HORN RECEIVES NEW PCS
E-mail migration project is “A little slower than hoped for, but it is still there”

JESSICA BURT]

While students were off campus this summer, Babson’s Information Services and Technology Division was working feverishly on delivering over 300 new computer systems as well as improvements to both the campus-wide network, and applications used by the Babson community.

The improvements most noticeably available to students this year lie in upgrades in the Horn Computer Labs. All the computers have been replaced, updated with new applications and now have CD-ROM drives and speakers to listen to webradio and such. New printers were also added in the labs.

Even more work was done behind the scenes. According to Kathy McCombie, Team Leader of the ITSD Enterprise Services Division, “the backbone of the campus computing environment, which essentially changed our backbones.” Although these changes are

The Women’s Soccer team beat Bridgewater, 3-0, last Thursday and fell to Tufts, 0-1, in overtime on Saturday. The Lady Bears resume play Saturday at Homecoming on the Upper Fields. The game against Bowdoin begins at 11:00 A.M. Next Tuesday, the team plays host again as they take on Salem State at 4:00 P.M. on the Upper Fields.

PARKING YIELDS
LOTS OF PROBLEMS
FOR COMMUNITY

Colleges Addresses Issues
Some faculty and staff are criticizing parking problems.

AMBER HESCOCK

The subject of the parking situation on the Babson College campus is one that evokes an array of often clashing perspectives. The one thing that seems certain is the existence of a lot, one that cannot be eased by the invasion and rearrangement of campus brought about by construction projects.

Public Safety has sent out campus addresses, the new parking regulations with the aim of clearing up misunderstandings concerning parking regulations. Yet some are still perplexed. “It’s confusing being a student who is finding the system. You never know where you can park and can’t park,” said junior Glyla Krantz.

Over the past several semesters, changes have indeed occurred in regards to who can park where. For example, a row of visitor parking existed along May Hill Drive, across from the Trim lot, until the beginning of the last academic year when

GIVE Back to the Community
Looking for More Volunteers as Activities Announced

JONATHON GLOVER

Get Into the Volunteer Experience (G.I.V.E.) is a no-obligation community service program here at Babson that enables students to give back to the community when they take time off from trying to take over the world. The problem is, not many Babson students are giving back to the community. They do not have the time or they are just too “busy.”

It seems as though students are unaware that working with the G.I.V.E. program takes only as much time as you want to put in. A person is not required to put in a certain amount of hours, but can work for as long or as short a time period as they desire. The season is recorded officially on September 21st.

Students who are part of G.I.V.E. meet on weekdays, which is when the group does its community service. Students are able to relieve stress after a rough day of classes while weekends are left free.

Most people abstain from volunteer work because they see it as something that saturates the only free time they have. The program is aware that the students at Babson are extremely focused and their free time is very precious to them, and this is taken into consideration by G.I.V.E. when arranging opportunities for students to give back.

More and more students are realizing the good feeling they get when they give back. This can be seen in the amount of hours of community service G.I.V.E. has done in the last two years. In 1996 G.I.V.E. did 1500 hours of service and in 1997 5000 hours of service were done. This is not much considering that last year only 5 to 10 people showed up on average to any kind of GLIVE function.

Jennifer Berman, a junior and President of G.I.V.E. said that the program’s “goal for the semester is to try and get everyone to go out at least once.” She and Vice President Tim Ryan are trying to get G.I.V.E. to become part of the curriculum. This would happen through classes such as FME or IMC. Berman is also trying to get more activities to be done on campus. One such activity is “Babson Bicycles.”

Ryan and Berman could not stop

Burl Hash Livens Up Sorenson as New Director

LINDSAY A. HORNER

The Sorenson Theater re-opened this year with a bang due in large part to its new director, Burl Hash. Mr. Hash came to Babson College as the Director for the Sorenson Center for the Arts, a position to which he is both dedicated and excited. With endless plans for programs, concerts, and student involvement in the arts, Hash is likely to bring great change and innovation to our school.

Babson looked long and hard to find Mr. Hash by coordinating a recruiting committee designed to find the perfect match for our Sorenson Theater. This committee, headed by Professor Joel Levinson, consisted of a blended distribution of Babson individual students, including undergraduate students, faculty, alumni, and administrators, as well as a hired consultant. This team worked together to select a director who would be able to shape a defined future for our Theater as well as bring in new ideas and experiences for our campus.

Finding the right person was not so easy for this recruiting team, however. After a first round of interviews led to induction among the committee members, the group chose to open again entirely and conduct another search. Levinson relayed that the choice to start over again in this lengthy process was precisely because they had realized how important and demanding this position would be. A second round of interviews was enacted, and after this lengthy process Mr. Hash was finally chosen for the position.

Finding the right person was not so easy for this recruiting team.

Alumni Return for Annual Homecoming Festivities

AMBER HESCOCK

For the first time in a number of years, all students are invited to join in on the festivities taking place during Homecoming Week-end 1998-September 18th and 19th. Homecoming is an annual celebration that brings alumni back to Babson to partake in an event-packed weekend including varsity and alumni sporting events, BBQ, and entertainment. Ellen Solomon, Director of Undergraduate Programs in the department of admissions and Development Programs, explained that this year’s homecoming events are geared toward the entire Babson community.

Homecoming will kick off with the reunion of the Class of 1988, known as the “O” Year reunion, to take place at 7:00 P.M. on Friday at Alumni Hall. The ’88 Class Ball will be dedicated along with the new Babson Seal, which is a gift from the Alumni Hall Board of Directors in recognition of the 75% participation rate by the class of 1988 in the wall project. Since 1994, members of graduating classes have had the opportunity to make donations in exchange for bricks engraved with their names that comprise a commemorative class wall.

The ever-popular Homecoming tradition of Pub night will commence at Roger’s Pub on Friday night at 9:00 P.M. The following day at 8:30 A.M. the Alumni Association Board will discuss plans for the year at its first meeting.

National College Alcohol Study Finds College Binge Drinking Largely Unabated, Four Years Later

PRESS RELEASE

The nation's preeminent survey of college drinking finds that "binge drinking" continues largely unabated on American campuses today, based on its second survey of 116 nationally representative universities and colleges across the country. The report, released last Thursday at a press conference at the Harvard School of Public Health in Boston, is a follow-up to the 1983 landmark study published in the September issue of the Journal of American College Health.

The survey finds that one third more drinkers "drink to get drunk" in 1997 compared to 1993, with the proportion increasing from 38 percent in 1993 to 52 percent in 1997. The number of drinkers who were drunk three or more times in the past month increased by 22 percent. Four of five fraternity and sorority members are still binge drinkers.

The report, from the Harvard School of Public Health College Alcohol Study, was based on the responses of 14,521 students in 1997 and compared to those of 15,103 students surveyed in 1993.

Overall, two of five (42.7 percent) were reported to be binge drinkers in 1997, a slight decrease from 44.1 percent in 1993. Half of that group, one out of five students (20.7 percent), were frequent binge drinkers compared to 19.5 percent in 1993. Significantly more students abstained from drinking in 1997 (10.0 percent), up form 5.5 percent in 1993.

Drinkers experienced more alcohol-related problems in 1997 affecting their health, education, safety and interpersonal relations. These included driving after drinking, damaging property, getting injured, missing class and getting behind in schoolwork.

In 1997, one in five students (18.8 percent) experienced five or more different alcohol-related problems, an increase of 21 percent since 1993. In 1997, more than a third of the students surveyed (35.8 percent) reported driving after drinking, a 13 percent increase form 1993.

The study reports that four out of five students (77.8 percent) who were not binge drinkers and who lived on campus experienced at least one second-hand effect of binge drinking, such as being the victim of an assault or an unwanted sexual advances, having property vandalized, or having sleep or study interrupted.

barely noticeable to the end users, they were essential for future improvements in ITSD and technology for entire the campus community.

One planned improvement that has not been fully implemented is the school's migration toward a new e-mail client: Microsoft Outlook Express. The new system required a major capital expenditure in an IBM AS/400 server replacing nearly 25 separate Vines servers. Originally, the migration was scheduled to be ready for the start of school. McComb commented that the project is going a little slower than hoped for, but it is still there. Delays are among the severer ramifications of a number of Babson business processes, such as the online room reservation application.

The infrastructure for the new system was developed this summer. ITSD quickly realized the many problems associated with getting the 7000 end users acquainted with the new program in a short period of time.

To aid in the transition, McComb is simply, "getting out and talking to people." One problem she has encountered is, "people

Michael J. Conlon Memorial Scholarship Award
In honor of Michael J. Conlon and his love for Babson, the Michael J.
Conlon Memorial Scholarship Fund has been established. The $10,000 award is presented in the fall at the Undergraduate Awards Ceremony to a junior who best meets the qualifications below.

Michael J. Conlon graduated cum laude from Babson College in May 1956. He was a member of the men's varsity basketball team, a four-year leader, and the team's captain during his senior year. Michael was an officer of the Cardinal Key Honor Society, staff writer for the Free Press and a Poor Writing Consultant.

Qualifications which govern selection are as follows:

1) A junior who exemplifies the qualities of leadership and academic achievement.
2) Has contributed to the life of Babson College in a significant way.
3) Applications are to be submitted to all Junior students, and can also be submitted through McCombs Office in Student Financial Services at mcombs@babson.edu. All completed applications must be delivered to Ellen Solonati at Alumni Hall by 11:30 a.m. on Friday, November 1st. The winner will be notified in late October.

CCD Department: Senior Recruiting and Internships, and Career Services Hours

Senior Recruiting
Congratulations Seniors! The Senior Recruiting Kick-Off was a great success. On Monday over 300 students piled into Knight Auditorium to show their enthusiasm and gain important recruiting information!

Remember: To finalize your registration for recruiting, you must submit two original resumes (on bond paper) that have been approved by a CCD counselor and email an electronic copy of an approved resume to ARLGEN/COC as an attachment. Save the electronic version as the first 7 letters of your last name and the 1st initial of your first name.

CCD counselors will be available daily from 9 A.M.-12 P.M. Monday through Friday for SIDNOR RESUME CRITIQUE and APPROVALS until September 21st. After 21st, stop by during our regular drop-in hours for approval. The first resume collection for employers will take place on September 21st. Don't forget to log on to the Recruiting Schedule Website at http://www.babson.edu/ccd/usabouthm. Remember that opportunities posted on-line are only a fraction of those available throughout the year, so check the schedule regularly.

What's HOT:
The Career Expo offers students amazing opportunities! On October 1st, join CCD in RCC 241 at 4:30 P.M. or 7:30 P.M. as they present "Making the Most of Career Expo." Learn how to use this great opportunity to gather important information and receive a listing of the companies attending Career Expo on October 1st. You now have an entire week to research companies and get the most out of the Career Expo experience! Plan your strategies and mark your calendars.

Internships
Internships provide excellent opportunities to apply what you've learned at Babson and can play a tremendous role in your future career.

CDT loves more about internships available at Babson students, check out the Center for Career Development's web page http://www.babson.edu/ccd/usabouth.htm. Be sure to click on Undergraduate Internships to view the latest listings. All internship information is available to you through this online system that you may access at any time. This system is updated as new internships become available, and it also provides links to company homepages for you to learn more about a prospective employer.

You may also visit our office on the second floor of Hollister Hall. Come in to discuss internship opportunities with a career advisor or schedule an appointment with Melissa Coveney, who will be managing the Undergraduate Internship Program this year.

CCD Hours
Office Hours at the Center for Career Development are 8:30 A.M. to 4:30 P.M. on Mondays, Tuesdays, and Fridays and 8:30 A.M. to 7:30 P.M. on Wednesdays and Thursdays. Drop-in hours are 1:00 P.M. to 3:00 P.M. on Mondays, Wednesdays, Thursdays, and Fridays and 10:00 A.M. to 12:00 P.M. on Tuesdays and Thursdays. For more information, please call x 4215.

Alumni Return for Homecoming Events
The Homecoming BBQ is scheduled for 1:00 P.M. Saturday on the Upper Athletic Fields. After a brief hiatus from this event, the "Tent," complete with beer, is back this year! A BBQ for MBA students, both current as well as the class of '98, will also take place on the Woodland Hill Quad at 1:00 P.M. on Saturday. Festivities are of no cost to students; the only requirement is a Babson One Card and additional identification for those 21 and older.

A "Family Business Network Open House" and children's entertainment will be among the many activities happening around the tent on the Upper Athletics Fields, alongside the Homecoming BBQ. The New England Revolution is also holding a clinic for kids beginning at 1:15 P.M. The Esther/Ohrchestra will make its debut appearance at Babson College during Homecoming on Saturday night at 7:30 P.M. in the Carling-Sorensen Theater. This ten-piece ensemble is one of America's leading jazz bands. Tickets are $87.00 for Babson students, faculty and staff (with ID) and can be reserved by calling 333-5802.

Ellen Solomita noted that Homecoming events provide students, as well as other members of the Babson community with unique opportunities to network with alumni from across the country.

Welcome from Stephen Schuffman, Dean of the undergraduate Program

DEAN SCHUMANN

As this academic year starts, I would like to echo and add my personal welcome and look forward to all students, new and returning.

For those of you who don't know me, this is my thirteenth year at Babson. I have been here as faculty member (still am) for two years, as Dean of Students, for seven years, Dean of the Graduate Programs, for one year, and now as Dean of the Undergraduate Programs.

I have many changes at Babson over the past years. In particular, the way we have welcomed new students is physically beautiful. You can't help but notice the new and refurbished buildings and the way you are welcomed by the entire campus. These comfortable spaces and the building is integral to the success of the College.

It is a role that is very much a reflection of what we do here at Babson. Our success, as we try to do more of this stuff, is not just about the building, but about the way we interact with the community.

Our faculty is world-class scholars and are very much part of the fabric of the School. They are people who are really looking at the students they're teaching, and the way they're teaching, and the way they engage with the students.

Finally, you the student community are an incredibly talented and diverse group of people who are ready to learn and ready to grow.

Babson has one of the most diverse global college communities. We have set as our goal to support your international and multicultural perspectives.

I wish you a year of great personal growth and satisfaction, health and joy.

Is Babson Being Babson Enough?

SHIV BIR Singh

Yesterday was a bad day for me. Being a childish idealist, I have few bad days.

Yesterday was one of them though. I happened to be a part of five baby boomers having a discussion with different people during the course of the day. None of the five had anything all that had something in common. Guess what? The people that I interact with this week have been talking to me about how Babson was letting them have their way again and again. I listened quietly.

I like Babson. But like those students who complained about various academic, social and administrative issues, I too have my gripes.

I like Babson. But like those students who complained about various academic, social and administrative issues, I too have my gripes.

I like Babson. But like those students who complained about various academic, social and administrative issues, I too have my gripes.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Class of 2000:

Thank you so much for the Faculty Excellence Award your Steering Committee sent to me in May—our most popular Teacher of the year that accompanied it. Now I have two T-shirts from our class and I love them both.

I'm not sure what I did to deserve this award. I'm absolutely delighted to take this as a compliment and join our great predecessors. With my best wishes for a happy completion of your spiritual time at Babson.

Sincerely,

IRENA V. VELKESBERG

The city lights of New York always attract my lustful soul. This past weekend, New York City was no different. I met a guy, only to discover later that he was somebody's life, but I have received some e-mails commending about the event, "It was great! I don't want those e-mails, I want to have those e-mails to be in love, to cry about somebody I love. That's what I want to live. I don't want to think about his techniques in bed or what kind of car he has, but I can't. I need to have those e-mails to be in love."

I am going to kiss you now.

AIMEE M. DOLLINGER

I was recently told that I don't laugh enough, and it really made me laugh. I don't laugh enough, but I try to be smart. I'm not laughing because of something that might be some sort of communication that you learned in A&H. Whatever it maybe, you can do so in a responsible, business-like manner.

Babson is supposed to be for the students. If we begin to feel that we're second-class citizens here then something is definitely wrong. I sympathize with all those people who are bitter for some reason or another. Yet, at the same time you have to ask yourself, 'What is the real purpose of this?' The real purpose of this isn't to make the students of Babson be enough. We just have to get out there and be willing to invest in the doing of it. After all as shareholders we do want the best return, don't we?

Tackle Charge

JOSEPH C. CONSILOVIII

It is time that we are held accountable for our actions, regarding both our personal lives and perhaps, in the best interest of the public. Last week, the Babson Stockholders' Report released a report that divulged information I never wanted to read about. It was the first time in the history of the magazine that was inserted inside the stockholders' directory. The words and language that were used should never be found in any of our publications. They are too harsh and they are too mean.

Is the media having a field day with the Clinton Scandal? Yes, of course, even I am writing about it. When something is in the news every day it is difficult to ignore. The real issue is not that Clinton had an affair with Monica Lewinsky. The true issue is, is Clinton a crook who uses his political position to make illegal deals? In my opinion, it is hard to look at this issue and avoid seeing Clinton's business deals. Is the real issue that Clinton had an affair with Monica Lewinsky? The real issue is whether or not the President of the United States is a crook? If a President is a crook, there should be an investigation and, if the evidence stands, there should be an impeachment. Our President, the man who is supposed to uphold the laws of the United States, is engaging in a scandal that is illegal and that is against our legal system. Regardless of the reason that President Clinton had with Monica Lewinsky, the real issue is not Clinton's affair, it is the affair and the President of the United States. Is he a crook? Time will tell.

So what is an American citizen to do? The only way to do it is to finish the term, or expel him with an impeachment by the US Congress. Would the US Congress have acted improperly if they were acting through the law? The highest elected official has attempted to evade and maneuver his way out of this. It is time to put the words in front of the President and to make him understand that there are limits to his power.

I am going to kiss you now.

YounvDon't Laugh Enough

MARK E. DOLLINGER

I have never been very funny, but I have been very much a part of the Babson community. I have been here for four years, four years ago I met a woman at Babson and she became my wife. She is a great wife, she is a great mother, she is a great Babson parent, but she is not very funny. Why? Because I don't laugh enough. When you think about it, this is a problem.

I am going to kiss you now.

I am going to kiss you now.

Fear of Cheating Has Couples Drifting Apart

HELP ME, HARLAN!

Happily ever after, after all.

Dear Harlan,

I was interested in your take on a situation of yours.

My boyfriend and I have been slowly drifting apart in the past few months. I think he’s dealing with more attention and loving in the beginning of our relationship. He was doing it.

Do you think there are telltale attitudes or actions that can give a partner “away” if they have been unfaithful? If so, what are they?

—Secretly

-A Classic story

Dear Classic,

It’s never a good sign when your partner is “facing” now. You can’t let your partner see the true you, and you can’t let your partner see the true you, and you don’t have enough time to stop and think. You don’t have enough time to stop and think. You don’t have enough time to stop and think.

I’ve noticed the signs of “away” if they have been unfaithful? If so, what are they?

—Secretly

-A Classic story

Dear Classic,

I have been unfaithful for four months or more. I’m a freshman in college and she’s still in high school.

Everything started out okay, but about a month before I moved in, I noticed a change in her. She was depressed and it was almost as though she was losing interest in me. Part of the reason is that she has a wonderful family, but she also said she had worries about going to medical school. It’s only an hour away, so I can’t be far away. She’s a pretty good girl, and I think I’d think about all her friends, not knowing that she’s going.

She says she trusts me but that she doesn’t trust other females.

We’ve both changed since we met, but she said that if she doesn’t work at it, she will communicate, has changed for the worse, but I disagree with her. Every time I talk to her about her on the phone, she’s in a bad mood and sounds as though she’s mental.

She’s the type of person who probably likes people and is a very kind girl.

In general, though, she thinks I’m very difficult and I don’t think I am. Since she’s a very kind girl, and I don’t trust people.

It’s hard to work things out with her because she doesn’t have the skills to talk about things and she chooses to hold it in and it denounces her. She is not the type of person who talks about her problems and is not someone who is hugging.

The bottom line is that I really am not sure about her and I want more. Are you living my life right now? Help! —Deeply Confused

Dear Deeply Confused,

You may be scared that you’ll find yourself being seduced by a woman who will lead you to a place of drug addiction.

This is all true, but you may be scared that you’ll find yourself being seduced by a woman who will lead you to a place of drug addiction.

If not this is ever going to happen, but that’s what she’s trying to do.

Even if your girlfriend meets every girl on campus, she’s going to have trouble. If you’re thinking about the most long-distance things fall is because of trust.

You can tell her you love her only so many times. You can shower her with so many gifts that you can only do so much. Unless she wants to listen and wants to trust you, nothing will ever be enough.

You’re both living in two very different worlds. Her imagination only continues to run wild unless she starts to trust you. Help her to trust you by considering her vision and by being the best boyfriend you can be.

Beyond that, she needs some serious help to learn how to trust people.

There will always be other women and she can’t trust either you, or meet all the other women on your life. You’re married.

Honestly, though, she can save a lot of time by simply trusting you.

Who: Eric Fowler ’96 Entrepreneurial Studies Major
Ride: 1996 Chevrolet Z-28 Camaro

Options: 350 cu. in. V8 (5.7 Liter), 4-speed manual, every possible option except K&N filter, TPI Airfoil, Skip shift eliminator, 255/50 ZR19 rear tires, 1.18 Aluminum Drivetrain, and Redline Synthetic fluids throughout.

Purpose: Fast and reliable daily driver that can hold its own at the local drag strip.

Performance: 310 bhp. Quarter mile = 13.6 sec. at 101.5 mph

Racing Highlights: Fowler has raced his Z at Houston Raceway Park, Texas Motorplex, and the New England Dragway. Houston ranks the highest on his list of racing venues for two reasons. The first is the fast track that due to its being near sea level, its the air density is extremely high and offers a bit more oxygen to the engine, which equates to a few extra horses. The second reason is that the high humidity and heat of traction out of the box and presents the rear meats from turning themselves into a sticky mess, and thus the rubber.

Fowler Comments: “During the first two months I owned the car I received four speeding tickets, one on the way to my roommates, and three more a few weeks afterwards. I still let it scream back home in Texas, though. The cops have more important jobs than to chase down car babies.” Fowler’s favorite ticket is at a street race back in Texas.

The one he received for smoking his tires at a street race back in Texas.

Eleven Things You Should Try to Do

1. Make sure you remember her name. Say it backwords. Interact with it. This is a must. If all you remember is the color of her hair, go home, break up with her.

2. SMILE. Just like Goofy. Pretend you are a little boy who has just found a big bag of candy. Let her see your gorgeous white molar. It is time to cash in on years and years of smileless brushing.

3. Ask her QUESTIONS. Lots of them. Ask her what she is doing there. Ask her how badly she misses her cat. Ask her what she’d like to drink. Coke? Skim milk? Vodka? Asking these questions will allow her to talk. And let’s face it, most campus girls quite enjoy mumbling about their own interests. Moreover, this will give you a feel for her sense of humor, intelligence, and sophistication.

4. Try to be WITTY. Manipulate the English language in a humorous manner. You must make her laugh. Repeat. You must make her laugh.

6. Understand that LESS is ALWAYS more. A true Player will have the delicate princess. Touch on interesting facts about your- self and about your life, and move them into a casual conversation and make them attract to attraction. Attraction leads to interaction. Interaction leads to nights of steamy sex. Or so I’ve been told.

7. HAVE A LIFE. The amazing cat must feel that you have your life together, and that means having interests outside her. Play a sport. Write witty articles for the university newspaper. Just make sure she wants a job. Tell her she wants to “get down and boogie,” tell her you can probably spook her up. Promote your self.

8. LISTEN AND REMEMBER. If her parents have died in a car crash, remember it. If she likes mayonnaise on her pizza, remember it. Start conversations with anecdotes and personal stories. It is not good to show them that you have other personal details is essential, and will have significant ramifications for the first date - look positive, now.

9. BE ORIGINAL, and make sure you are able to TELL ENGAGING STORIES. Don’t act like you’ve heard everything before. Most girls have adapted stories. My personal favorites: walking through a typhoon in Japan, beating the invincible Karl Luff in my junior school cross-country race, and locking myself in my dorm’s root cellar.

10. Have CONFIDENCE. Even if you are a shy dog, believe in yourself and believe that she knows you back, it is her job. Say it with me now. “It is her job.” She cares deeply, and that heart is to her heart, smile and walk away. Don’t get upset, and don’t blame me. Blame Brad Pitt.

11. At all times, be SPONTANEOUS. Riggidity is a bad, bad trait. Make your move unpredictable. Do the unexpected. Do something you never have done before. If you succeed in securing a first date, pick her up with a Sex-able, yet assertive, attitude. Drive to the beach, go to a comedy club, or throw rocks at those annoying squirrels. All actions should be mood dependent.

The Risks of Performance Enhancing Supplements

BRUCE TOFIAS, MD

Enhancing athletic performance has taken several forms over the years, but nothing has added to the demand for performance and, as much as the scientific approach to things, the pressure on athletes to be bigger, stronger, and faster has led them to turn to chemical assistance. Enter blood doping, EPO, steroids, etc. These scientific methods of supplementing an athlete’s training have had little scientific evidence in their defense. Traditionally, folklore has been the motivating force behind their use.

Many of the potential side affects of this hormone may not be worth the potential gain.

The "guys at the gym" may say they work, if they look big or have won a competition, then their information must be correct! Wrong! The majority of the folk practitioners are not not only ignorant of how it works, but are so naive to their own kidneys function. And, finally, dosing. I am not an advocate of create. If you choose to create, please use the safest doing possible: a loading dose of 20 grams per day followed by 1.2 grams per day afterward. When you stop creatine, its impact should dissipate over a month.

If you choose to use create, please use the safest doing possible: a loading dose of 20 grams per day followed by 1.2 grams per day afterward.

So, what are the take home messages? There is no free lunch. Get the facts if you choose to use a supplement: if you are convinced that it can do whatever you need it to do, then it is its potential to do harm. There is no substitute for appropriate training.

If you have any questions or thoughts stop by or drop me an e-mail at Tofias@babson.edu. Remember, Weight Training.

Weekly Stock Update: The Pressure Is On

CHARLES LAWRENCE

The wide world of sports and its Investing crossed on Tuesday as Mark McGwire and the Dow both set records. The rest of the week for the financial markets was equally exciting. Although a few profits were in the U.S., virtually all indices closed up for the week, with the Dow up 855.30 (+5.65%), the S&P 500 at 75.12 (+1.48%), and the NASDAQ at 2301.17 (+3.01%).

In international markets, European indices were all slightly lower, triggered by continued concerns with Emerging Markets. Some indices were down as much as 2%. The FTSE 100 was up 5.11% on Friday alone, signifying its biggest drop this year. The rest of Asia followed suit. However, although for the week results were mixed across Asian markets. As stated in last week's column, there are many negative factors weighing on the global economy. It appears that history may be repeating itself in a rather similar way. Let's go back to 1974 for a moment. The Vietnam War was still raging, as was energy over oil. The World Economic Forum was not in Dubai, but, instead, a meeting was held in the United Kingdom. All of this stuff was true. In fact, the world was not as good as it is today. However, for the week ahead, we may expect a continuation of the global economic turmoil that we saw last week. As we stated last week, we may see a new market slump, which may start in Asia and then move to the United States. As we stated last week, we may see a new market slump, which may start in Asia and then move to the United States. With Disney pre-announcing disastrous third quarter results, the already battered Dow component is likely to continue to suffer.

“WWF Warzone” for Play Station is the Leader in Sports Entertainment

ANUO RAO

Long past are the days when Professional Wrestling was thought of as a form of children's entertainment. The modern day wrestling has grown up and reached an age where it is a force to be reckoned with. The growth has been exponential, and the fans are no longer satisfied with just going to see their favorite wrestlers. They want to see the best of the best, and they are willing to pay top dollar to see it. WWF Warzone is one such game that has taken the world by storm.

Over the past 10 years, the World Wrestling Entertainment, or WWE, has reached a pinnacle of success rivalled only by a select few sports organizations in the world. After founding WWF, Vince McMahon and his team have been able to create a monster that has grown into one of the biggest and most successful businesses in the world.

“WWF Warzone” is a game that appeals to wrestling fans of all ages. The game is available on the Windows platform and can be played on a computer or a console. The game is filled with all the elements that make WWE such a popular sport. The game features all the top wrestlers from the WWE roster, each with their own unique moves and abilities. The game also includes a variety of modes, such as single player, team, and tournament.

Two of the prime features are the Steel Cage match and the Weapons match. The Steel Cage match is a classic game that has been played for decades. It is a one-on-one match that takes place inside a steel cage. The match is won when one of the wrestlers is pinned, submission holds are applied, or the wrestler is forced to tap out.

The Weapons match is a unique feature of “WWF Warzone.” In this match, the wrestlers are given a variety of weapons to use in the ring. The matches are more intense and the outcomes are harder to predict.

In addition, a weakening dollar is bad news to many troubled economies across Asia. This is especially true for China, Japan, and South Korea. The effect of a weakening dollar is that the cost of imports from the United States increases, which puts a strain on the local economies. This can be seen in the current trade negotiations between the United States and China. The United States has been pushing for increased access to the Chinese market, and China has been resistant to this demand.

As we can see, the next few weeks will be crucial for the financial markets. The risk of a market downturn is high, and investors should be prepared for it. The best course of action is to stay informed and to have a plan in place for any potential market moves.

CAB Members Prepare for New Year by Spending Quality Time Together

JENNIFER YEO

The Campus Activities Board hosted a retreat for all students interested in becoming fully involved in the organization in Trim 203-205 on Sunday, September 13th. This was basically the chance for the new members, the Executive Board, and our advisor Jason Piano to spend some time together and get to know the organization in a hands-on fashion.

After each meeting over breakfast, the group continued to become more familiar with each other by playing a series of games that encouraged the students to learn more information about their peers. Many of the freshmen re-called these games, as they were familiar with them from their student orientation from the beginning.

The retreat ended around 2 PM, and the students participating were given free CAB T-shirts and Rosy drinks for their active participation during the day. Overall, it was a fun-filled day of learning, creativity, and active participation. It really looks like a promising year for student involvement on Campus Activities Board.

Here is the list of the CAB Executive Board:

- President: Rogers - President
- Vice President: John Conti - Vice President
- Acting President: Pali Arevalo - Information Director
- Paul Gordon - Concert Chair
- Joyce Marie Colburn - Film Chair
- Russell Smith - Film Chair
- Lola Ndiereogu - Dance Chair
- Margarita Druker - Special Events Chair
- Jennifer Yeo - Promotions Chair Advisor - Jason Piano

Please call the CAB office at x3292 if you think you would like to become involved, or feel free to join in on our meetings on Monday evenings at 6:00 PM in Trim 201-202. We look forward to meeting you!

Poetic Insights of the Week in making the most important decisions in your life, don't lose sight of the most important thing in your life, which is simply yourself.

The Journey

One day you finally knew what you had to do, and began, though the voices around you kept shouting their bad advice—though the whole house began to tremble and you felt the old tag in your pocket.

"Mend my mind!" each voice cried.

But you didn't stop.

You knew what you had to do, though the wind whined with its stiff fingers.

You reached for the firm foundations, though they were already late, enough, and a wild, and the road full of fallen branches and stones.

But little by little, as you left your voices behind, the stars began to burn through the sheets of clouds, and there was a new voice which you slowly recognized as your own, that kept company as you strode deeper and deeper into the world, determined to do the only thing you could do—determined to save the only life you could save.

"Titanic" Make a Big Splash and "Reynolds Rules"

JENNIFER YEO

Several students came out to the school sponsored events this past week and participated in the "Reynolds Rules" competition and the "Titanic" movie screening on Thursday, September 10. With the provision of a group event centered on writing and competition as the basis, there was an impressive showing of "Titanic" in the Student Union.

The Thursday night was a great night to relax, have a good time, and take in a good movie. Reynolds Rules was held first digested and was a memorable experience. "Titanic" is very similar to the "September Stomp" upperclassmen will remember from the past. The event was sponsored by Campus Life to promote the reorganization within the Reynolds Center. The "team" was involved in was "Pottery Power," which was made up of members from the first floor of Puisis Hall and the second floor of Newell Hall.

The event was participated as well, including such dorms as Coleman and Van Winkle, both members of the competition, including AUP. Although the spirit of the event was high, the feeling among the students, I feel most students had a great time making Pottery Power a successful member of the supportive team of members.

"Titanic" is being advertised with brown neon-reign "Titanic" T-shirts, all in support of the students and for the reusable good. Our group, for example, had collected several bowls from the campus recycling stations, including leadership, creativity, numeracy, rhythm, and social responsibilities. Each team was given a camera that was used to take pictures of these events. For example, for numerous team members, the pictures of the team in the background and took out all of the math-related competition. It was then over to the cash register and took a picture of the group holding the books as a representation of the competition. Along with these activities, we wrote about the goods for five ways the Reynolds Center could be used for the competitions. These ideas were written on paper and graded by the judges, made up of the leaders of the team. The next part of the competition involved a "Titanic" competition, along with a "Titanic" competition in which all teams competed. By the end of the evening, at 7:00 PM, all of the teams had competed and were awaiting the winners' announcement. The results were then shown before the beginning of the "Titanic" in the Student Union.

Cash prizes were awarded to all the winners of the competition in both the Residence and Organizational categories. For the Residence Park Manor and Central, an honorarium of $100 was awarded to the winners, and received $200, and the "Good Guys" from the movie "Titanic" were the cash prize winner with a cash prize of $300. On the organization side of competition, the Italian Club won 1st place with a $100 cash prize, 2nd place, and received $300, and Sig Ep was the top winner with $300 as its award.

The conclusion of "Reynolds Rules," the entire student body was then invited to attend the premiere of "Titanic" on the big screen in the Sorensen Theater. Film chair Russell Smith, who handled this event, was able to organize the event through Swank Productions, a company that provides CAb with new movie releases before they hit the video rental stores. Russell is preparing more for Babson, including showing this summer's hit movie "Armageddon" later in October. Overall, the turnout for the film was impressive, and students really enjoyed the whole event. For many students, it was a thrill to watch the movie once again on the big screen for all of the special effects and entertainment it provided.

"Reynolds Rules" was also a favored event for all of those who participated in it. Laura DeNoue, the coordinator of the "Reynolds Rules" event, was left with a feeling good about the event, saying she received much "positive and enthusiastic feedback from the students." As a result of the success of "Reynolds Rules" this year, it will be held at all future events.

Fall's Fashion Corner - Hot Tip of the Week

What's hot? Short is "in" this season, ladies! Miniskirts are making a comeback and hemlines are inching their way back up. This fall season will not be leaving a lot to the imagination.

Where to find it? If you are watching your pennies this semester you may want to check out Old Navy's selection at the South City Mall in Watertown. They have combined the miniskirt look with other trendy fabrics and styles such as corduroy, cargo, and denim. Their prices usually range from the $15-30 category and are well worth the trip if you can find a nice coat to take you there.

"Rumors" Fly as Babson Players Release Cast List

The Neil Simon play "Rumors" will be performed by our Babson Players this fall semester. After months of anticipation, the Babson Players released their casting for the production. Don't miss this performance on Parent's Weekend, October 22, 23, and 24! Casts: Chris Gromon: Lisa Turtle Claire Rappaport: Megan Cookie Caskey: Laura Kimball Cassie Cooper: Crystal Brown

Men's Soccer: Fusion on the Field

MICHAEL JACOBS

The Men's Soccer team is off to a positive start this fall season with two wins and a tie. The first win came against River Coilege last Wednesday. The team's chemistry proved to be fusing together as if it seemed they played very well as a unit.

A solid play by Dave Van Idenstein '02 led to his first career goal and a 1-0 Babson lead towards the beginning of the game. Babson's strong play in the midfield by moving the ball smoothly while keeping Rivier from building offensive threats throughout the first half. River Coilege scored early in the second half to keep the game interesting with a 1-1 score. However, Babson possessed the ball well through the rest of the second half and dominated the field play.

Babson's strong defense created the game-winning goal. Sound defense by Michael Trudell '02 forced Rivier to turn the ball over and allow Trudell plenty of space to move the ball up the field and set up Babson's second goal by Sophomore Alfredo Montes '01, thus giving Babson a 2-1 victory over Rivier.

This past Sunday, Babson also traveled to Bridgewater State and came away with an impressive 6-0 win. Babson felt

A solid play by Dave Van Idenstein '02 led to his first career goal and a 1-0 Babson lead.

Bridgewater's defensive weaknesses and hammered away at the goal. Michael Stevin's '99 dominated play in the first half by the goal. Swan Fitzgibbon '02 and Ben Jabraw '02 also contributed goals to the first-half slaughter. Babson went into halftime with confidence and a 5-0 lead.

Babson gave a strong effort in the second half by playing solid defense to give goalie Nick Gellard '02 his first collegiate shutout. Keith Floran '99 scored his first goal of the season on a well-executed run by outwitting the Bridgewater goalie and giving the game the final score of 5-0.

The Men's Soccer team hosts Bowdoin this Saturday at 2:00P.M. at Homecoming and then hosts Lasell College this Wednesday at 4:00P.M. Both games are on the Upper Fields.

Golf Tees Off
The Future is Now
SAL D'AGOSTINO

After a season of learning and growing together, the 1999 Babson College Golf Team is ready to tee it up and take their chances against New England's finest. The team has been busy preparing for the upcoming season by practicing nearly every day on all facets of their game.

The Beavers will be led by last year's Division III individual champion at the New England Intercollegiate's Jared Meyers '01 (Longmeadow, MA). It is clear that some of the weight of this year's success falls on his shoulders. Other golfers who will play an integral role are Mike Sexton '01 (Needham, MA) and John Janangelo '01 (West Hartford, CT).

Both of these players enjoyed excellent seasons during their freshman campaign last year and will need to continue to do well in order to have Babson make some noise this season.

Vinny Fantasia '96 (Massapequa, MA) will also have an important role this year. Late in the last season, Fantasia really came into his own and the Beavers will look for him to continue to improve. Dave Putnam '99 (Dover, MA) will also need to step up and use his experience to his advantage. The supporting cast of the team includes Al Schenck '99 (Warren, PA), Sal D'Agostino '99 (Buchanan, NY), and John Kusmen '91 (Lynnfield, MA).

Pat Annese '91 (Andover, MA), Tom Shepard '93 (Concord, MA), and a host of freshman tryouts.

The team will be starting their season competing at Middlebury College this weekend.

PRINCIPLES / OF S OUND RETIREMENT INVESTING

RECENTLY, MORNINGSTAR CALLED US CHEAP.

IT'S NOT EVERY DAY YOU GET A COMPLIMENT LIKE THAT.

Al financial companies charge operating fees and expenses—some more than others. Of course, the lower the expenses you pay, the better. That way, more of your money goes where you should—towards building a comfortable future.

We make low expenses a top priority.

As the largest retirement system in the world—a nonprofit company focused exclusively on the financial needs of the educational and research communities—our expenses are among the lowest in the insurance and mutual fund industries.

In fact, TIAA-CREF's 0.31% average fund expenses are less than half of the expense charges of comparable funds!* It's why Morningstar—a one of the nation's leading sources of annuity and mutual fund information—says, "At that level [TIAA-CREF] is cheaper than any other variable annuity policy," and is even competitive with the cheapest mutual fund complexes, though it offers far more benefits.

"TIAA-CREF sets the standard in the financial services industry."

Of course, expenses are only one factor to consider when you make an investment decision. Morningstar also noted our commitment to "customer education, service" and "solid investment performance." Because that can make a difference in the long run, too.

At TIAA-CREF, we believe people would like to spend more in retirement, not on their retirement company. Today, over two million people count on that approach to help them build a comfortable and secure future. So can you. To find out more, call us at 1-800-842-2776. We'd consider it a compliment.

Visit us on the Internet at www.tiaa-cref.org

International Martial Arts Champions Start Organization

Are you looking to better improve your physical appearance? Would you like to know how to get rid of stress, stay cool-headed, and remain focused all of the time?

Sean Taub, a freshman here at Babson College, has the answer to these and many other questions. Sean is starting up a Martial Arts organization here on campus after studying an ancient form of Martial Arts known as Kameno Hiko for 14 years. During this time, he studied privately with his Sensei, both here in the United States and also overseas in Japan. While in Japan, he participated in an invitational tour.

Sean wishes to teach his class about eastern culture and philosophy.

nament where he came in first place in February of 1996. However, during his 14 years of study, Sean did not limit himself by disregarding other forms of self-defense and martial arts. He also studied forms such as Taekwondo, Judo, Aikido, Kendo, and Kickboxing. Throughout his training, he familiarized himself with the use of many weapons such as the Katana, Bo, Sai, Tiger Claws, Ninjar Stars, and Kunochukos to name a few.

Sean says that his organization will focus on three areas of learning. The first is the physical aspect, where he will work hand-in-hand in teaching both faculty and students self-defense techniques as well as other martial arts. This will tone and build muscle as well as increase one’s stamina and awareness of the world around them. The second is the mental aspect of Martial Arts - meditation. He will teach proper meditation techniques with the goal of enabling people who feel stress find a way to relax and achieve tranquillity, thus having a clear mind in order to focus on work and studies. Lastly, Sean wishes to teach his class about eastern culture and philosophy with the guidance of the organization’s faculty advisor, Professor Kiniko Abramoff.

The goal of the organization will be to encourage a more enlightened community at Babson as well as to promote physical fitness. Sean welcomes both students with and without experience in Martial Arts to join the class for some great times and good fun.

Field Hockey Earns Ranking, Remains Undefeated

MICHAEL JACOBS

The Women’s Field Hockey team earned their first ever national ranking this week, in the week’s first National Field Hockey Coaches Association poll, Babson was ranked seventeenth nationally and second in New England West region.

Women’s Soccer Hammered

Babson Women’s Soccer had its ups and downs this past week with a win over Bridgewater State and a loss to Tufts University. Things arestarting to fall into place, however, despite having to get used to new players and positions.

Katie Matthews ’00 posted her second shutout of the season against Bridgewater State last Thursday. Things started to fall apart in the second half against Tufts University.

Babson dominated over Bridgewater’s inferior defense for about 70 out of the 90 minutes of play. The first half ended with a 1-0 lead for the back of the net. However, Babson turned up the heat during the second half.

Babson’s first goal came two minutes into the second half when Kiera Pagliaro ‘00 crossed the ball in front of Bridgewater’s goal connecting with senior co-captain Christine Finezzi’s head. The well-positioned ball ended up in the back left corner of the goal, giving Babson a 1-0 lead.

Just two minutes later, the Women’s Soccer team did it again. This time Lesley DeMaio ‘99 made a through pass to captain Justine ‘99, who skillfully controlled the ball and blasted a shot at the net. It proved to be too much for Bridgewater’s goalie to handle, and Babson advanced with a 2-0 victory.

With Justinn’s last goal, Babson registered a season high and bounded Bridgewater’s defense. With seven minutes left in the game, Nicole Babboni ‘99 received a pass from midfielders Caren Caldwell ‘01, took off up the field, finding herself in a one-on-one situation with Bridgewater’s goalie. With a flick of her foot, Babboni bent the ball sailing over the goalie’s head and into the net, boosting the Lady Beavers to a 3-0 victory over Bridgewater State. Defensive standouts were Kate Donahue ‘99, Erin Kelleher ‘99, Kaitlin Conroy ‘99, and Meghan Norton ‘92.

Lesley DeMaio ‘99 dribbles the ball in Babson’s 3-0 victory over Bridgewater State last Thursday. The team enters Homecoming with a 1-1 record.

Homecoming Kicks Off With Alumni Games

MICHAEL JACOBS

Homecoming takes place this Saturday at Babson. Several varsity teams will play on the Upper Fields and tennis courts. Additionally, several alumni games will take place. Homecoming is one of the biggest days in Babson athletics as several teams showcase their skills and large crowds flock to the games.

To kick things off on Saturday, seven teams will feature alumni games in which current and former players will compete in their respective sports. Alumni games slated to occur include Men’s Basketball, Men’s Lacrosse, Men’s Ice Hockey, Men’s Water Polo, Women’s Swimming, Men’s Baseball, and Women’s Softball. Several of Babson’s highly-talented teams will compete as well. At 11:00 AM, the Women’s Soccer team plays host to Bowdoin on the Upper Fields. The team is off to a 1-1 start that includes a 3-0 victory over Bridgewater State.

Also at 11:00 AM on the Upper Fields, the Women’s Field Hockey team takes on Bowdoin as well. Undefeated in two games this season, the team has surrendered just one goal thus far.

On the tennis courts, the Women’s Tennis team hosts WPI at 1:00 PM on Saturday. This match is the only NEWMAC game slated for Babson on Homecoming.

Finally, Men’s Soccer takes to the field at 2:00 PM to play host to Bowdoin. The team is off to an incredible 2-0-1 start.

The Men’s and Women’s Cross Country teams, the Men’s Golf team, and the Women’s Volleyball team will all be on the road this Saturday. However, Homecoming should prove to be one of the most exciting days on campus this year. Not only will fans be treated to exciting games, but the camaraderie in the stands will also provide for an entertaining and delightful afternoon. So come on by and support your Babson athletic teams this Saturday for Homecoming.
