Student Gov't Action May Shake Babson Monopoly System
by Frank Foster

The monopoly system at Babson College might be shaken due to a vote at Tuesday night's Student Government meeting.

The Student Government ratified a license to sell men's clothing to Kevin Barron and Hugh Glauner Tuesday night. With a vote of 23 to 3, the body agreed to work with the right of the Business Office to have the overruling decision on licenses approved.

Paul Ianosco introduced the recommendation to grant the license. "We believe that the clothing license should be conveyed to Hugh Glauner and Kevin Barron, both men who qualify and have an accessible inventory." They will be selling name brand clothing twice a year in limited lines and quantities. However, they also wish to sell T-shirts.

"The book store says that the license is invalid because it would be in direct conflict with their products. But the T-shirts in our way say 'Babson' on them."

As Ianosco continued his presentation, he explained, "We want to challenge the authority of the Bookstore. By approving this license the pressure will be relieved on us. The burden of proof will fall to the administration to prove their power.

"If the administration can give documented proof of their last and final approval, we will not challenge it any further."

Bob Johnson, President of Student Government, then added, "Bob would like to add that if the students incurred any cost it is their liability. In addition, if anyone makes a case, of any sort, in an effort to challenge the administration's power, they must go to an administrative board.

"The book store," Johnson explained, "is not covered under the jurisdiction of any student organization.

Craig Danese was then given the floor. "The whole process of approving licenses is a fifty-fifty proposition."

He then quoted the constitution, Article V, Section 4: "It shall be the duty of the Government in conciliation with the President of Babson College to approve and issue licenses to student solicitors as prescribed by the Laws of this constitution."

The President has delegated this authority to the Business Office.

Danese then continued in his own words, "No one really knows what the word 'conciliatory' means. There has never been a written set of guidelines. It might be interesting to force a test case and create a written guideline.

"This year the procedure for obtaining a license has evolved differently. In the past candidates have always gone to the business office and received Mr. Putney's approval before coming to Student Government. This year it has been reversed.

"Fred Ury was then added, "I don't think Student Government should be pulled into a test case. This license should have been brought to Mr. Putney first for approval as in the past. Why drag Government into something that we don't know what we're getting into.

"I feel," said Howard Simpson, "that the Bookstore should be considered on p. 6, col. 3"

A Black October

Nearly a month ago, when Golda Meir warned President Awan that this could be a 'Black October,' she couldn't have been more right. The implications of her statement went far beyond the borders of the Sinai Peninsula.

In a single month, when the Vice-President of the United States is forced to resign, the special prosecutor investigating the most explosive scandal in the history of the United States forced the Attorney General and Deputy Attorney General resign, a statement such as "Black October" couldn't have been more appropriate.

The most recent event, which happened on Wednesday, was when Judge John Sirica in the Watergate case against Nixon announced that two White House tapes were missing. The White House claimed that they were nonexistent. One tape included a conversation with John Dean, former counsel to the President. It was reported that John Dean tape was missing because the phone from which the conversation was made, didn't have records of it. The other involved a conversation with Mitchell, former Chairman of the Committee to Re-Elect the President, wasn't recorded, according to the White House, because the tape was destroyed.

Reaction to this across the country was incredible, but probably was best typified by Howard K. Smith, the most conservative national television reporter. Smith recommended during the closing part of his commentary that Nixon be impeached.

Even though reaction across the country was loud, the campuses remained quiet. This in contrast to 1968, when America was deeply committed to the Vietnam War. This period was full of student strikes and pressures in protest, whenever students are witnessing perhaps the most corrupt government in our history. Now, in this most vitally crucial, troublesome and dangerous of times, the campuses and students have remained quiet.

Perhaps they have learned something from those violent outbreaks; that striking accomplished little except to cause alienation and resentment towards them.

More peaceful avenues of protest are open to the students. Public demonstrations of what is perhaps the most potent weapon available to the public. This can be expressed by letters written to Represenatives and Senators. Also, students can form lobbyist groups to express common opinions.

We believe the prescription for a brighter November lies in the use of student voice to call its mandate to Washington, where it counts.

Letters to the Editor

To The Editor:

Babson students, faculty, administration and employees, in reference to our past weekend:

THANKS FOR COMING, ALL of you were great!

Sincerely,
Bob Johnson

To The Editor:

I am writing this letter to thank everyone that contributed their time and effort towards the success of an exciting event that has become a must each year. The weekend was a great success. Thanks to all.

Sincerely,
Bob Johnson

To The Editor:

It was interesting to see that you emphasized communication in your article on "Sociology." Communication is actually an exchange of ideas between people. This idea of exchange is apparently missing in your newspaper. In communication there are always some people who contribute more than others. There is a lack of equal contribution. In the same way, some people contribute more than others. There is a lack of equal contribution.

Sincerely,
John D. Foley

To The Editor:

There are a lot of people for their work who are members of the Chicago News Tribune, such as the Free Press, Circle B, and the Collegiate Club. Of course, there is no question that many fine works to the Babson community. Between the athletic teams, the drama or organizations and clubs, and the hard work of some individuals, a lot of hours are donated to the school each year.

If I say to a word to those who aren't involved in some out-of-class activity get involved! The books are important, but there is so much more one can and should do. Don't waste their own time, there's a lot to be gained for just a little extra effort, help others who will be able to move Babson to another level of excellence. Help others who will be able to move Babson to another level of excellence.

Sincerely,
John D. Foley

Taking Aim: Youth Fair: Was it Worth The Work

Youth Fair was last Saturday. After months of analysis and planning for procedures, schedules and projects, one final question must be asked: Was it worth all the work?

A Youth Fair Against Masculist Dysphoria wasn't born overnight, and didn't occur by accident. Bob Johnson, Babson's student government president, took the lead. Under close scrutiny by the Fair's dedicated volunteers. However, the goals of the Youth Fair never changed. First, it was to bring the Babson community together. Second, it would inform the citizens of neighboring towns that Babson was another college to be visited. Finally, and importantly, it was an opportunity to aid in the fight of a dreaded disease.

The crowd at the Fair was small, but participative. Everyone, even those volunteering to be the target of chipped-up Frisbee pies, enjoyed themselves. At 4:00, when the Fair was over, all departed with that very special feeling of accomplishment which no one can forget when one has donated time and energy for charitable cause.

Unfortunately, when Saturday was assessed, the efforts far surpassed its accomplishments. Considering the number of people that remained on campus for the more than 12 hours that the Fair was poor. Advance publicity for the Fair was extensive, yet the majority of the Babson students, as well as the number of people from surrounding communities was disappointing. They knew there was a Youth Fair at Babson, and they knew where to go, but how to get to the Fair was another matter. When the receipts were counted, and expenses deducted, $350 was left. That's less than $350 more than before the Fair but far below its goal of $600.

These were the failures of Youth Day. But they are not the failures of the Fair's volunteers. Probably before the Babson campus can be condemned for the lack of understanding by students, those of the students who chose to ignore the Fair, and their fellow students' hard labor.

In spite of these failures, the question of whether the Fair was worth all the work that went into planning it takes a back seat. Bob Johnson answered the question and expressed the sentiments of the Youth Fair workers best when he said Sunday morning, "It was worth it, even if it should start today."

There are more noble goals than to try to make nothing out of people religious beliefs. I hope this letter in some way helps to clear up the article that appeared in the paper. And I hope the honest students of Babson take an honest look at Sociology and its teachings.

I do have my doubts however, that David Marks will per- form this communication in the paper, but maybe he'll show me that I'm wrong.

Sincerely,
Jeff Friedman

Many students attending Babson College this semester are wondering why the new Student Union building has been built. After much controversy and debate, it is finally almost finished. But why was it constructed in the first place, and what were some of the reasons for its existence?

The plan for the building was designed in 1968. Three locations were considered. One idea was to put the building between Wellesley Avenue and Forest Street. A second idea was to put the building between Wellesley Avenue and Babson Park Avenue. A third location, which was the final choice, was the site of the current Student Union building.

A third idea for the road, which is in use at the present, is between Babson Park Avenue and Babson Park Avenue. This place was deter- mined necessary for traffic con- venience, and it is a good location there, would create attractiveness to the street and to the student body.

A second location was planned to the southeast of Forest Hall. This was a better choice for a direct approach to the campus, Con- struction would have been hampered by the terrain surrounding Forest Hall.

A third idea for the road, which is in use at the present, is between Babson Park Avenue and Babson Park Avenue. This place was deter- mined necessary for traffic con- venience, and it is a good location there, would create attractiveness to the street and to the student body.

The new campus road is approxi- mately 100 feet long and 40 feet wide, with walking space on either side. There will be a central booth for security and information. The new entrance at Forest Street. From this booth all can be easily recognizable for security rea- sons.

Mr. Putney stated, "Security is an important part of the campus road's existence." By elimi- nating access on campus to all students, and by placing a fee for the rate of thefts might be reduced.

A safer ride through the cam- pus will also be made possible by the new road. There will be no more traffic jams, and near the front of Park Manor Central.

Blood Drive Turnout Breaks April Record

by Matt Bank

New turn out record was set last Thursday at the Babylon Christian Fellowship-sponsored Babylon Blood Drive. The previous record, set last April at the first semi-annual blood drive, was 194 people. Last week, 202 people came out to Koligh Auditorium to give blood.

The week prior, there was a goal of at least 125 pints of blood, in order that this year's Babylon Blood Drive quota of 350 pints be filled. The blood bank now provides free Red Cross blood drives to cover every member of the Babylon community, regardless of whether they gave blood this year or not, along with their "blood families" (parents, siblings under age 18, spouse, great-grandparents).

Twelve people requested that their blood be sent to victims of the Middle East conflict. At this time, so official requests for blood and blood products have been received from any of the Middle East countries. These blood donations, therefore, will be used to meet local transfusion needs. However, Red Cross officials make it clear that every effort will be made to meet the need and all requests for American Red Cross blood will continue to be made if and when they are made.

The members of the Babylon Christian Fellowship would like to extend their warmest thanks to all the people who helped make this blood drive a success, especially those who participated in the campaign and those who worked at the blood drive as volunteers for the Red Cross.

Special thanks go to the resident students of Publishers dorm and their dorm representative, Rick Ciceroni. Of the 32 student members, 29 signed up to give blood, giving that dorm the highest percentage of donors signed up of all the dorms. Of the three students in Pub who didn't sign up to give blood, Ciceroni told BCF Blood Drive chairman, Clarence Wagner, "One of them will be his religion, and two were chicken."

The Babylon Christian Fellowship sent notices to all the facility members two days before the blood drive, requesting them to announce the blood drive to all their classes. A special thanks go to Dr. John Aloud and those few professors who did comply with this request. Their support was greatly appreciated.

In order for a blood bank to be established, a number of pints of blood totalling 20% of the total membership of a college, business, institution, etc. must be collected from the members of the organization during a period of one year. Babylon's quota, therefore, was in the proximity of 325.

In order for everyone to share this quota equally, the student body had to donate 250 pints of blood, and the remaining 75 had to be contributed by the members of faculty, administration, and staff.

The Babylon Blood Bank quota was surpassed by 15 pints of blood, and the final tally for the year showed that students had donated 360 pints of blood, 10 over their portion of the quota and faculty, administration, and staff members donated a total of only 40 pints of blood, 23 less than their quota.

All members of the faculty, administration, staff, and students who did not give blood and are now covered by the Babylon Blood Bank should remember to thank a student!

Film Fest

Dec. 4

The Babylon Film Society is presently seeking entries for its Second Annual Film Winter Festival to be held Dec. 4, 1973. Cash prizes are granted toward winners. Prizes include the Grand Prize, First and Second runners up, and Best Dramatic Performance. Other awards may be announced later. Judges are chosen from the faculty, administration and student body.

The Film Society sponsors Winter and Spring Film Festivals as a showcase for student films. In past Festivals, Grand Prize winners have been made by first time entrants on two of three occasions. Past winners are Jeff LaPlace for In Search of Inspiration, Bob Rudder for The Look of Love, Marshall Drscan for WOW.

David Kestler, mentor of the Film Society, notes a distinct trend in the quality of the films entered in the three-year history of the festival. "I think that the overall quality of films entered has improved tremendously since the first festival, in terms of subject, technique, and concept. This year more than a dozen films, over three hours of viewing, may be entered, but we are still seeking previously untaxed sources for our winter festival representation possibility."

For information concerning rules and information for entering the film, contact the Babylon Film Society, Student Mail Box 445 or Mr. David Kestler (Extension 340).

Circle K Activity

Circle K has begun another active year on the Babylon campus by running the food concession, one of the most successful booths at the Fall Festival last Saturday. Their next project, which will soon be underway, Watch for details.

Circle K, which is sponsored by the Wellesley Kiwanis Club, offers students an opportunity to meet business leaders of the Wellesley community each week by attending the Kiwanis luncheon at the Wellesley Inn. This service organization encourages students to take part in service projects for the benefit of the campus, community and the individual member. We invite you to join us in our activities this year.

If you are interested in joining Circle K, or in attending a Kiwanis luncheon, contact Steve Walley, box 1159, or contact your weekly activities calendar.

Construction on the road started July 1, 1973, and was supposed to be finished by Sept. 1, 1973. Delays have plagued the building of the road. One delay was that there were pipes broken when the road was first excavated. Secondly, the weather was not the greatest during the summer. Thirdly, the curbing for the road which was ordered has not been delivered. Of course, the construction on the road is coming along as scheduled.

Another important aspect the road deals with is the drainage problem. An improve drainage system has been installed beneath the length of the road. The cost of the new road is in the area of $317,000, which was the lowest of three bids by contractors.

This writer feels that the road will make the campus look very attractive. Babylon is responding to the people's needs. The new campus road should generate positive enthusiasm for more production.

COME TO THE FAIR - BABSON

by Dave Marcus

You had to admit, it was a busy weekend.

Babson students were treated to a pre-Halloween flurry of social activity last Saturday and Sunday, which none saw as a renewal of the Fall Weekend.

The activity started Friday night, with a concert by the Ramsey Lewis Trio, sponsored, as was most everything else, by Student Government's Social Committee; this time with the co-sponsorship of the Black Society and the Babson Forum.

Jack Tilton, Student Government's Social Committee, estimated attendance at 300-400 who were, he said, pleased with the show.

Approximately 30 student volunteers arose early Saturday morning to help with Babson's First Annual Youth Fair Against Muscular Dystrophy. Bob Johnson, President of Student Government, was smiling broadly as he sat with the volunteers in the dining hall, which food manager Dick Metzer had opened early for them. "This is going to be great," Johnson kept saying, and you had to believe him. For Johnson, coming this far was a victory - this fair was one of his major campaign promises during the last election.

The fair, which was physically set up by Fun Services, Inc., had two rows of four gaily-painted booths in the Auditorium parking lot, with a concession and ticket stand at one end. At the other end was a booth which remained empty all morning. However, Johnson said, it was this booth the pie-throwing event, which generated the most revenue in the least time.

The fun was sponsored by Theta Chi Fraternity, who invited over half a dozen professors to stand in the booth and have whipped cream pies thrown at them by students. Selection of the professors was initially made by the student body, who filled out questionnaires asking for their choice.

CIRCLE K concessionaires were busy all day feeding the crowd.

HE WAS KIND OF FUNNY LOOKING, even for a clown, but he seemed to please everybody.
ON ENJOYS A BIG WEEKEND

Faculty members: Drinkwater, Cochrane, Dailey, Horsley and Dean Shaw, were the picks for targets, as well as Lance Winchester, co-owner of the Dry Dock and Dave Marks, Editor-in-Chief of the FREE PRESS.

"I was really happy with the turnout from the Babson community," Johnson said later. "All the effort at all of us put into this thing was worth it." "All of us" were 150 students who, he said, were involved in the fair from the planning stage to its presentation Saturday.

At estimated 700 screaming fans watched the Babson soccer team whip Bryant College, 4-0, at the soccer field Saturday afternoon.

Their enthusiasm spilled over to Babson's Halloween mixer at Night Auditorium that night as "Fanny" played in a crowded house, estimated by Tilton at 1000.

"I've never been to a more crowded mixer," said one co-ed, "but the band was really good."

The largest and raucous crowd made the battle against muscular dystrophy $40 richer as a result of Sunday's interscholastic football game, in which Delta Sigma Pi played Alpha Kappa Psi.

The football game was the last in the series of scheduled events that, Johnson says, will bring the foundation which fights muscular dystrophy closer to $500.

That brought praise to all the volunteers who worked over the weekend, but fatigue, too. "It still hurts right here," said one volunteer who had stood all Saturday at the fair, pointing to the back of his thighs. But you could hardly blame him, because after all, it had been a busy weekend.

THE LARGEST CROWDS gathered to throw pies at their favorite (?) teachers.

THE MOONWALK turned out to be one of the more popular fair activities.

loved to present its own case, especially if the license reads "non-conflicting T-shirts!"

The new student member of the Bookstore Advisory Committee was then given the last word from the floor. He said, "If this license were allowed then there would be no need for the licensing system. There would be no monopolies."

The license was then voted upon as recommended unanimously by the licensing committee. Products included in the approved license were ample shirts, slacks, belts, winter coats, and T-shirts not bearing the name of Babson in any way shape or form.

"According to the Student Government constitution," commented Mr. Patney, Vice President in charge of Financial Affairs, "it is rather clear as to the procedure I should take. "Based upon the circumstances surrounding this affair," the Vice President and Treasurer of Babson College explained, "I will review my decision concerning the granting of this license with the Bookstore Advisory Committee. But, as of this date, I will be notifying Hug Glasser and Kevin Barron that they do not possess valid licenses.

"The license is not a valid document, it has not been approved by the Business office."

When asked about communication between the Licensing Committee and the Business Office, Patney responded: "We do have problems, I think it is always helpful for both of us to grasp these problems together before there has to be a "hot heads" and a lot of time consumed.

I would hope that if future issues come up that chairmen and representatives come to the Business office and let us be of assistance."

Another problem, Patney said, "is that apparently Paul hasn't been fit, or he hasn't known any better, to send license candidates to my office to get their applications approved."

"In past years it has worked. We used this procedure for three main reasons. First, we didn't want just any type of competition with the bookstore. The second reason is that some items are not consistent with what the college dorm must be guarded against. Finally, some items, such as pornography, aren't in the best interest of a college campus.

Patney continued, "The ultimate decision has to be made somehow. That place is the Business Office."

"Historically, the Bookstore has sold certain items. We think they should continue to sell these items in order to keep up their service."

"As I said before, if any one feels that the bookstore should carry an item that it does not already, then tell us. This is a part of the service of the Bookstore - to serve the students as best as possible."

"What made this system evolve," summed Patney, "is the right of the Bookstore to be a monopoly. It is in line with the current philosophy on campus, and at this stage we won't see any reason to change it."
Babson Soccer Team Whips Bryant, St. Anselm’s, Extending Unbeaten String to 12

by Dave Roberts

This past week Babson’s soccer team extended its undefeated string to 12, as they defeated Bryant College 4-0 on Sat. and St. Anselm’s College 1-0 on Tues. Bryant goalie Denis Donahue recorded his eighth and ninth shutouts, with excellent help from his defensemen.

Saturday’s game against Bryant was set in the midst of the busy weekend activities on campus. There was a large crowd on hand to see the Beavers win their eleventh straight game.

Both teams came out very strong in the opening minutes of the game, and play was even until Bryant was called on a trip-ping penalty at the five minute mark. Dale Hollingsworth took the penalty kick, but hit the post. The Indians wanted no time in clearing the ball out of their zone.

In the middle of the period Jon Anderson found a hole in the Bryant defense. Dribbling down the right side, he took a hard shot at the goal. Indian goalie John Feesley bobbled the ball and Mark Barry was there to put it in for the first Babson goal. It came at 22:30 into the half with Anderson getting the assist.

Babson kept constant pressure on the Bryant goalie, although not dominating the game, until Mark Barry received a pass from midfield. He dribbled down, took a hard shot and beat the goalie to the lower-right corner. The goal came at 27:30.

Five minutes later, the Beavers scored again on a corner kick by Bobby Hartley. In a goal mouth scramble, a Bryant fullback put the ball in for the third Beaver goal in ten minutes.

Bryant fought back, breaking up play and blasting the ball as far as the half until the first half ended.

In the second half, both teams were evenly matched. Babson came out strong as is their fashion - but Bryant equalled the Beavers’ aggressiveness.

Babson came up with their best play of the game at 18:45 into the half. Dale Hollingsworth threw in to Mark Barry, who deftly passed to Bob Hartley. Hartley took down the left side, put a beautiful shot by goalie Feesley and in for the fourth goal. Barry got the assist.

Babson continued to dominate, with many close plays throughout the half. With ten minutes left in the game Coach Bob Hartwell substituted Fredy. The game ended with the final score 4-0.

Overall, the Beavers had 21 shots on goal, while Bryant had only 8. Denis Donahue played a good game saving seven, and John Feesley turned in a fine performance making ten saves.

Coach Hartwell selected Mark Barry and Bob Hartley as MVP’s.

J.V. Soccer Finishes Undefeated

by Rich Stillman

Winning the last two games of the campaign, the Babson Jun- ior Varsity soccer team finished with an undefeated, 2-0-1, record. They defeated Harvard and Wor- cester Academy.

The game at Harvard, against a tough team from Dedham, was won 2-1 with Steve Balicki and Bruce Brown each contributing a goal. Brown was also credited with an assist.

Goalies Dennis Donahue and halftine Steve O'Malley were named 'Tigers' of the game and Brown and Balicki, MVP's.

In the last game of the season, the J.V.'s went to Worcester and defeated Worcester Academy also by a 2-1 margin.

Interraternity Football: David vs. Gollath?

by Diane Caggiano

Did you enjoy watching the mouse that roared, last seasons Pairol-Dolphins game, or reading about David and Gollath? If you did, then plan to place this weekend's football match-up be- tween Theta Chi, coached by Randy Folsom, and awesome Delta Sig high on your list of essential weekend activities.

Theta Chi won one football contest over the past five years, taking AKPI two weeks ago, 16-14. AKPI lost its second game to Delta Sig by the narrow margin of 59-0. Delta Sig has not lost a game in 19 years. This team of dreamers will take place Sunday at 12 O'clock at the Ski Market Field in Wellesley. Don't miss it, seriously, because it should be a classic.

Going for David (Theta Chi) will be Ed Simonson, Jack Tilson, Glen Finkelstein, George Kory, John Zauchcn, Dan Missal, Mark Spooner, and David Hermitt. For Gollath (Delta Sig), Dick Steiner, and Jim Peters will be co-captains, along with Bob Taylor, Tom Petos, Joe Ritzl, Randy Bernstein, Arl Sette, Ray Burns, Mark Zonicky, Kevin McDonough, Bruce Anderson, and Jim Vagundish.

So be sure to get in on the action!
