these conclusions regarding the Institute's role in social conduct, and devoted itself to comparing those rules which exist at Babson to both the aforesaid philosophy, and policies in existence in other schools. In both cases, the Committee found Babson's policies now prevailing, to be flagrantly antiquated, totally incongruous with the aforesaid philosophy, and, then, short, greatly in need of revision. The Committee, therefore, vehemently urges that the Babson Open House policy be:

Sunday through Thursday 12:00 noon to 11:30 p.m.
Friday 12:00 noon to 1:00 a.m. (Saturday)
Saturday 12:00 noon to 2:00 a.m.

In keeping with our attempt at logical formulation, it should be realized that the above hours were determined in the following:

Let \( k \) represent the proper liberal and progressive educational philosophy.
Let \( x \) represent the approximate median of curfews employed by near-by female institutions.
Let \( y \) represent the approximate average permitted open-house hours contained in the Committee's survey of selected American colleges.
Hence, \( k \times (x - y) \) = open-house recommendation.

The Committee strongly feels that in keeping with the current times, and likewise, in keeping with the current trends for "comprehensive collegiate education," the above recommendation should be acted upon immediately.

Under its present policy, the Institute does not condone sexual intercourse in the residential units. This policy is now enforced under the rubric of "etiquette behavior," as set forth in the Babson Student Handbook. In order to protect the Institute from allegedly condoning fornication, the Committee recommends that these vague standards be made more explicit.

That the Institute assume that its residential units will not be used for sexual intercourse, and that abuse of the Institute's position may result in disciplinary action.

The following standard shall be signed by the students of the Institute:

"1. I, a student at Babson Institute, do hereby stipulate by my signature affirmed below my recognition and acceptance of the responsibility enjoined unto me, and to my fellow students, by the extension of Open House hours."
Police Abuse

The hiring this year of a young, aggressive man to the Bahoon police force was an event that received full coverage in this paper. We feel that speeding, reckless driving and transgression by outsiders on the campus has become severe enough problems to warrant a policy of more effective law enforcement.

We had, however, a number of reservations: Would a sudden reversal of policy, from leniency to stringency, have undesirable effects? Would excessive "on-campus" tactics be the price of increased authority? The answer to these queries is a regrettable yes.

An increasing number of complaints have been voiced by dormitory residents, students and their guests about the behavior of the police officers while patrolling the campus. Reports of unwarranted searches, confiscation of personal property, and excessive fines have been heard. There is a great amount among the student body over these flagrant violations of authority and courtesy. Unless action is taken to curb Bahoon's zealous efforts, we can predict a severe and damaging student reaction.

In an effort to avoid any conflict and bring about an end to these "storm trooper" tactics, the EXECUTIVE is requesting that all complaints relating to any actions taken by the campus police be sent to this office—Box 460. We will compile this data and present it to the proper authorities. Only in this way can a justifiable argument for a reversal of current policy be heard.

The peaceful channels of change must be tried first.

A Responsible Balance

Fall Weekend provides many students with a chance of peace from the pressures and rigors of mid-term examinations. It is a time to relax, socialize and enjoy. Too often, the freedoms are abused and the balance of authority and concern for the welfare of the students is lost to which they will return on Monday.

It is urged that restraint be exercised this weekend. The facilities of the Sports Car Club is at stake: any drinking at the Gymnasium will spell death for that organization and its programs. The future leaders of the Student Government are at stake; the Administration and Trustees will be present and their appraisal of student maturity and attitude will bear directly upon their decision for or against Government's proposals, e.g., curfews, partial hours. The future of Bahoon is at stake: Fall Weekend coincides with Homecoming, and the impression taken by the returning alumni of you, the students of Bahoon, undoubtedly will affect their financial decisions in the future of your college.

This is Fall Weekend, a time to forget one's cares. It is also a time of deep responsibility to yourselves and to Bahoon Institute. Let's try to maintain a balance between the two.

LIBERALIZATION

CONCLUSION

Institutions, and especially universities, are, of course, conservative and traditional-bound by their very character. But the mark of intelligent conservatism—and of an intelligent institution—is that it preserves and remodels itself as needs be. We advocated the incremental method of reform, and we further suggested that under no circumstances be disposed of in a little likelihood that the University's administrators, faculty members, and students will speak or act irresponsibly—so long as all have confidence.

The Committee vehemently feels that if Bahoon Institute is to sustain its role as an intellectual philosophy and discipline, there is no better way to be adhered to. It is, therefore, in the progressive spirit of our times that the Committee submits this report, and unequivocally urges its immediate adoption.

*Note: This recommendation has been formulated in accordance, especially, with the following institutions: Colgate University, Dartmouth College, Harvard University, Stanford University, Pomona College, Harvard College, Wesleyan University, Antioch University, Trinity College, and Brown University.

NEW — FIND SCHOLARSHIPS BY COMPUTER

Last year $30 million of college scholarship money was awarded on the basis of need. This year $50 million is available — but for students who can prove their need.

How? EICS, a new computerized program, offers the answer.

EICS will hold a one-time competition for scholarships worth over $500 million, to permit students to apply and quickly locate scholarships for which they qualify.

The students fill out a questionnaire which EICS, with a one-time computer-processing fee of $100, sends to the appropriate computer centers for ratings against requirements of grants, scholarships, and loans awarded by educational institutions, private, religious, and governmental organizations, and private and governmental agencies.

A personalized report is sent to the student telling him which scholarships he qualifies for, to which he should apply, and the amount of each award to which he may apply. EICS will also help the student in the selection of schools. There is no charge to the student for this service, and no obligation of any kind.

EICS is a service provided in the interest of higher education and is open to any student who needs assistance in securing scholarships.

THERE ARE NO BAD TEACHERS; THERE ARE ONLY BAD STUDENTS

The academic year has just begun and already one thing is clear: you're not ready for college.

What, then, should you do? Should you throw up your hands and quit? I say no! I say you must attack, grasp, cope! I say America did not become the world's leader in motel construction and kidney transplants by running away from a fight!

To the question then: You say you're not ready for college. You're too green, too naive. You lack maturity.

Okay, the answer is simple: get mature. How? Well, sir, to achieve maturity you need two things:

a) a probing mind;

b) a zest.

A probing mind will be quickly yours if you'll remember that education consists not of answers but of questions. If you only accept information and dismiss memorizing data as high school stuff. In college you don't just accept. You dispute, you push, you pry, you challenge. If, for instance, your physics professor says, "The only way that I know how to deal with this situation is..." you ask, "Is there another way?" Don't just write it down. Say to the professor, "I think there might be another way." That is the spirit of a probing mind.

This will show him two things:

a) Your mind is a keen, thrusting instrument.

b) You are in the wrong college.

Ask questions, questions, and more questions. That is the essence of mature thinking, the heart and liver of education. Nothing will more quickly convince the teachers that you are of college caliber. And the sooner you recognize this, the better. Come to class with queries that dart and flash, that make unexpected safeties into uncharted territory. Ask things which have never been asked before, like "How tall was Nietzsche?" and "Did the Minotaur have ticks?" If so, were they immortal?" and "How often did Pitt the Elder shave?"

(Incidentally, you may never know the complete answer to Pitt the Elder's shaving habits, but of one thing you can be positive: no matter how often he shaved and no matter what blades he used, he never enjoyed the shaving comfort that you do. I am assuming, of course, that you use Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades, a logical assumption to make when one is addressing college men—which is to say men of perspicacity, discrimination, wit, taste, cogitation, and shrewdness—for Personna is a blade to please the peripatetick, delight the discriminating, win the witty, tickle the tasteful, codle the cuprous, and shave the shrewed.

I bring up Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades because the makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades pay me to write this column, and they are inclined to ask if I omit to mention them, how I would not like to see them unhappy, the makers of Personna, for they are fine ruddy men, fond of Morris dancing and home brewed root beer, and they make a blade that shaves closely and cleanly, nicklessly and hacklessly, and is sharp and gleaming and durable and available both in double-edge style and Injector style. (And from these same bearded blacksmiths comes Bruma-Shave, regular or menthol, a lather that outshaves other lathers, brother. So if you'd rather lather better, and soak your whiskers wetter, Bruma-Shave's your answer.)

But I digress. We have now solved the problem of maturity. In subsequent columns we'll take up other issues, equally burning. Since 1953 when this column first started running in your campus paper, we've tackled such thrummy questions as "Can a student of 19 or 20 have happiness with an economics professor of 90?" and "Should we support the picket line at the Post Office?" Are room-mate sanitary?" Be assured that in this, our 14th year, we will not be less bold.

The makers of Personna Super Stainless Steel Blades (double-edged or Injector) and Bruma-Shave (regular or menthol) are pleased (or appeased) to bring you another year of Max Shulman's unshackled, unencumbered columns.

This Week's EXECUTIVE Secretary

This week's EXECUTIVE Secretary is E. J. Davis, a freshman at Landau Jr. College. Her interests include tennis, football, knitting, and she is an enthusiastic fan of the Pittsburgh Pirates. This cheerful beauty is 5'1/l0 tall, and weighs the same as a wiry-95 lbs. K. 3 plans to major in Spanish, hoping to eventually become a language interpreter.

Parking (Car-park, Forty.

This action has arisen out of an apparent misunderstanding between the Administration and the campus police. The "use" of this area by outsiders has been a thorn in the side of the college, but Babson students in the past have used it discreetly, and will be permitted to do so in the future. This was the view of one Administration official. A Babson student, in a car with a sticker, will be asked to show identification or leave the area.

Booters Win Two

In the last two of three games Babson nipped both Assumption College and Boston University by the score of 1-0, but lost to Bates College 3-1.

Against Assumption and B.U., Elliott Collins and John Watson, respectively, provided the scoring punch, which was the winning margins for Babson. Elliott Collins headed the ball into the Assumption net with the assistance of a fine corner kick by left-winger Rory Mercenier. Against B.U., John Watson, assisted by a pass from Richard Bright, easily punched the ball past the defending goalie. In the loss to Bates College, Rory Mercenier scored the only Babson goal with a fine unassisted smash from in front of the goal.

Around & About

by Bob Ramer

Questions: What is your impression of Babson?

Gene Garnett—Junior—Wellesley— I don’t know much about it, but it is a place where wealthy business men send their sons to learn the “trade.” The boys, in general, have a very sappy opinion of themselves and throw wild toasts at parties or whenever they get a chance. However, this is all hearsay.

Ellen Burns—Senior—Wellesley— As far as getting a business education goes, Babson is excellent. The social side of Babson is perhaps more illuminating than the intellectual. Babson parties are fun depending on who you go with to the party.

Cici Ramsey—Junior—Wellesley— Well damn! the school itself is in good but as far as the people go—if you disregard (1) the parking lot which looks like a 1968 showroom, (2) The spectacles who frequents the Wellesley College library, (3) The snobbish jacket set and (4) The Athletic Director and those brothers of Delta Sig who feel obliged to hustle me—they’re not a great

The Air Force doesn’t want to waste your Bachelor of Science Degree any more than you do.

B. Sc. Those letters have an impressive sound. But they won’t be so impressive if you get shunted off into some obscure corner of industry after you leave college. A forgotten man.

You want activity. You want to get in there and show your stuff. All right. How do you propose to do it?

If you join the United States Air Force you’ll become an expert fast.

The Air Force is like that. They hand you a lot of responsibility first. Through Officer Training School you get a chance to specialize where you want—in the forefront of modern science and technology. Suppose, for example, you wanted to become a pilot and serve as aircraft commander on airplane crew. You’d plan missions and insure that the aircraft is pre-flighted, inspected, loaded and equipped for the assigned mission. You’d be trained to fly exciting aircraft. Instead examples. There are so many more.

So it’s pretty nice to enjoy officers’ pay and privileges? And serve your country, as well? Also, you get retirement benefits, 30 days paid vacation, medical care, and a liberal retirement plan.

B. Sc. Very impressive letters. Now, do something with them.

TIME

The longest word in the language?

By letter count, the longest word may be pseudepigraphic: macromicroepicococollycocallycozy, a rare lung disease. You won’t find it in Webster’s New World Dictionary, College Edition. But you will find more useful information about words than in any other desk dictionary.

Take the word now. In addition to its derivation and an illustration showing U.S. map points, you’ll find clear definitions of the different meanings of the word and 77 idiomatic phrases.

In sum, everything you want to know about time.

This dictionary is approved and used by more than 1000 colleges and universities. Isn’t it time you owned one? Only $5.95 for 1760 pages: $6.95 thumb-indexed.
