Msgr. Lally Provides Insight
To Ecumenical Council

Monsignor Francis Lally, Editor of the BOSTON INDEX, discussed the Ecumenical Council before the Newman Club of Babson Institute on January 28.

The Msgr. spoke of the Council in a manner characteristic of his fine analytic mind and wit. He pointed out that the Ecumenical Council of the Roman Catholic Church was opened by Pope John XXIII in a magnificent ceremony at St. Peter's Basilica at the Vatican on October 11, 1962. The Msgr. was in the Basilica but said that he probably would have had a better view of the ceremony had he been in his home room and witnessed the events on television.

Nevertheless, the pagetan was truly remarkable because some 2,000 prelates from all corners of the earth participated in it, including eighty-one cardinals, nine patriarchs and almost all the key officials of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Msgr. pointed out that this was the 21st Council in Church history and the first one since 1870-79. A "council" is a gathering of Church officials to assist the Pope in determining certain aspects of Church dogma and to find new interpretations for Church policy. On a few occasions in the history of the Church, some view the fact that the Council should have authority over the Pope, however, the doctrine of papal infallibility generally prevailed. Msgr. Lally discussed some of the more major areas of doctrine taken up at this first session of the Council (the second segment of the meeting in September, 1963) he stressed the views of some that the Latin mass should be abandoned in order that the Mass might be said in the native language of whatever country the Mass took place. The Latin language is the universal language of the Church, however, some people in the Western world identify it with domination and this is hardly an asset in spreading the truth. Much discussion focused upon the modernization of certain Church procedures and giving more power to members of the hierarchy at the national and diocesan level.

Before answering questions, the Msgr. pointed out that he was not worried about Pope John's age and health since many opened questions whether he would live to see the Second Ecumenical Council in September, 1963. The Pope's health did not seem to limit his vision.

However, this Council was a most important event in church history. The Msgr. in his concluding remarks said that the Council was a most important event in Church history and that it certainly would be a turning point in the Church world and in the Western world.

TO THE EDITOR:

"...our job is to print the news and raise hell, with the kind permission of Bert Powers if possible, but without it if necessary."

So wrote James Reston, chief of the New York Times, Washington bureau, in the one column of his that he was refused permission to write. Mr. Reston was surprised for fear that his Washington correspondent would take offense, and the settlement between the printers and the publishers would be jeopardized. This is a sad state of affairs. Mr. Reston was right; the right of the man to exercise his opinion and observations of what goes on in the world around him. There were times when the newspapers were able to say what they thought, and the idea and opinionated without having to fear what someone might think; but that no longer is the case.

"Our hats are off to men like James Reston who are willing to say what is on their minds without fear of repercussion. To Bert Powers, all that can be offered is the deepest sympathy and hope that in the future he will understand the purpose of the press."

"A Democracy cannot exist as a permanent form of government in an environment of 'Patriots!'" The Star-Spangled Banner discovered they can vote themselves large out of the public treasury. From that moment on the majority always votes for the candidate promising the benefits from the public treasury with the result that Democracy always collapses over a Dictatorship and then a Monarchy."

GREAT SHOW

Newman and Sinai Understand Brotherhood

In their successful attempt to promote brotherhood and the enjoyment of companionship with fellow Americans, Mr. Newman and Mr. Sinai have created a venture just out of ourselves. The scene of the gathering, the Italian-American Club of Nativity, was fufilled, so enjoyably wild that all were verbace in expressing appreciation to the sponsors of the show. The two presenters were the originators, and the legatee to beer consumer; 164 gallons of beer consumed by approximately 300 students in 3½ hours.

Aside from the serious-drinking and funnaking is the mature manner in which both organisations approched the affair. The men worked hard in proportion to what they realized that it's difficult to get students to move. But when the students are encouraged to partake with student friends and so do, they then understand the value of school spirit, of bridge and of fraternity. Furthermore, the men arranged dates for 48 Bahson men.

Too, to the credit of the organizations the entire evening was unmarked by any poor show of respect. Screaming students worked in concert with hipster twig sounds for an amazing effect.

 Hats off to both organizations! You have served Bahson a good diner. The taste will linger on till another is served.

Is jealousy that changes the O'Great Western Power? I am of the opinion that political expression, be it to the right or left, does not always place its seal on the college campus. Lo, the voice of the apathetic.

Kenneth H. Gold

to the editor:

We represent a group of Indian students studying in the Boston area and are deeply concerned about the recent developments in India. With the exception of serious problems such as land reform, there is much pressure on Indian men and women to Indianise and to westernise. This is a danger, for India has a history of over 5000 years, and it is our conviction that India is a land of many cultures, and that the Indian people are capable of building a new society that is unique in its own right.

It is also true, however, that India is a country where the native mind is not always free to express itself. The Indian people are free to express their own mind, but it is not always easy for them to do so. The freedom of speech in India is not always easy to achieve. The Indian people are free to express their own mind, but it is not always easy for them to do so.

In the case of the events of the past few months, the Indian people have been free to express their own mind, but it is not always easy for them to do so. The freedom of speech in India is not always easy to achieve. The Indian people are free to express their own mind, but it is not always easy for them to do so.

Very truly yours,

SOLVING CONFLICT OF INTEREST

There is increased recognition of the importance of solving conflict of interest. He felt that registierung of the student body, or perhaps because of the "new manage-tial" techniques that are creating a real problem. It is important by making it possible to substitute "the real interests of those who place commerce a strong moti-many of the smaller businesses and these are aware that in the future,
NEED FOR SANCTIONS

Another challenge he felt would be an attempt to solve the problem by the Swiss system of providing a fund to provide a fund to those who are interested in returning to the world of business, whether it is executed by greedy dictators from impoverished
South Africa or nations amissed by arming the rebels. It is a challenging problem, or perhaps through threats of international sanctions or by to a higher level of morality.

CONFIDENCE OF FUTURE

The speaker concluded on an optimistic note: "Americans have a great deal to offer the world. We cannot meet them again." He extended an invitation to all present, "We cannot meet them again."

The LEAST FOR THE MOST

One Small Voice

As has not been the rule in the past, the electric progress has been more of interest to students if somewhat of an article written in the past, and today is also how it has changed over the years.

Hollywood, as many other im- nerent, has gone through a meta- change, as a result of some of the things that we have been told about being in the same era of films. In Hollywood in the twenties and thirties up until 1937, the silent era was to be thought of the age of the great silent stars like Chaplin, Ford, Garbo, and many, many more. These were the stars that made the world go around, and a lot of the stars could afford and in many cases be supported by the mov- iegies. Hollywood in the twenties and thirties was best remembered for its huge amount of greater producer distributor studio known. Parties every night and the stars had a sense of cinema and the movies and the people. In the past they had been right in a majority of cases.

Meanwhile, the business condition indicators have taken the "now you see it, now you don't" attitude, moving first one way and then another and in what seems to be a manifestation of a yo-yo economy. While this is a bit annoying, it is very interesting because of the what is going to happen. Of course, there is probably a month or so before we know the true nature of business conditions.

Making predictions in this context is a dangerous pastime, for the five times during the past year writing and printing are liable to bring any number of modifying circumstances. In spite of this, we are going to try to see if we can have no interest in entering the market at this point, and because the same is true of the funds we are going to be prone to accept the evidence that the technical analysis and the business condition indicators be expected that the Dow averages will have at least a secondary sell-off in the next week or two after the Dow has sunk into the 660-669 region. It is doubtful whether such a sell-off will in a significant degree present many opportunities for profitable, short-term profit taking may well be in order.

The Editorial is a statement, like an article which describes reality. If you have something to say in the light of the Editorial, "we have a statement," it is a full commentary.

In the past, political interest on the campus has been a cyclical thing with an annual period. Having a major peak every four years and a minor one every two. If several groups with a personal interest in these things have been involved, it is possible for certain destruction of our economic system.

Small-minded people would say, "you cannot do it any other way." Selfish motives weaken our way of life. If Americans recognize Communism as being the threat to our security and relatively, Communists stand in diametric opposition to the most far reaching social and democratic history of our nation. If we do not hold to self-evident truths, Communism will continue to do its thing in every corner of the world. Thus, a group of businessmen and labor contribute to corruption and delusion. Some businessmen and labor are not Communists and Americans. They must be educated and convinced until they co-operate to weed out the Communists and get every last shred of truth about themselves and the public. To get even with our enemy, they will have to defend ourselves as well as get nothing for nothing. Furthermore, the very fact that business and labor are not used to an enemy is a great problem, long lasting. In general, the Communist case is not easy to prove, and the only way to win is to prove it one way or another.

Negotiation is our obvious attempt to take the peaceful road. All over, a great deal of this is being destroyed. In many cases, the American people are not aware of the fact that they are taking part in a great national crisis.

Over the past two years the American people have been on the right track. Many great strides have been made. But we must not let our guard down. We must continue to work and to think until we have a firm foothold on the right track.

Kelley Presented McMillan Cup At Association Dinner

Last Saturday night the New England Inter-Collegiate Sailing Association held its annual banquet at the University Club in Boston. At this time, Ted Kelley, who is the President of the Boston Yacht Club, presented the McMillan Cup by Paul McMillan, a prominent New England sailing man and skipper of weatherly, the successful defender of the America’s Cup, McMillan Cup charger presented to the rest of the crew which includes Bill Kelly, John Jensen, Renny Damron, Louis Bradly, Bob Coleman, Gordon Amory and Eric Jontrum.

One of the many highlights of the evening was the announcement that a perpetual trophy for the winner of the New England “B” team eliminations, would be named in honor of Paul McMillan for his eight years of faithful service as the graduate treasurer of the New England Inter-Collegiate Sailing Association. The first winner of the Paul Staatke Trophy is yet to be decided pending a decision of the tie that occurred last year between Boston and URI.

The trophies that will comprise the McMillan Cup were announced last night. The McMillan Cup is a presentation of personal coaching by Jack Brinkley, who will be unable to attend. Nominal trophies came as a symbolic appointment.

FRESHMEN - NEED MONEY POSITION AVAILABLE

Athletic Director Tom Smith has stated that the DEC experienced a need to make the Africanist of the Assistant to the Athletic Director, is open to applicants. This position is a highly desirable one and can be sold as an extremely profitable opportunity. There are a few requirements for those wishing to apply. First, the applicant must be freshman, and second, no appointment is made until after the CFA, and they are sure to give Student Affairs & Co. trouble in the playoffs.

Our poor Red Sox will not be as good as they have been in recent seasons. In fact one baseball publication has ranked them as high as fourth place. I think this is a little far fetched, but at least they will be interesting to watch this year. The looting of colorful players like Dick Stuart and Orange Mays should make the Boston a far better attraction at the gate. The hope is that they are better in the field also.

BASKETBALL: Babson was its first swimming meet, which has been scheduled for the Tuesday of each week. The team has been scheduled for the Tuesday of each week. The team has been scheduled for the Tuesday of each week.

Sports In Short

Number of players still in tourney

As of February 13th, Bryant Hall had forged into the lead in the battle for the intercollegiate championship. The reason for this surge by Bryant can be traced to the last three years, in its undisputed basketball team and strong ping pong showing so far. Off campus, which had led at the end of the fall term, has felled back to the third place. The basketball team has not been able to play a basketball game and its volleyball team was eliminated in the second round of the NCAA. This is very close between Monarch and Babson with a mere 3 points separating the two. Both teams have had an outstanding year and this is the year they could reap the difference. Bryant plays Babson in basketball on Wednesday and Babson plays on Wednesday. A pair of Bryant losses could inspire Monarch and Babson to make the race for the Puck Bowl very interesting.

FRESHMEN - NEED MONEY POSITION AVAILABLE

Athletic Director Tom Smith has stated that the DEC experienced a need to make the Africanist of the Assistant to the Athletic Director, is open to applicants. This position is a highly desirable one and can be sold as an extremely profitable opportunity. There are a few requirements for those wishing to apply. First, the applicant must be freshman, and second, no appointment is made until after the CFA, and they are sure to give Student Affairs & Co. trouble in the playoffs.

Our poor Red Sox will not be as good as they have been in recent seasons. In fact one baseball publication has ranked them as high as fourth place. I think this is a little far fetched, but at least they will be interesting to watch this year. The looting of colorful players like Dick Stuart and Orange Mays should make the Boston a far better attraction at the gate. The hope is that they are better in the field also.

BASKETBALL: Babson was its first swimming meet, which has been scheduled for the Tuesday of each week. The team has been scheduled for the Tuesday of each week. The team has been scheduled for the Tuesday of each week.

As of February 13th, Bryant Hall had forged into the lead in the battle for the intercollegiate championship. The reason for this surge by Bryant can be traced to the last three years, in its undisputed basketball team and strong ping pong showing so far. Off campus, which had led at the end of the fall term, has felled back to the third place. Neal Shultz: Senior Neal Shultz is back for his third season on the Babson varsity basketball team. Neal, who is 20 years old, is a guard and stands 5 feet 10 inches. Neal is a native of Elyria, Ohio where he played three years of high school basketball. He is a Distribution major and currently is Assistant Manager of the Babson student union in addition to being on the Student Traffic Court and being a Physical Education Instructor. This season, as in the past, Neal has been a hardy reserve at guard, filling in for Frank Ribby, E. J. Baylow and Al Goodwin. He can fill in at either forward or guard and stands 5 feet 11 inches. Wayne is currently Treasurer of Student Government. In the fall, he was on the Junior Committee and was co-captain of the varsity soccer team. Wayne already has three varsity "P's" and should be getting a fourth at the close of this loop season.

Mermen End 13-Meet Losing Streak

The Babson men's won the first swimming meet of the year, nearing assumption College by the score of 48-46. Babson was led by a pair of triple winners in Cops. Peter Simont and Doug Robinson. This was Coach George Wheeler's first victory in two years, breaking the skin of 13 straight defeats.

Doug Robinson led Babson into the scoring column by winning the 200-yard free style. Simont captured the 60-free (20.38 foot), followed by Jay Dunn winning the 500 individual medley to put Babson in a short-lived lead. Assumption, however, came back strongly by winning the next two events: the diving and the 100-yard butterfly.

Simont came on strong in the last leg to gain a victory in the 200 freestyle with Davis adding vital third place points as he had in a 50-Free. This event scored at 39 to 29, but Assumption scored first and second places in the 100-yard backstroke putting Babson behind 157-137. Babson needed to win the last three events if they were to attain victory.

Doug Robinson came thru with his second victory of the night scoring decisively in the grueling 100-yard freestyle with Gary Irons placing third. Then John Maacre added surprise victory in the 100-breast stroke. This left Babson only three points behind, and the opportunity of winning the meet with a win in the 200-yard freestyle relay.

The 200-yard freestyle team is composed of Peter Simont, Rich- ard Dais, Doug Robinson and Jay Dunn. Simont got Babson a full-length lead which was lost when Dunn suffered a cramp in his leg. Doug Robinson, however, came thru with a tremendous effort to make up the lost ground. Dunn held the lead for the win and victory over Assumption.

Congratulations to Coach George Wheeler in 'Lucky 14'. At this time, however, it is appropriate to say that the Coach has done an outstanding job with the limited number of swimmers.

POSTURE AID

Do you have a Volkswagen posture? Are you a 77-year old weedling?

THE DAILY UNIVERSITY, Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah recommends fencing. At Brigham Young the 'gentleman's sport' is competitive. Two fencing classes are being held, and three will be taught next semester, including one taught by a woman instructor.

Advantages of fencing, besides good posture, include learning to make quick decisions. The teacher noted that dressing and fencing go hand in hand because of the rhythm involved, and that fencing often aids dramatics majors because of techniques learned in the offensive and defensive arts.

AN UNWRITTEN RULE FOR FLOATS

A float was caused at Boston University over a College of Business Administration homecoming float which was purchased ready for exhibit, with no student work needed.

BU NEWS, campus newspaper, said this violated no regulations set up by the rally committee but did violate the spirit which had been taken for granted. Building of a float is not only a chance to favorably display imagination, but also it serves as a way to bind numbers of a school or organizational together in a common cause, it also fosters spirit.

The CBE 'Winter Arm' float, which won a first place award, had violated this unwritten rule. The blame rests with the Student-Faculty Assembly which saw fit to set no limit on expenditures or the parade entries.

A PLEASANT CRY

'Dear Delphine'

Dear Delphine,

God, how the time does fly, it seems like only yesterday that we were together again.

The compassion and the solitude have become almost unbearable. The day rush into the night and the hours seem very long-it is really a horrible feeling, to miss, and yet to know that the ties of distance are much too long to break.

They often ask a soldier to be brave but the inner battles of conflict are much too much to stay up to.

Yes my love, I am breaking up both inside and out, to be able to talk to you and hear you yet you are so far away, I can’t hide it, I can’t sleep, I can’t possibly go on much longer without you.

Henry Ford: The Fabulous Ford Story

Robert E. Cohon

(No. 3 in a Series)

Once again I wish to express my appreciation to Mr. David J. Willis for his permission to use this serial presentation from his excellent "First-hand History." Writing Mr. Willis, I told him probably the most respected critic of the automobile industry, commonly considered to be true only in the daily and accuracy of his writings, is the author of "Mr. Ford's Design." Now let us see what Mr. Ford's design and what Mr. Ford's significance is to the industry.

FORD'S FIRST AUTOMOBILE

A red brick shed which Henry Ford later moved brick by brick from its original site in the rear of his early home on Bagley Avenue, Detroit, in his "Early Days," was the birthplace of the Ford car. A close-up view of the car, looking at the headlight and the steering wheel, is a picture.

Ford began his experimental work in the shed in 1893 and 1894 and was completed in 1898. It was on this car that after 7 years of work, his first "four-stroke engine" was finished. It was too large to go through the door, so some of the parts had to be shipped out to the vehicle into the open.

Ford encountered numerous difficulties. After assembling his first vehicle, he counted himself lucky for trying to perfect the "exigencies," that made noise, freighted horses and emitted smoke as it crept through the streets of Detroit. He discarded it, however, having lost a special permit to drive his machine about the city.

FORD WAS 20 YEARS OLD when he began this experimental work. It was 11 years later that he organized the present Ford Motor Company, which he had designed and made a number of other motorcars in that decade. Among these was the famous "999", Ford's historic contribution to automobile racing.

Near the turn of the century, Ford organized his first business venture, the Detroit Automotive Co., with a capital of $250,000. As designer of the company's product and holding a one-fifth interest, Ford was made chief engineer. Unaware of the national depression, he sold the plant for $250,000 cash in 1899, took over a small bicycle shop and began development of what proved to be the first of a long line of cars bearing the Ford name.

BIRTH OF THE FORD-MOTOR-CO.

The first home of the present Ford-Motor-CO. was a relatively small two-story frame building on Mack Avenue. A few years later, when operations began to feature articles of incorporation were filed July 16, 1903. The articles listed a capitalization of $100,000, with only $25,000 cash paid into the treasury. It has been said that Ford literally had to plead with the men who became his early associates, and that one of them, a Detroit banker, had to be persuaded against loan.

Henry Ford at the time held 25.3 per cent of the stock. In 1908 he acquired the holdings of some of his early partners who desired the future of the company. He acquired the holdings of some of his early partners who desired the future of the company. He acquired the holdings of some of his early partners who desired the future of the company. He acquired the holdings of some of his early partners who desired the future of the company.

In 1913, when the majority of the company's stock was held by Ford family interests, 41.5 percent came into the possession of Edsel B. Ford, who as Henry Ford's only son, succeeded his father as president of the company. The greatest success came after the Ford family alone controlled the company.

FORD'S task was not made any easier by the fact that he had developed a somewhat different business philosophy from his former partners in the Detroit Automobile Co., which preceded the present Ford Motor Co. Ford resigned after working more than a year as chief engineer of the former concerns, disagreeing with the policies of his associates.

The amazing development of the Ford motor car is the story of an automobile company that has grown from a bicycle shop to a giant enterprise. The company started with $10,000, and gradually expanded until it became one of the largest automobile manufacturers in the world. The company's rapid growth has been attributed to the use of mass production methods, which allowed for the production of cars at a lower cost. This, in turn, made the cars more accessible to the average consumer.
