NEWSWEEK EDITOR SPEAKER

Leon Voltov, Soviet Affairs Editor of Newsweek Magazine, will speak at the Rockefeller Institute Auditorium on April 11, 1963. Born and educated in Moscow, Voltov served as a consultant to several government agencies during the Cold War. He has been a frequent guest on television programs and has written extensively on the Soviet Union and the Cold War. Voltov has been a vocal critic of Soviet policies and has advocated for closer relations between the United States and the Soviet Union. He has also been a vocal advocate for human rights and democratic reforms in the Soviet Union.
THE EXEC
A STATEMENT OF POLICY

With the turnover of the higher echelon of the EXEC and the concluding of old policies and practices, in this, the first EDITORIAL of the new regime, the Editor feels it necessary to set down a written statement of literary and editorial policy, to prevent misconceptions and incomprehensions.

The policy of the EXEC will bear upon anything and everything that can be critically condensed: the only stipulation for censorship lying in fact and good conscience. Any idea or idea will be spared from criticism, as long as it is worthy criticism. Careful planning and research will be a part of all editorial material.

The idea of student-oriented editors is basic and will be current in deviations due to subject matter, it will only be expounded on general principles regarding college life, and its influence will be a new and valuable effort.

Above all, we encourage student communication. Letters to the Editor are welcomed, as well as comments from the administration. All letters will be signed, but signatures will be withheld upon request. Again, the only stipulation will be that the comments be factual and in good taste. The judgment of the Editor is final, a need for letters rejected for the above reasons will be returned to the writer with options presented: one, he may withdraw the letter entirely, or two, he must agree to have it printed with his name signed.

News is an integral part of all newspapers and this will be kept in all other papers. It is of interest to the campus, whether the subject be announcements, alumni news, campus developments, or special events. News items will be presented currently, without any attempt to editorialize or bias.

Possibly the most talked-about section in this paper is the Financial Aid. The previous type of controversy, but a constructedly written expression of student thought, and it should be read as such.

One general purpose of the EXEC is a vehicle for communication within the student community. Now an additional purpose has been added: the inter-fraternity sports add a major portion of this intangible to the Bahson campus. For this reason, the sports pages can now be fully explored, including comment on national events.

To borrow a quote from President Reston, the theme of the EXEC is summarized: Our jobs is to print the news and raise hell.

FINANCIAL AID

Applications for all financial aid including scholarships, loans, grants-in-aid, work-study, and work-study programs and prosthetics are available in Dean's office, May 1, 1983. Appeals for undergraduate financial aid and prosthetics should be made by letter to the Financial Aid Committee and must be received by April 15.

All applications for financial aid must be made early.

WESLEY WEICHENBERG

Westley Weichenburger, withdrawn from his own violation from Bahson, will continue for medical reasons, so case was never presented to the current Judicial Court, and, therefore, cannot be heard by the Court.

"WHY DON'T THEY DO SOMETHING?"

"So they've made a mistake, they're going to fail, they're going to lose.

"So why don't they worry about the 100 other things that are going to happen?

"So we've got teachers at home, more of them try real hard not to make mistakes.

"That's what's happening. They're not going to be perfect, they're not going to be perfect, because what do they know about living? They know it's going to be a mess, and they say, Why don't they do something?"

"What can we do? Everybody's complaining about the school, average, student, aptitude, and discipline, but no one speaks for the time they're a boy like this one."

"What would be different?"

"Well, maybe the new EXEC will speak out on some of these issues. It's time important issues get to a student.

"Let's hope so. I know we'll be back next week, maybe someone will join us."

A MATTER OF IMAGES

A few weeks ago, after the most recent mudslide in the dining room, Dean Stephens reminded us that we have an image that must be upheld both within and without Bahson. Our image is something we work very hard to uphold; this image is, therefore, essential that we don't develop into this little den of debauchery. This image is that of all other images, not based on truth. What is the illusion? There has been much failure about the new curriculum that is to go into effect next year, and for the most part it is to solidify the already excellent business preparation that Bahson offers. There is one thing which this curriculum lacks that will be the overall effectiveness. The inclusion of the English courses that are offered; in fact, there has been a cutback.

Even though Bahson is not for its non-professional courses, neither are professional courses for its non-professional courses. The main goal is to be a faculty committee for the purpose of determining competency in English.

Do you think future students are going to lose their minds? This is a question that is in the interest of the student and that of the student.

Max Blaissewell expressed the need for good writing: "Good writing is good writing. It is not a matter of competency and incompetent writing is the difference between communicating and not communicating. It is the difference between being on two different levels. The graduate of Bahson will have a hard time understanding the Bahson image if they do not have the ability to write a coherent business letter or if they do have to depend upon having a secretary who does all the letter writing and editing."

All the handbook of rhetoric and grammar can be of little help if it is not what you are to practice, and if he can be of, then there is not much concern with it.

"Language is thought itself, without it, there is no thought."

The Brothers of Alpha Delta Sigma Fraternity would like to take this opportunity to offer the tagline and pictures of a brother for the spring term and hope that everyone will be profitable both socially and academically. In the next chapter, the Brothers were at work helping students select a college where they thought that spring is here, our thoughts have turned towards home and with this in mind our calendar was planned. Without a doubt, this term will be one we shall never forget.

Along with the beach parties and social events, we will also be our annual field trip to Carling's Downtown, which always seems to be a big success. Several professional activities will be held this term as well. All we can say is that we hope you enjoy them and that spring term will be just as exciting.

May 50 8:00 A.M. Campaign begins.

This simple announcement at the bottom of the second page of the newsletter will begin our campaign. It is to remind the presidents of campus organizations of their responsibilities in student activities. Mayorality campaign week.

We have been looking forward to this year's campaign, and much of the groundwork for the campaign has already been discussed at informal meetings. Mayorality campaign is a part of Spring Weekend, the campaign beginning on May 20 and culminating with an event on the second floor of the High Noon the Thursday night in which all candidates will be given a chance to debate.

After an all-school vote of the candidates, election results will be announced at the Saturday night dance.

HILDA SILLASSE
Last Year's Mayor

S.A.M.'s Mayorality candidate, Steve Lee Dallas Hall campaign last year's campaign where three organizations entered - Society for Advance Women, Delta Sigma Pi and Alpha Kappa Psi. The theme of S.A.M.'s campaign was that of foreign relations. The slogan for the campaign was "Sillasse's Haven" and the candidate was C. Garis Butler. Our campaign was patterned after the one by Tony Zaksawick, idee "Hope for Power Evermore." S.A.M.'s campaign was popular at this time, and consequently Sillasse has no political backing of any readers of this column.

But for a change of pace, I went caving last week. At抢先 the other night with a few friends for dinner in the barn. I met a friend of mine there that I had not seen for two months. We had a great time eating and drinking, and the company was excellent. I really enjoyed the experience and can't wait to do it again.

I have already started the term off by getting a closer look at downtown Boston. In the past, I have been fairly satisfied in staying pretty close to our own area, because we are fortunate in having a few good restaurants in the area.

The past few days have been spent in acquainting myself with some of the well-known and not-so-well-known places in Boston. I must confess that I have always been a bit hesitant when it comes to trying new places, but I have managed to come up with a few that do offer some variety.

POOR VIRGINIA GETS IT AGAIN

My Two Cents' Worth

Jorrett N. Day

In the last issue of the Exec, Don Monagas wrote an article on Virginia Wellesley. The letter geneticists have been very critical of the coal and I can't feel that there is another way of looking at the coal that the coal has hurt our business. We have composed an open letter to Virginia Wellesley and Mr. Monagas will benefit from this.

Dear Virginia,

I guess it’s as good a time as any to sit right down and write you about an article that has been bothering me. In my concern about Virginia Wellesley and the coal I can’t feel that there is another way of looking at the subject that is not relevant.

If you and I are too young to accept what happens without questioning and, as a result, find ourselves reacting negatively, it is your duty to question those things that you don’t understand or accept.

There is one thing that you should be careful of in your life. This is a person who is knowledgeable on the more whole aspects of life. In other words, Love, and what goes with it, is a subject that does not bear fruit in providing a certain acumen of topics as we shall see in the discussion that follows. Virginia Wellesley will see each other the next time we meet and, nothing will need to be said. It is then that you will have wonderful ideas for what will be so long seen will all time. You then will have to use those ideas and satisfaction.

To best describe the Bermudian Women behavior, let us follow our live Bajan men through their daily routine. Awakening at the crack of dawn, the men greet their loved ones and begin their day. They then return to their residences and attempt to resume their normal lives. After breakfast and after delivering their wares, they begin an arduous battle of working for the construction company or an impressive establishment leading an unsuccessful attempt to find an appearance at the beach. The Bermudian women is not meant to be a woman who is a breadwinner, but a woman who is the head of the household. The men are not made to be breadwinners, but they are also not made to be men who are breadwinners.

The women are the main source of income for the household, and the men are the main source of revenue for the household. The women are the main source of revenue for the household, and the men are the main source of income for the household. The women are the main source of revenue for the household, and the men are the main source of income for the household.

The Royal Brunch-Meal: As Bajan hospitality provided the money, West Shaw Hall provided the venue for the event. Many people came to the Royal Brunch-Meal, and many more attended the event. The Brunch-Meal was a huge success, and the Royal Brunch-Meal was a huge success.

On Thursday, March 14th, the new Student Development Committee was organized, and its first function of this committee is to collect data and develop plans on the design of the new common rooms, and to solicit funds to help in the construction of these areas. The Student Committee will be in the dining hall this evening. The Committee of Trustees has also given full support for this committee and expressed their appreciation for the student interest in the development of the campus. In addition to the soliciting of funds the Committee will make a list of needed items such as tables, records, record players, television sets, magazine subscription, furniture, etc., which will be asked for prospective donors.

The actual soliciting of funds and material items is not possible until next fall because of little interest on the part of this school. However, the committee will be in full operation during the spring quarter and collecting student ideas for the new sites.

It is expected that construction of the new hall will begin this summer. If it is completed during the school year, the old dining hall will be converted to the new commons. The hall will be in full use sometime during the next school year. Students are encouraged to give the Student Development Committee their full support. A meeting of the committee will be held this week, committee members and anyone who wishes to join should watch for the bulletin board for the notice.

CUBAN AID PROJECT

By HENRY B. CLAY
Executive Vice President and General Manager
Radio Station KWKH, Shreveport, La.

Those who place the United Nations first apparently will have a difficult time ahead.

The first week of February brought out the fact that the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), to which the U.S. is the largest financial contributor, had declared a boycott on Cuba. UNESCO decided that Cuba had been using its financial aid for political purposes.

No sooner had this outrageous piece of pro-Soviet propaganda been released than the U.S. government responded. President Kennedy announced that the U.S. will proceed with the 15 million agricultural aid project for the Soviet Union.

The United States, which contributes 40 percent of the Fund's financial resources, rightly protested against this outrage. But this was not sufficient to stop the boycott.

Regardless of what anyone says, the idea that this will stop Cuba from exporting rice to the U.S. is a delusion. The project involves the establishment of an agricultural experiment station in Havana Province that will be of assistance to Cuba's collective farm operation.

The U.S. government, very properly, told the Soviet Union that this project constitutes aid and comfort for an enemy of freedom, for a nation that crossbones its own people and threatens all the free nations of the Americas.

It is not the amount of money that is in jeopardy, but the principle involved.

What counts is the principle of the thing, and the principle is that the people of the United States should not be permitted to contribute a single dime to the bloody Castro dictatorship.

It is especially ironic that the U.S. Special Fund wants to subsidize an agricultural project.

Who will be the beneficiaries of foodstuffs grown under the supervision of a Cuban agricultural engineer in the service of Castro's regime?

But there are thousands of Russian soldiers in Cuba, and they are well fed. The Russian conquerors have everything, no doubt, and this U.S. project could help produce more vegetables for the Russian field kitchens.

The U. S. aid project for Cuba may be the straw that breaks the camel's back. Cuba, with a mere 7 million people, millions of Americans are war-weary and most of them are profoundly indignant that they were in effect substituting the U.N.'s war-weary food aid in Cuba for U.N. agricultural aid in Kenya. They could not do anything about it. But the U.N. plan to send money to Cuba is too much for Americans.

Already there is a Congress resolution that calls for a complete cutoff of all U.S. funds to the United Nations if the U.N. Special Fund persists in aiding Fidel Castro and his Russian masters. Such a resolution should enjoy the wide support: in Congress from both sides of the aisle.

If there is one issue on which all good Americans feel strongly, it is the Cuban issue. It should be clear that the U.S. public will not countenance financial aid to the man and the regime that are out to destroy our enemies.

The American people would not for an instant tolerate direct financial assistance to Fidel Castro.

It is certain that, if they know what is going on, they will not stand by while the U.S. Special Fund is used as a source of money to provide a Russian satellite in the Caribbean with money furnished by the people of the United States.

Congress, as the source of operating funds for all government projects, should proceed to issue an ultimatum to the United Nations: 'No money for Castro.'

If the U. N. Special Fund refuses to halt financial assistance to the Castro dictatorship, then the United Nations stands exposed as a mere front organization and financial pipeline for the Soviet world conspiracy.

Now is the time for Congress to act.

Movie Review

Douglas Fairbanks as Mark Twain in "Days of Wine and Roses."

"Days of Wine and Roses" is not a pleasant picture. Weak-willed people are caught in a madamty of blotting, but it is not nice to look at because it is ugly. The film is a study of a desperate woman, and it is a study of a desperate man.

Two of the most exciting portrayals this reviewer has ever seen are brought to life by Jack Lemmon and Lee Remick. Both actors were nominated for Academy Awards for their acting in this film. And the film has a lot more to offer than the average Broadway show. It is a story of two people, of two lives, of a love, of a marriage, of the breakdown of the marriage, of the breakdown of the family, of the breakdown of the man, of the breakdown of the woman.

The plot is simple: Boy meets bottle...boy meets girl...through the magic of wine, a love is born. Then the relationship falls apart, and the lovers are left with nothing but the bottle.

"Days of Wine and Roses" has a wonderful cast of characters, a great script, a great direction, and a great photography, Greta Garbo, and a very imaginative director, Jack Lemmon. The film is a study of two people, one husband, and one wife, and it's a study of marriage, of family, of love, of life.

SUNSET PARKHOUSE

The Boston Red Sox will be an interesting team to watch this year, but they still have a long way to go. The switch from Dick Stuart, Roman Mejias and Felix Mantilla from the National League will add panache to the Red Sox. The team will still have a few good players, but they should hit more often during the Red Sox half of each inning with these three new right-handers. But, the Sox will still be a good team. Hoyt Wilhelm will be 40 in July, and bold Dan Ricketts just passed 40. The pitching will be good, but the offense will be weak. The free agent list will include such names as Billy Martin and Earl Wilson are solid starters, but the 162-game schedule demands 4 or 5 starters. The Sox can be beaten by any team on any given day. The Boston Red Sox, with its pitching, can be beaten by any team on any given day.

Red Sox Take 7th by Small Margin

Red Sox, White Sox

The Kansas City A's are assemble a band of good hitters who can't hit. They are the last team that would hit the worst in baseball except for the Cubs and the Mets of the National League. Total combination of batting by the Kansas City A's is .228. The pitching is weak at this position that Haywood Sullivan, ex-Boston catcher might be their regular. Fortunately for the Kansas City A's, Charles Drysdale, Boston's center fielder, was dealt a hand of hard bunting from the left side of the infield. In fact, Drysdale will have to do a lot of work in the field and in the outfield.

Senators Sinker into Cellar

The Washington Senators have Chick Hinton, a good young outfielder and pitchers Claude Osteen, Dave Stenhouse, Tom Cheney, Don Rudolph and Benjie Daniels. These five will lead the team from opposition from scoring many runs, but if they score at all, they will probably beat the Senators who have no scoring punch in them in the American League.

A LAW VIOLATION

The attorney general sent a memo to Clyde Frede, chairman of the Board of Regents, who was a member of the Board of Regents, who was a member to college and university affairs. The attorney general said that he had stopped distribution of samples for the reasons given by Mrs. Kester. The boxing director said that he would believe samples such as these have been distributed in campus dormitories.

The statute in question has been in effect for years and has been violated for years.

SUNSET PARKHOUSE

Wellness Day

Wednesday, April 10, 1963

The Boston Red Sox will be an interesting team to watch this year, but they still have a long way to go. The switch from Dick Stuart, Roman Mejias and Felix Mantilla from the National League will add panache to the Red Sox. The team will still have a few good players, but they should hit more often during the Red Sox half of each inning with these three new right-handers. But, the Sox will still be a good team. Hoyt Wilhelm will be 40 in July, and bold Dan Ricketts just passed 40. The pitching will be good, but the offense will be weak. The free agent list will include such names as Billy Martin and Earl Wilson are solid starters, but the 162-game schedule demands 4 or 5 starters. The Sox can be beaten by any team on any given day. The Boston Red Sox, with its pitching, can be beaten by any team on any given day.

Red Sox Take 7th by Small Margin

Red Sox, White Sox

The Kansas City A's are assemble a band of good hitters who can't hit. They are the last team that would hit the worst in baseball except for the Cubs and the Mets of the National League. Total combination of batting by the Kansas City A's is .228. The pitching is weak at this position that Haywood Sullivan, ex-Boston catcher might be their regular. Fortunately for the Kansas City A's, Charles Drysdale, Boston's center fielder, was dealt a hand of hard bunting from the left side of the infield. In fact, Drysdale will have to do a lot of work in the field and in the outfield.

Senators Sinker into Cellar

The Washington Senators have Chick Hinton, a good young outfielder and pitchers Claude Osteen, Dave Stenhouse, Tom Cheney, Don Rudolph and Benjie Daniels. These five will lead the team from opposition from scoring many runs, but if they score at all, they will probably beat the Senators who have no scoring punch in them in the American League.
