FOREWORD

This 1949 Babsonian is published in commemoration of the 50th Anniversary of Babson Institute. A review of the year's record as herein set forth will quickly indicate the extent of the tremendous progress made by our school over this short period of time.

It is with conscious pride that we, the student body, view the present status of the Institute. The vigor of our Founders has been transmitted to all who have been associated with the school, with the result that the present milestone marks a record of accomplishments far out of proportion to the time-span involved.

It is particularly gratifying to have Mr. and Mrs. Babson among us for the celebration of a significant anniversary. Association with the Founders of one's alma mater is not an ordinary experience. Their presence on campus has proved to be a source of inspiration to the student body as well as a determining factor in the Institute's development.

We believe the following pages offer convincing evidence to substantiate our pride in Babson Institute.
DEDICATION

We, the graduating class of 1949, dedicate this our Babsonian to Mrs. Roger W. Babson with warmest respect and devotion.

It has been said that behind every great man stands a great woman. You are loved by all of us for your greatness—your greatness in giving unsparingly of yourself to Mr. Babson in his time of need and your greatness of continuing inspiration, kindness, and gentle modesty.

The men of Babson Institute, past and present, are indebted to you for your assistance in planting and cultivating that generous spirit from which our Institute has grown. We salute you as a Founder and as one who has given all of us a genuine basis on which to build and enrich our lives.

You presented to the Institute, in your father’s memory, the Richard Knight Auditorium. The Sir Isaac Newton Room and the peerless collection of Newtoniana are further examples of your gracious generosity. All are precious heirlooms that we, and future generations, are privileged to live with and call our own.

By your examples we have learned the value and witnessed the rewards of a religious life, a religious life that teaches us to live and find our place among our fellow men.

MESSAGE

François Villon once wrote a very moving poem of which the refrain line was, "Where are the snows of yesteryear?". As I dictate this message to the Class of 1949 and other friends of the Institute on March 18, 1949, the ground is white with snow and a thoroughgoing New England blizzard is still raging outside my window. Can you, from the vantage point of warm, sunny, June weather look back upon the snows of last winter? If you can, let me urge you to look back even further through the past thirty years of Our Mutual Enterprise.

When Babson Institute was founded in July of 1919, the first class of 25 men met in a private dwelling house at 31 Abbott Road for instruction. From such a humble beginning Babson Institute has developed into one of the outstanding colleges of Business Administration in this country with a beautiful rolling campus of 340 acres, 16 up-to-date buildings, a student body of over 500, a substantial endowment, and a future as bright as the proverbial pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. What has contributed to make this tremendous change in our resources in the course of 30 years?

The first and most natural answer to my question will be, of course, Mr. and Mrs. Roger W. Babson. Their unswerving faith in the ideals of the institution, their devoted attention to its development and growth, their most generous and repeated contributions to its financial stability through land, buildings, and endowment, have been and will remain indispensable to the present development and future reputation of the Institute.

In the second place, the patient, careful hours of teaching contributed by the many members of the faculty over the past thirty years together built a reputation for successful business training which has given Babson Institute its present enrollment and high position in the field of business education.

Thirdly, the intellectual and extracurricular efforts of the student body during the thirty years of the Institute's growth, first as undergraduates and later as graduates of our program, have made fundamental and essential contributions to the intangible assets of the Institute by their success, first on the campus and then in the field of business. Our reputation today as a leader in the field of business education is due to their heroic efforts and signal successes.

In the fourth place, the wise, forward looking counsel of the Trustees and the Incorporators in safeguarding and directing the resources of the Institute should not be forgotten. Without their prudent supervision our physical and financial structure might be very much less secure, with the consequent curtailment of our opportunities for service to the educational world and the business community.

Therefore, it is with real feelings of humility and responsibility in carrying on Our Mutual Enterprise that I salute in this, the thirtieth year Babsonian, all those individuals and groups who have together given of their funds, their minds, and their hearts to create an ever better Babson Institute.
FOUNDERS' DAY

The second annual celebration of Founders' Day was held November 12, 1948, at Knight Auditorium. Conceived by the students for the purpose of honoring Mr. and Mrs. Babson, the assembly this year reviewed the business interests of the founders, thereby indicating the background and experience implementing Babson Institute. The speakers were representatives of the companies comprising the Babson interests. They included Mr. Charles W. Wallour, Executive Vice-President, Babson's Reports, Inc.; Mr. Dwight G. W. Hollister, President, The A. P. W. Products Co.; Mr. E. L. Quinlin, Director, United Stores Corporation; Mr. Lewis W. Mustard, III, Director, Tel Autograph Corp.; Mr. Austin H. Fittz, Director, Gamewell Company; Mr. Roger B. Webber, Director, Atlantic Coast Fisheries Co.; Mr. Ralph B. Wilson, President, Publishers Financial Bureau; Mr. Myron E. Pierce, Director, Boston, Worcester and New York Street Railway Co.; Mr. James G. Hawk, Director, State Street Exchange; Mr. Charles J. McCullough, Director, Boston Sand and Gravel Co.; Mr. Charles H. LaDue, Director, Consolidated Lobster Company.

Mr. Eugene Sanger represented the Alumni Association, and Mr. Proctor Colfin spoke on behalf of the student body.

The presentation of a bronze plaque commending the job done by the Institute during the war in the training of Naval Supply Officers was made by Captain David P. Polatty, U. S. N. Gifts expressing the regard and affection of the students, faculty, administration, and alumni were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Babson.

The program was recorded and made a part of the permanent archives of Babson Institute.
As a vital part of an integrated program, the Babson Hour provides the nucleus for spiritual activities on the campus. Student participation in various denominational groups of the community is well-established, but it is around this Sunday-evening service that the religious life of the school is centered.

Last fall marked the appearance of a new chaplain, the Rev. Dr. Bernard C. Graves. Under Dr. Graves, the Babson Hour has taken the form of a "Fireside Fellowship." Beginning with the winter term, the meetings were conducted around the theme, "A Story of Our Faith," a study of the growth of the different forms of our churches. This informal type of meeting has encouraged the participation of the students in the discussions. Both our founder, Mr. Babson, and our president, Dr. Hinckley, are actively interested in these weekly services and from time to time address the group.

Working in conjunction with Dr. Graves is the Chapel Committee of the Student Council, composed of David Moseley, Sidney Adair, Robert Bartlett, Dayton Brown, and James Saks. Through this group the students assume an active role in the direction of the services which represent their quest for spiritual growth. An intelligent and forceful faith, not only academic and business tools, is essential to the complete man. On awareness of this, the non-sectarian religious program of the Institute is founded; to the fulfillment it is dedicated.

You never know what life means till men die:

Even throughout life, 'tis death that makes men live,

In one sense there is no death. The life of a soul on earth lasts beyond his departure. . . . He lives on in your life and in the lives of all others that knew him.

Organizations
STUDENT COUNCIL

Celebrating an important anniversary can prove of keen interest to all groups that have been connected with the Institute in a span of 30 years. What may well be of closer interest to the present Babson student is the emergence of a Student Council (much too young to even presume to count birthdays) into a governing body possessing considerable responsibilities. That the assumption of such obligations is not an automatic process and that it is accompanied with tribulations as well as triumphs will be readily admitted by most Council members. For it cannot be denied that this group has extended its activities and is steadily wielding more and more power on campus. That it has by no means reached its peak efficiency is also acknowledged. However, it is to the credit of this year’s Council, under the adroit leadership of Proctor Coffin, that a great step forward has been accomplished, a step leading inevitably to the realization of its full potentiality.

In review, the results appear much more striking than they possibly could have in the week-to-week endeavors. It has been well-demonstrated that the student body is vitally interested in the organization representing them and will militantly support them whenever they believe a principle to be at stake.

Representing the student body in a different capacity is the Cabinet. Composed of the heads of the various organizations, it works in an advisory function in conjunction with the Director of Student Activities. Unlike the Council, it is not a formal organization. Rather, it brings to the attention of the Administration student recommendations for the improvement of our extra-curricular program. A smaller group, operating mainly in the informal, congenial atmosphere of dinner meetings, the Cabinet held many a provocative discussion, and it is to be hoped that a still greater cooperation between it and the Student Council may develop, thus carrying the entire phase of student government much faster along the road to complete success.

The third important student governing body is the Athletic Council. One has only to look at the vastly expanded athletic program for proof of this group’s efficacy. The program of these sports’ leaders has never shown signs of faltering, and the results have been progressively more gratifying. That the chairmanship of Ed Pirgas had much to do with this cannot be challenged.

BABSON BEAVER

This student-news weekly, representing the characteristic enthusiasm of Babson men, is the sole reportorial medium through which the student body is informed of campus activities. In its pages, the week is viewed in retrospect, and Babson men relive their experiences of gaiety, gloom, and occasional tensions.

Like many other campus organizations, the Beaver is still a growing infant. Born only two years ago, this four-page baby has been steadily growing in scope as well as in character. This year, with the concerted efforts of an able editorial staff, the paper continued its policy of reporting the news when it was seen, as it was seen. Well-deserving of a laurel wreath is the inimitable team of Bill Arnot and his Royal portable, without whose loyal service the year’s success would not have been possible. Credit also goes to the school’s administration whose generosity and ample guidance has contributed effectively to the year’s operations.

Along with the men of the circulation, layout, and advertising departments, the shutter-bugs and typewriter-tappers composed a close-knit, smooth-running system for turning out a Pulitzer-quality paper. Our most sincere appreciation, though, goes to the man whose steady, editorial hand on the helm has kept our paper on an even keel this year—the Editor-in-Chief, Howard C. Goff.
In its second year of existence the Glee Club secured a permanent niche in the extra-curricular program at Babson. Augmented by an enthusiastic group of Freshmen, the club went on to surpass its excellent record of the previous year. Its season opened with an inspiring performance at Founders’ Day. It later participated in the St. Regis College Music and Dramatic Festival. The year was highlighted by a combined performance with Simmons College of the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta “H. M. S. Pinafore.” On May 4th and 5th the Babson group originated what they hope will become traditional; namely, joint performances in conjunction with local women’s colleges for the purpose of staging major productions.

This year marks the graduation of Bob Jessen, the founder and, for the past two years, director of the Glee Club. The success of this group is directly attributable to his unceasing efforts, and the student body well-appreciates the extent of his accomplishments.

GLEE CLUB

Under the presidency of Jim Evans, the ad men had a banner year in ’49. Babson’s chapter of this National Professional Advertising Fraternity enjoyed a series of successful meetings at which several prominent men from the advertising field supplied newsworthy copy. In addition to the student members joining this year, three professional members were admitted: Messrs. Eugene Kelly and Edward McGee of the Faculty, and Mr. Hoag, Partner, Hoag and Prevande Advertising Agency of Boston. The fraternity is proud to display as faculty advisor, Mr. Canfield, who is also the National Treasurer of Alpha Delta Sigma.

Inaugurated this spring was the first annual Robert J. Murray Memorial Award. In cooperation with Boston advertising firms, the Coleman Chapter sponsored a contest to be held among all New England colleges in which the best advertising project submitted would receive an award named in honor of a former Babson student and A. D. S. man, the late Robert Murray.

ALPHA DELTA SIGMA

The interest expressed in the Foreign Affairs Club gives ample proof that business students—and therefore businessmen—may not be labelled en masse as isolationists. This club, now affiliated with the International Relations Clubs of the Carnegie Endowment, is one of the largest on campus. Like many of the other clubs at Babson, it augments in a congenial atmosphere the academics; similarly, it is instrumental in bringing to the campus qualified lecturers.

The organization has grown to its present size under the presidency of Harry Beers. That his administration has been salutary is indicated by the fact that this is the second year as president. Perhaps it was this accomplishment that bolstered him with sufficient courage to undertake the perilous position of official pollster. Despite the current loss of prestige among pollsters in general, campus opinion was accurately mirrored in the information compiled from the club’s questionnaires. We anticipate next year’s polls with interest, that we may discover if present pessimism still persists.

S. A. M.

Scientific management has advanced from the theoretical stage to the point where every practical businessman recognizes its value. With this in mind, twelve men determined last year to organize a Babson chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management. Like the National Association, from which the charter was obtained, the aim of this group is to spread these scientific principles through discussion and research. It did not take long for the charter members to triple their number. The organizational problems are now solved, and the club can number itself among the few groups on campus boasting of national affiliation.

With Mr. Heddendorf as faculty advisor, the members are assured of many a stimulating discussion. Guest speakers have come from both the ranks of management and labor. Under the direction of Dick Dates, the club has attacked the problems of our modern industrial society and has aggressively searched for solutions to the issues in which we all have such a vital stake.
FINANCE CLUB

In its first complete year of existence the Finance Club generated enough interest to grow into one of the largest organizations in school. A possible impetus to such rapid expansion is the popularity that the subject of Finance enjoys generally among Babson men. The proximity of the large financial centers of Boston and the excellent contacts of our Faculty have proved a boon to the group for the accomplishment of its aims.

The club offers the opportunity for thorough examination of current conditions in the field of finance, and in such times as these it is imperative that the business student be aware of current trends and their significance to the general business and political scene. As the club's first president, Homer Bair can be credited with building up an organization that will increasingly prove to be as valuable professionally as it is desirable socially.

OUTING CLUB

With the general expansion of broad sporting activities, it is not surprising to note that the Outing Club has enjoyed the common prosperity typical of all campus organizations. Through affiliations with the U. S. Eastern Amateur Skiing Association and the Inter-Collegiate Outing Club Association, the club enjoys national recognition. Already possessing a headquarters in New Boston for week-end ski enthusiasts, plans indicate that even more elaborate facilities will be available by next fall. As president, Bill Yeager leads a motley group of outdoor lovers with widely divergent interests. Whatever the sport, the club can find somewhere within its membership at least a couple devotees.

DRAMATIC CLUB

Our local Thespians increased not only in membership this year, but in artistic stature as well. Though no all-Babson production was forthcoming, community offerings throughout the year were noticeably strengthened by the presence of many a Babson player. Men from school could be found in such plays around town as "The Mad Hatters," "Engaged," and "Antigone."

The club members have displayed a considerable degree of diligence in building an enthusiastic organization despite the many technical handicaps they face. Under the direction of Barrett McInerney the group has been working toward the day that Babson will be able to schedule its own theatrical productions.

It is to be noted that a not-inconsiderable advantage of this organization is the close cultural ties its affords with Wellesley College and LaSalle.

CLASSICAL MUSIC CLUB

The Class of '47 probably did not realize that their gift of the Magnavox Console was eventually to be the means around which a new campus organization would come into existence. But it has proved to be this very thing that has resulted in making the Classical Music Club an active campus group.

An excellent start has been made by the organization towards bringing artists to the campus, although recordings are still used extensively for group listening. Plans projected for next year by this year's group optimistically look for a concert series on the Babson campus.

The four men who founded the club, John L. Orser, chairman; Robert R. Leonard, past-chairman; Lawrence W. Liddle and Howard C. Goff are graduating this year. But there is no reason to believe that the club will not continue its present fast rate of expansion. Probably one of the surest reasons is the presence of Mr. Nickolas Rastetzki as faculty advisor.
In spite of a 30th anniversary, this year and last seemed to have marked the beginning of many new endeavors for the Babson student. The Camera Club is a case in point. After an unsuccessful attempt to get started during the war, it took the present company to organize a going concern. Under the enterprising leadership of Phil Heald, the club has raised funds, outfitted a dark-room, and quickly taken its place on campus as a useful and desirable pursuit.

In addition to providing an avocation for camera fans and a means of improving their technical skill, the organization immediately proved its worth in its contributions to the two publications. However, this does not imply a limitation on its activities. The club members themselves own some excellent equipment, and the candid camera fan is a familiar sight around school. The capabilities of the members combined with the facilities of the new headquarters has left little in the line of photographic needs on campus which cannot be met by the club members.

AVIATION CLUB

Last fall marked the reappearance of the Aviation Club after a lapse of seven years. Organized for the purpose of extending business travel in light planes, the club offers training in flying and ground work for students here and at Wellesley College. Most of the members hold either Commercial or Student licenses.

As a member of the Association of Northeastern Flying Clubs, the group hopes to be a challenger for the Inter-collegiate Trophy. Entrants in the meet are required to compete in the following events: precision flying, spot landing, ribbon-cutting, and simulated bombing.

Although the present membership includes former personnel of the AAF, RAF, and the Navy Air Arm, it does not appear that this club will vanish once these men graduate for interest in this club has been high among the general student body. The club consists mainly of freshmen, operating under a freshman president, Dave Pohl.

INTERCOLLEGIATE

SKETE TEAM

SKETE shooting was Babson’s first bid for intercollegiate recognition. Started only two years ago, the sport has grown, from competition with local shooting clubs, to a place of prominence in the national intercollegiate field. As founders of intercollegiate skeet shooting in New England, the Babson group has been instrumental in organizing the sport among the Eastern colleges. The 1948 season ended with Babson Institute being led only by West Point in a field of distinguished rivals at the Intercollegiate Championship Match at the Lordship Gun Club in Stratford, Conn. The final standings for 1948 were as follows: Army, Babson, Yale, and Harvard. The 1949 schedule promises to be many times larger and should find the home team right up there contending for first place.

To maintain their ever-growing schedule and still operate within their budget, the skeet shooters have adopted the use of telegraphic competition with their distant rivals, such as the Universities of Texas and California. This eliminates the travel problem and also gives each team the advantage of its home field.

GOLF is another sport in which Babson has proved very proficient. Last year, in the team’s first attempt at intercollegiate competition, the record could hardly have been more gratifying. While playing ten matches, the team lost only one, winning over such rivals as Holy Cross, Tufts, R. P. I., Manhattan, and Hofstra.

This year the schedule is still more imposing, and expectations are for as admirable a record as before. Additions to the schedule include Dartmouth, Harvard, and Boston College—a schedule, incidentally, which is as fine as any college can boast. Not one of the matches can be considered a breather. The hope is that by summer the Babson golfers, under the captaincy of Dick Gifford, will have a well-established reputation among Eastern colleges.

BASKETBALL came into its own this year as an intercollegiate sport. Although the records show that this game has been one of the most popular on campus and a team has been in existence every year since the early thirties, it was the '49 season that marked the start of a school-sponsored organization. The success of the undertaking is proof of the wiseness of the move. The turn-out for the home games amply demonstrated the school's interest in the sport and in its team.

GOLF TEAM

More than holding its own against the competition, the team finished the season with six wins and four losses. And it might well be claimed that the team has proved more effective than even this record indicates. Certainly not a minor accomplishment was its ability to fester that elusive school spirit.

SKIING this year was faced with, what was to the skiers at least, unfavorable weather. A mild winter played havoc with the original schedule, but the team was able eventually to participate in several meets. As a member of the newly-formed New England Intercollegiate Ski Conference, the team, under the captaincy of Bill Yeager, who also held membership on the N. E. I. S. C. governing board, met with such schools as Boston University, Tufts, Brown, Springfield, and Boston College.

HOCKEY in '49 might also be considered a victim of the vagaries of New England weather. After a valiant start in '48 under Sam Hutchinson and Vern Hodges, the team this year could hardly offset the effect of untimely weather on an outdoor rink. A study of the individual talent indicates a potentially fine team, but it is probable that little short of the use of an indoor rink will solve the problems faced by the hockey squad.

TENNIS promises to rank among the more successful sports at Babson. In spite of a slow beginning in its first intercollegiate competition, last year, indications are that the available talent for '49 will come through the season with a fair share of the laurels. The competition will include matches with M. I. T., Boston College, Suffolk, and Tufts.
The highly successful intramural sports program, now in its second year, can trace its origin directly back to the student body, and, even more specifically, to the present Senior class, with "Red" Evans undoubtedly deserving a lion's share of the credit. For it was their initiative that was responsible for the present organization.

This year teams were organized on a dormitory basis instead of on the previous sectional method. Inter-league competition has thus been eliminated, and the danger of forfeits has been lessened as each group now has more men. The change has also resulted in fostering an increased competitive spirit.

FOOTBALL last fall brought out some skillful purveyors of the pigskin. The result was a hotly-contested race for the championship, with Coleman South finally emerging as the victor with but one loss out of eight games. A three-way tie existed for second place.

SOFTBALL honors last spring went to what at that time was section J-3. They fielded a team which won supremacy in its' own league after beating F-2 in a league play-off, and then went on to capture the championship by downing J-4 in the inter-league play-off. It was this J-3 section that was the winner of the Punch Bowl as a result of its all-round record in the general sports' program.

BASKETBALL proved as popular as ever, and three of the contending teams had a close race for first place. Park Manor
South finally took top honors, finishing the season undefeated. The Off-Campus Seniors were never out of the running, however, and the Frosh up in Coleman South themselves came up as the darkhorse team and very nearly carried away the laurels.

BOWLING was well represented in the intramural program. There was the Candle Pin League, and also an active Ten Pin League. The latter, having to play in the afternoon, suffered from conflicts with the scholastic schedule, but the Candle Pin teams enjoyed a successful season. The Off-Campus Seniors were the undisputed leaders, never suffering a loss. The Faculty was represented in this league, and although they came the closest to toppling the Seniors from their lofty position, the supremacy of the O. C. S. team was never seriously threatened.

TOURNAMENTS were held in tennis, golf, squash, handball, badminton, ping pong, pool, and horseshoes. In addition to these there was the annual Cross-Country run. The honors for that went to Mat Lombardo this year. All of the activities showed an improvement in '49 over the previous years. There were more participants, and the participants showed a higher degree of skill, with the result that keener competition prevailed and interest remained at a high level.

The Intramural Council is now the body responsible for handling intramural policy. Operating under the direction of the Athletic Council, it is their duty to relate the formulated policies to the various sections and, in general, to administer the program.

FORMALS
BABSON QUEEN

Last year's winter Formal at the Copley Plaza Hotel was the scene of the crowning of a new Babson Queen. She was Miss Janis Dean of Orange, Mass. Her escort was Edward Harris.

Selected as the Queen's attendants were Miss Jo Ann Lang, the guest of Dixon Allen, and Miss Eileen Retchell, whose escort was Bill Birkmayer. Representatives of a Boston modelling agency acted as judges for the event, and the Queen, her escort, and her attendants were presented with gift certificates.

In addition to the Formal on Friday, the weekend festivities included an informal dance that Saturday evening in the Cup'n Saucer at which Miss Dean and Mr. Harris were the guests of honor.

One of the most important problems faced by a young man in his late teens is the choice of his life's work. The United States Bureau of Labor Statistics reveals that eighty-seven out of one hundred gainfully employed persons work at some phase of business.

Business needs men who have both a strong preparation in such fundamental business tools - subjects as Accounting, Distribution, Economics, Finance, and Production and a broad cultural background in liberal arts subjects. The Babson course of study gives a man this strong preparation in business and liberal arts areas.

Small classes taught by successful businessmen, field trips, the case study approach to business problems, the use of motion pictures, intensive educational and vocational counselling with students - such procedures develop men with a vocational purpose, well prepared to assume immediate business responsibilities upon graduation.

Training men for business is Babson's business.
