Babson increases tuition for second consecutive year

by LIZ MCCARTHY

Tuition for the undergraduate program at Babson will increase $200 for the academic year 1977-78, bringing the yearly cost to $3300. It is the second consecutive year that the tuition has been raised.

The increase was official on January 22 in an action by the Board of Trustees. It is based on the usual undergraduate program of four courses per semester.

"All of us as individuals suffer from the same inflationary pressures that impact on the College," said Sorenson in a letter sent to all undergraduate students and parents on Monday.

"It gives me no pleasure to add to your cost of living by increasing the cost of education for yourselves, or your children, as the case may be. It is simply unavoidable," he continued.

Janet Short, the Assistant to the President, detailed some of the considerations going into the increase.

"The causes for the increase are the costs of the school, such as salary increases and fuel," she said.

Severe winter conditions have also strained finances. "Snow removal is going to be over our budget, we're sure," she continued.

Babson is not the only institution of higher education feeling the inflationary crunch. Many private colleges are facing cost increases next year, according to Short.

"It's universal that costs are going up. The average increase for Ivy league schools is $325 per year. Some have put the entire increase in tuition, but some who have higher increases have put it in both tuition and housing," she explained.

"Babson is not at either extreme," she reasoned, assessing the tuition increases planned for different New England colleges.

Tuition is not the only cost being increased at Babson next year.

Housing in Coleman Hall will be assigned to students during the current semester, next year, due to renovations being conducted in the near future.

"It's being brought up to the level of Brand Hall and Forest Hall," Short explained.

Sorenson detailed in his letter that Babson is continuing to place a high priority on sound budget management for the college.

"It is our belief that the increases outlined in this letter are the minimum that we can implement while remaining within the bounds of prudent financial management for the college," he said.

New use of bookstore profits proposed by reps

BY LENORE SKOMAL

The $6,000 Bookstore profit question was once again the subject of discussion at the last Student Government meeting.

Three representatives, Daniel Schiavone, Scott O'Brien, and Mark Prokop, introduced a motion to use the controversial profits to purchase cultural items for the library.

The motion included two provisos: the first stating that $2000 of the profits, combined with a $1000 unconditional grant, equaling $3000 be set aside. Since the students raised this $3000, the proposal is to be presented to the Board of Trustees in the form of a $3000 matched dollar for dollar thus equaling $6000. This money will be used for the purchase of an assortment of traditional paintings.

The second stipulation was that the remaining $4000 of the profits be used to invest in four cassette tape decks, four amplifiers, sixteen head-phones and approximately three hundred tapes. The proposal includes that a lounge be developed in the library, where students can listen to music while they study.

Due to the time limit set on the meeting, the motion was tabled for two weeks. Within that span of time, Representatives were asked to consult with their constituents in order to obtain the general feeling of the Student body. The issue will be resumed at the 1:30 P.M. Student Government meeting.

Tri-Chairman, Gary Lee, gave a brief updating report on the Social Con. See GOVERNMENT page nine.

Work study program allocated $10,000
by PATSY CARNEY

An additional $10,000 has been allotted to Babson College's Work Study program, according to Dean David Carson, Head of Babson's Work Study program.

The additional sum raises the total amount of money from the Federal Government for the program to $28,000.

The Financial aid office at Babson has to apply for the federal funds annually. According to Carson, Babson applied for the money which wasn't used by other colleges this semester and received the extra $10,000.

Because the College has to reapply for the money each year, there is no way of knowing whether or not the added $10,000 will be included in next year's budget. But Carson indicated Babson tries to obtain more money each year.

The $28,000 allocated for this semester's work study program must be used by June 30, 1977. If any part of it is not used, it will be returned to the Federal Government.

Right now, there are sixty-three students on the work study program at Babson.

To qualify for the program, a student's total family resources must produce less than fifty percent of Babson costs. Usually, students who are eligible are already financially aid recipients.

The work study program is federally funded. The funds are used to pay four-thirds of a student's salary while the employer pays the remaining one-fifth.

Most of the students on the work study program at Babson are employed in various on campus jobs. These jobs include the library, cafeteria, Buildings and Grounds, and others. "Some Babson students have been placed in jobs off campus," said Carson. Jobs available off campus include day care centers, summer See WORK STUDY page nine.

Six professors granted tenure by college

John H. Stamm, and Ass't, Prof. Margaret S. Weinroth.

The tenure committee sends official notice to each candidate before October 1 of the academic year. The Faculty member then has the opportunity to either accept or decline being considered by the committee. If he declines the offer, he is not considered by the committee but his resignation took his name off the list.

After receiving tenure an individual is employed by the college until their 65th birthday. Only once in Babson's history has a faculty member had tenure revoked. (See accompanying feature page five.

The committee approves each candidate's course outline, exams, examinations, books, articles, student evaluations, handouts, and speeches when considering each individual.

Each candidate is given the opportunity to send any one to the committee, whom they might like to speak on their behalf. Depending on the amount of evidence the committee must deliberate between two to nine hours per candidate as they did this semester said Charles Rosman, Chairman of the Committee.

After considering all the information the committee selected two candidates who were granted tenure. See TENURE page nine.

Adams and Hearm win in close primary

Debby Adams and Roger Hearm are the two candidates for student government president, which will appear on the election ballot next Wednesday and Thursday.

Primaries were conducted for this office on Tuesday and Wednesday this week to determine which of the three candidates would appear on the ballot.

Adams received 179 votes, Hearm received 167, and 162 went to the third candidate, David "Hoppy" Koplitz, who was eliminated in the primary process.

No primary vote was conducted for the other three offices, as none had more than two candidates officially declared.

The candidates who will appear on the ballot next Wednesday and Thursday will be determined by a runoff election on March 28th.

Four additional candidates were re-elected to the student government meeting.

What we need is an academic schedule

The schedule that students pre-register for is fast becoming merely a hint of the routine they must follow in the coming semester.

Many professors conduct additional classes or exams outside of the class period and some have been known to rearrange their schedules, eliminating one class day per week, and lengthening other class days during the week.

Each creative addition to the schedule may seem essential to the professor, who may also believe that it is too much of an inconvenience to his/her students. Almost all consult the students before scheduling the precise time and place. But this does not eliminate the problem presented to the students.

The Academic Affairs department has given this matter some thought, and has had a solution in writing, at least since September.

This is a secret to virtually all students as the guidelines do not appear in the student handbook, the registration materials, or any other information. They are therefore unable to either define or defend their rights in this matter. It is obviously a secret to many faculty members, despite its detail in "Campus and Classroom," their handbook.

According to Campus and Classroom (pages 30 and 31), unalterable changes are not to be made to the schedule, and additional classes and exams are to be made with a minimum of one week's notice.

We can understand why many faculty members deviate from the policy; it calls for extra classes and out-of-class exams to be conducted on Friday afternoons from three to five p.m.

Walter Carpenter, Vice President for Academic Affairs, defends this scheduling practice by saying, "We believe that Babson operates on a complete five day week, and must continue to do so to be able to accommodate for all academic and extracurricular needs."

Classes are held until 5 p.m. on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Thursdays, leaving only Wednesdays and Fridays for extra meetings.

Wednesdays have been set aside for faculty meetings and student organization meetings, and Fridays have been set aside for extra classes and exams.

Virtually no one favors Friday afternoon as an ideal examination time period, it is just the only extra time available.

We, however, favor the class period as the ideal and truly the only acceptable exam period. Is it not the responsibility of a professor in preparing a course to be able to design examinations that can be completed during the one hour and a half class period? Can we not assume that professors of multi-section courses are creative enough to design two different exams to be administered during the respective class hours?

We acknowledge that not everyone agrees with this position. If it is truly the belief of faculty and administration, we believe it should not be—that out-of-class exams and lectures are to be encouraged, than a workable solution should not only be designed, it must be enforced.

It is not enough to give up service to the problem, which is the best that can be said about the present situation. Either it must be enforced to give students a ballpark estimate of what to expect during the semester, or it must be modified to provide an extra period during the week which is more acceptable.

As it is, with exams being scheduled at the professors' discretion, it is not uncommon for students to spend 3 afternoons in the same week taking exams.

Admittedly, this is a sore spot with the Free Press. Wednesday is our major production day from noon, until breakfast on Thursday; and professors giving exams during that time have often bound themselves at the Bottom of the Basket.

We are not the only student activity, however, and the present disrespect of what is said to be a vital facet of Babson's education can no longer be tolerated. Recognizing the need to make up classes, we believe that Babson should have one afternoon per week available for such meetings.

A written policy is not enough. To be effective, it has to be implemented. If the present schedule is to be unaccepted, it must be changed. We can no longer tolerate this present free-for-all practice of using any afternoon available to conduct exams and extra classes.

Integration of undergrads and grads: Major issue facing new government

In the midst of Student Government elections, a very important issue remains as one which the next administration will face.

The problem being that of integrating the school, to undergraduate students and graduate students.

The topic has been one that has been discussed in great length in the past, and will indeed, continue to draw attention, as long as Babson College operates both programs.

Recent and future Free Presses have dealt and will deal with problems that graduate students at Babson face. Among them are housing for students, and career counseling.

This years Student Government and Graduate Student Association have made an attempt to bring the two student bodies together, and although it was indeed a commendable attempt, unfortunately it fell short.

Last semester, both governing bodies voted that one way to improve the relations between undergraduate and graduate students, would be to send a graduate representative to student government meetings and undergraduate representative to the GSA meetings. That was last semester.

To date, the Student Government has yet to select their GSA representative, and the Graduate representative to student government has, as of press time, attended very few meetings.

While the idea may have looked good on paper, and in reality probably would serve the purpose of establishing better communications between the student bodies, the actions that have been taken so far, display a poor effort.

To point the accusing finger at any one individual or group of individuals would be wrong. This is a problem, that faces everyone: students and administration alike.

A combined effort is what is needed, otherwise the barriers between the student bodies will continue to grow.

When looking at the overall student body of Babson College, one finds a small group composed of 1230 undergraduates, plus 600 graduate students. 2800 students are taking many of the same courses, taught by many of the same instructors, and in fact many graduate students were at one time Babson undergraduate students.

While it may be argued, that many graduate students are enrolled in the night school, and are generally older, and a part of the work force, there remains a graduate group, who feels "left out" of the Babson Community.

It is certainly no simple problem to solve, but it is one which should be taken head on.

Past efforts appear to have fallen short, and apparently, the barriers are shooting up, rather than down.

It is up to future student administrations, both graduate and undergraduate and Babson administrataors, to make a greater commitment to this ever increasing problem, and reunite Babson as one community.

The Journal of Advertising Research has selected an article written by Richard H. Ostheimer, associate professor of marketing, for the lead article of its February, 1977 edition.

Ostheimer's article is entitled "The Two Worlds of Marketing: A View From One Spy Who Came In Out of the Cold." It deals with the gap between the worlds of one who practices marketing and one who teaches the subject.

Ostheimer claims that those practicing marketing and those teaching it do not communicate with each other as freely and effectively as they should. He cites a desire for improved communications and a willingness of both worlds to look at marketing from the other's point of view.

Formerly he was Director of Circulation Research of Corporation Marketing and Economic Research for Time, Inc. He has also taught at the University of Hartford, the University of Massachusetts, and Columbia University.

Robert Drapau, Director of Campus Police at Babson College, has been asked to help develop a curriculum for a security program at Northern Essex Community College in Haverhill. The college asked Drapau for his help because of his knowledge and expertise in the security field.

Drapau is a graduate of Bridge water State College. He has been a campus police officer at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and a police officer with the Huntington Police Department. Currently a resident of Bellingham, Drapau has been Director of Campus Police at Babson since July, 1974.

Drapau is a member of the faculty at Middlesex Community College's School of Continuing Education and he is a lecturer in the Massachusetts State Police's Campus Police Training Program.

He designed a course in campus security for Middlesex Community College which was so successful that it was developed into a program leading to an associate degree in security administration.

The Babson Management Association, will be presenting a program dealing with "An Introduction to Public Speaking," on Wednesday, February 23, at 6:30 p.m. in Tim 201-202.

The program will feature Babson instructors, Dr. Hollowswell and Dr. Bender, and is being presented, as a beginning to a public speaking instruction at Babson in the fall.

James Partner, Vice President for Corporate Development at SAMI (Selling Areas Marketing Inc.) was a guest speaker at Professor Ostheimer's marketing research classes on February 10. A wholly owned subsidiary of Time Inc., SAMI provides current information on a market-by-market basis on the movement of virtually all goods sold in food stores. Using a computerized system of warehouse withdrawals, SAMI, according to Ostheimer, is an outstanding example of an advanced marketing information system.

Presidential Candidate
To the Editor:

After careful consideration, and encouragement from many of you, I've decided to pursue the office of Student Government President. I've grown tremendously through my previous service to Babson, and to you, and I anxiously look to continue this service in the capacity of President.

Many of you may have misgivings about placing your trust in someone who is involved in a number of activities already. Let me assure you that I will enter the office of President with dedication and with enthusiasm. The duties of President will be foremost in my mind.

If you have any questions concerning myself or my qualifications, please let me know from you.

Sincerely,
Debbie L. Adams

To the Editor:

In reference to the FREE PRESS coverage of last week's Student Government meeting (2/9/77), we wish to publicly acknowledge our error in stating "There is a possibility of a 1 1/2 percent discount on airline tickets." All airline fares are strictly structured and enforced by the civil aeronautics board and below penalty of law cannot be deviated from. We would hope this retraction will set our policy straight and reconcile any potential repercussions to GWY travel in Newham as guidelines.

We apologize for any inconvenience or problems we may have caused any other individuals or organizations, and thank all our clients for their continued support.

Cedric revisited; express your non-vote

By Bob Block

Next week when you go to the polls to elect next year's Student Government officials, you will have the opportunity to express your "non-vote" as a write-in. This is the first time that such an opportunity exists for Babson students. Its desired effect is to allow individuals believing there to be no qualified candidate, to participate in elections.

This concept was conceived by a group of students during last year's elections. The candidates, Cedric, actually an obscure wooden nut hooker, was presented as a candidate for Student Government president.

Cedric's physical appearance, however, was insufficient in comparison with the motivation behind his candidacy; an alternative route for those individuals lacking sufficient credit hours to run in Cedric's place.

Those involved sought to increase student interest in government elections, through the implementation of an intensive political campaign. They were confronted, in return, with threats of Judicial Court action, and cries of "farcce" from many students.

Cedric's progression through Trim Dining Hall, to the tune of "Stars and Stripes Forever" heightened the awareness of Cedric as a viable candidate, an awareness culminating in a heated debate following Candidate's Night.

Despite the blatant animosity exhibited throughout the campaign, Cedric drew approximately 80 votes for the People's Ticket in the first poll. The sixty percent of the Babson population vote. What percentage of students voting, had there been no Cedric campaign, is unknown, but to those involved, there is little doubt that the turnout would have been considerably less.

In past years, voter turnout consistently averaged less than fifteen percent.

Cedric retired after his debut of last February, but not before the opportunity to cast a "non-vote" had been permanently established at Babson.

No longer are students required to settle for the best of a poor selection. Individuals dissatisfied with those candidates campaigning are enabled to maintain both influence and interest in Student Government elections. Reasons not to vote no longer exist.

COMMUTER C.S.A. ELECTIONS

by BOB DOYLE

Like Student Government, the Commuter Student Association (C.S.A.) has its elections this week. The positions of president, secretary, treasurer, public relations, and social director are up for election. Any commuter is eligible to run for these offices. If you wish to run for these offices, you must submit your nomination to the C.S.A. election chairperson. The C.S.A. will present themselves at a C.S.A. meeting at 1:30, on March 27, 1977, (in the Commuter lounge in the basement of Keating Hall). Explain to the members why they should feel the job is good.

The following week, March 9, 1977 at 1:30 in the Commuter lounge, the members will vote in order to decide the winners of the election. Anyone interested in the above positions can contact me at Box #616.

In upcoming meetings we plan to discuss: cabaret night, results of the contest to paint a mural on the wall of the commuter student lounge, fund raising ideas, commuter representation at Student Government meetings, C.S.A. membership drive, parking for commuters, and lockers.

Write In Candidate

To The Editor:

"The cure," amorphous ramblings?

To The Editor:

"Put the students back in Student Government, that's what we intend to do!" Logic depicts that it's time for a change, that it's time for the whole of Babson College to get involved in the events and passions of the students. The first and only way to make that happen is through involvement.

Involvement. Maybe that word scares you, or it shouldn't; it should make you think. We have thought about our being in the same boat as the average student on this campus, and have only now decided to take up the causes we believe in, here in our sea of apathy and futility.

We feel that the average student does want to get involved, but up to now he hasn't been in the dark concerning certain alternatives to major campus issues. We don't profess to make drastic changes in the present system; that is not our responsibility, however, as president and vice-president, it will be our responsibility to provide the students a direct line between them and the administration, a link that will be open to all students wishing to make a change for the better.

We do have opinions about all the major issues concerning the campus and students, but what does it matter? Our views are only 2 1/2 in number, we want the remaining thousand or so to have the attention and representation of Student Government.

We can't force the students into action, but by stressing and working for closer ties between the students and the governing bodies of the school, we can offer our time, compatibility, and concerted efforts in hopes of restoring Babson College, a feeling of unity and a spirit that a large portion of Babson's stature should have.

Candidates for the offices of Student Government

Delbert Adams  President

Babson College provides its students with the opportunity to expand upon their own talents. Being achievement oriented, Babson students look beyond the effect of an action to the cause; they seek the rationale beyond a policy. A president should be able to fulfill this need and communicate student feelings to the appropriate persons in the position to act.

In order to maximize both the quality and quantity of representation in student government, Babson College students should have the opportunity to work in various capacities. I believe this will improve living conditions on the Babson campus.

Roger Hearn  President

My name is Roger Hearn, and I am running for Student Government President.

My qualifications for the office include membership in Student Judicial Court, the All College Council, and its Grievance Committee, and Student Government and its Ways and Means Committee.

I have a long range concern for Babson College. To achieve long term improvement we must have better coordination between the Four Communities, i.e. Trustees, Faculty, Staff, Undergraduate and Graduate.

I stress the need for a working rapport with the College Administration that expresses and emphasizes total cooperation so that all involved will benefit.

I feel that the College should realize that present students are future alumni and are very important to Babson's development.

Through the positions I have held in Student Government, I have become familiar with handling both small details, i.e. red tape, and large issues.

See HEARN page ten

Fred Hatfield  Vice President

It's time for the students of Babson College to show that they are concerned about what happens in this community. Action on potentially serious problems, such as housing, parking, security, etc., is continuously taking the form of short-term solutions. I feel it's time for the students to seek action from the administration that will do more than put off the problem for another year.

The opinions and views of the Vice President (or any other officer) of Student Government should not carry any more weight than those of all the students. His job, therefore, is to see that the students are represented as best as possible. I can only promise that I will do this to the best of my ability.

Charlie Wilson  Vice President

The job entitled "Trim Student Manager" carries such responsibilities as the hiring, firing, and scheduling of the seventy plus students who work there. This thirty plus hour a week job also means being responsible for the control of the customers who partake of our services. This responsibility is met with pride and dedication each year and a half will be terminated upon my election to the office of Vice-President of Student Government.

During that year and a half I've worked for the more efficient operation of all employees through proper job restructure. One has also succeeded in his effort to improve the image of the Student Manager. The number of applicants for this job has more than doubled in the last year. It is the intention of this candidate that he be able to do likewise with the image of Student Government as his predecessors have done.

I am confident that I can not only fulfill my secretarial responsibilities but also thoroughly represent a great portion of the student body. I feel this is possible because even in the short time that I have been at Babson I have been involved in many student organizations and activities.

As a Student Government representative, I have a perfect attendance record, have actively participated in the meetings, and am familiar with parliamentary procedures. I am aware of the problems and needs of both commuter and resident students. My position as treasurer of the Commuter Students Association has given me the opportunity to meet many commuters, learn how they feel about Babson's strong and weak points, and to initiate projects to benefit this portion of Babson's population.

I have displayed my concern for more involvement of the commuter student in the campus by attaining a multi-purpose lounge for commuters, by co-coordinating several parties and fundraisers, and by co-writing

Through the past year and a half, I have worked closely through Student Government and am familiar with the manner in which it functions. I now feel the need to become directly involved and work in the decision making process. By participating on various committees and organizations my concern for the campus community has grown considerably. Mainly though, my interest lies in the welfare of the students and their personal needs. I have cultivated my ability to notice the flaws and imperfections within the system, and I am certain that I can work with the students to correct these problems. I plan to use this ability to the fullest capacity and am sure that the community will benefit. My past activities included: Licensing Committee, Publicity Committee, Student Advisor, Chairman Bookstore Profit Committee, and most recently, Co-Chairman Parents Weekend 1977.

It is my personal belief that Babson has a lot to offer to each student who is willing to invest his time and energies into making this a better place. But right now, I do not feel that we are meeting these opportunities. If elected, I hope to open up more government committees to those students who wish to become involved. With your help, this can happen.
TENURE-
The best deal around

by CHRISTOPHER SPRAGUE

Job security, in a country where unemployment ranks as one of the nation's foremost problems, is of paramount importance. Imagine being told that after working for seven years, in the same capacity, the quality of your work was such that your employer would be willing to loan you up to your sixty-fifth year of life.

With this being the case, the word tenure takes on a new meaning. The Tenure Committee, composed of four elected faculty members and the division chairman of the candidate being considered, must decide whether to grant an individual tenure or end his career at the college.

"It's a job that one cannot enjoy but it must be done," said Dr. John Mulhern, Liberal Arts Professor, and member of the committee, "one has to wrestle with one's conscience when judging one's colleagues, when his professional life is at stake."

"Tenure now has another dimension because of the job market, it has a crucial bearing on the candidate's career."

Donald Rottler, accounting professor, another member of the committee said, "It's not a comfortable position to be in when one is making a decision about people's lives. If a student is on the borderline between a D- and an F do you think him? You may be doing him a favor by requiring him to take the course over."

At Babson, 40 percent of the full time faculty has tenure. According to Walter Carpenter, Vice President for Academic Affairs, 60 percent of all academic rank holders in the country hold tenure. Carpenter added that it is quite common to find colleges with 50-60 percent of the professor's holding tenure.

In recent years Babson has been granted tenure by seven professors at Babson providing he/she has had no previous teaching experience. As outlined by Policies and Procedures of the Board of Trustees, "all prior full-time teaching experience at the college level up to a minimum of four years must be credited toward tenure."

A case in point would be the situation of Professors Rogers and Ostheiser who were recently granted tenure. Both received tenure in the fall of their second year at Babson.

When being considered for tenure the candidates are judged in five areas, the most important being teaching effectiveness. Other factors that are somewhat calculated include research, professional competence evidenced by professional activities such as the routine, and a general contribution to the college evidenced by participation on college committees, with students and student organizations.

As a member of the Babson community one can give testimony in favor of, or in disregard to, a candidate at the time of his tenure. Actually a student will appear in the Free Press reminding individuals that various candidates are being considered.

Once an individual has tenure there are only two circumstances under which tenure can be lost and that are the candidate's position at the college, according to Policies and Procedures. "Adverse grounds for removal from tenure status shall be incompetence, neglect of duty, or violation of the rules and regulations of the college," the guidelines read.

A professor may also lose his tenure if "Financial exigency on the part of the college shall be valid reason for dismissal of a tenure member of the faculty if the judgment of the Tenure Committee the claim of financial exigency is bona fide," reads Policies and Procedures.

In other words if the college decides that it can no longer afford the Marketing department, it may then let go of any tenure professors in that department.

"It hasn't happened yet and I hope it never does" said Dr. Charles O'Brien, Chairman of the Tenure Committee.

Bloomfield College, in New Jersey, used a similar clause to release one third of its faculty said Carpenter. In defense of those involved the American Association of University Professors, a national group whose college was unable to prove that financial exigency way "bona fide."

"It's a very nasty situation when some college tries to dump some of their higher paid professors" said O'Brien.

At Babson only one professor has had tenure revoked said Carpenter. In 1963 Jack Marshall, a tenured professor of the then Management and Production department, was brought before the Tenure Committee for removal.

After being granted tenure Marshall taught at Northeastern University, in Boston. Several years later the Board of Trustees added an "anti-moonlighting clause" to the tenure contract which prevented him from teaching at Northeastern. The Tenure Committee revoked his tenure.

In response, Marshall took the college to court claiming that Babson had changed the tenure contract by including this new clause, and had therefore broken his contract.

The court ruled that conditions of employment are subject to change and that the Board of Trustees was reasonable in action and well within their rights.

More recently Charles Nicolini, a member of the Liberal Arts Division was denied tenure. Nicolini, who was born in Africa, claimed that he was denied tenure on basis of race.

"He took his case to the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination, (MCAD), who investigated Babson and said that Babson is guilty," said Carpenter. The case never went to court because of a lack of evidence.

Once an individual is granted tenure what other motivation is there?" Motivation doesn't change when one has tenure, it's simply a matter of changing priorities," said Associate Professor of Communications Richard Plageman. I would like eventually to be a full professor but I don't feel I am qualified now until I do something different. The motivation still there."

According to Carpenter turnover of tenured professors is extremely low. Most stay at Babson until retirement.

"I know of two cases where an Associate Professor was promoted from Associate Professor to Professor," said Carpenter. After he retired in 1969, he returned to Babson as a visiting professor and at the time he was being paid a salary.

"Secondly one can develop a genuine affection for Babson and the students," he concluded.

Items lost and found

by NICOLE PAGOURIS

If one is missing anything from a glove to a watch it might be in one of the best interest to make a stop at Executive Housekeeper's Janice Higgins office, otherwise known as the Lost and Found of Babson College.

The office is a small, neat room located in Buildings and Grounds. There is a table on one side of the room loaded with items such as notebooks, texts, scarfs, mittens, and wallets.

The more valuable items such as watches, calculators, (common item), earrings, keys and rings are locked up in a drawer that only Higgins has access to.

Higgins feels that one of his main problems is that of the items he finds. Very few items have names on them. Dr. Carpenter even goes so far as to say that even when people come to claim their things, he has to make sure the claim is real.

He stressed the importance of labeling and cited a recent example to explain its importance.

The process employed by the Lost and Found is rather simple. The Buildings and Grounds staff have until four o'clock on the following day to report their findings.

Once received, everything is labeled and placed in the store in accordance with the time and place it was found. Most things are kept for the semester, sometimes the school eventually returns lost items. and is scuttles and mittens that are never claimed are given to the maids who turned them in.

Books are usually given to the library and unclaimed notebooks are finally thrown away. People are surprised there are always interesting things coming through. Recently, a $1500 watch was found and eventually returned to the owner.

If you or a friend want to borrow a library book before vacation, airplane tickets to Buffalo were sent to the owner. They were also returned to the owner.

Other interesting things include a woman's full length coat that was unclaimed for four months, and a Fordham University ring.

The office is open weekdays from eight to four. If you've lost something lately, check it out!

The New Babylon Players, formerly the Theatre Guild, will present "The Fantassticks," the long-running off-Broadway musical, April 6th. This will be the first musical presented by an on-campus dramatic organization in 1/2.

The production will star John Green, Connie Hall, Robert Baruch, Melissa Abbot, Bob Clinton, Johnathan Keen, Joann Groft, and Victor Arreliano. The production is directed by Jeff Giannone who assisted by musical director Jack Yeo.

According to Giannone, this production's crew are quite different than in former years.

"In past years," stated Giannone, "the group was somewhat cliquey, with intense competition between its members. This semester we have new people with new ideas. There is a very experimental enthusiasm about the group." The "Fantassticks" written by Tom Jones is loosely based on "Les Romantiques" by Edmond Rostand. The musical opened the Sullivan Street Playhouse in New York City on May 3, 1960, where it has been ever since, becoming the longest running play in the country.

According to Giannone, there are some fear spots in the script. "When you take the play at face-value there is not a half of a lot to work with," he said.

"But when the cast gets into it," Giannone continues, "we realized that the themes of the play are very relevant, especially to college students.

In producing the "Fantassticks," the players will be trying several new ideas.

"Instead of the usual seating arrangement, we will be renting bleachers for the performances. Also, to create a full house, we will be distributing unsold seats to high schools and other interested groups," said the director.

Because of the planned distribution, Giannone hopes that students wanting to see the show, will buy their tickets in advance.

The "new" Pub - Babson's "place to be"

by DAVE EGAN

Been to the Pub lately? If not, you may have noticed the slight changes there, and the furnishing of the new "place to be" at Babson.

Pub manager Jim Grenier, a graduate of Babson and student in the school's MBA program, has instituted a program of sweeping changes, large and small, in and around Babson's center for "drinking and dancing."

"I've been with the Pub almost since it opened," said Grenier in a recent interview, "and in three years, there has been very little change here."

"The Pub was getting stale," he continued. "The place is getting old; it needed something. We've been left in some new equipment, like compressors or the new sandwhich bar. But, it's very expensive to do things here. Anything and everything costs us money. We're completely self-sufficient, so we pay for everything we do."

Nevertheless, Grenier felt a need for a change at the Pub, and developed an expanded list of products, and activities.

Expanded Hours

"First, we've begun to open a half an hour earlier, at 4:00," the manager elaborated, "so people can come in for a pre-dinner crowd. Sales so far have been very slow, but it costs us no more to open earlier. We are getting a regular crowd from Bryant who like to stop in before going to dinner."

In addition, according to Grenier, Happy Hour at the Pub has recently been increased from six to eight p.m., to four to seven-thirty p.m.

"The new hours have helped," he said, "particularly on Fridays."

The Happy Hour prices have been reduced to a rate comparable to Wellesley College, said Grenier, who added that a new ginnick had been added to Fridays, called "Beat The Clock."

"The 'Beat The Clock' works by adding a nickel or dime to the price of a glass of beer during the Happy Hour, starting at 25 cents and working up every hour. It's an extra something to get some more people in."

The campaign has, so far, been quite successful, according to Grenier, who said, "we've done ten times the business as before on Fridays."

In addition to Friday afternoon ginnicks, Grenier has established a schedule of regular Pub features, for each of the six nights it operates.

The Weekly Schedule

"I'm trying to get something definite, to draw people," explained Grenier. "A regular thing has to happen."

Beginning on Monday, which, according to the manager, is a particularly bad night for the Pub historically, the Pub offers "Pitcher Nite," with ginnicks including backgammon and cribbage, donated by the Student Activities office, for amusement.

"I consider it successful," said Grenier, in evaluating the Monday night program. "The total sales figure is about the same, but more people are coming in."

Tuesday is movie night at the Pub, during which "quality movies" and selected shorts are shown free of charge.

"We're just breaking even," commented Grenier, "but still, it's worth it."

"We will show 15 features, and 15-20 shorts over the semester," he continued, "and it gets very expensive. We've allocated $10000 for those fourteen weeks."

"Dave Klaier has been very helpful," praised Grenier. "He has helped in picking out the movies for this environment. Babson media services has also been very helpful. They're aware of our financial constraints and the demands on their equipment, but we've been able to work out a compromise situation whereby we all help to pay for replacements, bills, and so on. We've done it to 3 times the business of a normal Tuesday. I think we're doing very well."

The Wednesday Oldies Nite has, according to Grenier, undergone a new consideration.

"The Oldies have been around a long time," he explained. "We've started a Disco Nite the first of every month, to help break it up, for a little variety, so people aren't hearing the same thing."

"The Disco is strictly experimental," said Grenier of the possible revamping of Wednesday nights. "We may or may not stay with it. That's really more up to my two assistants, who I've made responsible for the entertainment here."

On Thursdays, we are trying not to have a regular folk singer," said Grenier of the following evening's Folk Nite. "That tends to get stale. People come to see Ed Sullivan or Rich Silberman," he explained, "because they're something different. I probably have about eight or so groups appearing during the next fourteen weeks."

As for the weekend, Grenier stated that he would like to have entertainment every Friday night. Bands are very expensive, but successful. So far, we've done very well on those nights." Saturday is another game night at the Pub, and usually rather a quiet evening in Coleman's basement.

Successful expansion

Product changes at the "new" Pub include expanded sub sandwich and snack lines, and the addition of bottled wines to the bill of fare.

"We've switched from the Schlitz to the Miller line beer products," added Grenier, "and have added Foster's Lager beer, which is kind of unique, and sells well." Grenier mentioned that the Pub operates under constraints which tend to hamper elaborate expansion plans.

"Our early closing time, especially on weekends, is a real constraint," he explained. "And, in that same light, you have to look at our budget constraints, in terms of hiring bands, for instance."
Babson police increase ticketing on campus

by JIM TABNER

There has been a 20 percent increase in the number of tickets the Babson Police Issued last semester, compared to the previous semester, according to Robert Drapeau, Chief of the Babson Police.

"Last semester, approximately 3600 tickets were written," he said, "which represents a billing of $5,433."

Of the 3600 tickets issued, many were "free," or one ticket per semester the college allows each student, while others were issued to off-campus vehicles, and thus uncollectable.

According to Drapeau, it may have appeared that the Babson Police were cracking down on parking violations, thus causing the increase, but this is not the case.

"Last semester, the majority of the tickets were issued during the day when ticketing is visible," he said. "This makes the increase seem much larger than it actually was."

Drapeau indicated that he is pleased with parking control thus far, and sees no problems in the future.

"The parking problems we had at the beginning of last semester have been generally cleared up," he said.

The revenue raised from the tickets issued, goes into general scholarship fund, and is not used for the police department budget.

"Every dollar that is collected goes to a scholarship fund," said the Chief. "We don't see a cent of the money."

Work study

The $10,000 available for this semester will be used to create some new jobs at the gymnasium and with Buildings and Grounds.

If any of the money is left at the presem period, some students may be hired at the beginning of the semester.

Under the law, students are allowed to work twenty hours a week but the Babson Administration usually only allows fifteen hours a week. During vacations, forty hours a week is allowed.

Any students who think they may be eligible for work study are urged to see Mr. Allen at the Student Affairs Office.

The college does not notify eligible students because Carson feels the program works better if students seek jobs on their own.

Tenure decisions

The Committee shall submit its recommendations in writing to the president together with supporting rationale through the office of the vice-president for Academic Affairs," says Policies and Procedures of the division chairman of the candidate involved, vote. A majority carries tenure.

The Primaries took place Tuesday and Wednesday of this week. A significant change occurred before the voting. Candidate Jeff Giannone had forfeited his running place for Vice President because of insufficient qualifications, thus leaving two candidates for the office. The only office requiring a primary was that of President.

The procedure for tallying votes will be different this year from previous years. Since the actual voting takes place on two consecutive days, the practice of counting the votes at the end of the first voting day and then again at the end of the second, as had been done, will not be followed this year.

Only one tallying will take place, not two, and that will be done after the close of the second day, the 23rd.

Pine Manor expands program to four years

by Peter Brown

Beginning next fall, Pine Manor Junior College will expand and become a full four-year college according to Burnham Carter Academic Dean at Pine Manor. "Curriculum will increase at a rate of at least ten new courses per year for the first four years and then gradually taper off after that," said Carter.

Bachelor of Art degrees will be offered in the following areas: American Civilization, Human Studies, and Communications.

Planned expansion of other new majors will not be decided upon until next winter.

The cross registration policy is designed to allow students to take courses according to or to Academic Affairs Fader Carpenter.

Transer credit will continue to be in effect and there will remain a limit of one cross registered course per semester by each Babson student.

Carter expressed hopes that this new expansion would make Pine Manor more attractive to Babson students in the future.

Campus. The president is an important link between the administration, faculty and students. I have become aware of the importance of this role and would like to pursue it further. These activities have enabled me to better know our college. I have come to know many students of diverse interests through my participation in such organizations as Blue Key National Honor Fraternity and with Babson athletics. Indeed my leadership qualities have been sharpened in my role as captain of the varsity hockey team. I will use the experience gained and the people I have met to provide greater strength and depth to the office of the president. I realize this is a full time job and it would be my first priority. To be an effective president one must be willing to dedicate time, enthusiasm and ambition to the position. If elected I will commute one hundred percent to the job of the presidency. All my energies would be put in the direction.

Finally, let me stress that I am in a unique position to speak for the students of this campus. I have dealt with problems ranging from the details of everyday life in the dorms to planning for the college as a whole. I have strong working relationships with many members of the administration and faculty. I have demonstrated and will continue to demonstrate my sincere and deep commitment to Babson College.

Chairman of the licensing committees, Institute policies regarding the purchase prices of student businesses, the financial statements of student businesses, and a student business night. It is also intended that a set of guidelines be established and/or refined concerning the actions of the licensing committee on the subject of student businesses. There exists a need for such policies based on an assumption that the student businesses are to give first hand practical business knowledge. It is felt that at the present time that the student business do not, as a group, support this assumption. It is the intention of this candidate and his policies that this realistic assumption be attained. My records show that CHARLIE WILSON has solicited your support and your vote. The goals are set, the policies are in the making, and the candidate is ready to represent you, work for and with you. On Tuesday, please come to Candidates Night and allow me to clarify these or any other issues that you may feel relevant. On Wednesday or Thursday I ask that you get out and vote for it is important to you and the school. It is my sincere hope that you will see that Charlie Wilson can and will make the best Vice-President of the Student Government for the coming year.

Through personal involvement in many of the social events on campus, I have also had the opportunity to acquaint myself with a great many of the resident groups. I therefore represent them too. Some of my social activities include: responsible for two booths in the 1976 Youth Fair for Muscular Dystrophy (pony rides and the flea market stand), helping out during mixers, and co-coordinating the Fireside Party during Winter Weekend.

I feel that I am well qualified to be Secretary of Student Government and I ask for this opportunity to represent and work for you. Thank you for your time.

Swellmers defeat M.I.T.

by Shirley Choy

The Babson swimmers broke their losing streak with a home victory against M.I.T. 64-45.

The pace was set with a winning 400-yard medley relay consisting of Spencer Miller, John Amour, Rick Vallas, and Steve Goldberg.

Eric Durban, last week's Athlete of the Week, swam a most enduring meet by winning the three most difficult events, 1000-yard freestyle, 200-yard butterfly, and the 500-yard freestyle. Excelling in all of them, he placed 2nd in each event. In the 500-yard freestyle, Durban managed to overtake his opponent within the last 25 yards.

Pat Joyce was a two-time winner, placing first in both the 200-yard freestyle and the 500-yard freestyle.

John St. Amour and Rick Braymerman conquered the 50-yard freestyle sprint with a winning 1:2 combination swimming their two times of the season.

Spencer Miller and Ed Goddijn matched another 1st and 2nd in the 200-yard freestyle. Ed Goddijn squeezed in on his opponent within the last few seconds of his swim.

Rick Houlde displayed a fine performance in the 100-yard backstroke and good even times in the 100-yard butterfly, managing to place second among the four other competing M.I.T. divers.

Rick Voltes continued to show his consistency in style by placing first in both the 200-yard and the 500-yard freestyle.

The victorious meet closed with the winning 400-yard freestyle relay team of St. Amour, Miller, Goldberg, and Braymer.

The next meet will be against Brandeis on Tuesday. The meet is at home and begins at 2:00 pm.

Hoopsters record one win, two losses

The basketball team of Babson looked impressive Tuesday night as they rolled over Gordon College 73-53. The words of J.V. star Terry Whiny adequate to describe the game against Gordon, "We killed 'em.

Without the help of their center, Chris Johnson, the Beavers outdistanced, outran and outshot the Scot's of Gordon College. The superior Dan Keel with ten points, eight rebounds and four blocked shots. Also taking his toll was Mike Cullen who scored ten points and procured eight rebounds.

Coach Olson went with Mike Cullen, Bernadini and Barbara as starters in varying his usual. This move proved sufficient as the Babson Five got out to an early 15-9 lead. Those minutes were made possible by the excellent shooting and rebounding of Cullen.

With 12 minutes left in the half, the Coach went with his substitutes in building a lead. A fast drive by Steve Dovnivo, a steal-and-run play by Joe Minihan brought Babson to a 25-11 lead. Then Dan Keel got started as he scored six straight points and swished away two shots. The line half was led when Jack McGuire who had been in for most of the half hit an 18 foot jump shot, as the scoring spanned 12-9.

Babson's play in the second half much resembled that of the Harlien Goldenstrokes as they went into their fast break. Their fast break was getting downdraft before Gordon's would. Their scoring by Murters and Dan Keel combined for 10 points, and a fourth-quarter run.

Ken Marsters, co-captain commented on the successful fast break, "Our Insideouts Phil Tower, Dan Keel, and Cullen did a great job on the outlet pass that allowed us to fast break so much.

The Beavers continued to torture Gordon with their speed, with 20 minutes left to play, Olson again went with substitutes to put the game under his heat. Here Babson built up a lead of 68-43 with the help of Steve Dovnivo and his behind the back pass to Bernadini who layed it in for two points.

Then with the game almost at an end, Olson cleared his bench putting in Mike Cullen, Mike Dovnivo, and "Doctor" Jay Nelson who all turned the game into a post exhibition. Olson grinned as he watched his team show off and remarked, "It's showtime.

Gary Gordon did not give us easily, as they did post a comeback effort and came back to within 20 points as the scoring closed at 73-53 Babson. However Gordon must go back to the drawing board as they are winless in 26 games.

"We needed an easy win after playing some tough teams and being physically beaten. Now we have a chance to do it to somebody else." These were the game comments of William Olson from the Babson Five.

Babson vs Bentley

The Falcons of Bentley College took advantage of Babson shooting only 26 percent from the floor in first half and capitalized on 18 free throws. Chris Johnson to over power the Falcons at half time, Monday night at Bentley College.

The game was close for the first 11 minutes as both teams committed numerous turnovers. Suddenly, the Babson offensive pattern became bogged and Coach Olson called time with eight minutes remaining in the half and the score Bentley 18, Babson 13. This time out did little good however as the Beavers failed to score a single point in the next four minutes.

The absence of Johnson hurt Babson's offensive as well as defensive. Bentley played an aggressive man to man defense and with superior rebounding ability outscored the Babsons 24-2 to put the game out of reach. Bentley went into the locker room 40-21.

The pace in the second half slowed down as both teams turned to their reserves and Bentley refused to let up on the Beavers as they totally dominated them again.

Ken Marsters played an outstanding game for the Beavers penetrating Bentley's defense and scoring 16 points. Junior guard Jim Lawson added nine more.

Babson was out-rebounded 53-32 and surprisingly both teams committed over 20 turnovers apiece.

Varsity hockey team brings their season’s record to 7-7-1

by POO DALTON

Babson’s varsity hockey team recorded two wins and one loss this week to bring their season’s record to 7-7-1. The Beavers defeated American International College and Framingham State College. They lost to Middlebury.

Babson vs. AIC

The Beavers defeated American International College Tuesday night. AIC outshot the Beavers 45-25, but were unable to beat Babson goalie Scott Bethel more than once. The Beavers’ spirit and hustle were minimized early in the first period when Russ Coligan in the face of a high stick. Reynolds suffered a serious laceration and was taken to the hospital for stitches.

It took a while for Babson to recapture their drive in the winning effort against AIC. AIC has an impressive 16-4-0 record with victories over several top teams. But the Beavers have defeated Babson this season.

Babson regained composition and at 8:23 of the opening period scored the first goal. Dave Smith passed to Russ Coligan at the point. Coligan made a break for the goal and beat goalie Jim Coughlan who was 15 feet out to the right of the net. Coughlan scored on a black-shot to the left corner of the net. AIC pressured Bethel with 14 shots on goal during the first period. Bethel denied AIC a goal. The period ended with Babson ahead 1-0.

At 1:32 of the second period, AIC’s Jim Coughlan scored his second goal for AIC. Babson was unable to capitalize on the penalty shot advantage. Babson and AIC contributed to the second goal of the game.

Lessons from the game included the third period, which Coughlan scored. To the score of 3-1, Babson was unable to score and AIC pressed for the victory.

A former member team was able to score throughout the period. AIC’s defense had the one-man advantage halfway through the second period. Tom Halpin was called for hooking.

Coughlan started the scoring in the third period at 4:01. Once again off to the start, Babson took a slap shot and scored. The unassisted goal brought the score to 3-0.

One minute later, Harry Sobole stole the puck in the middle and passed to Tom Halpin, Kelly and Nick D’Amo skated down the middle line and passed to Kelly, D’Amo, who scored at 5:23 of the period.

At 8:11, Tom Hanley was called for interference against giving AIC the power play. AIC took full advantage of the situation and scored at 8:26 bringing the score to 3-1.

Babson recorded its final goal on an empty net. Coughlan slapped an impressive shot with two seconds left in the period.

Coligan stole the puck in Babson’s end and passed to Coughlan who was wide open. Babson’s blue line passed the puck onto the boards and deflected into the AIC net. The AIC player who chased the puck into the net was unable to prevent the goal.

Babson vs. Middlebury

Babson took on Middlebury College at home on Saturday and won. The game was much closer than the score indicates, as one goal was scored during the five power play and another one on a four on four situation.

“Middlebury is the best team we’ve played this season,” commented Coach Rick McCarthy. “We played a accompanied by eleven penalties and victory in the easiest of the three games.

The opening period was scoreless, up and down hockey. The Babson defense held off Middlebury throughout the period.

“The defense really hung in there,” remarked McCarthy. “Coligan, Rogers, Halpin, and Sobole did an outstanding job against Middlebury and AIC.”

With three minutes left in the first period, Middlebury put the pressure on goalie Judson. Judson trapped the puck and in a rushed situation, a Middlebury forward located the puck and put it in the net. The whistle had blown, however, and goal did not count.

Babson recorded the first goal of the game at 10:09. Kelly dropped the puck into the net from a pass of Nick D’Amo.

Middlebury began their reign halfway through the second period. Their first goal came on a low shot from just outside the net. Judson went down, but the puck went below him.

Minutes later, the same Middlebury player beat Judson again to put Middlebury in front 2-1.

Babson came back with spirit toward the end of the period putting pressure on Middlebury’s goal, but was unable to score.

At 3:28 of the third period, Dave Hitchinson was called for hooking. Middlebury put tremendous pressure on Babson.

Middlebury took five consecutive slap shots. Four were blocked by defensemen including two stopped by Captain Del Adams. Judson finally came up with a tremendous glove save stopping play.

At 13:54 Smith and a Middlebury player were called for roughing. The four on four situation proved to be an advantage for Middlebury as they controlled the puck and scored at 14:23 of the period.

At 17:52 of the final period, Hitchinson was called for hooking and at 19:27 Sobole was called for tripping.

With a two man advantage, Middlebury recorded their fourth goal of the game to bring the score to 4-1.

Babson vs. Framingham State

Babson recorded an 8-4 victory over Framingham State and Thursday night. The high scoring game was “it’d like this to be informal,” stated Marthinson. “I hope we’ll all gain a chance to roll around for a while.” Warm-ups are planned to be on an individual basis followed by wrestling between the members.

As of now, there are no plans for matches against other schools, but Marthinson is confident that matches can be arranged against top high school teams and possibly other colleges.

“Right now,” he remarked, “we are still in the beginning stages. If everything runs along smoothly, we may consider some new things. As of now, we are keeping in shape and learning some new techniques in wrestling.”

While Marthinson works on the wrestling club, sophomore Ben Gay is attempting to form an outing club and so far, this endeavor looks promising. Including in the activities of the club is cross country skiing, canoeing, hiking, bicycling, rock climbing, and kayaking.

With the arrival of spring and warm weather, Gray hopes for day trips and perhaps week-end trips for those interested in kayaking, canoeing, hiking, and bicycling.

Gray has experienced all of these in some form or another and hopes to get all programs running with the assistance of others. Kayaking is likely on its way as the club has reserved the pool every Wednesday night so that students can get a grasp on the sport.

“It’s getting off to a slow start,” Gray reports, “but there is a tremendous amount of interest and enthusiasm.”

The wrestling and outing clubs are two additions to other organizations formed by interested students and faculty. These clubs, along with the cross country club and the women’s tennis team, and the men’s volleyball team are representative of the initiative of Babson people to work together and, with limited facilities, become a successful group on campus.

New athletic programs for interested students

by POO DALTON

Over the past two years, members of the Babson community have been responsible for fostering several new athletic organizations on campus. They are not members of the athletic department; they are students and faculty members with special interests and talents who wish to share them with others.

Recently, Professor John Marthinson has recreated a wrestling club. The club was originally organized in 1974 by Marthinson, but was discontinued last year due to tc problems.

Marthinson wrestled in college and served as the assistant coach at UConn while he was doing graduate work. Wow, he would like to serve as the advisor of the wrestling club as he did two years ago. As the advisor, he wrestles with each of the members and helps them with their moves.
