Candidates Give Speeches For SGA E-Board Elections

Voting Will Be Wednesday and Thursday, Feb. 17 and 18, From 11-4 in Reynolds and 4-7 in Trim

Yesterday’s weekly SGA meeting in the SGA Room in Trim Dining Hall, was packed with students who attended in order to hear speeches and promises, delivered by the eight candidates who will do battle in tonight’s Student Government Association Board elections.

Matt Benjamin ‘00 and Jordan Mandel ‘00 oppose each other in the race for the SGA Presidency. Mandel’s reference to bringing fun back to the school contrasted with Benjamin’s focus on experience and specific initiatives.

Benjamin, current VP Finance, began his speech with reference to his “intense campaign,” embodied in the “Let’s Talk” forum for students to express concerns.

He also pointed to plans to further other initiatives, such as Babson College Radio, the Game Day Committee, and continuing blockboard as a way of ending the current mass e-mails sent by students.

Jordan Mandel accentuated his “decision to step up the challenge...instead of sitting back and not caring.”

He would also cut through the “red tape” by “addressing the administration with real student issues,” in addition to “sweeping reform of SGA and its effects.”

Matthew Benjamin For SGA President

My name is Matthew Benjamin, and I want to be your SGA president. In order to understand why students should vote for me, you must know two words: leadership and experience.

SGA President is a position where the interests of the membership are central. Experience is essential. Being the President of a student organization such as SGA is not an entry-level position. The best candidate must have a wealth of SGA experience.

I assure you that I have attained this knowledge. I understand the role completely and look forward to serving my fellow students to the best of my ability. I have been associated with the leadership skills and my experience and my proven devotion to the Student Government Association.

Thank you for taking the time to come hear the hopes and ideals to which the Student Government Association hopes to take Babson College. Please note that what I have said was what the Student Government will take Babson College.

I am Jordan Mandel and I am here as an outburst of my responsibilities. I decided to step up to the Bat Pack. I placed upon myself. You see, instead of standing in front of you hoping to lead the Student Government, I could have been leading my own life for just myself, living away from activity, not being a factor in people’s lives, while making sure that I do what I have to do.

Actor Roger Guenveur Smith presented the piece “A Huey P. Newton Story” last week at the Sorenson Center.

The presentation, created and performed by Smith, is about the late co-founder of the Black Panther Party Huey P. Newton. The show was both brilliantly acted and well performed by this accomplished individual.

I would also like to give each Dome Representative a sign for their door, which name, that they’re a member of SGA.

Thurston Clinton, the SGA Public Relations representative said, “the play worked on levels for me. It showed that Huey was a real person. At times I felt this was Newton on stage. The skillful weaving of Babson references and audience participation kept the ‘fourth wall’ of the theatre transparent.”

The production was entertaining for a number of reasons, some including that it was informative and very humorous at times, relying on crowd participation.

The true purpose of the production could be easily seen, to shed light and understanding regarding this mysterious man.

In this play Smith exhibits Newton’s personal experiences, drawn on black power. Smith captures all Newton’s characteristics and how he thought about life and society. He created a role that made him a hero, as well as the anger and drug abuse that led to his eventual demise.

“...history was frightening at times,” says Angelo Flamenuin II ’02, “the actor did such a wonderful job convincing us to be actually Newton, that when he would angrily turn on the audience, you have to do your best to overcome the fear...to remember he was just an actor. Yes, he was funny at time, but at other times he showed the power of the character; he sent a chill down your spine. I will never forget the one-man show I have ever seen.”

The production was entertaining for a number of reasons, some including that it was informative and very humorous at times, relying on crowd participation.

The true purpose of the production could be easily seen, to shed light and understanding regarding this mysterious man.

This was a man who was either loved or hated by all that knew him. Smith shows Newton to be what he really was not “anti-white”, but rather anti-“arrogance.” In Babson, Smith conveys this to his audience, Smith.

Candidates Give Speeches For SGA E-Board Elections

Mandel noted conversations with fellow students as proof that they either "have no clue of SGA or they don't care." He claimed that the solution to the lack of awareness is "development of a shared vision" and "new innovative ideas."

Mandel expressed his plans to make Babson College more fun, contending that "this school is not as much fun as it used to be." He even made an informal proposal to hold a "Keg rage on the upper fields."

Mandel referred to past experiences with the Babson Marketing Association and the Class of 2000 Steering Committee, and reminded students that "every vote does count."

Andi Bott, in a quest for the position of Executive VP, began her speech in a unique way—by reading a poem by Shel Silverstein, followed closely by a straightforward statement: "I want this position."

She said that she will "strive to use my communication skills to improve the bond between organizations on campus."

Bott pointed to her active membership on the Game Day Committee, as evidence of her abilities, and cited "listening and caring" as her "greatest assets." She also stressed her priority of being a voice of students "heard by the administration."

Bott is opposed by Linda Pizzuti '00, who referred to the vision of Bobbi Bixler in her opening. As for the current state of the school, she observed that "involvement and spirit are at an all-time low."

Pizzuti presented two options to students: "stay quiet and continue to progress into apathy...or make things happen."

Pizzuti cited her solutions for Babson's current problems, including the development of two components that she believes are currently absent—a "powerful SGA" and an atmosphere in which students are "part of the decision-making process."

Dan Simmers '01 and Mike Pugatch are competing for the position of VP Finance.

Simmers cited his past experience, including President of the National Honor Society in high school, and three years of professional finance experience with such companies as Bank of America.

Summers' goals include getting "close with heads of all student organizations" in order to "better fit their needs." He claimed to possess "reliability and accountability," enabling him to evoke "quick and effective response to requests for funding."

Pugatch pointed to the three qualities of "experience, dependability and dedication" as the deciding factors in the election and the reasons he should be elected, specifically referring to experience as "the basis of his campaign."

He made note of his two-year involvement with the SGA and Ways and Means Committee. As for the future, he pointed to the budget issues surrounding Babson College Radio as a major concern, proposing that BCR be made a line item.

Pugatch's address to the student body included a promise to "always listen to your concerns."

Scott Dowler '01, the unopposed candidate for VP Communications, voiced plans to solve problems resulting from the "ineffective procedures" of SGA, citing characteristically low levels of attendance.

Dowler admitted that his lack of experience in Student Government is a disadvantage, but also illuminated possible benefits of his inexperience, such as "new ideas" and "criticism from a non-SGA perspective."

Pally seeks the position of VP Commerce, and is one of two candidates who are running for office unopposed.

Pally jokingly professed to his desire to continue "the trend of good-looking guys" who had held the position before him. This unopposed candidate also evoked laughter as he thanked everyone for not running against him.

Pally's plan for office includes "reaching the goals unachieved" by the current VP of Commerce, Josh Corson. He also stated his desire to "help student-run businesses on campus" by increasing the attention and awareness of the student body.

Students in the audience, many of whom filled out of the room upon conclusion of the speeches, had no questions for the candidates. This lack of questioning incited a surprised reaction from the Executive board, unsure that it was "very different from last year."

Barbara Neely and Marie Howe To Speak About Their Works

"In Blanche White, Neely...is a unique literary creation: an independent black woman who doesn't feel incomplete without a man; a maid unapologetic about her profession; and a deeply spiritual woman who finds salvation speaking to the Ancestors."

Marie Howe's work is being published by the Charles D. and Maryloc J. Thompson Visiting Poet Series.

She wrote two books of poetry, "The Good Thief!" and "What the Living Do," and edited a third, "In the Company of My Solitude: American Writing from the AIDS Pandemic."

In addition, "The Good Thief!" was chosen by Margaret Arwood for the 1997 National Poetry Series.

Arwood said "Marie Howe's poems are intensely felt, sparsely expressed, and difficult to forget, poems of obsession that transcend their own dark roots."

Professor Mary Pizitz, who helped bring Howe to the Babson campus, said "Marie Howe is a poet of great emotional range and technical skill. Her poems are moving in their explorations of family, love, and loss, and hearing her read them aloud is a transforming experience. I'm thrilled that she's coming to visit us here at Babson."

"Her poetry is easy to understand and I can relate to it. I am looking forward to hearing her read and speak next week," commented Junior Magdalena Gavara.

Liz Rosenberg of The Boston Globe said "Marie Howe's second book of poems, is a deeply beautiful book, with the fierce galloping pace of a great novel."

Yesterday's weekly SGA meeting, in a small conference room in Trim Dining Hall, was packed with students who attended in order to hear speeches and promises, delivered by the eight candidates who will do battle in next week's SGA Executive Board elections.

White House "Call for Service"

ABER HESCOCK NEWS EDITOR

The Bachelor Free Press participated in a conference call with the White House Press Department yesterday, accompanied by other reporters from the country's top college newspapers, to discuss the government's ambitious recruitment goals for AmeriCorps.

AmeriCorps is "a national service program through which 40,000 people each year tackle community problems that are "hard to tutoring," according to its website at www.whitehouse.gov/ameriCorps.

AmeriCorps, part of the President's Corporation for National Service, recruits at Babson College through the Center for Career Development. Harris Wafford, President of the Corporation for National Service, explained that by launching this effort, "The President has put a stake in the ground." Clinton's plans include growth of the number of volunteers, or "members," of AmeriCorps, to 100,000 by the year 2003. This "call to service" comes as AmeriCorps celebrates its fifth anniversary.

Wafford described the purpose of national service as a way to "meet the critical needs of our country," through enactment of measures including "structured after-school programs" for urban youth.

The role of AmeriCorps is to provide "people power," while the individual programs under the AmeriCorps umbrella, such as Habitat for Humanity and Peace Corps, get funding on their own. Benefits given to each full-time member who fulfills their yearlong commitment include forbearance on student loans, a living allowance and a $4,752 education award.

Wafford explained that, since the Student Business Vendor Fair at Reynolds

More than a dozen student-run businesses will converge on the Reynolds Campus Center tomorrow for the Student Business Vendor Fair. The fair, which begins at 11:30 A.M., and runs until 3:00 P.M., will also feature music by Acoustic Army.

Library Information Sessions This Semester

Five different library information sessions will be held this semester. Admissions intern will gain experience in interviewing etiquette, multitask management, public speaking, teamwork, and professionalism, according to the office.

Interested sophomores and juniors can now obtain an application from General Gosselin in Mustard Hall. Applications, resumes, and letters of intent are due by March 1. Questions should be directed to Gosselin at x6701.

"A Huey P. Newton Story"

Did a great deal of research to help him get into the mind of Newton. This included getting journals that Newton created while he was in prison. This information helped Smith identify with his character and embody the multitude of qualities Newton possessed.

Between the superb acting of Smith and an impressive musical score, "A Huey P. Newton Story" is a poignant portrayal of a man trying to solve the injustices done to his people. Many who saw the performance enjoyed it greatly. Jennise Hall '02 believed that, "it was interesting," and Mario Tate '02 said, "Smith's spirited performance was both enlightening and entertaining. He captivated the audience; I can see the true spirit of Huey P. Newton."

I have a feeling the fellow from NBC would walk away from me as soon as he heard the "But..." And I would say, "You can say anything you want, but I am flagrantly categorical, and do not allow forlocalhost logos. I am a founder of localhost logos. And I can tell you that if we want to know how the American People feel, we have to ask them, "American People, how do you feel?"" Tailoring those answers would be much more valuable.

So, read over this week's comments and see what you think. Each writer makes good points regarding this mess. All are worth considering. As I have said, the Greyfriars article will run in two installments as it is quite substantial. As I read it, I found myself quite independently agreeing with some assertions. I fear that Bill Clinton's durability in the face of the impeachment process is tainted with complacent, untoward motives. How ever, as the President was saying, we are asking their President to be on the front page for the wrong quest for something greater, more powerful, beyond human kind that is underneath themselves draws them in.

Goreff: This is as Clinton has been raised that high for Clinton, or anyone else. In my case, at least, I'm beginning to have a shrewd of self-control. In his brother in law or even their husbands or any other politician (so many others had also been raised that high) I would probably more easily forgive, "whoops," than I would hold up to be with the President's advise. Now I believe it to be our duty to live with our fault. It's worth mentioning that the image of the by people, there are so desensitized to the effect of their votes and in the voting booths and made a strong decision when they have the opportu nity.

A person who is directly a part of the govenment, is a responsible person according to the following studies. Who knows, perhaps when the 2000 election, with no other, he was told that it's okay to be a part of the fact that when a you're married but it.

I mean "I've had sex with that girl" is not good proof of whether or not a government, a response to the American people. I mean "I've had sex with that girl" is not good proof of whether or not a government, a response to the American people.

Can you imagine someone talk ing about John F. Kennedy or Richard Nixon? I mean "I've had sex with that girl" is not good proof of whether or not a government, a response to the American people.

President Clinton has the women's movement back. President Clinton swung on the back of the political and in action, he spoke as if he was speaking as if he was speaking. No one in the voting booths and made a strong decision when they have the opportu nity.

A President that commands that little amount of respect does not deserve the name of President in our country. Shouldn't we expect more from the President in our country's view? Imagine the Pres ide nt is going to an international conference. Does anyone there have any respect for the American people. Is not she who the American people who have a saying in the public office. They chose a lying, cheating, draft-dodger over a highly qualified convict for a trial. This is all Paula Jones's story.

However, President Clinton lied un der oath. That, as far as I know you, is not a crime. It is not a crime by law. Yet, however, the President was impeached for this. It seems that he may have got away with it. If you or I were to perjure ourselves, we would be in jail for 90 days. Much of law is based on Star Chamber trials. Star Chamber trials form important cases in usual future cases. Therefore when a Star Chamber trial is pending you can use the Clinton trial as a Star Chamber trial. Clinton not held liable and others be thrown in the jail. President Clinton was impeached.

The second effect this whole af fair has had on the country is the lowering of respect for the office of the President. This is evidenced by the countless jokes made about Clinton. Just last Sunday Clinton's likeness was featured on "The Simpsons" episode, "Marge's Route." He mentioned "I've had sex with that girl" is not good proof of whether or not a government, a response to the American people.

Do the actions of President Clinton rise to level of impeach ment? Only time will tell. But the decision will certainly be made by Senators this week. The important question on my mind is what effect has the Clinton era had on America? There are two major ef fects: the loss of respect for the values and the loss of respect for the Presidency.

Who campaigned on valu es, is now tending them down at a rapid rate. The loss of respect for the Presidency to me is like a man who is not necessarily a harmless person, but I am not doing right by telling the truth because Clinton doesn't tell the truth and he becomes powerful.

Therefore truth is obviously not a virtue. I can outshine the highest office in America without it. Taking responsibility for ones' actions is another virtue that has been botched by the way. Clinton claims he didn't outshine me, but the loss of respect for the Presidency is a loss of respect for the individual man.

In his deposition Clinton was asked if he could run for the presidency "by ship?" regarding White House intern Monica Lewinsky's. His response "that deposition is not a real deposition, it is." If I scratched my Dad's new car I think he would say the same thing. I suppose I could just say "That de pendency on what your definition of "is" as.

"The truth is a matter of responsibility for anything. What kind of person do you have?"

In an age where more than half of marriages fail, Clinton is doing even worse. It is no secret that marriage is something that so rarely happens among us. No one is appalled that Clinton has clearly had an extra-marital affair. Clearly, there is no need to deserve yourself to one person. The President does

"If I outshine me, I would say the effect of it is different way of saying it, and he said he didn't do it. Yet his approval ratings continues to go down. People out there are so desensitized to the effect of their votes and in the voting booths and made a strong decision when they have the opportu nity.

America Politik: No Man is Above the Law

"Any president that lies to the American people should have to resign," William Jefferson Clinton stated during his televised press conference. He has lied to the American people, and now it is time for him to resign. No president can continue to serve with integrity after being accused of perjury. He will be impeached. He will be removed from office. The American people want him out.

The only possible solution is the impeachment and removal of President Clinton. No one is above the law.

By this time this edition of the Washington Free Press is printed the impeachment proceedings will be over or quickly coming to a close. I am writing this article in a moment's notice because of the press conference yesterday by President Clinton in which he denied the sex scandal.

The biggest scandal in this country is not sex. It is the President perjuring himself to cover up the sex scandal. Clinton lied and he continues to lie.

Also, any errors or corrections could be fixed instantly - and permanently change the record. It will affect what the college's lawyers something rest easy about. And the public relations people can stop making this story front page news.

And who knows? After you graduate from college, will you be able to travel to Israel, Lycos might be employing everyone who is interested in history. If you read this far, consider forming a Yearbook 2000 committee to persuade your classmates to participate in this national networking project. Have sections password-protected only for members. Riders Wanted

COMPILLED BY PETER WILLIG PRESS RELEASE

Get on the Bus, the most 'majestic' (okay, maybe not the most original) FME Business to operate as a shuttle bus to near-by clubs and ski-slops, will be operating Spring Break days and nights from Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights from 11-1 for club runs and Saturdays from 10 and return for the skiing trips. Our upcoming special event trip will be a Valentine's Day Weekend trip to Montreal. This trip will run for three days, two nights and packages ranging from $100 to $125 per person including accommodations, travel, taxes and club entry. Now here is the required boring part: our business consists of four guys, one with community service as a sub department in the Human Resources department. The CEO's are Jared McNabb and Brad Gladeken. At Current Operations we have Aaron Robbott, Dinesh Sakharia, and St. J Tripi assisting him. The Human Resources Manager is Jon Boord, members of his department being: Dan Curnin, Nick Spinelli, and Holly Chin. Jennie Hall and Maggie Lu are Coordinators of Community Service and work in conjunction with the HR department. Rythm and blues opens with Aaron Robbott. Robbott is being helped by Lena Romanov and Chris Rice. The Marketing department is headed by myself, includes Rachika Pawa, Ablekawak, and Edionger. Rahil Jain, Konstantina Karlovoutou, and Patrick Reen. We are guided by our fearless (or fearful) professors, Profs. Shagdodd and Professor Schenck. We have had quite a rocky start as a few people (that we are now trying to look at as "valuable learning experiences") slowed us down. Upon our return to campus this semester, our business has quite a surprise in store for all of our friends. We did not return. According to rumor, he was last spotted boarding a plane headed for Detroit. The first night we tried to start, several weather-related problems prevented our "official kick-off" club shuttle. The issue of community service is still up in the air as it is being written. We had chosen the Babson SADD chapter (cleverly keeping with the theme) but whether or not such a creature exists is a question plaguing the members of this business every waking moment. Lastly, it comes to our attention that all posters are literally needed a stamp of approval to remain on campus. After numerous phone calls in distributing flyers we had paid to be printed, we started practically from scratch with our marketing. These events have just fueled our motivation; we held new elections for our replacement CEO and wrote angry letters of complaint to Mothers Nature (which keep getting returned to us by the Postal Service, trying to thwart our eager efforts). We then hung 200 new flyers, post hail damage in the matter of two hours. (We accomplished "Poster Distribution Mission: 412" under the cover of darkness, so our fellow students thought Get on the Bus.

Spread the Grub And Spread the Love

The First, Spread the Grub, Specializes in the Retail and Delivery of Snack Foods. The Other, Spread the Love, is a Care Package/Flower Delivery Service.

COMPILLED BY B Y. FLETCHER PRESS RELEASE

Our FME business consists of two separate entities. The first, Spread the Grub, specializes in the retail and delivery of snack foods. The other, Spread the Love, is a care package/flower delivery service.

The ultimate goals of our business is to learn how to start and run a company, work well together as a group, and to accumulate enough profits to donate a substantial amount of money to the library at the Happy Hollow Elementary School in Wayland, Massachusetts.

Spread the Grub offers snack foods, sold late at night for competitively low prices. Our operating hours are Sundays through Wednesdays starting at 8:30pm and ending at 10:30pm.

On Sundays and Wednesdays Spread the Grub will have door to door sales representatives. Those sales representatives will carry on them a pack filled with snack items for sale consisting of drinks and candy bars.

In addition, on every day of operation we are also offering two stores, which will carry items like drinks, frozen pizzas, noodles and assorted candies.

One store is based out of the lounge of Forest Hall, where food items are readily available for people in need of late night snacks and study breaks.

The other store is based out of Park Manor Central and doubles as our office. It is located directly outside of the pub with the intentions of selling snacks to people leaving and entering the pub late at night. This is also where our delivery service is stationed. This delivery service is available to anyone on campus.

A person may call in and place their order to be delivered as soon as possible. Such a delivery service makes our inventory readily available to all persons on campus in need of late night food.

The other part of our business, Spread the Love, offers a care package/flower delivery service. Spread the Love is also based out of Park Manor Central.

People may purchase the care packages in two ways. The first is by visiting our cart in the Reynolds Campus Center, which is only open on select days throughout the spring semester.

The second way of obtaining care packages is to call our main office in Park Manor Central and place the order with the date and location of desired delivery.

As Valentines Day is approaching, Spread the Love poses as a great opportunity to purchase a last minute gift for any special person in one's life (provided that they are on campus).

For the business' community service endeavor Spread the Love/Grub will be devoting time to the Happy Hollow Elementary School in Wayland, Massachusetts.

While at the school we will be tutoring children in becoming computer literate so that they have an upper hand in today's technologically advanced world.

In addition we intend to donate all of our profits to the library at the school for the purchase of new books as all libraries are always in need of new literature.

Look out for incredible sales from the Spread the Grub/Love.

Babson Blotters

The Top 10 Reasons Why You Can't Live Without a Blotter

Compiled by Jason Chow & Julia Patriciu
press release

What the heck is a blotter? I bet you just dying to find out? It's the most talked about FME business this year. So everyone is dying to find out...

A Blotter is a very difficult item to define. Here is Jason Chow's Top Ten Reasons for why you should run out and fine as soon as possible.

1. A cool proctor
2. Never forget a birthday or anniversary... (hint, guys! Pick it up)
3. Always know who has your umbrella stolen from the Trim, there are 100 umbrellas laying around and the thief chooses yours. Well, grab the closest Blotter, hold it up over your head and run, it protects you from rain!
4. It can be your best friend, on those Oh so lonely nights (yes Babson Blotter will also be making 1100 specialized blotters for the Admission's office featuring all of the FME businesses. The incoming freshmen will be able to see how fun FME can be!

Babson Calendar Company

"Bringing the Community Into the New Year"

Compiled by Stanley M. Kopy
press release

Keep track of important dates and meetings with your 18-month calendar. Every important date that one needs to remember on a daily to day basis should always be at your fingertips.

Our 2002-2003 eighteen-month calendar depicts the Babson campus and community. What could be better than to have a calendar that shows all the great qualities of such a gorgeous environment?

The Babson Calendar Team and has pried the business from day one upon the fact that we will provide a high quality calendar that will accurately depict this attractive campus we know as our own.

With a compilation of student pictorials, campus buildings, as well as sports teams, the variety of this calendar adds to its depth.

Another great thing that has brought our company to where we are today, is the simple fact that we remain very focused on cost to compromise the quality of our finished product.

The top half of the calendar will consist of high-resolution digital images. The calendar will contain ample room for the input of important times and places one needs to be in, in the hectic schedules we all maintain. It will be a unique typographical calendar.

The aim of the Babson Calendar Company, although, is anything but typical.

We hope that through our efforts and expert professional salesmanship we will be able to provide the children of Barton Road with a spring carnival on the lower field and the Trim during the month of April.

Throughout the cycle of the company, two days a week, three different individuals will be visiting the Barton Road center, to spend some time getting to know our clients.

The two-hour Monday and Wednesday afternoons will consist of assisting both younger and older children in activities ranging from arts and crafts projects to comprehension of tougher computer programs.

While these activities may seem relatively insignificant and trivial, the learn-by-doing concept provides the kids with hands-on learning.

Partaking in an event that will be fun for the child is in fact the main goal of our participation.

As our aspirations as a group have reached the apex of all previous F.M.E. businesses, we hope to manage our greatest profit and in turn do the most with our community service efforts.

To many, these may seem unrelated goals to adhere to, but to us it seems quite natural.

John & Ted's Excellent Entertainment

About Us

John and Ted's Excellent Entertainment is dedicated to providing its customers with the best possible service and satisfaction. We provide our customers with a wide variety of CDs to buy and movies to rent. We also provide not only movie rentals, delivered right to your door, but television show rentals as well! Now you need not worry about missing your favorite shows ever again.

What we are is basically a video taping service for your convenience. You can count on us! It has been our pleasure to make our membership plan. Members of John and Ted's will be able to purchase CDs and videos at a dis-counted prices along with numerous membership advantages. If you enjoy a good movie or love music, this is a great way to save.

Convenience and savings is the essence of John and Ted's. Above all, our highest goal is a satisfied customer. Our representatives are always willing to take your order or answer a question, whatever it may concern, with their utmost politeness and ability.

All of our staff at John and Ted's are sure that these few months operating Babson College will be exciting, educational, and fun, both for our employees, and for you.

Community Service

The community service that John and Ted's Excellent Entertainment will be involved in is Barton Road. Barton Road is a low income housing area in Babson's backyard. Our goal is to be working closely with children aged six or nine.

Babson College has been involved in this program for the last six years, and we are proud to continue helping this organization. Group members will be involved in social interactions with the children through games and crafts.

Every Monday for the next ten weeks, Babson vans will take about four to five group members to the center from 4:15 to 6:00 p.m. Apart from the group members attending Barton Road every Monday, we will be involved in Community Care Day Program.

The project will take place one week in April where group members will go to Barton Road to help clean up the center, and make necessary adjustments to make the center a better and safer place for the children.

This program will be very exciting because group members will be working with the children to improve the overall appearance of the center. Our main goals for this Community Service are as follows:

We hope to help the children enjoy their youth. Secondly, we intend to build a relationship with the children, allowing them to trust us, and depend on us in times of need.

Third, the group members themselves will benefit from this interaction with the children, making a learning process for them as well.

Overall, we feel that this will be a fulfilling experience for both the children and the group members.

For E.V.P.

Eighty years ago, Roger Babson created a new school, conceived in the spirit of entrepreneurship and dedicated to building a better business community.

Now we are facing challenges that could end the community spirit that this school embodies. A vital part of our school is one where involvement, growth, and change are at all time low. Meanwhile, as students' voices become progressively weaker, organizations and alumni involvement are a shadow of what they once were. In fact, I feel that people realize that their voice does not matter, and that they have an effect on things, other than their own dorm life and clubs.

We stand up for the academic classes and schedules that we want. We know of and have a say on campus policies that involve us. We are involved in entrepreneurial spirit at Babson and build the status quo.

To make these changes— to make a difference here at Babson, we need a strong student government. Nearly all the well-known and well-respected colleges have powerful student governments. Babson is an exception—and this can be changed.

I have been an active participant in SGA for three years. I have been to the Senate meetings and have participated in EVP chairs. I have been in Greek Council, the Steering Committee, as well as a representative. I have the leadership experience that this role entails. I have come to realize what the potential is for the Executive Vice President, I have had the position to see it through.

As your EVP, I will see to it that SGA will be a government for the students, whose voices shall be heard and recognized.

Michael Pugatch
VP Finance

As a candidate for a position on the executive board of SGA, I want to tell you a little about myself and why I am qualified to be the next Vice-President of Finance. I am originally from East Hampton, CT and am currently a sophomore here at Babson.

I have been involved in the school and its activities for years. I have been a member of the SGA for two years now and have been on the Ways & Means Committee under the current VP of Finance. I have been an active member of the SGA for two years now and have worked on the Ways & Means Committee under the current VP of Finance. I have been a member of SGA for two years now and have worked on the Ways & Means Committee under the current VP of Finance.

I strongly believe that the experience I have gained serving on SGA for two years and working closely with the current VP of Finance has given me a valuable background to serve as the next VP of Finance. I understand the responsibilities and challenges that lie ahead and I am ready for the challenge.

This experience, combined with my leadership skills and a clear understanding of what the needs of the student body, make me the best candidate for this position. I am excited to serve you as the next VP of Finance.

I have met with Matt Benjamin, the current VP of Finance, in allocating funds to organizations on campus who petition SGA for money.

I understand the workings of this system and do not find it difficult to carry on this responsibility. I am interested in working closely with the current VP of Finance. I believe that I can be responsible for the position and contribute to the success of the organization.

As your EVP, I will ensure that your voice is heard and that your needs are met. I will work towards creating a transparent and accountable system for the allocation of funds to organizations.

I am confident that with your support, we can create a strong and effective finance team that I can be proud of.

Jordan Mandel
For Student Government President

When I was a child, my parents always told me that I should always be the best at what I do. They would often push me to try new things and encourage me to never be satisfied with my own abilities. This has always been my motivation in life, and it is this same drive that has led me here today.

As a student at Babson, I have had the opportunity to experience firsthand the impact that student leadership can have on the community and on individual students.

If elected, I plan to work towards creating a more inclusive and collaborative environment on campus. I believe that student leadership can play a crucial role in fostering a sense of community and in addressing the needs of our student body.

Additionally, I am committed to ensuring that our student government is transparent and accountable. I believe that it is important for our students to have a say in the decisions that affect their lives and that they should be involved in the decision-making process.

I am running because I believe that the future of our school is in the hands of the students. I am running because I want to ensure that every student has a voice in the decisions that affect their lives. I am running because I believe that we can create a better future for ourselves and our school by working together.

Thank you for considering my campaign, and I look forward to working with you to create a stronger and more inclusive student government.

Eric Pallay for Commerce

First I would like to thank everyone for not running. It has certainly made my campaign a lot easier and stress free. I would however, like to let every- one know that I will be running hard to clean up the information we presently have. I will be working towards increasing the number and awareness of the student run businesses on cam- pus.

Through a few different avenues, I hope to gain the attention of the stu- dent body and help the businesses cur- rent up and running. Also, I hope to work hard in hand with the other e- board members to better the student body as a whole. In helping the others, hopefully we can accomplish a large percentage of everyone's goals and

Scott Dowler for Communications

Hello, my name is Scott Dowler and I am a candidate for Vice President of Communications. Currently, I am a sophomore living in Canfield A to. I am a member of Sigma Phi Epilson Frater- nity and the Babson Student Ambas- sadors Program. In addition, I hold a job as an office assistant in the Sorenson Theatre offices. In Sigma Phi Epilson, I hold the position of secretary, within the President's cabinet. My re- sponsibilities for that job are keeping the minutes for the meetings, maintain- ing a current record of the bylaws, act- ing as the communications hub through email and voicemail, and taking care of any paperwork or tasks assigned to me by the President.

My perspective on SGA is that there are a few problems in the organization that are the result of ineffective proce- dures or tactics. For example, my understand- ing is that there is less than a satis- factory level of attendance in the House. The current policy is to expel any mem- ber who misses two meetings. So far this procedure has been inefficient for maintaining high levels of attendance.

We ARE a 16 year old mortgage banking firm with a solid record of success and a history of innovative business practices.

We OFFER a corporate culture that contributes to the success of our employees, unique philosophy that ensures you will have all the latest technology at your fingertips, a supply of qualified leads, healthy base, generous commissions, and opportunity for growth.

We NEED smart, savvy and computer literate go-getters who are hungry for success and willing to learn.

We WILL be on campus for on-the-spot interviews. If you believe that the only limit to your success should be your own ambition, please join us.

dance at Babson sporting events.

This is also what we would like to do. We would like to continue to de- velop the radio station so that they are able to broadcast in Trim and Reynolds. Furthermore, I would also like to see BCR broadcast Babson sporting events.

Our radio station is something that adds a lot of value to Babson, once it is fully devel- oped we will all be able to experience the many benefits it has to offer.

I would also like to further develop the on-line bulletin board that is currently provided through the icampus ser- vices. Students must have the confi- dence that these messages will be read by the campus. Then they can post messages there instead of sending mass e-mails to the entire campus.

The large TV in Trim should be used as either a message board or to play tapes of Babson sporting events.

This TV is currently unplugged and there are many ways we can use it to our advantage. I would like to make sure that the globe outside of Coleman begins revolving as it once did.

This is the largest free-standing globe in the world and is truly a unique feature on the Babson campus.

I would also continue to bring be- neficial guest speakers to SGA meet- ings, thus informing students of new issues.

These are just some of my ideas that I feel will improve Babson. I think these ideas are attainable and I am confident that I will be a hard working, capable candidate.

I am currently the Vice-President of Finance of SGA and have been an active member of SGA since my freshman year. These experiences will make the transition to President, a smooth transition. It will also en- sure a smooth transition for whoever is elected to be the next VP Finance.

This past year I worked closely with Chris Phillips (the current SGA President) and learned what her current role entails.

I have taken the initiative to understand the presiden- tial responsibilities. The more I worked side by side with Chris, the more I knew I wanted to become President. That's why I took out the nomination papers the first minute they were available.

I'm sure you've seen my signs and my main slogans is Think Experience, Think Leadership, Think Matt Ben- jamin. That's what I hope is going through your mind as you vote next week. My goal here was to explain why you should feel that way. I hope I have made that clear. Thank you.

ADAM CONKLIN
STAFF WRITER

Well, it's awards season. I know you've all been following television, but actually it's a fairly trivial way to be following television. The only reason you really need to be following television is because it's the one way you can actually see the sound of a toilet flushing. With the advent of the Digital TV, you can actually use your remote to tune in, so to speak, to the sound of a toilet flushing. It's not the most exciting, but I think it's kind of a neat trick...

WeCare: Any Natural “Alternatives” For the Flu?
BRUCE TOFASIS, MD
FREE PRESS CORRESPONDENT

Since my last writing reports have arived confirming that some of the illnesses that we are seeing are the FLU.
Moreover, are not the FLU, and are some of the numerous other viruses that produce these nasty respiratory illnesses. Announcing that you are unfortunate enough to be sick, what can you do? We are constantly being blamed with adversements or friends asking advice about this or that “cold” and flu medication or to try this or that “natural remedy.” For many of you, the concept of a natural remedy is appealing. So with a little study, some facts, and folklore let’s delve into this a little further. The “natural” products used to treat the FLU are vitamin C, Echinacea, and zinc. Vitamin C, or ascorbic acid, is a water-soluble vitamin. It is very important to various functions in the body, including the immune system, cartilage and bone growth, and blood clotting.

Early sailors learned of this early on the long voyages across the seas. Deficiencies caused scurvy characterized by fatigue, muscle and bone pain, in-irritability, swelling gum and small bleeding sites in the skin. The British figured out the importance of vitamin C and started giving quantities of it to the crews. They acquired the nickname “Scurvy” and significantly reduced the incidence of scurvy.

Numerous studies support the use of vitamin C to boost the immune system. This is something that the mechanism may relate to stimulation of thymus glands, which are involved in fighting viruses.

The big issue revolves around the optimal dosage of vitamin C. I favor the pulse dosage with illness as opposed to daily dosage. This method theoretically gives your immune system a little zing when your illness strikes and helps to bring the body to ver-city and duration. A reasonable dose is 1-2 grams per day, in divided dozes, for 1-2 weeks.

Citrus fruits, strawberry, tomato and kiwi are excellent sources of vitamin C. Many authors state there is no difference between natural and synthetic vitamin C, but I favor the true natural products.

For those of you who wish to take vitamin C on a daily basis. OK. But, please beware, being water soluble it is flushed out of your system and some is metabolized to ascorbic acid. Ascorbic acid can mix with calcium and form kidney stones. Therefore, if you do take daily doses consider sticking with 500-1000 milligram per day.

Echinacea has also received a lot of publicity as the herbal remedies have gained acceptance. Like vita-nin C, some people prefer to take it daily and others like to use a 1-2 week pulse at the time of illness. As with vita-nin C, I prefer the pulse method for basically the same reasons.

Echinacea is taken as tea, pills or tinctures (which are drops dissolved in alcohol). They all act as immunostimulants and may even have some specific anti-viral activity. Suggested use by advocates with some clinical support recommend taking Echinacea 300 milligrams. 3 times/ day for 10-14 days. Start at the first sign of a cold or flu.

Side effects of Echinacea are usually mild upset stomach or diarrhea, rarely rashes. People with immuno-deficiency or cancer must not use it as it could be hampster or multiple sclerosis should avoid using anything that stimulates their immune system on the outside chance that it could increase activity of multiple sclerosis.

Zinc, what can one say? The studies talk about its ability to shorten the common cold duration requirement to take zinc lozenges of a particular compound even better than a flu shot. The frequency of dosing and terrible taste of this compound reduces its efficacy.

List of medicine, there is a lot more that we do not know and we know tomorrow. Tomorrow brings new wisdom and encourages us to review the old.

Have any questions or thoughts, please share them. Falso.babson.edu. Remember WeCare.

Valentine’s Day is upon us...

Well, once again the calendar will soon read February 14 and, already, cardboard Cupids and hearts dot corners and walls and Valentine’s day cards are being exchanged to mark yet another pagan holiday co-opted and sanctified by Christianity centuries ago.

While private dinners are planned and parties advertised, the less romantically inclined struggle with what to give or give (or perhaps how to impress a particular woman)

Speaking of booze, we would like a moment to smooth out the aberran- nalities that were born out of drunken competition. Our most humble, friendly, gracious neighbors, B5, were noble enough to throw a soirée last weekend.

After we consumed our one free beer, we all proceeded to empty our bank accounts on the pricey eighty- some-odd draughts. From one glimpse of the dance floor at any moment after the hour of 11:00 p.m., Shenanigans were plain to see. As the Big City Closed down, a brand of the walking wounded courageously made their way to another establishment down town. Kudos! The remaining took the ride back to Babs and “pairoed off,” if they hadn’t already.

As the weekend rounded out, the Eighties were in full effect on Sat- urday night. It’s about time we had a theme night around here, espe- cially one that requires girls to wear mini-skirts and cocktails of fishnet apparel. Thanks, Shenanigans.

Needless to say, the scene was quite different from Friday eve. As Babs left us without a shirt on our backs on Friday, they got us drunk for free on Saturday to the sweet sounds of Wham and Duran Duran. Until next week...Shenanigans on all of you (as a poem, of course):

Idealab!, private investors, and USA Networks have come together to offer those who qualify a free computer. If it sounds too good to be true it isn’t. At Free-PC.com, an application can be filled out for a Free-PC.

What’s the catch? Much akin to web sites, the Free-PCs will have advertisements displayed on the monitor at all times. No matter what the user is doing, there will be ads present. In order to qualify for the deal, the user must fit the demographics and desires of a potential customer of several of the advertisers.

The free computer isn’t shabby, it’s a new Compaq Presario Internet PC with a 333 MHz processor, 32 MB of RAM, 4 GB hard drive (2GB available to the user), 33.5 modem, CD-ROM and floppy drives, Microsoft Windows98(r), and a 15-inch, high-resolution (1024 x 768) color monitor. Each Free-PC also includes free Internet access and e-mail. Most ads are stored on the user’s hard disk, which enables advertisers to make their ads fairly elaborate.

So much for companies including a flyer in the local paper, now they’re giving out computers. The advertisers feel that the potential of this offer outweighs the costs. Personal computers have become more affordable at the same time that Internet commerce is making CEOs starry-eyed.

The ads aren’t meant to be annoying. Ads are customized to each user’s likes and dislikes. To keep new ads coming into the user’s system, the supply is updated in the background while the user is online. If the user doesn’t go on-line often, the computer will use its modem to call up a local site that can transfer more ads.

Currently Free-PCs are available for 2 years, and for the first 10,000 users who fit the advertisers mold. If it’s successful, availability of Free-PCs will become more widespread. First, the $10,000,000 investment must break even.

Recruiting Update
Seniors, this week there are approximately 20 resume collections due to CCD www.bahson.edu/cd/recruit by Thursday.

Be sure to check the Recruiting Schedule regularly for changes and updates. There is a new icon called New opportunities posted this week that relates updated information weekly.

The Fast Track
Attention Juniors and Seniors expecting from the FAST TRACK can be picked up at the front desk of CCD. It is an intake guide to writing job in Management Consulting, Investment Banking, and Securities. Inside are helpful tips on what to do before an interview, general questions asked during the interview and tips on how to answer specific questions relating to your field of interest.

Dear Lisa
Many seniors have recently asked what is the appropriate measure in pull-out of the recruiting process, on... they have signed for a job. CCD asks seniors to fill out an employment survey to help measure the successfulness of select recruiters as well as the statistics of career choices and salaries. The steps in doing so are as follows:

1. Go to the web location: http://domino.bahson.edu/vidio.htm
2. Click "Please Take Me To The Video-Services Home Page"
3. Enter your own user name and password
4. You have reached you own Video-G Services page. Now you want to alias a particular student’s page
5. On the left side, click on the picture of a card file
6. In line #2 "Tips in the last name or ID," Enter student’s last name and press "Search" press "Select"
7. In line #3 "Select a person from this list," Highlight the student you want to alias and press "Search"
8. Click the line "click here to begin alias session" and double click "continue"
9. On the left side click blue tab before "Career Services"
10. Click on "Student Employment Survey Office" this version allows you to leave blank
11. Fill as much information as you know that leave function and industry blank as we will have to go back and fill them out later
12. When finished, click the "Submit" button at the bottom of the form

The process does not take long and is one of the free resources available to all students. Good Luck Seniors - Lisa

The latest CD from Dave Matthews and Tim Reynolds: Live at Luther College is bound to make some serious cash, but thankfully it's also a great sample of the band's earlier works.

Matthews' latest is a two-disc live recording from a college gig in Iowa that took place on Feb. 6, 1996. Talk about dating themselves here—this is a good couple of years prior to "Before These Crowded Streets" around the time when "Crash" was first released. This is a case of a pretty nifty moneymaking scheme on the part of the band in preparing for the next new release, but even the know that it will be bought and enjoyed just the same. This album does not disappoint because of the classic music that true Dave followers have learned to love and listen to over and over again.

Due to the absence of the usual trade names in this recording, there is obviously a lot of old tunes on the CDs, which actually makes up some of the best material. Songs from "Under the Table and Dreaming," "Lithium Thing!" and "Lover Lay Down" are high-lighted of the collection and demonstrate some of Dave's best lyrics and guitar work. These songs aren't entirely with Tim Reynolds and what role he plays in DMB, he actually has been

This set is a good purchase for those who like Dave's older music and can enjoy hours of acoustic guitar.

A neat feature of the album is that there are hints of lyrics from "Before These Crowded Streets" lingered in between songs, further prov- ing that Dave works and realizes his songs over time, also evident in the earlier version on Disc 2 of "Say Goodbye."

One appealing aspect of this disc is that Dave talks to the audience a great deal in addition to his classic crooning "Thank you all very much." While he relies on la- jokes throughout the concert, the audience, on the other hand, was strangely silent and pretty calm overall.

For such long and impressive sets, you would think that the crowd would be noisy, but then again this was in 1996 and it was in Iowa. The biggest cheers came for "Satellite" and "Antique Marquess" — no big surprise for those who probably only knew the big hits from the first breaking album.

There are some solid renditions of the more rare, or rather lesser known, tunes like "Christmas Song" and especially "Grenadine," which has in the past been reserved for some of the best Dave bootlegs. This double set is definitely a good purchase for those who generously like Dave's older music and can enjoy hours of acoustic guitar minus the flunkier side of Dave Matthews Band. For dedicated fans out there, you will find this album a music product because you will be able to have your signature live discs.

And, seeing as it is holding strong at #6 on Billboard's chart that I have heard it playing on campus more than once, this album is bound to do good things for the band.

It's odd that, in British newspapers, critics write about "Dave who? because they barely know anything about the Dave Matthews Band in London. Maybe they should pick up this disc to get a better idea of what the band is about in its entirety—seen live on mainstream and streaming records like crazy in this time when we just can't get enough of Dave Matthews Band.

The Beavers ended last week on a high note with an 82-68 victory over Coast Guard after losing a tough 68-58 to Wesleyan. The win left the Beavers at 70-80 overall with a 5-3 record in the league. This places them in tie with Springfield for third place.

The Beavers head to Brandeis University on Thursday to face a young but talented team. Saturday, February 10th the Beavers finally return home after playing seven straight games on the road and host league foe WPI at 3 PM.

W. Swimming: Seniors Say Farewell

ALANNA M. DUBAGO

They have graced our pool for four years, made our classrooms smell of chlorine and have shown the rest of the campus that they know how to train. Now, our beloved seniors will hang up their speedos and say goodbye for the last time.

This Saturday's Newman meet marked the last college competition for four of our swimming team's seniors.

A few highlights from the meet were the outstanding performances of sophomores Ashley Clark and Camille Cerryn.

Clark placed 3rd overall in the 100 Free. Her time of 55.11 in the 100 Free, tied 9th in the 400 IM, 11th in the 200 Fly and 13th in the 200 Breaststroke.

Another event worth mentioning was the Freestyle relay which was swam by Megan Cook '02, Clark, Sabrina Peterson '02 and Danielle Lansers '02, a relay team which promises to show potential in the years to come.

Frazer N. who ended her career at Babson with style in the 200 Breaststroke swam a personal best.

The rest of the team thanked the seniors for their four years of work and dedication in a ceremony held at the meet's last Thursday.

It will be hard to ever replace or replace Cpl. Wendy "Can you rub my butt" Burns, Angie "Sweetass" Duff, Fran "You can't have my boyfried" Lustig, Eric "I can't keep my cap on" Lavoie, and Kate "love cheese" Shes.

The team wishes the seniors the best of luck in their future endeavors.

Shes and additional members of the team will be competing in a couple of weeks at the Women's New England Championships.
