It is mandatory to wear the string tags for evaluation, as well as security punch. At 10:30, there will be a Youth Fair Activities and entertainment for the fans of the fair, including pony rides, hay wagon rides, and exhibits by the parents, Gerry Sprague, Joyce champion Larry Spark, and a frisbee exhibit with David Johnson and his dog.

In addition, there will be the Babson bands, and athletic competition between the classes, stunts on the Dock, which will be on the hostel.

Two seminars are planned for 14:05. Themes for the seminars are “Opportunities in Consulting: The Firms - Dressing for Success”. Babson will face New Haven in Soccer at 2:00, and a concert is planned for Saturday night. The band has not been chosen yet, however, several are under consideration.
Career Expo to inform students of options

By Robin Johnson

The Office of Career Counseling will present the fourth annual Career Expo on November 28 featuring a wide variety of representatives from various industries.

The purpose of the Career Expo, according to Kristine Young of the O.C.C., is to enable students to gather relevant career information about the jobs market today and tomorrow. The Career Expo will provide Babson students with opportunities to meet company representatives, learn about the job market, and conduct interviews. The O.C.C. is also offering students the opportunity to interview at the Career Expo.

At the Career Expo, students will have the opportunity to meet company representatives such as Accenture, Deloitte & Touche, PricewaterhouseCoopers, and many more. The O.C.C. encourages students to make use of this opportunity to learn more about the job market and career options.

Skillshops open to interested students

By Vincent Steffen

The Leadership Skillshop Committee has announced that applications are now available at the Advising Office for those interested in attending the Skillshops.

This year’s Leadership Skillshop will be held on December 7. The conference will be held on campus, and interested students are encouraged to attend.

Applications must be returned by October 25 to the Office of Admissions. Admissions will be determined on a first-come, first-served basis. The deadline for applications is October 25.

Social Committee plans special events for school

Scott Swearington leaves Babson for a year of tennis

By Bill Collins

Tennis has been paying off for Scott Swearington—teaching tennis in England, winning two community pennants, and saving an "unresticted" scholarship at the University of Louisville. Scott will be signing a contract December 1, the Thanksgiving break and then will attend the University of Louisville, leaving Babson for one and a half years, and then returning to graduate from Babson.

Despite the fact that the NCAA has "very stringent" rules which do not allow transfer students from one school to another, Scott will be signing a contract with the Louisville Cardinals. "I think we can really use the facility," Scott said. "I don't see why we can't attract some of the better players from the area and then graduate some of the better players and give them a chance to get a degree in something other than tennis."

Scott is looking forward to "a lot more academic freedom" and "a lot more social life" at Bill Babson University. In most ways, Scott likes Babson, saying, "The people here are really nice, nice atmosphere...and I really like the faculty (especially) James Hoopes and Michael Patterson."

Besides taking some business courses, Scott would like to have the opportunity to take more liberal arts courses. "I think tennis and school at Babson, you're playing Chairman of the Board but that's not how it's going to be at Louisville...and I don't think that's going to be a problem."

Scott also said, "I think it's good to get out and take an objective look...it's good if people think about what they're going to do in four years, where they're going. It's like people take a year to work to bum around...I'm doing something in between. What's taking a year off. If that year is going to be productive?"

The one thing Scott doesn't like about transferring is having to break a "certain bond" he has with the other Juniors in his class. Because of an added semester, he will be graduating later than the rest of his class.

When asked if he felt Babson should have a scholarship program for sports, he replied, "No, I don't think so. I think that Babson should remain academically competitive. It's well thought of where I come from, I think scholarship could take away from the academic reputation. If Babson offered scholarships people wouldn't be as business oriented."

During his time at the University of Louisville, Scott is looking forward to "train with big shot players" and to the chance to live in the south again, which he feels is important. Scott also hopes to find business experience in the southern U.S. "Scott feels that it will be important to be used to living with southern cultural differences. He explained, "people are a lot different there and I think it's definitely laid back, here it's definitely more competitive."

In the future, Scott plans to keep his "Amateur status and continue teaching tennis and playing in U.S.A. tournaments. He vies tennis a life long sport like golf and baseball. One reason being, "You don't get ten executives around to play a little basketball."

Scott's future will surely include a combination of academic and business training. He would like to thank some of those who have made that possible, especially an old Coach, Mr. Fritz, and his "Mom and Dad."

Famous people are part of campus life

By Bill Doherty

There's a damned Yankee in the mailroom and a movie taker in Taconic Hall who can type 60 words a minute.

The name of the game is Celebrity Academics, not to be confused with Name That Debateante or Meet the Stars.

Talent and charisma abound at Babson, where, on any given day, one had the opportunity to slap five with a Hall of Fame fullback of swap one-liners with a talk-show host.

If you don't believe Babson is Wellesley's answer to The Brady Bunch, well, try tracking down Johnny Carson, past haste. The Master himself, though never busier, is still approachable and even willing to scratch out a quick autograph or two.

When Mr. Carson is not industriously publishing his new book, he will share our common plight of trying to keep the River Ridge Estate, he still manages the time to delight television's most dedicated fans at Babson. He is around, but again it's catch as catch can.

Should the search for Carson prove futile, despair not. One star as good as the next, some claim. And, in that case, straw to Over Coming

Cultural Life Committee brings new ideas to Babson

By Nicole Pageorge

If one were to look through the school programs or to talk to Babson students, one would find a wide range of activities with which people here were once involved. There are Babson students who, in high school, sang in choirs, played in orchestras, took piano lessons, landed leading roles in school plays, and dabbed with the paintbrush or pen. The newly formed Cultural Life Committee, created to oversee the club program, feels the imprint of all of these once possessed talents and interests in the arts didn't vanish upon entrance to Babson. Here is a little evidence of it exhibited here. Cultural Life Committee member, Michael Pollard, said that the environment in which creativity is nurtured is what has vanished. Consequently, certain steps are being taken to remedy the situation.

There are relatively few organizations, namely the New Babson Players, the Film Society, and the student literary magazines, which add to the cultural life at Babson. The Free Press интернет foresees the death of Babson Communication in the cultural happenings in Boston through the "Out and About" column as well as the film and theatre reviews. However, the Cultural Life Committee feels that many students don't wish or can't afford to spend time on anything that will not be reflected in grades, finances, and/or resumes. The committee has been established to deal with the cultural void which exists on campus while taking students' concerns into consideration.

The Cultural Life Committee presently consists of Niki Pagouris, Liz Steadman, Kevin Quirt, Eric Wentzal and Mary Dunn. It meets Wednesday afternoons at 4:00 p.m., in the Poole and welcomes any new participants. It's main purpose is to make various types of cultural events more accessible to the Babson students.

One idea currently being planned is a monthly trip into to view a specific program such as a play, concert, or evening at the Boston Symphony Orchestra or the Boston Ballet. The committee would arrange for discounted ticket rates, transportation, and publicity.

A more unique proposal under consideration concerns the possibility of having a bi-monthly wine and cheese social hour that would sponsor different types of entertainment. Although the committee's budget is limited, there are several sources of talent in Babson schools available at reasonable fees. The Cultural Life Committee also hopes to work closely with the literary magazine staff in order to recruit works of poetry and art from the Babson community.

Bain or boon?

Babson's student organization has been discussing the possibility of joining the Babson Community. In other words, these student groups are considering the idea of pooling some financial resources. This is one of the ways students have to have more advantages for the school as well as for the organization involved. Yet, some disadvantages exist also.

The disadvantages are not as obvious as the advantages but may be just as important. One major disadvantage is that clubs with large budgets may be taken advantage of. Smaller organizations, which are only able to request a bigger budget (bigger budgeted) organizations to program with them in order to keep the financial burden of the program under control. In other words, co-sponsoring may be used as a way to which smaller budget groups can sponsor high-priced events.

Another disadvantage is that some groups may get carried away and co-sponsor any event they see as a good event. This would allow the associations could lose sight of their identity and purpose. For instance, it would be rather ludicrous for the Babson Christian Fellowship to co-sponsor an event with the Margers and Acquisitions Club because their interests are so different. The point is that a large budget together because the larger clubs, which control greater sums of money, will be dictating what types of events will be co-sponsored.

As serious as these situations could be for the community they will have to be inevitably come to pass. Organizations, large and small, will have to be cautious and look for their own interests when it comes to co-sponsor events. Every student at Babson should be well versed in the latter. Groups should work together, however, because the advantages of doing so far outweigh the disadvantages.

One obvious advantage is that the caliber of programming will increase to such a type such as religious, financial, and manpower resources can pool these resources in order to have more of a larger event. These events should be of interest to the sponsoring groups as well.

The merits of co-sponsoring are numerous and clear-cut. The Babson Community has a lot to gain from co-sponsoring between groups.

Jewish students have never been very prominent on campus. Then, why the sudden change of heart? I think the college's policy is perfectly justifiable. Either they should give all religious holidays off, or none. It is certainly not a good policy to be wishy-washy on the matter when there was a good idea to follow their policy and let anyone have the day off, since the purpose of the College is to educate, and neither reason for closing school had to do with education.

Another point, Albert: Who do you think went to class anyway, especially after those Open Rush parties on Saturday night?

Albert: There were quite a few people there, considering all the complaining I heard.

Albert: Well, at least we get this Monday off.

Albert: Why? Is someone else of important concern?

Albert: Well, it’s Columbus Day.

Anon: Isn’t that a fine state of affairs! I have to lose out on another thirty-six dollars worth of academic appreciation and three hours of class just because some guy hit a rock in the Atlantic Ocean because he thought he was in the West Indies, and some other wussy guy said, “In 1492, Columbus sailed the ocean blue.”

To the Editor:

It’s time people become aware of the Babson Community that exists. Our main purpose is to provide all students with opportunities to participate in the entire school community, experience, or involve themselves. Unlike the smaller organizations, we must try to please all sorts of people, from upperclassmen with little time to spend to the socializing professors.

The increase in the drinking age and the related educational event that will please the majority of the student body, a 1981 issue. The school has had the greatest appeal and drawing power are 1) keg parties with one or more bands, 2) open bar parties with one or more bands, 3) sit-down concerts featuring nationally renowned artists. Major disadvantages include a large number of people who can drown a keg, a large number of people who may lose their lives if one of the first two attractions become effective. How do you please both halves?

Our strategy this year will focus on the music industry. No beverages are served and every event is held on the football field. We are planning about four events of this type. An important part of this plan is that putting on a large concert can cost anywhere from $6,000 to $12,000. Our budget is based on the losses we expect to pick up on each event. We have tried not to let the ticket price be too high. If we sell out a show, our revenues are only about $6,000, leaving us with up to a $5,000 loss. We never expect to make money on an event because we don’t charge $9 for a ticket. The budget exists to pick up our losses.

We are also in the process of planning a few smaller events, some sponsored with other student organizations. Over the past year, an organization has been in contact with the Film Board of the BBZ. It is believing to刺激 some co-sponsored events to show some different varieties of entertainment to the campus. The entertainment of the student body has not been a collective effort. This year we hope that other groups will try to work together when possible, and we hope that together any one of us can do by ourselves.

The Social Committee is in charge of putting on the feature events during each of the major weekend events at Babson. We have planned for large scale events such as the Babson-sponsored black tie affair. Large scale events are our specialty. We need a large budget to put on concerts which will attract the majority of people, and to help put on smaller events at little or no cost to students.

Everyone is welcome to come to these events and will be on Thursday, October 11, in Trimmer. It is important that we get these events up to the community this year. In the past two years, very few of the events were not directly associated with the Social Co because there have been no meetings or contact the chairman or vice-chairman concerning our events.

Our job of entertaining the Babson community is definitely not a new one. It is not very hot starting because we must provide entertainment not alcoholism.

To the Editor:

As a member of the Babson community, I was outraged by the falsehoods that I found in the Review’s article on the Social Committee. To understand the current situation, the following conclusions require the quickest stretch of the imagination.

It’s stated in your second paragraph that “the Social Committee sponsors a series of events which the Social Committee sponsors on the Babson campus. If you had witnessed the packed floor of Knight Auditorium this past orientation weekend, you would not have noticed the large crowd gathered outside of South last year at Beavercreek if you thought that the student body liked hundreds of people that went wild over the James Brown concert, you could have better represented the truth.

Within the same paragraph, you stated outright that part of the Babson community, is not permitted to “welcome” the Social Committee events when in fact, everyone should see the events. In fact, we rely a little too much on the hush of alcohol to remain sociable. I present you with the fact that 45 new freshmen and 50 percent of most of the students who attended the Oren- gauzt/Brown concert, in fact, not all of us.

Next, you state that the film society and the Babson Players organizations could replace the entertainment ability of the Social Committee.

Being an officer of the Film Society, I find it an attractive proposition to have students attend other events of the Babson community. I will entertain the thought that we could do something similar with the drawing power of a nationally famous concert band, unless we actually have the Social Committee. The Social Committee’s abilities and resources are unique to their organization and any fool who assumes otherwise.

I’ve enjoyed immensely the fine performances performed by the BBZ Players, and having attended them, I question their lack of support for the time. The only time I’ve seen a large audience is at the BBZ Players. The parents appreciate the plays, yet this appreciation apparently, and the fortunately, is not shared by their children. The truth reality is that these people are interested in seeing one of their favorite bands on a stage, no matter how much money is spent on the play.

Finally, comparing the budgets of these other organizations with the Social Committee budget is misleading. Some of the events involved in having a drink, the money involved would be seen. $10,000. Charlie Daniels would cost $8,000. The cost of the BBZ Players would cost $13,000. South Side Johnny would cost $8,000. This is not including lighting, other entertainment costs, other organizational and advertising costs.

Reviewing all the criticisms of the Social Committee voice, I find it an attractive proposition to have students attend their events of the Babson community. I will entertain the thought that we could do something similar with the drawing power of a nationally famous concert band, unless we actually have the Social Committee. The Social Committee’s abilities and resources are unique to their organization and any fool who assumes otherwise.

Sincerely,

William H. Downing

Financially Speaking
by Michael Rosenbaum

If you had invested with oil futures last week, you would have made about 400.00 per 1000 barrels. That means $150.00 a barrel to $220.

The area which I will deal with is rare stamps and coins. We all have that very collection sitting in a basement or attic collecting dust. It is just in recent times, when the U.S. dollar started to slide in value (due to inflation and trade deficits) that investors looked towards other avenues of investment, besides the more-traditional ones. Money, instead of being poured into savings accounts, bonds and stocks was now being plowed into commodities, mutual funds, and collectibles. Collectibles are the type of investment we are currently discussing with stamps and coins.

Let us first deal with coins and their startling investment increase. Note the chart below:

Note: Percentages are approximate gains and are calculated as follows: The rate by which the prior price must be multiplied (and then added in) in order to make the Red book price listed as to the later date. Thus, 1.75 for the 1887 cent multipled by 2.471 would mean that with added equals 45.00. Prices that percentages reflect are from Red book, 1949,1961, 1969, and 1979.

- What is even more amazing is to see what that investment would look like today. Taking the cost of the investment in 1979, which is $5,976 - in 1989, the coins would be worth 20,963 if held for eighteen years. The coins values would jump to 72,383. Finally, if the were held for the length of time covered above, thirty years, their value would be an astounding $261,776.

Naturally, this is assuming that the data will remain, which in collectibles, is much more valid then any other form of investment.

Stamps and the incredible rate of return

The secret in investing in collectibles is finding the rarest issues which appreciate more rapidly. If someone is interested in stamps, there is now a club which you can join and invest as little as $25.00 a month. Every month amount of Investment wanted, and their reasons for their selection. You either keep the stamps, or you can return them for full credit. This vehicle of investment is set up for either coins or stamps.

Wellesley Common Cafe
by Charlie Urguent, Carrie Spera, and Ken Parcell

If you are looking for a place to go for soup, salad, or sandwiches try the Wellesley Common Cafe, the town's newest eating establishment located at, 52 Washington Street, this fine sandwich shop provides a contemporary atmosphere just the right amount of light and space. Though only in existence one month, the Cafe is sure to catch the people's interest as a viable alternative to the usual Friendly's or McDonald's. The service is efficient, quick, not rushed, making the customer feel comfortable and welcome.

Probably the major drawback of the place is the lack of an impressive menu, and the relatively limited selection it offers. However, when the food was served we were pleasantly surprised. The sandwiches were filling and the soup, served covered in individual butter, was the best we had in a long time. Other suggestions are omelets, quiches, or one of their various salad plates.

Overall, we left with a good impression of the Wellesley Common Cafe and wish the owners the best of luck for a successful business venture.

Movie Review:
by Doug Hermance

It is what you would expect from a Monty Python movie, crude hard-hitting satire of one of the most powerful, contemporary societies.

The LIFE OF BRIAN takes the life of Jesus, and the supposed is how he was a bombing revolutionary, who was supposed by his friends to be crucified when they needed a martyr.

The religious satire is very bitting. Obviously it is questioning the very foundations upon which Christianity is based. Brian's Joan muddling through life are being manipulated by a big impersonal conspiracy. He is considered a Messiah, even though he performs no miracles.

My favorite moment of the film is when the cross questions his mother as to whether or not she is a virgin. She refuses to answer the question since it is too personal, so they come to the conclusion that she must be a virgin.

Having just witnessed the Pope's visit to Boston, and the devotion of the thousands of people who stood in the rain in order to catch a glimpse of the leader of the religion, I don't think a movie which is this absurd would shake their beliefs. At least no one whose beliefs are based on a solid base. That is not to say that no one will be offended by the film. Even if the plot doesn't offend you, Monty Python's style of humor might.

I was impressed with the quality of this film. High Grain film stock was utilized by the makers of this film, probably a Hollywood epic, as well as religion, in the big production numbers. Never does the LIFE OF BRIAN become quick gasp thrown in front of static cameras. Whether or not you are a fan of the Monty Python gang, it is interesting to see what it is trying to do, with some sense of quality, if not necessarily taste.

I liked this film better than the Monty Python television series. The film is less concerned with subjects such as British. The universal nature of the subject allows for a wider appeal.

The LIFE OF BRIAN was an all right film. It was not great. Even as a religious satire, this work would never compare with THE DEVILS or UN CHICAGO ANDALOU. This film is much more fun to watch.

If you feel like a Monty Python movie check this one out. It's a good film to see after a few drinks.
This is the first of a multi-part feature on the fraternities and sororities at Babson. This week the FREE PRESS will present Alpha Kappa Psi and Delta Sigma Pi. Let's talk Chi, Zeta Beta Tau, Sigma Kappa, and Kappa Kappa Gamma will be featured.

Delta Sigma Pi

Walking thru Central, it is not unusual to hear the loud noise of the football game coming from Delta Sigma Pi fraternity room. This fraternity originated in 1949 as an independent fraternity called Alpha Chi Epilon. In 1951, they became a national fraternity, Delta Sigma Pi, making them one of the first fraternities on Babson Campus. Delta Sigma Pi fraternity is the seventeenth largest fraternity in the world. Same as malone, the new National President has proposed to increase the number one fraternity in the world. John Panetta Delta Sigma Pi President, feels they are already number one in quality, and in the future, will be number one in every other aspect.

The goals of Delta Sig are internal secret. They are a professional fraternity organized to foster the study of business in universities, and promote the brotherhood, as well as a business-like atmosphere. They stress personal advancement through working with an individual, as well as a group. The projects include the fraternity's endorsements which are not all publicized because they don't feel they need to impress anyone. They work on these projects for their own well being. These projects include the Ancient Order for the elderly, the Spring Formal, the drill band, and the Delta Sigma Pi Scholarship Award, which goes to the May graduate with the highest cumulative average. The May, 1979 scholarship was awarded to Kurt Evers.

In order to feed their appetite for advancement in business, Delta Sig invites many speakers to address their brotherhood. Last year, Mass Representative James Sherman spoke to the fraternity on the opportunities in Management within the government. Their schedule of speakers consists of executive and fathers of the brothers. Many Babson presidents and alumni speak to the members and Delta Sig feels this is an untapped resource that should be taken advantage of.

The alumni program of Delta Sig is very strong and active. John Panetta claims, "A cousin of Delta Sig you never forget the part you played and you just can't leave it behind." Their turn out of brothers in the alumni group is second only to the alumni of Delta Tau. Their bond is so strong that they are able to provide their own scholarships for their brothers. Brothers such as Duncan Donahue, Roger Heany, Walter Carpenter, Jesse Putsay, Desmond Haugland, Ron Gay, James Grant, and George Troughton, their advisors, have all played a major part in the Babson Community.

"When we do something, we do it best," states John Panetta. This comes out on the football field, for 24 consecutive years Delta Sig has held the fraternity football. "Man for man, and pound for pound, this fraternity has the best team yet." One brother stated, "We set out to篇章 our brotherhood and the school, and our fiber and physical potential always thru when it counts."

Delta Sig looks for a mutual quality of style and class within their pledge program and compatibility. The pledge class ranges around 12.

Delta Sig Motto: Looking good and feeling good all the time.

Alpha Kappa Psi

Passing through the doors at the east end of Central, we hear: "Babson! Babson! - that good of southern rock and roll. Alpha Kappa Psi was founded in 1955 and is probably the hardest working fraternity on campus. While Delta Sig remains a rather passive organization, AK is outstandingly active. AK brothers are forever seen working hard everywhere at Babson. The fraternity owns four businesses on campus: the concession stand, the student director, the linear service, and Speed Reading. They are also operating a thinly veiled bank that is not disclose at this point in time. One of AK's main objectives is keeping the student body happy. Dave Cheever... Alpha Kappa Psi President, feels that the fraternity really keeps the social atmosphere at Babson alive. They work diligently to make money to show everyone a good time. Their free parties and concerts are always well appreciated. Their last concert "Summer's Last Beach Party" featured the hit single from their favorite group, Gryn. Needless to say, it was a big success.

"When we do it, we do it right," says Cheever, "and the individuals in the fraternity work hard to make that statement a fact because we want to make it the best." Because they always do it right, the administration is easy for them to work with and rarely creates static for AK. The brothers really enjoy what they're doing because working with these businesses they learn a lot. What better way is there to prepare for a future in business than through experience?

Alpha Kappa Psi is the 1979 winner of the Jock Trophy. This award is given to the fraternity with the highest amount of school spirit and good sportsmanship. As far as football goes, this year AK plans on playing well enough so they can have practiced 3 weeks in advance.

What Alpha Kappa Psi looks for in their pledges is a sense of dedication and devotion to the American Business fraternity. The pledges must really have the desire to want to become a brother. They have to be able to relate to the brothers. The purpose of pledging AK is to familiarize the pledges with the brotherhood. AK is such a tightly knit brotherhood that they feel the pledges should know the fraternity and feel at home with it before becoming a brother. Because of this preparation for brotherhood, the pledging period can last anywhere from one week to twelve weeks. The pledging class changes around 10 in the fall and fifteen in the spring.

October 8th through the 9th, AK brothers are going on a canoe trip in Ipswich. October 18th through the 20th AK is hosting the first triage golf tournament at Babson. This game is relatively new but is catching rather quickly.

The AK Motto: Go Bull - or go home.

Corporation members and Trustees manage Babson

By Vickie Russel

Babson College's administration is divided into two main groups: Members of the Corporation and the Board of Trustees. The Members of the Corporation, consisting of 18 members each, havead several duties in accordance with the Board of Trustees, which ranks them as third in line of succession.

A member of the corporation may also be a member of the Board of Trustees, while he/she is not required to be. One of the Corporation's duties is to elect and re-elect members of the Board of Trustees and also advise the Board of Trustees concerning the administration of the affairs of the corporation.

President Ralph Z. Sorenson is the president of the Babson College Corporation. He is the definitely the most important and authoritative member of the corporation and he has several functions to perform, including being the principal executive officer of the Corporation and performing all duties incident to the office of the President. Being a member without vote to the Executive Committee also comes along with the job of the Presidency and either the President or his designee must attend all meetings of the Members of the Corporation of the Board of Trustees of any Committee of either body. He may also appoint employees to various positions within the Corporation and he prescribes, their duties. Mr. Sorenson must also be responsible for the removal of these employees in the case that they prove to be unqualified. His signature is vital to the Corporation in the area of signing and acknowledging all contracts, deeds, reports, etc., except where another signature is required according to law procedures. The President must also make an annual report to the Members of the Corporation and to the Board of Trustees of the work and condition of the Corporation. Lastly, he must prepare an annual budget with the guidance of the Board of Trustees.

The Members of the Corporation and the Board of Trustees are two very close groups when it comes to the affairs concerning the Babson College. Trustees of the Corporation and Members of the Corporation do not have their own significant functions, but all work towards the welfare of the College.

The Board of Trustees is the other side of the double-edged sword when speaking of Babson's administration. The Trustees are automatically members of the Corporation and elected and/or re-elected by the Members of the Corporation at any annual of special meeting.

The Board of Trustees has several powers, some of which are: the entire management control of the property, business, and affairs of Babson, electing the President and officers and the handling of the college's expenses and budgeting.

The Trustees meet regularly, and they also have special meetings which are called upon by the President. The College is a private, non-profit, educational institution of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, by reason of its being in the faithful performance of its duties, keep track of the times is that is. The Corporation Corporation and the Board of Trustees, see that all notices are given to all members, and make sure that all the seal of the Corporation is affixed to all documents. In general Mr. Putney is expected to be faithful and trustworthy to the Corporation, and act in the best interest of Babson College.

It is hard to describe the Board of Trustees and their various duties without having something to say about the Members of the Corporation of vice-versa. These two groups are neck and neck in the administration of Babson, each doing their part to keep the Corporation at its best. The Board of Trustees and the Members of the Corporation have the same main objective: To keep the College running smoothly.

Meet the All College Council candidates

Peter McNally
For the past year I have served on the A.C.C. Last year the council dealt with a wide variety of topics, ranging from vandalism to the impact of the drinking age change to litter on campus. I feel that during the last year I was able to actively represent the students and make valuable contributions on their behalf. I found my involvement on the A.C.C. to be both enjoyable and beneficial. Thus I am running again for the A.C.C.

I am sure you will hear some very good ideas from the other candidates about how the A.C.C. can be effective, and some issues it should be dealing with. However, in selecting the candidate for the A.C.C., I would caution the representatives to keep one thing in mind. The single most important quality as candidate for the A.C.C. can possess is a broad knowledge of the college and its policies. The A.C.C. only deals with matters of general college policy. I feel that through my past and present activities at Babson that I do have a strong understanding of Babson College, and how its policies affect the most important part of Babson, the students.

Andrew Dick
As a body, the A.C.C. has the power to make far-reaching decisions on matters of college policy. I am interested in serving on the A.C.C. because of a desire to represent student views on major issues. It is my belief that, through an active A.C.C., student views can be voiced in a forum where actions have much more far-reaching effects than those of regular student government.

Alternately, it would be very easy for the A.C.C. to fade into anonymity and never be heard from. If I am elected to an A.C.C. post, I will do my best to make sure that this alternative does not become a reality. The A.C.C. can and should be a strong voice for student concerns. Let us not, regardless of whom is elected, let such a resource sit scantly used during a year which will pose many new problems requiring new and creative solutions.

Jim Wing
My name is Jim Wing and I am running for A.C.C. I feel that the A.C.C. should serve as a communication forum between the various segments of the Babson campus. It's purpose is to allow for the most efficient operation of the Babson community. The requirements of a member of the council, in my opinion, are a general knowledge of the campus and the manner in which business is conducted, as well as a working knowledge of its various segments.

Brett Long
Greetings, since you are reading this article I presume that you are concerned with the events which occur here on the Babson College campus. I share your view, and I would like to convince you of the fact that I, Brett Long, am your candidate for the council for the 1979-1980 All College Council.

A seat on the All College Council is a respected post, one which should be filled by a person with rational and consistent judgment. I will provide the council with these qualities. I am willing to put extra effort into raising issues and consciousness regarding your concerns. For there exist for example, a number of pressing problems at Babson, the high cost of vandalism. I experience this problem in the same manner that you do, in the final bill, and as your representative I will raise this and other important issues. If you have any questions, please do not hesitate to contact me through either extention 509 or the campus mail box 622. Once you are satisfied that I possess the qualities you desire to see represented in the All College Council, please assist me by talking to your student government representatives before Tuesday and ask them to cast their votes for Brett Long in the All College Council election. Thank you for your consideration.

Vincent Steffan
The All College Council is a committee comprised of representatives covering the different aspects of the Babson Community, be it faculty, staff, administration, or students.

Representing each and every student is difficult and arduous task. One must consider the depth of the student body's views and personalities. This cannot be done by guesswork alone. Extensive and open communication is needed to be able to understand major needs and to receive any effective student input. I feel that I am quite easy to communicate with, and would actively seek student opinions. No student member of this committee should be seen as a person who is "above" the majority of the students.

Phyllis Moore
Perhaps Babson is most underestimated and unutilized resource are the opinions and attitudes of its individual students. Opinions are precious to those who hold them, and must be listened to with due respect. In addition, attitudes represent an even more important resource because by the basic definition of the term, they are more action-

ACC nominees cont. oriented. There isn’t a student on this campus that really "doesn’t care" when a policy is being made that affects us. It is possible to have an impact on the outcome through your council members. A representative must listen to (rather than just hear) these attitudes, and present them effectively and with respect to the rest of the membership.

My efforts would not, by any means, end there. The other potential resources which surely cannot be ignored are the approximately fifty colleges in this area also facing comparable problems and challenges, and the faculty, and administration add even more points of view.

I feel that the major importance of the All College Council is the long-term recommendations it provides for a better Babson community.

The addition I hope to bring to the council would be to set in regards to a more unified campus atmosphere.

There are many ways in which I feel this could be obtained, one of which would be to begin regular activities on campus which would bring together the student body for a few hours per week.

The Babson College Community is an unlimited resource for strength and power. Hopefully, we will make it even stronger than it now is.

Babson College soccer team continues their winning ways, now 5-0-1 by Jon Eames

Babson College continued its unbeaten streak by defeating Colby College in Maine Saturday. In this week's only soccer action. Although dominating most of the game, it wasn't until midway through the second half that Babson's ability to put the ball in the net. Two powerful goals by outstanding midfielder Jim Stento gave the Beavers a 2-0 victory.

It took a while for Babson to get on the track during the first half of the game. The contest was played on what turned out to be a gorgeous Saturday afternoon with temperatures in the 80's. The Beavers got off a couple of long drives, but had few shots on goal and were unable to mount much of a threat.

By the beginning of the second half, both teams appeared to be losing the Colby team was psyched up and ready. They were playing well and had several chances to score, but were thwarted by the fine efforts of the Babson defense and goalie Chris Davin. Babson's offense was changed from a 4-4-2 to a 4-3-3, giving them three forwards and two from the second stances. From there on they completely dominated.

Wrap up of intramural action by Jim Moriarty

In anticipation of the pop viral, the New Residence Hall pulled off a miracle last week in beating the Plow House in the Olin College intramural football squad 3-2. Isaac Haxim converted a 2-yard Haxim pass, with just one second left in the game; referee Gary Wheeler counting it down.

Goalie Jim Merlin turned back all but two shots, both by Mark Stowers, in registering the victory. Rick Costin from Haxim, and Isaac Haxim, were the previous New Dorm goals, making up the breath-taking finals.

The North soccer squad may have something to say about that. However, as they disposed of Bryant 5-0, with five different goals scored by Robert Kurosky, and Eduardo Barco connected for North as they opened up a 2-0 halftime lead. Barco's goal was a result of a handball by Bryant player. Fellow teammate Anthony Cunningham scored early in the second half, thus restored by Hank O'Neill. Furthermore, Stento's efforts were very strong and led to the second Most Valuable Player award.

As Babson approaches the middle of its schedule, they find themselves without two of their starting forwards. As previously mentioned, Mike Pantonus will be out for the rest of the season. The other injured player, Gary Newcomer, underwent surgery on Monday to remove torn cartilage acquired during the Boston College game. He will also be out for the remainder of the season. Whether or not the Beavers are a tournament threat, they will depend a lot upon the effectiveness of their remaining forwards.

Babson travels to Connecticut to play Trinity College on Wednesday. Trinity is considered a very physical team, so Babson will have to play well and watch out for injuries. Middlebury College travels to Babson for a 2:00 game on Saturday and it is considered one of Beason's toughest opponents thus far this season. Babson plays host to Tufts University on Tuesday for a 3:00 game. Tufts beat previously undefeated W.P.I. and will be out to do the same to Babson. Support from the Babson Community would be greatly appreciated.

Baseball splits doubleheader by Brad Hines

In their only action of the past week, the Babson baseball team took to the road and split a doubleheader against New Hampshire College. Babson lost the opener 7-3, but salvaged the nightcap 10-6.

The Beavers beat themselves in game one, committing four miscues in the first four innings. Kent Godrey pitched remarkably however, yielding four hits and four unearned runs in four innings of work. Meanwhile, the offense collected ten hits, but only three runs on the Beavers hit into two double plays. Bright spots included Rick Lowenstein (2 for 3), Paul Wozniak (2 for 4), and Bob Gorman (1 for 3).

Game two of the twin-bill was dominated by Kerry Schebowski, as he spun up a hitter, striking out eight and walking three.

This was Schebowski's second straight impressive outing. Babson's only run came in the fourth inning. Gorman singles, Wozniak walked, bringing up Phil Tumieloff, who laid down a sacrifice bunt to move the pair to second and third. Ken Shwedan followed with a sacrifice fly, accounting for the only Babson run. Coach Steve Stirling was happy with the victory, but had hoped to look at some of his Fresno pitchers. "I planned to use two or three pitchers in the second game, but Kerry was pitching a whale of a game, so I left him in there."

According to Stirling, the surprise of the fall is Tumieloff. "He covers a lot of ground in the field and gets a hold of the ball when he's at bat." Going into their final two games, the Beavers top hitters are Gorman (483), All Beamer (428), Lowenstein, (400) and Wozniak at .361.

Babson’s Athlete of the Week

Two of the prettiest goals any soccer fan could want to see came off the foot of junior midfielder Jim Stento last week, as the Beavers cruised into October at 5-0-1.

Stento scored both goals in Saturday’s 2-0 win over Colby at Waterville, Maine. The first Stento tally was a rocket that sailed under the crossbar, and his second, a key insurance goal late in the second half, also found the top part of the Colby net, as Stento deftly slanted a left foot drive to put the game out of reach.

The Vestal, New York, native also excelled in an excruciating 0-0 standoff with Boston College last Tuesday by helping Babson dominate the midfield.

To date, Stento has four goals to lead the team in offensive production.

Women’s volleyball hopeful, as they open their season

by Bob Berk

Women's volleyball has been a varsity at Babson for about five years now. But this year’s team is revitalized under a new coach, Donna Caruso. Coach Caruso feels that it has been an easy going, social type sport for long enough. She says that Babson has the talent, and the facilities, to make volleyball a highly competitive team.

Seven returning players and six new girls make up this year’s squad. They have been working together vigorously the past three weeks on basic skills and conditioning. The coach is happy with the team's performance thus far, and feels that each individual has shown the ability to develop good ball control skills. Teamwork has also been very good. The girls enjoy playing together and are eager to help one another on the court, according to Caruso.

One of Caruso's main theories entails emphasizing the winning spirit. She feels that Babson can have a winning season, as well as provide some exciting action for spectators. The players share this feeling, and also anticipate a successful season. As one seasoned veteran put it, “The team looks 100 percent better than last year. Team spirit is high, we really respect the coach, and we hope to win a lot of matches.”

The addition of the new gymnasium, with the rubberized floor, is a great asset to the volleyball team. It enables the women to dive, and go all out for the ball with less chance of getting injured. The addition also gives the team a place to play and practice, without conflicts and distractions. Along with the facilities, there are new regulations volleyball nets, and balls, allowing the team to work under the best possible conditions.

The team's first victory came in a scrimmage match on Tuesday. The girls left dinner to play a team from U. Mass that arrived unexpectedly, after practice. It did not take Babson long however to earn a 3-0 victory. They have their next round robin match, against Endicott College and Western New England on Thursday, October 6, the first official home match will be played Tuesday, October 9 at 7:00 p.m. The team will get to break in the new gym against Bradford College. All support from Babson fans is welcome.

Babson golf team plays in N. E. Championships

The Babson College golf team participates in the New England Athletic Conference (NEAC) golf event on September 14 at the Shinnecock Golf Club, on Long Island, New York. The Babson team is composed of four students and a head coach. The team is led by Coach Mike Leffert, who has been with the team since 1982. Coach Leffert is a former Tour professional and has been coaching golf at Babson for over 30 years.

The team competes in five events each year, including the NEAC championship, which is held at the Shinnecock Golf Club. The NEAC championship is one of the largest collegiate golf events in the country, with over 100 teams participating each year. The Babson team has been a consistent performer in the NEAC championship, and has won the event several times over the years.

Women's tennis plays three matches

By Scott Pessnick

The Babson College Women's tennis team played in and lost three matches this past week. Babson fell prey to Brandeis, Stonehill College and Endicott College over the course of the week. The women were solidly beaten in each match, except in the Endicott match in which they lost by a narrow margin.

On Tuesday, the team traveled to Endicott College and was beaten 4-3. Only one Babson singles player, Caroline Petrosky, managed to win her victorious. Petrosky, the number four player, was convincing 6-0, 6-1. Both of the Babson doubles teams won their matches in convincing fashion. The team of Cathy Scholtz and Karen Myleik won 6-0, 7-6, while Ellen Berry and Amy Fairclough won on the winning end of a 6-2, 6-4 decision.

This past Saturday, at Babson, the women took a 5-2 beating at the hands of Stonehill College. Once again, only Petrosky managed to come out a winner in the singles competition. Playing in the number five position, Petrosky won convincingly, 6-0, 6-1. Only one of Babson's doubles teams emerged victorious in their match. The team of Ellen Berry and Karen Myleik beat their Stonehill opponents 6-3, 6-4.

Brandeis University traveled to the Babson campus on Thursday and disposed of their opponents 7-2. In this match, Babson was successful in two singles matches, but could not manage a victory in the doubles play. Captain Cathy Scholtz was a 6-1, 6-2 winner, in the number one singles competition. Once again, Petrosky was a winner, in the number six singles match. Petrosky won her third singles match of the week 7-6, 7-6.

The women will play three home matches this week. On Thursday, the squad will play Bryant College, at 3:30. WRI will travel to Babson for a 3:30 match, on Monday. Rounding out the week, the team will compete against Simmons College at 3:30, on Wednesday. All support is greatly appreciated by the team.

Sports Talk

By Scott Pessnick

What's this I hear?...The Patriots got beat 27-14 by the Green Bay Packers...And by the way the Pack is far from back...Well anyway, New England did not have to get upset on Monday just because Miami lost to the New York Jets Sunday...It was the old Monday jinx again, along with some rather inconsistent quarterbacking by Steve Grogan. Yes sir, Mr. Grogan is still one of the best field generals around that can, on the one hand complete a delicate pass and on the other hand overthrow a wide open receiver...The Pack managed to grab three Grogan passes in New England territory and all of them ended in Green Bay scores...I hope Steve Grogan and company can get back into the swing of things on Sunday, when they take on the Detroit Lions. Well, such is life.

It looks like my dream of Montreal against Baltimore in the World Series turned out to be just that. Sorry to say like I will not pitch against Palmer in the seventh game of the series. Well, the Expo's certainly gave it their best shot. Even without Montreal the playoffs and ultimately the series should be very exciting. It is going to be Pittsburgh against Baltimore in the series. And ultimately the Pirates will win it in seven games. Well, in any case it should be a very exciting series.

The Pack may not be back, but the Celtics certainly are. They looked impressive this past week. In preseason play, Larry Bird is starting to really play well and Tiny Archibald, one of their worries certainly produced against Philadelphia. And of course Big Red, Dave Cowens, has been moving back into his championship form. It should be a great year. Oh, of course M.L. B...I cannot forget good old M.L. B...I cannot stand the criticism I have been getting for not mentioning him previously...So it goes.

The soccer team has really been impressive so far...And Babson students are not the only ones who think so...There are a few coaches out there that know the Brian Moe is still one of the top number six position in the Coaches UPI New England poll...Not bad for tiny Babson College...Well lets hope the team continues in its winning ways. It's going to be tough without Mike Pantone and Mary Newcomb. It looks like their both out for the season...Well we will have to wait and see.

Flash to Liza and Robin-Happy 20th. Let's hope we make it thru tonite so that we can celebrate your 21st. Flash to E.B. When do you want to sign up? R.B. Want to join our club? Signed R.B. and R.B. to join. Flash to J.R. I'm glad you're my roommate. You attract all the guys.

Kathleen M. To the nicest, prettiest, sexiest, and smartest girl at Babson, please always have a smile on her face. Love and kiss your secret admirer.

Flash to Bethy: Happy Birthday! Have a great one. We only wish that you and Party had a birthday and that you enjoyed your present. Love, your crazy suite mates.

Flash to George: I think you're wrong! Rumor has it that Viv does love Lee. What will he do now?

Flash to Gus Guza: Happy Birthday, and of course Todd; You and the Blues Brothers threw a great party.

Flash to R.D., NRH. Happy Belated Birthday! If we only knew we would have baked a cake. Next time, The Suite I.A.

Flash to M.J.S. Are you sure its immediately offline?

Flash to E.S.: How's the married life? He says he is happy every day.

To those three freshmen sleaze-Its great the way you adopted the drinking law. Getting drunk and talking to a couple of Pops.

K.B.O.: It's Babe O'Reilly, not teenage wasteland! The Notsy One.

Flash to Pooh: Can you ever forgive me for ruining your new pants? Then again, they were a bit small and I have them only cost $7.25!

Flash to the Bright Spot: I am so glad I can call you my friend. You are the best! love from the home of the Highfowl

Whoever put stuff in the informal lounge and classroom on the stairs to be thrown out.

Flash to all: If you didn't send it in by Monday, you can stop searching, it isn't here! The Mag.
