Winter Weekend Deficit and Sale of Refrigerator Business Head Gov't.

By Dave Marks

Student Government granted two licences and discussed the Winter Weekend deficit at their meeting, Tuesday night.

Dave Stokes and Mrs. Abrams, who went to Mr. Putney to talk about the possibility of borrowing $2000 from next year's Student Fees to help pay off this year's Winter Weekend deficit, said that Mr. Putney was "unsure" of anything along this line.

Chris Hennessey, Government's treasurer, reported that the total loss from Winter Weekend was $4401. Hennessey said that it might be possible to borrow money from the Government's emergency fund, which has $19,926 in it. The money in this fund is intended for such emergencies.

Also, Hennessey reported, Student Government might get some money back from some of the organizations to which Student Government allocated mony.

Dick Chelestowski said that Government would send another letter to all organizations to which Government allocated money to request a detailed explanation of how the funds were spent last term, and how they are to be spent this term. This is the second of such requests, he said.

Dave Stokes, from the licensing committee, reported that the refrigerator business has been sold. It was sold for $2,200.

He said that there will be a $300 loss on the business (it was bought at $3000). However, if at least 1/4 of the accounts receivable are collected, Government will just about break even.

Stokes, reporting for Ted Van Steele, who was absent, said that as of Monday, about $500 of the accounts receivable have been collected.

The licensing committee reported that Allen Kronstadt, a freshman bought the business. Although there were three other applicants, the committee felt that Kronstadt was the most qualified.

Kronstadt will continue to abide by Mr. Putney's regulations with the business. These regulations are: 1) each refrigerator can not be more than 17 inches tall; 2) the lottery system will be used to select which students are to be given refrigerators.

The number of refrigerators allowed on campus has been increased from 80 to 100. Kronstadt will offer different sizes of refrigerators, but he hopes to bill the students on the semester basis.

The second business approved was the sale of the sandwich business to Don Shapiro. The business was sold for $110. The licensing committee said that Shapiro will run the business on a more regular schedule than in the past.

Chris DiMarco asked Government if Dean Carpenter's Policy affect Government on Monday, Wed., Fri. or 12 to 18, Government answered no.

Dick Chelestowski mentioned that a junior-off campus representative is needed. If anyone is interested in being the on-campus rep., they should contact Student Government.

Chris DiMarco reported that he talked to Mr. Sullivan and Alan Reed about some possibilities for a more efficient way to remove snow from the Max Security lot. Both Sullivan and Reed are open for suggestions. If you have any, please contact either one of the two men.

There were seven representatives absent from this week's meeting. They were Charles Wing, Jeff Frank, William Stulberg, Bill Robbins, Ladd Valenza, Mark Glick and A.C. Hendry.

Student Government discussed Matt Bank's request for a license to sell survival kits to students' parents to send to the students during exams. The survival kit included an assortment of food, plus a good luck charm and a surprise.

If you think that conditions will improve next year, don't. They probably won't, Mr. Moran, assistant superintendent of buildings and grounds felt that the snow removal operation was excellent.

All students who were questioned on how they felt about the operation were very nasty to Buildings and Grounds.

The college has over $25 thousand worth of equipment which it used to remove the snow from the roads and sidewalks. They were a front-end loader, one International 3 ton dump truck and two four wheel drive pick-ups with plows. For the sidewalks, the college had two snow blowers.

The staff of Buildings and Grounds consists of 17 full-time men and during the recent snowstorms, they called in 10 high school students to help in controlling the snow. Mr. Moran stated that as of now, he had not seen one Babson student asking for a job.

If you have noticed that the roads now look like your favorite beach it is because the college has dropped 45 tons of sand so far this year. And if your car has a few holes in it it might be because the college has dropped over 25 tons of salt.

Mr. Moran stated that all of us who have cars on campus know, that there is a problem in the maxi lot, Mr. Moran stated that buildings and grounds had no control over how the lot was built and that the problem of poor drainage was not of their making. The problem stems from the gutters on the high side of the lot not being slanted to the sides to allow the water to run off. The problem, he stated is a problem that we have to fight all the time now*. He stated that the front end loader and a pick-up were working to clear the lot of ice from 7:30 a.m. to 11 p.m. on Sunday.

Mr. Moran said that the only thing he can use improving is in the handling of the maxi lot. He stated that a good idea would have been

Babson Snow Removal Draws Criticism

By Candler Brooks

The recent snowstorms in the past week played havoc on the Babson campus. Students were slipping all over the place and many spent the daily helping other students move their cars when they couldn't get traction on the snowy and icy roads.

If you think that conditions will improve next year, don't. They probably won't, Mr. Moran, assistant superintendent of buildings and grounds felt that the snow removal operation was excellent.

More Cords on The Way

Within the next couple of weeks the admissions office will begin sending out those much awaited "Congratulations! You are accepted to Babson College" or "We're sorry to inform you..." letters home to prospective freshman and transfer students.

Although the exact figure of incoming co-eds has not been finalized yet, indications are that there will be more female faces on the campus this fall. The Admissions Office, headed by Frank Winch, received thirty-four applications for freshmen and eighteen for transferring girls. Of these, ten and three, respectively, have been accepted. This is only the start of the selection process. More may be accepted later.

Gradually the co-eds are taking over Park Manor South. Next semester, in addition to complete occupation of the second floor, the apartment complex will likewise be filled. But Mr. Winch foresees a time in the near future when a section in Keith or Canfield inhabited by fifteen female students.

On the topic of actively recruiting women to come to Babson Winch mentioned that in ad-
Presidential Contenders Should Not Forget Their Present Jobs

One of the main problems legislators experience during an election is the pressure of maintaining present jobs by practicing electoral politics in the Senate. Just last week Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield had to send telegrams to the Democratic presidential contenders to remind the Senate to vote on the funding proposals.

In the political arena an employee ignores his present job while looking for a new one.

Richard Minkie is a senator from the state of Maine. He is also the leader of the Democratic Senate majority. Minkie is uncomfortable. It is unfortunate that Mr. Minkie is ignoring his elected position in favor of trying to become President of the United States. If Mr. Minkie were working for a corporation he would be unemployed on the basis of his attendance record.

To ask the Senate voted on five different proposals. Minkie voted on one of these proposals. He voted to close discussion on the Equal Employment Opportunity Enforcement Bill. He did not vote on the bill itself. The remaining proposals which Mr. Minkie did not vote on concerned the use of Federal Funds to the professor will be in a later issue.

Minkie is not only the guilty politician. Senator McGovern, Mayor Lindsay and Mayor Forty have all ignored their present political positions in their bid for the nomination. Politicians have been elected by the people to look after the people's best interests rather than their own or the lever. Do you know his voting record during the last few months? Has he been trying to ignore his duties as well as running for the Democratic nomination? These are important questions. They must be answered.

For Lack Of A Better Suggestion

By Jack Madson

During the Great Strike of 1970, a poem appeared in what was then called "The Bahon Liberated Goose Pimples," or something similar. The attempt to diffuse Bahon College, I can recall the poem's title or its author, but, basically, it postulated that Bahon is "... farcical and anti-social. Well, time changes and time changes people and situations, maybe or may not."

I've been here for almost four years, I've seen kids, talked along with kids, even been kids myself. I am in favor of the Bahon College, I believe in the composition on what Bahon is, its meaning, its own stated position that the evidence of this statement is not denied the value of the seminar as a requirement for all freshmen. I don't take any professional or social editor on the subject, and as a personal recommendation, I would like to say that I am very much to the faculty. I would like to recommend that the motion before the Academic Affairs Committee to retain the Freshman Seminar on some basis be set aside for the present on the grounds that it is an integral part of a judgment of that kind. There are at least two reasons for this recommendation:

1) It is only within the past year that I've had the thinking that those who teach the Seminar has achieved something like a creative feat. I mean, is there any doubt of being to all freshmen, that purpose is now on the cutting edge of the Freshman Seminar. One more semester, or perhaps two, would amount to doing and provide a much sounder base for judging how the direction and scope of the program ought to be in the future. The very nature of a Seminar is to let each student itself elucidate that our conclusion should be seen by the students in their own minds and--I am very committed to the Seminar-- I do not feel as though I know enough about its value to make an expert judgment. I do not feel as though a judgment contained within this motion.

2) A second reason for considering this motion to be premature is that we have had no meaningful discussion on the absence of an alternative to the seminar. I am not a mindful, I believe, of the original premise of the seminar program, which was to give freshmen with such things as self-perception or group dynamics or the like with freshmen as first-year college people, two and three years ago when students were needed to provide people in their first-year college years with a different educational experience. Most of us agreed, I seem to recall, that this program did not continue on page 2.

The people from Scientology want you to join them.

They are coming to Bahon today to discuss the wonders of their 'religion', and to convince as many Bahon students as they can that in need of the special help Scientology can offer.

So what is Scientology?

Here is its definition, from AUDITOR, the journal of Scientology:

"SCIENTOLOGY: A non-deterministic applied religious philosophy, which contains a remarkable system of effective techniques for increasing human ability and awareness. Through the application of these techniques there are demonstrated changes in the conditions of man. (Taken from the Latin word 'SICOLOGIA' in modern sense of the word, and the Greek word 'LOGOS' to study.)"

Get that? You're either in or you're out. The auditor also includes an article by Scientology's founder, L. Ron Hubbard, on "Is it Possible to be Happy?" The answer? Surely, if you subscribe to the principles of Scientology, as you will discover when you subscribe to the key word, Scientology charges for their books, for their courses, and for each level of training that you undertake. The cost, as a Bahon student relations man, is "to be monumental, depending on which route you take." There is no sure route out, but a beginning is the only way you have charted your search for help will cost you. Scientology also promises you that "Eye glasses, nervous twitches, headaches, are all caused by a certain lack" that you can and will be able to find. They are not always certain of whether or not the money will be worthwhile, but they are certain that they will cost you. They are certain that they will cost you.

Opinion:

Freshman Seminar Should be Required

by Margaret Marr

Five hundred students have taken Freshman Seminar. Yet it is still true that the evaluative course of the student available or planned, or the faculty, or any student complaints against a course are ignored. And if the Faculty has no right to experiment with the curriculum then the new Freshman Seminar Program should be preserved. Without change and experimental Bahon would be an Institute specializing in 6-month business programs.

We agree that Freshman Seminar has had problems. Students and teachers have needed the lack of traditional structure difficult. And without exams or finals grading was difficult.

500 semester hours have been spent by students in the Freshman Seminar. All students have taken the course and the course should be surveyed to determine the effectiveness of it. If Freshman Seminar has helped people to know themselves and understand what education is all about, it should count as time as a required course.

Freshman Seminar may be a future course. How far it is necessary to the evidence.

The Faculty has the right to reject the Academic Affairs Committee's recommendation to make Freshman Seminar an elective.

Swim Team Ends Season By Defeating Brandeis, 65-48

By Mike Halloran

Babson’s swim team ended their season Tuesday afternoon with a victory over Babson College University, 65-48.

The Beavers finished the year at home in the best of the season’s history.

Defeat to Tuesday’s win for the Beavers won nine out of 13 events. Winners for Babson were Jeff Calvert, 200- and 500-yard freestyles, 1000-yard freestyle, Craig St. Amour, 100- and 400-yard medley relays, and Steve Rice, 100-yard breaststroke and the 400-yard medley relay team of Jeff Calvert and Steve Rice, Pete Herlihy, and John Kelley.

The Friday afternoon, Colby College, Seton Hall University record in the 400-yard freestyle relay, the meet’s last event, to edge the hosts, 56-55.

The meet was quite disappoint- ed with an earlier call by the officials to the meet which the event Babson the victory.

We got robbed in the diving event and did, Gary Trofman was called for a false dive, he was one and a half seconds behind. A broken dive would have given us points. Because Trofman’s dive did not count, Colby was able to capture the top spots and win important points. That was the margin of victory."

In the 400-yard freestyle relay, Babson’s team of Warren Waugh, Steve Rice, Castle, and St. Amour chased three seconds off the school record, but it was still not enough as Colby swam the distance in a time of 3:38.1, five seconds better than the Babson record.

Other Babson winners were St. Amour, 200- and 500-yard freestyle, Waugh, 50- and 100-yard freestyle, Castle, 200-yard breaststroke, Geoff Eisen, 100-yard butterfly, and Trofman - one meter optional dive, and the 400-yard medley relay team of the St. Amour, Pete Herlihy, and John Kelley.

Coach Hartwell had high praise for Kellett and Castle who turned in excellent performances in their respective relay events.

On Saturday, Babson defeated the Kingston Swim Club (UK) by the score of 71-59.

Kellett, Castle, and Waugh set new school and pool records in the 400-yard medley relay, while Castle broke the existing 200-yard breaststroke record of 2:27.2 with a time of 2:19.8.

Babson Upsets New Haven 96-90

By Mike Halloran

Babson saved their best for last, Saturday night’s upset which saw Babson favored University of New Haven, 96-90.

A small crowd watched as the Beavers maintained the end through the game to victory in the season’s finale for both squads.

Junior guards Tim Vincent and Jack Tesitma accounted for 40 of Babson’s points, Vincent scored 24, while Tesitma scored 16.

Sophomore Steve Woodman, who turned in a strong performance in the second half of the season, scored 15 points. Bond Anderson and Pete Hanon chipped in with 12 apiece.

It was one of Babson’s better games of the year as they controlled the ballgame from the opening buzzer. They committed few turnovers and held their counterparts working well due to some good rebounding in the forward line, led by Hansen with 12 rebounds.

On the previous evening, a tough one, Babson struggled with conference rival, Bryant College, coming out on the short end of a 72-67 contest.

The backcourt tandem of Vincent and Tesitma carried the bulk of the Babson attack again as they combined for 39 points, scoring 22 and 17 respectively.

Babson was in the ballgame for most of the game, for a disastrous six minute stretch in the final half.

After trailing by one at the half, 40-39, Babson forged ahead with 12 minutes and 34 seconds left to play, 51-51. The Beavers suddenly went ice-cold in the shooting department, Bryant proceeded to run off 20 points to Babson’s five giving them a 71-57 lead and putting the game out of reach.

The loss dropped Babson’swi

Hockey

Loses 11-6

The University of New Haven defeated Babson, 11-6, in the season’s finale for both squads.

A last minute defensive play by the Beavers in the third period enabled New Haven to put the game out of reach after maintaining a slim one goal margin after two periods of play.

The first two periods were pretty, with both teams having numerous opportunities to score, especially in the second period when the Beavers had a power-play advantage and fired a continued barrage at New Haven’s goalie, Steve Herlihy, who thwarted one attempt after another, until Jim Bravin lipped in a shot by Ed Kirwan.

Scoring for Babson in last night’s contest were two with two, Joe Mahoney, Jack Eyre, and Ed Kirwan. Mahoney also picked up two assists for the night.

Earlier in the week Babson lost to U Conn, 3-2, and to Tech, 5-1. Mahoney and Atwater scored in the UConn game, while Kirwan tallied for the Beavers in the Tech game.

Babson ended their season with a record of 8-11-1.

Ski Team

By Mike Halloran

Freshman Roger White and sophomore Rusty Hanoushe led the Babson ski team to a first place finish in the weekend’s meet at Berkshire East in western Massachusetts.

White, who was eliminated from the Shalom event on Saturday, came back on Sunday’s Giant Slalom to capture first place.

Newhouse placed third in the Shalom and finished a strong fourth in the Giant Slalom. Captain Jim Looney placed sixth in and Joe Aberle captured seventh in the Division B.

Babson is now in second place behind Woodstock College in the New England Intercollegiate Ski Association Thompson Division and has one meet left in which to try to take over first, the final league meet of the year will be at Suicide Six in Woodstock, Vermont, this weekend and is being sponsored by Babson.

The championship meet will be held the following weekend with the top three teams in the Division participating. The Babson look like a sure bet at taking one of the three chosen teams.
