In complete darkness we are all the same. It is only our knowledge and wisdom that separates us. Don't let your eye deceive you.

Janet Jackson
All I really need to know I learned in kindergarten.

All I really need to know about how to live and what to do and how to be I learned in kindergarten. Wisdom was not at the top of the graduate-school mountain, but in the sandpile at Sunday School. These are the things I learned:

Share everything.

Play fair. Don't hit people. Put things back where you found them.

Clean up your own mess.
Don't take things that aren't yours. Say you're sorry when you hurt someone. Wash your hands before you eat. Flush. Warm cookies and cold milk are good for you. Live a balanced life — learn some and think some and draw and paint and sing and dance and play and work every day some. Take a nap every afternoon. When you go out into the real world watch out for traffic, hold hands, and stick together.
Be aware of wonder. Remember the little seed in the Styrofoam cup: The roots go down and the plant goes up and nobody really knows how and why, but we are all like that. Goldfish and hamsters and white mice and even the little seed in the styrofoam cup — they all die. So do we. And then remember the Dick-and-Jane books and the first words you learned — the biggest word of all — LOOK.
Everything you need to know is in there somewhere. The Golden Rule and love and basic sanitation. Ecology and politics and equality and sane living. Take any one of those items and extrapolate it into sophisticated adult terms and apply it to your family life or your work or your government or your world and it holds true and clear and firm.
Think what a better world it would be if we all — the whole world — had cookies and milk about three o'clock every afternoon and then lay down with our blankets for a nap. Or if all governments had as a basic policy to always put things back where they found them and to clean up their own mess. And it is still true, no matter how old you are — when you go out into the world, it is best to hold hands and stick together.

Longtime roommates Pam O'Boyle and Kathy Paton share a hug at the Pietz-McCullough cookout.

How was your spring break?

Nick, get your plate, you can study later!

Another birthday bash at Babson.
The gang at spring weekend.

They could sure "pump you up!"

Karen Saba and Lisa Gonella reminisce at the cookout.

They pay someone to sit here?!
No classes

Picture a typical scenario. You're late when they call out your lottery number because the Accounting Office claims you owe them money. When you get past them, you have to wait until the people with numbers after you finish picking their classes. So finally, you're at the front of the line and you hear, "Next!" O.K. you're all set, right? WRONG! You are just advised that the class you need for your major has closed right at that moment. So you want a sleeper but the people behind the computer say it's not an option anymore. So you'll force add. CAN'T do that either! You know the rest. Maybe one day, everything will go smoothly!

What do you mean the class is closed, it doesn't say so on the board! ... Mrs. Turner, Speech is closed! ... is there anyone with a lottery number before 100! ... Quick, put me in that class before it closes! ... What's the deal with the Monday/Friday 7:45 classes?

Do these smiles look fake?...
Don't blame it on me!
Please, please, please!

Ha, ha, I only have to take 3 courses next semester.

Anna, stressed much?
The night started out with pizzas, kegs, ice cream, BBQ Tator chips, doughnuts and milk; but it was a general consensus that everyone left with a lot of bargains. Thanks are in order to the senior auction committee, for convincing people to donate. John, J.R., Joe, and Zaz kept things rolling, with Marlene, Stephanie, Ricky, Skinna, and Lisa working hard behind the scenes. We also saw Prof. Mandel and Prof. Lee blending into the crowd. This year's sought after items: a baseball signed by Roger Clemens, a dinner at President's Glavin's house, yearbook pages, sailing trips, a jello wrestling party, and a night out at the Copley... "What's the item up for bid now?"... "Do I hear $650?! for a yearbook page?"... "It's 10pm, yep, the keg's dry!"... "Swimming after the auction anyone?"
Awards Banquet
Senior Ball

I remember that day I missed the school bus
Dad drove me to school without a fuss

"You know Maria, you should try to be on time."
"But I hate school, Dad," I used to whine

I gave trouble to every single teacher
They thought I was an awful, little creature

Coming in late, not paying attention
It was a good thing there was no detention

"I really liked school when I was your age."
The same thing Dad tells me when we're at this stage

"How many more years of school will there be?"
"Before I am finished and finally free?"

"Well let me see, you're in the fifth grade,"
"You have middle school, high school, and college, I'm afraid."

"How yucky," I thought and groaned and complained
The look on his face told me to refrain

He said with a smile, "Well here we are.
I grabbed all my books and jumped from the car

Eleven years later, it's hard to believe
I should feel happy and somewhat relieved

It all passed so quickly, it's been a blast
And now my real life will start at last
CHEERS!

Make'n your way in the world today takes everything you've got Take'n a break from all your worries sure would help a lot
Wouldn't you like to get away

All those nights when you've got no lights, the check is in the mail, and your little angel hung the cat up by its tail, and your third fiancée didn't show

Sometimes you want to go where everybody knows your name, and they're always glad you came
You want to be where you can see troubles are all the same

You want to be where everybody knows your name

Roll out of bed Mr. coffee's dead and the mornings looking bright and your shrink ran off to Europe and didn't even write and your husband wants to be a girl

Be glad there's one place in the world where everybody knows your name, and they're always glad you came
You want to go where people know people are all the same
You want to go where everybody knows your name.

How you start is important, very important, but in the end it is how you finish that counts. It is easier to be a self-starter than a self-finisher. The victor in the race is not the one who dashes off swiftest but the one who leads at the finish. In the race for success, speed is less important than stamina. The sticker outlasts the sprinter in life's race. In America we breed many hares but not so many tortoises.

THE ART OF KISSING

Kissing is or should be made one of the fine arts. While there is no immediate danger of its becoming one of the lost arts, or even lapsing into innocuous desuetude, still it is just as well to do what we can to keep it up to an art standard. For heaven's sake don't make a business of it and don't jump at it with your hat in one hand and your overshoes in the other. Don't pounce down on a woman's lips as you would a piece of watermelon or a ripe tomato and bend her head back until you hear the bones crack in the back of her neck. Don't glue your face to hers and have a good time all to yourself while you're flattening her nose all over one of her cheeks. Don't take her by both ears and look into her eyes and then try to grab it quick, you are sure to bump noses. These are a few of the things to avoid.

THANK YOU FOR BEING MY FRIEND

When things are confused
I discuss them with you
Until they make sense

When something good happens
You are the first person I tell
So I can share my happiness

When I don't know what to do in a situation
I ask your opinion
And weigh it heavily with mine

When I am lonely
I call you
Because I never feel alone with you

When I have a problem
I ask for your help
Because your wisdom helps me to solve it

When I want to have fun
I want to be with you
Because we have such a great time together

When I want to talk to someone
I always talk to you
Because you understand me

When I want the truth about something
I call you
Because you are so honest

It is so essential
To have you in my life
Thank you for being my friend.

THE FLIGHT OF YOUTH

There are gains for all our losses,
There are balms for all our pain,
But when youth, the dream, departs,
It takes something from our hearts,
And it never comes again.

We are stronger, and are better,
Under manhood's sterner reign;
Still we feel that something sweet
Followed youth, with flying feet,
And will never come again.

Something beautiful is vanished,
And we sigh for it in vain;
We behold it everywhere,
On the earth, and in the air,
But it never comes again.

HOW TO GET RID OF A ROOMMATE

One of the major problems around college is that of getting rid of a crummy roommate. The following are two possible approaches one may use to get rid of said C.R.

1. Correct diagnosis of the C.R.’s disposition is important. If you judge him/her to be a rather nervous, high-strung sort, this approach should work. At any rate, either he/she or you will move out.

When your roommate comes in the first night, you will see to it that the light has been removed from its socket; place something fuzzy or hairy over the switch, possibly a beaver. As the C.R. walks toward the center of the room in darkness, his face will brush by a piece of meat which is hanging from the ceiling. Liver in such a situation has a remarkable effect.

See to it that something yielding is in his bed when he sits on it; pillows will do, although something that squirts is preferable.

2. If this fails, your tactics had best assume a more aggressive tone. Tell him your hobby is knife throwing; ask him to volunteer to stand up as the dummy, and you’ll ring him around with knives. If he refuses, keep slinging knives around the room anyway. Knife the cigarette out of his mouth; the hat off his head; pin his theme to the desk while he’s writing it. If you can nick him now and then and draw a little blood, it helps somewhat.

To Laugh Often & Much

"To laugh often and much;
To win the respect of intelligent people
and affection of children;
To earn the appreciation of honest critics
and endure the betrayal of false friends;
To appreciate beauty;
To find the best in others;
To leave the world a bit better
Whether by a healthy child, a garden patch,
or a redeemed social condition;
To know even one life has breathed easier
because you have lived.
This is to have succeeded."

Members of the Class of 1991:

As you read your issue of the Babsonian, I'm confident that the memories it raises will run the gamut of emotions - the good times and some that were not so good; the humorous moments and perhaps several that were not so humorous. Whatever your memories, remember this: you have earned your degree from the finest undergraduate school of management in the country, and your Babson education has prepared you well to face the future.

Remember, too, the importance of balancing your personal life with your career goals. Consider that success in business requires a commitment to personal and outside activities as well. It is the combination of these three elements that is important if you are to be truly successful in life.

You should be proud as individuals and as a class of all that you have accomplished. I have had the opportunity to meet many of you and you should know that Babson is a better place because of your enthusiasm and the contributions that you have made. You have impressed us with your search for knowledge and your eagerness to excel, whether it has been in the classroom, on the athletic fields, or in tremendous number of cocurricular activities that have taken place this year.

I congratulate you and wish you well as you step into a new, exciting, and challenging world. Your commencement was not an end but a new beginning, one that you can face with confidence and self-assuredness. It is my sincere hope that you will enjoy whatever endeavor you choose in the years ahead, and I look forward to your returning to your Babson home as active and loyal alumni.

Sincerely,

[Signature]

BABSON FACULTY SHOULD BE REQUIRED TO ATTEND CAMPUS EVENTS

By Renee Hobbs
Assistant Professor of Communication

Every time I attend a campus play, a poetry reading, a music performance or other special event, I get this peculiar feeling as if I enter — what am I doing here? Will any of my students be there? Will any of my faculty colleagues be there?

The answer is generally, "No." Of course, there are a handful of motivated faculty who can be counted on to attend specific events throughout the year, but of the 100-plus faculty, only about ten of us are "regulars" at community events.

So what? Why does it matter? What would be any different if faculty members were required to attend one or two community events a year? There are a number of positive consequences that would result from such a requirement, and so I believe that even though I dislike adding more burdens to the already overburdened faculty on this campus, the advantages of such a requirement far outweigh any disadvantages.

First, if faculty were to attend community events, we might get to know each other better. I don't know much about the faculty outside my division, because we have very few opportunities for socializing. If Babson faculty had more interaction amongst themselves, we would help build a stronger community through internal networking.

Secondly, if faculty members were to attend community events, the character of the community events might change for the better. Far too many of the "serious" events on campus, like campus lectures, poetry readings of classical music are poorly attended by students, administrators and faculty alike — unless the event is required for a class. Such events could be useful in developing a sense of community spirit across campus if students could see a good-sized group of faculty in attendance.

In addition, by participating in such events, faculty would communicate to their students that there is more to life than just work, and that experiences with the arts and humanities, in particular, can enrich and inspire the human spirit. For students and faculty who tend to be "all business," this sends a message about the relationship between work and life that is wholly positive.

Finally, faculty should even be encouraged to attend social events, including parties. Having faculty members at Roger's, for example, tends to create a lively and stimulating atmosphere that students find intriguing. Because of the differences in our age and experience, faculty members bring diversity to the "party experience," and because of our interests, can enrich even social conversation with discussion that goes far beyond the inanities of MTV, pop music and sports. Too often, student parties consist of drinking, watching TV and vomiting. If faculty members were occasionally invited to social events, such behavior would be reduced as faculty members served as role models (hopefully) for how to party heartily with all things in moderation.

No one likes being required to do anything, but faculty participation in community events, representing only a small investment of time and energy, when spread across one hundred faculty, could yield a terrific harvest: a stronger, more vital, dynamic community for all of us.

Fundamental Differences

You can lead a horse to water, but you cannot make him drink. Of course it is possible to add to each professor's job description a requirement that he or she attend a certain number of student activities each year, but you cannot require the professor to enjoy the experience. We already have a certain number of faculty members who go out of their way to attend a variety of students events; most who do not attend do not want to. Do you encourage the establishment of a harmonious community by installing a small number of embarrassed and resentful individuals at these events? I submit that the opposite is more likely to be true. You cannot legislate community any more than you can legislate morality or ethics.

Those who advocate mandatory attendance by faculty at student events ignore some fundamental differences between faculty and students. First, many faculty have spouses and family who demand and deserve their attention after the working day and on weekends. I doubt that many students of management at Babson would recommend that employers regularly intrude upon those times and activities, yet that is exactly what a mandatory attendance policy would do. Second, while most students live on campus or a short distance away, the economics of Wellesley property values and the academic salary dictate that most Babson faculty live far from campus. One does not, therefore, roll out of bed and over to the pub for an hour on a Thursday night. For a faculty member, that is a significant commitment of time. Third, it is a fact of life that students and faculty have different tastes in entertainment. Few members of the Liberal Arts Division likely think of a performance by an obnoxious, misogynistic comedian as a really good time. None of my Accounting colleagues look forward to a night of high decibel heavy metal followed by an alcohol-induced, extended study of the qualities of porcelain.

Having begun with a banal cliche, let me finish with another. Be careful what you ask for; you might get it. I have never been convinced that students really want broad faculty representation at all student events. To be realistic, faculty attendance at many of these events could really put a damper on what might otherwise be a fun evening. Either students will be haunted by an out of place, angry presence at a purely student oriented event, or events will have to be modified to appeal more to faculty. The latter result would probably have the unintended effect of discouraging student attendance. Isn't the truth really that students would like to see more attendance by certain faculty at certain events? If, as I suspect, that is the truth, then I recommend that students take the initiative and issue personal invitations. To borrow one last cliche from Field of Dreams, "If you invite them, they will come."

Richard Mandel
JESSE PUTNEY

Jesse Putney, second cousin of Roger Babson himself, began his association with Babson as a member of the undergraduate Class of 1956 and also received his M.B.A. from Babson in 1959. He left Babson to become a stockbroker, only to return in 1964 filling his father’s shoes as a member of the Board of Trustees as Treasurer of the College. In 1969, Mr. Putney became Babson’s Vice President of Business and Financial Affairs and until his retirement, has assumed both roles. He also was the President of the National Babson Alumni Association from 1964-1967. In 1970 Mr. Putney was named as one of the Outstanding Young Men of America. Mr. Putney’s son, Tad, graduated Babson in 1990.

In his twenty-six years as treasurer, Mr. Putney has truly dedicated himself to Babson. Since he has been Treasurer, Babson has never had a deficit (something other schools would love to claim). Mr. Putney is also responsible for the idea of utilizing unused college land by developing income producing real estate for the college. Two examples of this are the Babson Recreation Center, a sports complex on the Wellesley-Needham border, and North Hill, a lifetime retirement center in Needham. Mr. Putney also maximizes what he has by having camps and executive education programs at Babson over the summer months.

Along with managing Babson’s money, Mr. Putney is also very concerned with the students at Babson. He is known for never turning a student away and his door is always open for both students and administration alike. His employees and fellow workers are very fond of him and feel he is a straight forward and honest person. Jesse is also concerned with the appearance of Babson and always makes sure that the campus has the proper landscaping.

He also has been involved with the building of both the Horn Library and Computer Center as well as the renovation of Tomasso Hall.

Mr. Putney will leave Babson on June 1, 1991 after twenty-six years of loyal dedication. He and his wife Sue who also worked at Babson for years as a part-time nurse at the Health Center will retire to New Hampshire. Although Mr. Putney the person will leave Babson his spirit will still be here. Mr. Putney will remain on the Board of Directors as Treasurer Emeritus and on May 1, 1991 at Mr. Putney’s retirement luncheon, President Glavin renamed the New Hall Residence Building Putney Hall.

I could never fit on one page everything that Jesse Putney has done for Babson College. The Yearbook Staff dedicated this year's yearbook to a man the whole campus can be proud of, Jesse Putney. On behalf of Babson College we would like to say Thank You and Goodbye.

with special thanks to Susan Roskey, Barbara Reilly and Beth Tate.

This year the 1991 Babsonian has chosen to dedicate the yearbook to the professor who has won eight of the past ten Professor of the Year elections, Mr. Richard Bruno.

Professor Bruno is not only loved by his accounting students, but by all the students and faculty. Professor Bruno's impact can be noticed through his position of advisor to the Babson Players and the Academy of Accountancy. On a more personal level, Professor Bruno could often be found interacting with the students at either the Pub or Student Government parties.

I don't believe Babson realized the magnitude of inspiration Professor Bruno would have on the community when he was hired 24 years ago. However, like ourselves, Professor Bruno is moving on to the next chapter of his life. The Babson community would like to wish him the best of luck and thank him for his years of devotion. We'll never forget you!!

On October 20th the second Annual Presidential Ball was held, once again transforming Trim Dining Hall into “ballroom extraordinaire.” Most of the student body was in attendance, making the Ball one of the most popular events on campus. As can be expected, the favorite part of the evening was not the never ending supply of beer and wine, but the ample amounts of hors d'oeuvres! Although the organizers were smart enough to switch from real glass to plastic cups this year, they still have yet to solve the problem of the slickest dance floor in Massachusetts.

Everyone came decked out in their best outfits to dance to the music of a 40’s style swing band as well as a disc jockey. Faculty, staff, and students spent much of the evening mingling amongst each other (although some students have yet to realize trying to brown-nose while drinking sort of defeats the purpose). The evening left everyone anticipating next year’s ball which, according to tradition, will prove to be a smashing success.

Trish, Laurie and Kathy — Having a good time?
The senior class dominated the Halloween celebrations by sponsoring two parties. The first was a campus-wide party in Knight Auditorium on Wednesday the 31st. This marked the first time in our Babson history that kegs were allowed mid-week. (Thanks Charlene!) Although anyone was welcome, not many underclassmen were in attendance. I guess they haven't figured out yet that the earlier you start the weekend the better. A wide variety of costumes were featured including the seven dwarfs, a pumpkin patch, a divided highway, and many scary others. However, yet another year passed with no one being able to identify exactly what John Devine was supposed to be.

The second party was a Pletz-McCullough Bash in Pletz lounge on Saturday. It started off well, but dwindled when there were problems tapping the second keg. However, after an hour or so (who said Babson students aren't mechanical?) things picked up again. All in all, a good time was had.

AMAR G. BOSE
Founder, Chairman of the Board, and Technical Director
Bose Corporation

Dr. Amar Bose believes that "man is a 100-cylinder engine running on only one cylinder."

While that may be true for many, Dr. Amar Bose believes that "man is a 100-cylinder engine running on only one cylinder."

While that may be true for many, this human dynamo has been cranked up and running at full blast since the age of 13 when his first entrepreneurial venture was undertaken. While he had studied violin, Bose was more interested in radios. Young Amar, who was already building his own radios, saw the need for repair work, learned how to fix radios, and built a radio service business that grew to be one of the largest in Philadelphia.

Bose entered M.I.T. as a freshman in 1947 and never left. In 1956 he earned his doctorate in science and joined the M.I.T. faculty, a position he holds to this day.

Shortly after he began teaching, Dr. Bose decided to reward himself with a "hi-fi" system. Selecting the "best" components, he built his system only to find that the sound it produced was disappointing. The concept for Bose Corporation was born.

Armed with volumes of psychoacoustic research and the grim determination to succeed, the company was launched in 1964 with only one paid employee. Today, Bose Corporation sales are more than $359 million a year.

The story of Professor Bose is the story of a brilliant man unafraid to take risks. "If you take a risk," he says, "you either go down or you are way ahead. I think a certain amount of that is absolutely necessary if you want to do exciting things."

One of the major testimonials to the company's quality is that Bose loudspeakers are the number one sellers in Japan, for its electronic genius.
William G. McGowan
Founder, Chairman, and Chief Executive Officer
MCI Communications Corporation

For William G. McGowan, a little ignorance has created a great deal of bliss.

"Fortunately, I didn’t know anything about the industry," he says. "Because if you knew enough about it, you were told you were insane to try to get into it. But, it didn’t bother me."

Very little seems to bother Bill McGowan. He is a ferocious competitor in his business and in his personal life. In his role as founder and leader of the United States’ second-largest long-distance company, McGowan orchestrated MCI’s climb to a telecommunications giant with revenue of nearly $8 billion.

Four years ago, the MCI chief’s personal crisis began with a supposed businessman’s heart attack. When a rehabilitation program failed to improve his condition, McGowan became a candidate for, and eventually received a heart of a 20-year-old car crash victim.

McGowan is most often credited as the catalyst for competition in the long-distance industry. The early years were a tough uphill climb. AT&T was king of the uphill, unwilling to concede even an inch of territory. McGowan was responsible for leading MCI’s charge to end AT&T’s long-distance telephone monopoly in the courts and at the FCC. This set the stage for AT&T’s 1984 breakup and spawned genuine competition in the industry.

As an industry leader, McGowan has actively promoted innovative or improved telecommunications technologies such as the use of information technologies as a strategic business tool. His contributions have been recognized by a number of leading business publications and industry groups including The Wall Street Journal’s Centennial Journal feature acknowledging his contributions as a milestone in American business history.
JOHN R. FURMAN
Founder and Chairman
Furman Lumber, Inc.

If necessity is the mother of invention, then survival was the father of Furman Lumber.
In 1956, faced with abandonment by their parent company, nine men led by John Furman decided to start their own business. Through hard work, perseverance, and good judgement, they built a small, regional, wholesale operation into a prosperous, nationally-respected lumber distribution process. Today, Furman Lumber ranks with such wholesaling giants as Georgia-Pacific and Weyerhaeuser.

From nine people and $4 million in sales in 1956, the company has grown to more than 200 people and $285 million in sales in 1990.

From the beginning, Furman emphasized working together — teamwork and loyalty — so that employees would have long-term employment. Rather than constantly turning over the sales force, he believed a system should be built where everyone could win. He maintains “We wanted to provide a means to earn our living, educate our children, pay our mortgages, enjoy the people with whom we were working, and enjoy the business.” Understanding the value of teamwork is not a new concept to Furman. As an undergraduate at Cornell, he captained the heavy-weight crew. Later, as a Lieutenant Commander in the U.S. Navy in World War II, he commanded the destroyer, U.S.S. Register, one of five vessels that rescued survivors from shark-infested water after the sinking of the heavy cruiser, U.S.S. Indianapolis.

Furman believes that to be successful, people only have to be willing to work hard for themselves. Their success will spill over to others, and the company will remain a team — a family. “Everything comes back to getting the right people,” he says “people who want to be a part of the team and who put the company ahead of themselves.” The philosophy of John Furman is summed up in a quotation from President Calvin College, “Nothing in the world can take the place of persistence. Talent will not; nothing is more common than unsuccessful men with talent. Genius will not; unrewarded genius is almost a proverb. Education will not; the world is full of educated derelicts. Persistence and determination alone are omnipotent. Press on . . . ” For John Furman, 35 years of persistence and determination have meant success and satisfaction.

Fact: Yearbook stress (and C6) can lead to reliving the '70s.
"It may take 3 of us, but we will get revenge on the editor!"
This year the public saw the Babson Free Press continue its expansion to color, comics and more extensive coverage of news concerning the Babson community. Behind the scenes, the staff of the Free Press remained as nutty as ever (it’s the only way we can handle this job), having a great time while still managing to produce a good product. As a staff, we’ll miss many things about working with this unique group that made our tenure fun. Among them: Wednesday night’s free pizza tests; Bill Chisholm’s heavy metal monopoly on the stereo; Kristin and Flash’s incessant groping of each other during production night (and the exacto-knife injuries caused by the same); the retirement of Super-Bruno; Dave Raukts’ “one-eyed Lithuanian” jokes; the many exhibits on the bulletin boards (and you thought what you saw in the paper was offensive); the belching contests between our blonde bombshell of a news editor and our “tactful” business editor; Tom Bruderick, the Crisco Kid; 2 silent (but very efficient) sports editors in a row; unintentional concerts from Broken Arrow’s practice sessions; the creativity war with Bentley; the fighting over whose material would go into the parody issue. We could go on forever, but there is a space limit. The basement of Central has many memories for all of us and we’re glad we took the time to serve the campus on the Free Press!

January 16, 1991 was a day to remember. It was a fateful day when many of our friends and loved ones were thrown into a full-fledged war with Iraq. For most of us, this was our first experience with war. We did not know what to expect and we were torn as to whether our country should have been involved or not. One thing we were sure of though, was the overwhelming support we all carried for the thousands of U.S. men and women stationed over in the Middle East. We showed our support by sporting yellow ribbons, writing letters, and even throwing a yellow ribbon party at Knight Auditorium!

For many, including myself, this war was personal. We had friends and family over there—people we weren’t sure we would ever see again. The waiting for a solution was at times unbearable, especially during the holidays, but we made it through; so did our troops. In as little as a hundred hours after the start of the ground war, it was over. Our men, women, and country came out of the fight victorious, but the waiting was far from over. Now it was time to wait for the anticipated reunions with our soldiers.

From personal experience, the long period of waiting for our troops to come home was well worth the wait. I was lucky enough to be present in Fort Benning, Georgia when hundreds of troops came home. Seeing all of those soldiers get off the plane in the grand ole’ US of A was a tremendously emotional time which no words could possibly express. That moment is a time I will never forget for the rest of my life. It’s times like these when I am truly proud to be an American, and I am sure that there must be others who feel just as proud.

To all of the servicemen and women who served so bravely in the Persian Gulf—Congratulations on a job well done and... WELCOME HOME!!

Graduating Wiseguy

When I was approached by the Babsonian staff to do a write-up for the yearbook, I really didn't know what to think. Of course, I was honored. After all, how often am I ever asked to do anything of such historical significance?

The first thing I did was to take a good, long look at the Babsonian staff themselves. Since the product of last year's yearbook staff was such a total waste of paper and glue, I figured I had better make sure that I didn't get associated with a similar group. Sure enough, they checked out. This year's staff is incredibly more dedicated and talented. Well, hey, they did pick me, didn't they?

Anyway, I'll just bet all you scholars out there in Babsonville are just dying to hear what I have to say about my four years at this institution. More likely, you dying to know whom the idiot was that let write for the yearbook. Don't worry, it doesn't violate any of my sanctions.

There's a general theory among educational types that a college student does about 75% of his or her learning outside the classroom. It has been my experience that the number should be more closer to 95%. My previous professors, judging by my class attendance and grades, would probably agree.

After four years of Babson, two of which were spent writing Flash's Forum, I had a chance to examine almost every part of the Babson community. For you freshmen, and your parents who never really see Babson as it truly exists day-to-day, this one's for you.

As one has come to expect, Babson's Student Government Association is right up there at the top of my hit list. What Flash's Forum would have been complete if not for the latest comic capers and esoteric escapades surrounding the SGA Executive Board?

If there's one thing that the SGA board is, it's consistent. Every year, the executive board builds a wonderfully creative system of working upon which future boards can build. Every year a new board gets elected and destroys the whole thing in order to implement their wonderfully creative system upon which future boards can build.

I've seen SGA exec boards come and go, but one thing always stays the same: nothing.

Speaking of staying the same, how about the job done by Babson's Building and Grounds staff? Or is it Physical Plant staff? I always get them confused. What is a physical plant anyway? Is that anything like a bunch of pumped-up lettuce calling the Chinese cabbage a puny girllie vegetable?

B&G has, as always, done a tremendous job in keeping our school running and looking excellent. There's more trees, less power outages, and, of course, the annual laying of the wood chips for parent's weekend. At least they didn't go nuts with the green slime sprayers a second time!

Student activities produced their usual repertoire of events. Nominees for the Organizational Hall of Fame include Theta Chi Fraternity for their numerous parties, the Babson Dance Ensemble for the best shows this campus has seen in a long while, and the new-divisional Programming Board, who also grabbed my award for the most improved organization.

Way to go, guys!

Of course, there are nominees for the Organizational Hall of Shame. This motley list includes such "ill"-lumineurs as the invisible Circle K, the anti-social Babson International Student Organization, and (oh my head!) Bowling for managers, an attempt at providing seniors with PE credits that gone bad.

Getting off the organizational tips, let's meander our way over to Trim Dining Hall. I'll have a burger and fries with a side order of medical insurance. Or maybe the botulism specialty of the day? Only kidding, Stan.

Stan Parks, Carl Citron, and Pollyanna Endsley have a big fat raise coming to them for tuning Trim into a (dare I say it?) pleasurable place to eat. Relax, JB, I didn't enter the building to do research. However, the atmosphere is pleasant, the workers are friendlier, and yes, the food has improved. What improved the most, though, was the annual spring weekend food fight. Too bad Embryo, you were on Candid Camera!

There have also been many improvements in staffing here at Babson. Probably the best move the Office of Human Resources and Reverse Discrimination ever made was the hiring of Ann Williams as Health Education Program Coordinator.

Ann is not only a wonderful counselor, an incredible program director, and the founder of the Babson Peer Educators (a student-run organization running programs to help... their fellow students cope with stress, learn about sex and dating, and deal with the pressures associated with college life). She's also a great friend to anybody who needs it, and her door is always open. I highly recommend that every student drop by her office in Hollister and say hello to this incredible woman.

Also new to Babson staff is Director of Diversity Bond. Barbara Bond. Now, I don't know Ms. Bond at all, but boy has she got a tough job ahead of her. If she can get this group of apathetic students into diversity workshop meetings, I'll call her the next time I need a mountain moved.

While we're on the subject of moving mountains, how about that flat-rate tuition plan? I guess its only fitting. The number one undergraduate business school in the country should have the number one price tag. Besides, now that students will have to take five classes a semester instead of four, the school can weed out those skintight part-time students who expect a free ride. Who cares if they'll have to transfer to another institution? If you can't afford it, you shouldn't be going here. So administration says.

But administration has been saying a lot of things. Not of the least importance is all the hot air being blown regarding alumni donations. Joseph Carver, head of the annual giving program claims that donation levels are at a all-time high. Evidently President Glavin's five-year strategic plan (available at an administration office near you) says otherwise. The plan has provisions to commission an "in-depth survey" as to why certain alumni are not donating.

I hope to God that they survey this year's senior class. You see, prior to writing this column I conducted my own survey of the current graduating class. I asked them simply, "Do you plan on donating money to Babson after graduation?" The results I got were startling. Out of fifty seniors asked, half replied "no". Of the "yes" replies, half would donate to certain areas (financial aid, sports teams, academic departments, etc.). That means only one quarter of the people surveyed would freely give donations to the school, for no particular purpose. The Joker was right. This town needs an enema.

On a sadder note, Babson lost their best accounting professor this year. Former professor Richard Bruno retired after a long and glorious career. Any professor who can teach financial accounting to a bunch of sophomores and get them to like it is a person with a very special gift. Professor Bruno was a credit to all academia, and his chair at Roger's pub should serve as a sign of what learning really should be about.

I'm happy to report that fewer cars were seen barreling down Map Hill Drive in second gear the whole way this year. Could this have something to do with a better Public Safety enforcement policy? I don't know, but the owner of Mr. Donuts has put three kids through college so far, and has plans for a fourth. Hey, c'mon, after all that hard work, Jay, Lenny and the boys need their sustenance!

For all you freshmen reading this and wondering, "Gee, I hope I make it to my senior year," here's some helpful advice. The three key elements that got me through every problem I ever had, regardless of its nature, are 1) the Jedi mind trick, 2) cheese, and 3) Fuban. You all know what the Jedi mind trick is, I'm sure.

Cheese is, well, cheese. If you remember my Forum from way back where I went into more detail about cheese, you're all set. If not, pay a visit to Dr. Steve Ledoux, Professor of Cheeseology. Hey, if he can cheese his way into Solomon Brothers, he can help you, smile, Steve!

Fuban is a state of physical being achieved only after excessive consumption of fermented liquids. Fuban stands for something - something beyond all recognition. What the hell, you're only in college once.

And that's a damn shame.
Women's Field Hockey

Generally, at the beginning of every season, no matter what sport it is, countless numbers of people come up and ask, "So, how is the team looking?" At the beginning of this year, the only thing I could say was, "I haven't the foggiest idea." I mean how was I supposed to know that I was working with the best field hockey team Babson has ever seen. I guess what it really came down to was knowing there was nothing for us to lose, taking one game after another and putting 100% into every aspect of the season. I knew for a particular five seniors it was a matter of turning our dreams into reality.

We broke the record for most consecutive wins and the most wins in the season. We were ranked ninth twice in the NCAA Northeast Division III poll. We made it past the first round of the New England Conference for the first time ever and were seeded first in the MAIAW State Tournament. And we could not have done it without the chemistry of the fourteen freshmen, two sophomores and five seniors combination. I know I can speak on behalf of the rest of the seniors when I say that this year meant so much to us. We finally made it click, a click that will hopefully become a winning tradition for the rest of Babson Field Hockey's years to come.

So hopefully, when someone comes up to a field hockey player in preseason, next year and asks, "So how is the team looking?" they will no doubt be able to say, "Damn good."

The men's tennis team posted a 9-6 record for the 1990-1991 season. After incurring the loss of their #1 singles player from last year, Babson finished 6th overall and runner up to Coast Guard for the Division III title. This year's improvement should be credited to the increased togetherness that the team has displayed under the direction of Coach Corona.

Coach Corona is backed up by a talented squad who will miss the skills of two seniors who will be graduating. The team will rely heavily on the skills of Gary Steiner, the #2 player, and Dan Johnston the #6 player.

In his first year in the #1 spot, Captain Bill Anderson finished a respectable 10-5 for the season. With one more year left, Anderson hopes to make his last year a memorable one. Staying at the #2 singles position for the third consecutive season, senior Gary Steiner compiled a record of 12-3 for the season and an astounding 25-5 tally for the 1990-1991 year. This year he obtained his year long goal and met the satisfaction of being the #2 position defeating three formidable Division I opponents on his way to victory.

As a result of his impressive season, Gary is expected to be ranked as one of the top 10 Division III players in New England. Congratulations Gary! We're going to miss you.

The #3 position was held by freshman John Sheffler. In his first year in college tennis, Sheffler finished with an impressive 11-4 record. His career at Babson just beginning, the tennis team feels that Sheffler has great potential.

In the #4 position for the second year is junior Dan Green. With one of the most impressive victories of the year, Dan defeated the Tufts #4 in a tiebreaker in the third set. For the second season, junior Ed Sim played in the #5 spot. Rounding out the top six singles was senior Dan Johnston.

This tennis team would like to thank the people who came out and showed their support.

Men's Soccer

The 1990 Men's Soccer team continued with its winning ways. The team finished the season with a 15-2-4 record while making it to the New England championship for the second straight season. The team was ranked as high as fourth nationally and remained number one in New England for the majority of the season. Babson traveled to Williams, the eventual 1990 E.C.A.C. soccer champions, which resulted in a 0-0 tie with the Beavers dominating the play. Babson defeated nineteenth nationally ranked Elmira 2-0 and went on to defeat Wesleyan 1-0, an E.C.A.C. finalist. As a result of these victories, the Beavers were given the number one seed in the national tournament for the New England region.

In the N.C.A.A. tournament Babson defeated Bridgewater State 2-0 in the New England Semifinals and then lost to Salem State 1-0 in the New England Finals. The four seniors leaving the Beavers are Matt Smith, Chris LaRochelle, co-captain Troy Thede and co-captain Bob Pickett. The Soccer Team will be returning nine starting players for what looks to be a successful 1991 season.

Women's Soccer

The Babson Women's Soccer team was gifted with a lot of young talent this season. Ending with a record of 6 and 10, however, the team experienced its most frustrating season in many years. Captains Rebecca Shaghalian and Kerry Svensen felt that although the team was extremely skilled, they had difficulty playing together with so few returning upperclassmen to control the field. Babson had only five returning upperclassmen this season and needed to depend heavily on its thirteen freshmen.

The women's soccer team had a tough schedule this year, playing some of its toughest opponents during the first three weeks of the season. Sophomore goal tending Betsy Willgos should be commended on an outstanding first season. Other key players in Babson's defense would be the solid and consistent Kerry Svensen, freshmen Lori Vengrow, Kate Clancy, Liz Powell, sophomore Marth Letendre and senior captain Rebecca Shaghalian. The midfield was dazzled by freshman all-conference and team MVP, Julie Tienken, and strongly supported by Michelle Conlon, Megan Cohen, sophomore Julie Seexen and junior Lexi Lepard. The Babson offense was controlled by experienced junior and team leading scorer Tara Horgan. Julie Tienken was the second leading team scorer with a total of 26 points. The young Babson soccer team looks forward to a strong squad and winning season...look out Brandeis!

The start of five miles of fun!
Junior tri-captain Joey Curtis wins the Ripon Invitational.

Damn, it doesn’t get any tougher than this!
At the start of the 1990 season, the Babson cross-country team set out to gain one thing: respect. We began the season with a two-week journey to Colorado for high altitude training in late August. Upon returning home to Babson, we quickly jumped into the racing schedule. Babson began the season with an impressive first-place finish at the Gordon Invitational, where Babson won by a single point.

The team was led by junior co-captain Joey Curtis, who ran extremely strong all season long. Joey ran personal records on two occasions, with his fastest 5 miles clocked at 25:15. Not far behind was freshman Eric Sullivan, who ran consistently all season. Freshman Andy Seeley and sophomore Chris Roussin battled for third position, both delivering strong performances. Seniors Tim Daly and Jim Welch led the team in dedication and spirit. Unfortunately, no one will know the glories that could have come from senior Mike Fein and freshman Chad Duffy who were out most of the season due to injuries.

Finishing off the season, Babson gave spectacular performances at the ECAC and NCAA championships, placing 11th and 15th against over 30 teams. Babson is looking forward to a great year next season.

Hey Sully, people showed up!
BABSON WOMEN'S CROSS COUNTRY TEAM 1990

This year the Women's Cross Country Team finished the season at 22-22, a 500 record. This fall, we experienced a lot of "firsts": including winning the Babson College Invitational, receiving third place at the Gordon College Invitational, pre-season training in Colorado, expanding to the largest Babson Women's Cross Country team ever, and competing in the ECAC's.

The season went well although Captain Tina Pizzuti and senior Adrien Toro ended their seasons early due to injuries. Senior Janet Choi received MVP as a first year runner for Babson.

One of the best things about this team is how unified we are. We had a lot of fun, including the Friday nite pasta fest, and the after-meet party up in Whitey's suite. Everyone worked really hard and played hard!

Sophomores Geraldine Colon and Lynn Karkowski are the new captains. Returning next year are Tanya Meregian, Piper McNealy, Jen Brown, Rachel Aghal, and Valerie Fields.

A special thanks goes out to Hutch and Rob!
The Babson Ultimate Frisbee Organization

As you may or may not know, Babson does have a very diverse organization on campus. We, who participate, usually like to refer to our favored preoccupation as just plain "disc". And by the way, we are good! As the season began this past year, only our second season in the Ultimate Players Association — Collegiate Division, we had only won one game in our entire tournament career.

That all has changed! Babson's Ultimate Team has now gained recognition in the collegiate arena as a team that is to be reckoned with. In the past fall and winter seasons we have recorded a record of nine wins and five losses. For spring season '91, we have four tournaments and a multiple of night games with nearby Boston competitors. Some of our favorite opponents include: Boston College, Boston University, Northeastern/Static Kling, W.P.I., Keene State, and Ten Mile Radius.

Some of our most memorable experiences, which we hope will continue in the future of the organization, is the spring trip to Smith College — UMASS for Ultimate Affair and the nightly games with B.C. under the lights. It is safe to say that Babson students will always be welcome at Smith for the good 'ole "B.L.T. Parties". And as long as the Beavers continue to bring the beverages, we will always be welcomed at Boston College.

One final word, since this is our first appearance in the Babsonian, we would like to thank and acknowledge the leadership and hard work of Doug Parent, our fearless and OUTSPOKEN captain. We would also like to formally thank the founding and fearless crew of this venture, Doug Parent, Scott Couto, Mike Deeneen, Craig Bondes, Jim Craig, Jim Caines, Chris Plante, Chris Jensen, John Lutfin, Karreem El-Heneid, Fred Mensch, and Kip Read. Thanks to the new crew too! (and maybe you'll get a mention next year!) Thanks also goes out for the friendship and guidance given to us from advisors Karen "Ren" McCarthy and Jane "Mazi" Miller.

— Peter "Kip" Read
"A rebuilding year," was the expectation for the 1990 Babson Volleyball program. Not only had three starting seniors graduated in 1990, but the coach was also an unknown. To say we surpassed everyone's expectations, including our own, is an understatement. It was an excellent season, and Babson ended with a record of 16-8.

Seven talented freshmen joined the core of four sophomores, one junior and three seniors returning from the 1989 season. In September, everyone worked very hard and had the great attitudes that put the team at 15-2 early on, and resulted in Babson being crowned the Atlantic Union Tournament champions. Senior team members were Jean Matarazzo, and captians Wendy Miles and Julie Drago. The players to watch for the next three years include Tonya Strange, who was voted Most Valuable Player, and Jennifer Jeffrey, who was voted the Most Improved Player.

For new Coach Anne Priante, the season was a success. Not only did the team play well this year, but the next few years promise to be outstanding. Coach Priante was assisted by Bob Gielow and Max von Othegraven, and the team appreciated the support and guidance of the entire coaching staff. A very special thanks goes to the diehard fans who did a lot of traveling with us in addition to attending the few home games. We had a great season, but, if you think this was good, just wait until next year!

— Wendy Miles

Men's Basketball Team

The 1990-1991 Men's Basketball Team had an extremely successful season. The final record (20-6) is one of the best in Babson Basketball History. The team accomplished many achievements, highlighted by a trip to the E.C.A.C. Finals against Colby, in route to the Finals. #7 ranked Babson upset #2 Brandeis (77-72) and #3 Tufts (88-84 OT) before crowds.

As for individual awards, Babson had its share. Junior Jim Plerakos was named 2nd Team All-New England as well as 1st team in the Constitutional Athletic Conference. Sophomore Eric Delasanta was voted to the 2nd team in the C.A.C. Also, special congrats to Plerakos for notching his 1,000th point.

Team leadership came from Babson's six Seniors: Co-Captains Derik Malone and Marc Hottenhoff, Carl Pappo, Bob Myron, Doug Apprahamian and Tim Drakeley. They will leave some big shoes to fill. Good luck guys, thanks for the memories.

WOMEN'S BASKETBALL

The 1990-91 Women's Basketball season was indeed one worth remembering. Coach Judith Blinstrub guided the team to capture the championship of The New Eight post-season tournament, held at WPI. The season was marked by high points as well as the low. However, throughout the season the girls stuck together, enjoying remarkable success in many areas. Following a mediocre start, the Lady Beavers regrouped after Christmas, challenging formidable squads such as Emmanuel, Clark, and Brandeis. All Conference selection Betsy Willgoss and Senior Co-Captain Jamie Bearece provided the sparks for Babson, leading them to 9 wins in the final ten contests (including the conference finale versus Brandeis). It should be noted that with each tourney win, Babson avenged a former loss. The team is looking ahead to more success in the 1991-92 season, as only one member will be lost to the cap and gown. Good bye Jamie, we will miss you.

BABSON HOCKEY

Babson began its 1990-1991 season full of great expectations, the possibility of capturing both the E.C.A.C. and N.C.A.A. titles seemed completely within our grasp. Coming off an excellent season, the team hoped to continue to improve and become a dominant force in Division III hockey. The team was returning the top goaltender in the country, two-time All-American Joe Caprini as well as a number of seasoned defensemen and forwards. Babson also welcomed the arrival of several newcomers who would undoubtedly augment and balance their offensive attack. Transfer forwards Rob Tobin and Dave Doherty would provide offense and leadership to an already deep lineup.

Babson entered the E.C.A.C. tournament seeded second behind Middlebury. Babson had not lost a game to any of the top four seeded teams and were poised to capture the E.C.A.C. crown. Babson disposed of A.I.C. in the first round by the narrow margin of 4-3. They advanced to the finals by defeating Salem State in overtime in the first round and the final four tournament. Babson’s opponent was the host team, top seeded Middlebury. The teams engaged in one of the most exciting, spirited, and emotional games played in E.C.A.C. history. Middlebury emerged victoriously, scoring the games only goal just 1:15 into the third period.

Due to Babson’s impressive showing during the E.C.A.C. tournament, they earned an N.C.A.A. bid and were seeded second in the East Regional Tournament. Babson hosted first round opponent Oswego State. Babson defeated Oswego playing sound defense and capitalizing on their opportunities. With that victory, Babson advanced to the National Semi-Finals for the fourth year in a row. Babson’s next opponent was two time defending champion, Wisconsin Stevens Point. Babson lost 5-2. With the hope of winning a championship ended, Babson won their final game of the season by beating the Soaring Eagles of Elmira College.

If there can be one word to accurately describe the 1990-1991 Babson Beavers it would be perseverance. From the beginning and throughout the season, Babson dealt with the adversity of developing a winning attitude and injuries. This winning attitude was not produced overnight. This attitude developed through the hard work and determination of the players and coaches. Each day this team became a little bit better. Nothing came easy, yet they continued to win. That is the essence of Babson Hockey.

The Babson Ski Team had another very successful winter. The men's team placed third in the Thompson Division and ninth at Eastern Regionals. Individually the team placed three men in the top eleven, Paul Bellucci 5th, Andy Kostick 6th, and Skip Dennis 11th.

The women's team skied remarkably, placing third in the Thompson Division and fourth at Eastern Regionals. This earned them a spot in the NCAA Nationals out at Mount Bachelor in Oregon, where they placed 14th. Essie Dolley, the freshman sensation, placed tenth individually and received All-American Honors.

The team would like to say good-bye to all the graduating seniors: Andy Kostick, Jean Mattarazzo, Denise Flynn, and Carolyn Lombard. Thanks to our coaches Joe Harty and Jeff Shea, and thanks to all the parents for supporting the team. Good Luck next year!!

The Babson Women's Swim Team ends their first winning season (8-7) in Babson history. After five years of team building and a healthy shipment of fast freshmen, the team was able to blow some schools (like the highly respected Pine Manor) out of the water. Making waves this season: (seniors) Pam Sorabella (Captain), Heather Jones, Tracey Wise, Kim Bender; (juniors) Kellie Drews, Amy Carroll, Cathleen Finnican; (sophomores) Melissa Hill, Audrey Klebanow; (freshmen) Dana Gaughan, Amy White, Sharon Juzwikowski, Barbara Gaglardi, Christina Giguere, Michelle Conlon, and Jen Lane.

And dropping their bodies from high altitudes (diving): Kimmy Nardle (senior) and Jen MacDonald (sophomore).

Now that our five months of swimming yard after yard are over, we can now sleep late, shave our legs, catch up on the soaps, and kick back & have a few. But don't forget that in or out of season — we are always a team. Good luck in the future. Continue to work hard & Play hard!

Thanks to all fans, we appreciate your support. And a special thanks to our coach, Rick Echlov and assistant coach, Renata. We could not have done it without you!
MEN'S SWIMMING

Once again the Babson Men’s Swim Team coasted to a most triumphant season, while reserving a place in the annals of Babson history with an unprecedented 11 and 3 record. The team congealed under the undeniable leadership of captains DJ “sniTersnacker” Fairbanks, Jeffery “Michigan” McKean, and Neil “Papa” Murphy, as they crushed a formidable schedule of opponents. Other seniors, Jamie "Gosh, why couldn't I do that four years ago" Segerson and Sean "got to get that piano off my back" Russo, were key big meet ingredients.

The 1990-91 season also saw the continued dominance of L. Michael Hobbs the team's MVP, as well as rapier expert. He made us all proud by qualifying for nationals for the third straight year. His performance, at the NCAA-paid-for-vacation, gave Babson a three-year All-American from this junior sensation.

Tradition was continued as the team, once again, enjoyed the annual Winter Break training trip to sunny FLA. Despite a rigorous practice schedule the team did have some time to learn about the Ft. Lauderdale culture. The effort which was exerted over break and during the fall, winter, and spring was rewarded at the end of the season with an eighth place finish at the New England Division III championships.

The seniors would like to wish the best of luck to next year's team. Swim hard and stay sane.

Men's Swimming
The 1991 campaign for the Babson Baseball squad saw the Beavers record the best output in the history of the school. The team was invited to the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference tournament for the first time ever, producing a record 16 wins. Babson was paced by their offense who batted .285 and pulled out many games due to very timely hitting. The offense was led by Sophomore DH Greg Keenan, and senior co-captain Ian Baxter and David Zaslaw at shortstop and first base respectively. Senior second baseman Mike McGillicuddy was tough all year with third baseman Buck Doherty who was lost to a shoulder separation 19 games into the season.

The veteran infield was complemented by a steady outfield anchored by juniors Sedge Saunders, and Steve Ryan, along with senior left fielder Joe "Scooterbomber" Barrett. The catching duties were handled by senior Glenn Allard (2 HR) and sophomore Jeff Cookson. The pitching staff was a huge surprise, as is seen in the team ERA of 4.79. Senior Erik Sawyer had a career year as the veteran appeared in 12 games, recording five victories without a defeat and saved three games for the Beavers. The highlight of the pitching staff was the no-hitter by sophomore Brian Juneau against Clark University (10-0). Mike Barra finished his career with Babson on a strong note, pitching Babson to three wins.

Men's Lacrosse

The 1990-1991 Men's Lacrosse team finished the year with another impressive season and a second consecutive league title. Babson ended with a 9-5 overall record and a 5-1 league record which placed the Beavers as co-champions of the Pilgrim League.

Led by Captains Noel Gyllenhaal and Eric Deehan, the Beavers overcame adversity with hard work and dedication. As a team, Babson pushed itself towards a higher level of play which in turn lead to victory. Babson scored 193 goals as a team in only 14 games. The leader junior PJ Yeatman compiled an unbelievable 36 goals and 37 assists, followed by co-captain Eric Deehan with 43 points. Impressive play was also seen from a multitude of other players, Taylor Babineau, Jim Castronaro, Tim MacAleese, Jooho Sohn, Pete Keiser, Noel Gyllenhaal, Mickey Thompson, Miguel Trujillo, Eric Bedford, and Curt Mueller. Not to forget the tenacious checking and hard hits of the Beaver defense: Tim Bassett, Vance Lottelle, Dave Barnes, Chris Marshall, Colin LeDuc, John Garvin, and Steve Wyland. Also contributing to the team goals are Steve Chick, Dexter Batchelder, and Chris Agostino.

Women's Lacrosse

As we walked out on to the game field for our last home game, I finally realized what it was all about, what it felt like to find the secrets of success. It was about taking risks, maintaining pride, hustle and desire with a lot of blood, sweat and tears, only then does a team have what it takes to reach their goals. I really didn’t see that until I felt the impact of the last game and how much it all meant to me. You see, Babson Women's Lacrosse was nothing more than a small club team before 1987 — never had a winning season, let alone win more than two games in a row. This year we crushed six team records, including most games won in a season (9), most consecutive wins (5), most goals scored and best win percentage. We even took home our first tournament held at the Elm College with a trophy to boot. So, although Babson Lacrosse history is short in comparison to our competition, some have played for almost a century, Babson is quickly becoming a legitimate contender. Our record of 9-4 this season is only a preview of what can be accomplished in the future by this group of talented athletes and the dedication of Coach Linda Smurl. In closing, and on behalf of the rest of the seniors, growing with Babson Lacrosse has been a most rewarding experience. We finally found the secrets of success this year and it was worth every last spring. We've come a long way baby: ADIOS!

Women's Softball

Unity, the word that best described the spirit of the 1991 Women's Softball Team. Our spirit of unity may have resulted from the pre-season party, or maybe it was the laps on the track, or maybe our games of Safari, but I think it was much more than that. We all wanted two things: to have fun and to win. We worked as a team and we grew as a team; unified in spirit as well as in goals. Our spirit of unity kept us working hard and provided us with the determination that we needed to improve on our game. On the field, individual talents ranked high, but team unity was what really made us shine.

Although our season record of 5-8 may not seem very impressive, we had an outstanding season. Much of our success was due to our talented pitcher/catcher duo, Ann-Marie Gentile and Alleen "Olive" Foley, and let's not forget our clutch relief pitcher/catcher duo, Lisa Belfatto and Michelle Baidino. As very young and talented team, with only two starting seniors, Renee Skinitis and Christine Rooney, we broke many of our prior year's records; we survived numerous injuries with flying colors (including Maricot's "10" injuries alone), and we improved with every game throughout the season. (Well, almost every game.)

The highlight of our season was our 17-16 victory over Brandeis, the 1990 New England Champions. We played flawless and our offense was unbelievable. Other very close and exciting games included our 12-11 victory over Suffolk and our thanks to all of our loyal fans (we hope they'll be more next year) and congratulate Kelso Rennick and Michelle Baidino as being selected as next year's captains. The departing seniors, Renee, Celeste, and Roos want to wish Good Luck to the 1992 Women's Softball Team — Let's WIN that tournament this year guys!!

It is a matter of great pride for us parents to congratulate our ward Rajiv Patodia who is graduating this year. Babson College deserves our felicitations for providing a lively atmosphere and devoted services of the teaching staff, administrators, and the supervisors who have taken pains to impart tuition with professional and parental care. We shall remember the Babson for all the times and we do hope that they will attract many more great students from various corners of the world from time to time. We congratulate once again Rajiv and also all those who are connected with his college career.

Heartiest congratulations Narendra!
You have been you by sincere efforts in spite of your Social Presence Status you achieved all this success. We are grateful to the Almighty God and our Guru-dev by whose blessings you are rewarded.
It's been 10 long years Narendra. You have been away from home. You left home when you were 10 years old, immature, ignorant of the outer world, but now we shall receive a fully Blossomed Brilliant Scientific - Intellectuallly Matured Narendra who has not only succeeded in achieving academic degree but also has learned the art of turning obstacles into opportunities.
Love,
Mom and Dad

Demos Demosthenes
Demos,
We are very proud of you and all your achievements. We would like to wish you the best of luck in the future. We hope you achieve all your dreams and hope that you overcome any obstacles with the same heart and mind as you did in the past. We love you!

Happy Graduation from your parents and your brother

Felipe Ventura
Fidel, with your effort you have showed us that you were worthy of our trust, we are sure both your grandfathers would have been proud of you as well. Your graduation from Babson has brought happiness to all of us.

Dear Gappy,
CONGRATULATIONS! We are very proud of you. You have exceeded our wildest expectations. Wishing you happiness in the future.

Christina March
Congratulations — all our love
Mom, Dad, and Perrin

Lisa George
There never was any doubt in our minds that this day would come. We remember you saving our pennies during your childhood years in the big "Jink bunny" insisting "this is for college." Then in high school when you went with Martha to her college campus, you came back determined. One weekend on the Babson campus with Laura and we knew you were committed. But when you started to work two and three jobs to help finance the school of your choice, then we knew that graduation day was going to be a reality, not a dream.

With that kind of drive and determination, your future looks bright. We are going to enjoy watching you progress through these years as you did your childhood years. Like we said before, there was never any doubt in our minds.

Congratulations!
Love,
Mom & Dad

Marcie Thal
Dear Marcie,

Congratulations on your graduation. Another task well done! You never cease to surpass our expectations. You have worked very hard and you do begin a new phase of your life. I know you will do your best and be a great success. I hope that your children give you all the love and joy that you've given us.

With lots of love on your graduation from your very proud father.

Beth Snyder
You're a very special daughter So this comes with pride and love We wish you all the happy things You're so deserving Of this comes with thanks for all the joys You bring year in, year out Just being the kind of daughter Parents dream about.

Congratulations on your graduation.
We wish the best to all the 1991 Babson graduates.

Fritz-Gerald Mauigle

How wonderful to share the joy of a son’s accomplishments. To be sure, Fritz-G always was a caring, humorous and engaging person loving life and its challenges. But still, his election for President of the Student Government Association as a write-in candidate came as a complete surprise. We thank the students and staff of Babson College for their trust and confidence in Fritz-G’s leadership abilities, willingness to learn and “keep the community spirit” going and “to make a difference.”

Fritz-G, our warmest congratulations!
Doctor and Mrs. Donna Mauigle

Jennifer Collins

You walked onto campus as our little girl

Soon to be caught up in that campus swirl
Your graduation day is here at last
These Babson years went by really fast
Soon you will be marching across the Babson lawn
And our little girl will be all gone

A wonderful woman has taken her place
Filled with charm and sophisticated grace
You’ve filled our hearts with parental pride
And the love we feel we could never hide

Congratulations Jennifer

Tracey Wise

From Pittsburgh to Kenya to Boston, England and Scotland you’ve had your fun, but your journey has just begun. May the past guide you through the future to where you want to be. We’re proud of you!

Megumi Shiino

We, the parents of Miss Megumi Shiino, are so pleased that our daughter has had such an auspicious event of graduating from the Babson College. It is entirely through the excellent work of the faculty and the students in the college as well as through her own efforts that she could spend her substantial but happy campus life for the past four years. We are proud of Megumi. We hope she will become a true cosmopolitan. Thank all the ladies, gentlemen and students concerned with the college.

Congratulations and best of luck in the future. Love, Merry
Congratulations, I knew you could do it... I just didn’t realize you could do it so well. We’re all so very proud of you, Love, Pat.
In the beginning you had doubts that you could make it at Babson but you have now proven to yourself what I have always known: that you have the talent, intelligence, energy and ambition to do anything you want. However, just remember that your future happiness and success depend not only on reaching your personal goals but also in maintaining your values and in the love you now have and will find in the future from those who care for you so much.

Congratulations, Dad

As you graduate from college, I can’t help but think of the poem which I gave you when you graduated from high school. It told you to think of your own thoughts, set your own course, live by your own standards and create your own destiny. You certainly have done that at Babson. The same advice holds true today; however, I must add to the above. Continue to grow, remember to be a person of value first and person of success second. I’m really proud of you and I love you dearly.

Love Always,
Mom

Jennifer Fumara
Were all very proud of you and your accomplishments and wish you great success in your endeavors. As you travel through life, remember what Roger W. Babson stated in his autobiography, Actions and Reactions: ‘...Experience has shown that there is one chief reason why some succeed and others fail. The difference is not in knowing, but in doing. The successful man is not in superior ability in action. So far as success can be reduced to a formula, it consists in this: Doing what you know that you should do.’

Jeffery Loui
Jeff, congratulations on an outstanding job. We all wish you a bright and happy future.
Mom, Dad, Lee and Jen

Kim Cobbish
I am proud Kim, of your many awards and accomplishments at Babson. The leadership roles that you have been selected for indicate not only your skill to govern fairly and supervise administrative details, but more importantly show the respect that your peers have for you. I am proudest of all Kim, because I know how hard you worked and the extra effort you made so many times, when it would have been more fun to follow the easier path. Your academic and leadership achievements at Babson are a precursor of what we hope will be a lifetime of success, health and happiness.
Love, Dad

Congratulations! Your four years of hard work and dedication make this a very special, rewarding day. Remember success is a state of mind. Very often the difference between achieving your goals and not is simply thinking I can’t instead of can I!!
Now, take time to enjoy your achievements.

Scott Doherty
After four years of anxiety, fear, retardation, disappointments, pleasant surprises and occasional joy over hard-won successes you have finished a tough job. The happiness, satisfaction and good memories lie ahead as you reflect on what you have experienced. Mom and I are extremely proud of you and love you very much. May the Lord bless each step you take.

Gary Steiner
Congratulations on your graduation! You have worked long and hard to achieve this milestone in your life. Perserverance, discipline and a never give up attitude are the most important attributes an individual can possess to achieve success and happiness in any endeavor. Winning, in my opinion is not everything but doing your best is! Kipling said it all in his famous poem, “If you can fill the unforgiving minute with sixty seconds worth of distance run, yours is the earth and everything that’s in it; And which is more — you’ll be a man, my son.”

Michael LaBar
Michael,
It has truly been an enriching experience journeying with you in scrutinizing all your hopes and dreams for a happy and successful future. We couldn’t be any prouder of you! Continued success and always be sure of our love and support.

Dad, Mom and the rest of the clan.

Margie Sudore
Congratulations Margie! We thank God because he has rewarded your efforts and dedication by permitting you to have studied and graduated from Babson College. We know now that you will initiate your professional practice, you will continue to work hard towards the achievement of your goals with the same high ethical and moral standards that have always characterized you.

Thank you for the innumerable pride, joy and satisfaction that you have brought to us.

Your family and friends who love you very much.

Susan Reardon
Congratulations Susan! We’re very proud of you. May your future goals be attained with equal pride and determination. We love you! Mom & Dad

Julie Sullivan
Magnificent! Congratulations on completing another major step in your life. You should be proud of your accomplishment and happy for having the friends you met at Babson, including the times you shared with them.

You have given me pride and happiness in your success, joy in your zest for life, understanding in helping resolve issues, and love in sharing your life. Only a friend can cherish your special moments. Your graduation from Babson College is a very special moment for you and all of your friends. Although you have a member of friends, I am proud to have the special privilege of being your friend and your father.

As you proceed in life, I wish you happiness, true love, and success.

Love,
Dad

Benjamin Lazar

Benjamin Lazar and his family add their congratulations and best wishes to the class of 1981. It is our hope and expectation that each of you will act as a person of thought and think like a person of action.

Craig Basch
Craig, Congratulations on your graduation. We are so proud of you. Although we know there were some difficult times we never doubted for a moment that you would succeed, you always do. “What we have to learn to do, we learn by doing.” The world is out there waiting for you, Craig, go out and get it!

Love,
Mom, Dad, Gram, Keith and Kerry

Jason Fasciole
Dear Jason,
Congratulations on your graduation from Babson. We are honored to share in your achievement and have always been rewarded for the faith we had in you. We also take this opportunity to thank you for the many ways you have contributed to our lives. The future is yours but hopefully we may share in part as we have shared the happy times in the past. Our love and support will always be for you.

Sal, Helaine, and Adam

Larry Spinrad
To Larry,
Congratulations.
You have made us very proud of all that you have accomplished. We wish you much luck, happiness and success in the future. You’re very special and deserve only the best.

Love,

Kymberly R. Caltre
Kymberly, graduation is an exciting time of your life, when your goals and accomplishments have been achieved through your hard work and perseverance. No matter what direction you choose you should know your family wishes you happiness and success for today and all your future tomorrows.

Congratulations with All Our Love,
Mom, Dad, Michael, Erin, and Sean

Karen E. Glennon
Dear Karen,
We are both so very proud of your accomplishments. Well, your college days are finally over and you have the future in your hands.

We know you have enjoyed your years at Babson as much as we have enjoyed seeing you grow into a beautiful young lady.

We love you.

Grace and Bob
(Your Mom and Dad)

Dan Marston
Dar, you are a great son and have always been a fine student. From nursery school through college, you’ve demonstrated your ability to grasp the essence of social, academic and business situations. Your success at Babson will pave the way for what we know will be a fruitful and meaningful professional career. Good luck and God bless!

Closing

To capture an entire year between the covers of a book is a difficult task. This was the challenge that the 1991 Babsonian staff took on with little knowledge or experience. We tried to cover as much of student life as possible, however it can't all be done. I hope the memories that are derived from this edition will reveal the time and hard work that was put into its creation.

In sincere appreciation for even the smallest things that were done to help in the completion of this year, I would like to thank Liisa Carow, Karen Chin, Laurie Maggiore, Lilly McSwiney, Wendy Miles, Beth Sneider, Marcie Thal and Trish Zampell. Much thanks also must be extended to John Carrier, our Herff Jones representative, for his assistance during times of deadline pressure.

I hope that years from now the 1991 Babsonian will spark fond memories of your years at Babson, because then we have been successful. I congratulate the class of 1991 and wish them all good luck in the future.
