Will Babson Abandon Macintosh?

By Doug Peterson
Staff Writer

When Babson College originally allotted funds for its local area network computer system, the budget concentrated on Personal Computers such as the Compaq Prolinea 4/335 and could not accommodate purchases of new Apple Macintosh equipment. Thus, 28 outdated Macintosh computers now reside in our computer lab. The Macintoshes cannot run the software meant for Globenet. Skip Tamimi of Technical Support, responsible for hardware buying, now promises to get rid of those machines by next semester so he can stock our equipment around in the used computer market. The loss leaves Macintosh users at Babson concerned. Student Peter Sides commented, "I'm angry 'cause I'm one of the few people on this campus that thinks Macs are easier to use."

However, contrary to rumor, Babson will not abandon Macintosh. Though not one knows for sure what hardware will replace the outgoing units, Paul Sullivan of the computer center speculates that a mix of Power Macintoshes and Compaq's, the predominant model on campus, will suffice. Regardless, he and the customer oriented department he represents acknowledge the minority of patrons that prefer Macintosh and he assures that "we are getting new Mac equipment."

The Power Macintoshes under consideration contain Windows simulators which will allow those accustomed to PCs to utilize Macs. Also, they can run Globenet Software, but not well.

With the forthcoming of the "supercomputer," a computer with a platform which will run Windows, DOS, and Macintosh software, one would think that Babson would find a way to keep its technology up-to-date with the modern advances. Computer fanatics along with investors on Wall Street await the emergence of such a "supercomputer." Currently, Macintosh, IBM, and Motorola are working on the development of such a machine.

In the future, Macintosh may produce a unit capable within itself of cultivating more powerful software, such as Globenet. As well, it could be advantageous for Babson students to understand both PC and Macintosh platforms. Thus, wouldn't one think that Babson, a leader in modern education, would find a way to educate the world's future leaders?

Babo Men Swim To Victory

By Derek Finkelstein
Staff Writer

Not since the mid 1980's, when the Boston Celtics and the Los Angeles Lakers battled in three NBA championships, has a rivalry existed that can compare to the one between the Men's swimming and diving teams from Babson and Norwich. Two years ago, the Babson men lost by just one point. Last year, Babo got revenge by turning the tables and winning by a mere point (diving not included). Last Saturday, both squads were primed and ready to not only win, but also to humiliate the opposing team into final submission.

Babo, fresh off their seven-hour bus ride to the great state of Vermont, opened the meet with a stellar performance from the 400 yard medley relay team. Senior Jim Merrion (backstroke), sophomore Brian Bloom (breaststroke), freshman Tom "Candlepin" Boland (butterfly), and freshman Ryan (freestyle) demolished their Norwich counterparts by over twelve seconds. The next event, the 1000 yard freestyle (yes, 40 lengths of the pool), was delayed as sophomore Eric Walgreen concluded an autograph session with his adoring fans. And for a nominally new-looked over team, understandable, Walgreen was able to get their picture taken with the youngster. Babo's other participants in the race, freshmen Mathieu Thiam and Yutao Ma included, were also late in reporting to the starting blocks, as they were last in the autograph line. In any case, Walgreen lived up to his top billing and finished third with a time of 11:12.11 (Next time, Eric, kick off your damn turns).

With the score knotted at 18, Babo took control, garnering 1-2 honors in six of the next seven events. Key performances were turned in by junior David Nava, who finished first in the 200 yard individual medley, Ryan Merrion, who swam a 22.51 in the 50 yard freestyle, and freshman Tony Figueroa, who collected two more career-best times in the 50 and 100 yard freestyle events. Furthermore, Boland and junior captain Mike Trim Serves up Truth on Sanitation

By Ross Sanger
Staff Writer

There is a major concern regarding the cleanliness of plates, glasses, and silverware at Trim. Students have at times found food dirt and sun properly clean dishware. The truth of the matter is that many of these encounters are true. When any facility is responsible for washing 8,000 dishes and 6,000 pieces of silverware each day, hand washing becomes impossible. Instead, dish washing machines have been purchased to deal with the volume. These machines are checked three times daily to ensure that the water temperature is above the legal minimum for each corresponding cycle. Despite a correct temperature, some high protein foods will make it through on a reported low percentage of plates without being washed off. These trouble items are dealt with by hand when discovered, as are all pots and pans. In addition, silverware is bleached weekly to assure proper sanitation. Given the volume, the frequency of this occurrence should not cause concern for most students.

Trim employees are required to wash their hands in an antibacterial soap before their shift. In addition, an antibacterial lotion is applied for added safety. Finally, gloves and hats are mandatory clothing for all servers who handle or prepare food intended to be consumed immediately. Certain items are not handled by Trim employees at all. These food items such as breads, desserts, and salad bar items are often handled by students without gloves. This claim is again truthful, but may or may not be the fruit of Trim management. Traps are provided at all self service locations, but often go unused. As a result, recent signs have been posted at especially troublesome areas with little perceived effect. Whenever possible, Trim employees are told to remind students of the people who will follow them, fulfilling their legal responsibility. For a truly sanitary dining hall, students are going to have to cooperate and use the tools provided. On a similar note, flies must be dealt with by using the supplied...
"CULTS" And The College Campus

By Tim Mann
Housing and Residential Programs Office

There has been a growing concern and awareness across the nation regarding the increasing presence of "cults" in cities and on college campuses. As we move into the Spring '95 semester and closer to mid terms, this overview will provide you with a brief, but important insight into the nature of cults, and alert you to some of the characteristics and tactics that are commonly used by cult organizations.

Leadership Opportunities Unveiled

By Doug Peterson
Staff Writer

Babson College has consolidated the application process for five popular and promising leadership roles. Those applying to become Resident Assistants, Student Quality Specialists, Peer Mentors (formerly "Orientation Leaders"), or to serve on the College Judicial Board or the Orientation Committee now share a common due date of February 24, 1995. Assistant Dean of Students

Cable Cashes in on Babson

By Doug Peterson
Staff Writer

Continental Cablevision brings long-awaited cable television to Babson College this semester. With all dormitories now cable-ready, the company has received 135 subscriptions so far. Babson customers will welcome such excellent channels as CNN, MTV, VH-1, ESPN 1 & 2, and BET.

SPRING WEEKEND BAND CHOICES:

Below is a list of bands that may be able to come to Babson for Spring Weekend. Please take a moment and circle your choice. Bring this out to the box in Trim lobby. Or send it to Box 707 ASAP.

- Tribe Called Quest
- Naughty By Nature
- Arrested Development
- Blues Traveler
- Live
- Indigo Girl

Each subscription requires a $50 converter deposit, which is added to the monthly cost of the preferred package ($22.10/month) and the fact that the company will form from now on being charged an installation fee, they stand to rack up nearly $20,000 in sales from the Babson Campus. Sounds like Continental is truly cashing in on Babson.

The company offers the Babson Premiere Cable Package at a supposed 18% discount, counting over normal rates. Yet, the same package minus the actual charge, it amounts to $10.18/month. Channel (which does not yet exist), AMC, Bravo, and Comedy Central only costs

Questions pertaining to the specific positions follow in more detail. So far, a steady flow of students have procured the applications and Hacker suspects numerous crossover applications for more than one position. Of course, picking up an application does not indicate a commitment to submit it. The application committees require a minimum Grade Point Average of 2.0 and prefer at least a 2.5. For more information on

Any of the positions, attend an informal, unbinding, and sanitary information meeting on Wednesday, February 8, at 6:30PM in Trim 201-5 or drop by the Information Booth for an application. Remember: The deadline for all applications is February 24 at 4:30 PM. No late applications will be considered.
Letter from SGA

Dear Fellow Students,

The Student Government Association would like to welcome you back for the Spring Semester 1995. We hope your Winter Break went well and that you enjoyed the time off. Well get ready, it’s all back and there are good times to be had. Just to inform some of you - the S.G.A. has been hard at work trying to make Balson a better place, but your help is desperately needed. If you are interested in planning Balson events or getting down to the issues that effect student life, then you belong in the S.G.A.

The Spring semester is packed with excitement and here is some information about how you can get involved:

- There are over 40 registered student organizations that you can be a part of, for more information contact #9310.

- Be a Resident Assistant, Student Life Specialist, College Judicial Board member, or a Peer Mentor (Orientation leader).

Get involved this Spring, The Student Government Association.

---

Student Government Executive Board Positions

President (Need at least 80 credit hours for eligibility)
Primary responsibilities include:
1. Person at all executive board meetings and see that they are conducted in an orderly fashion.
2. Appoint students to fill all positions that are not otherwise assigned.
3. Present the student body to the faculty and administration.
4. Sit on the Student Affairs council.
5. Serve as the moderator of the Senate.

Vice-President Finance (Need at least 48 credit hours for eligibility)
Primary responsibilities include:
1. Handle all financial transactions pertaining to the SGA and keep accurate records of those transactions.
2. Chair the Ways and Means Committee.
3. Make all financial records and statements available to all members of the SGA.
4. Chair the Committee on Finance.

Vice-President Social (Need at least 48 credit hours for eligibility)
Primary responsibilities include:
1. Chair the Social Committee.
2. Organize SGA sponsored social events.

Vice-President Communications (Need at least 48 credit hours for eligibility)
Primary responsibilities include:
1. Record and distribute the minutes of all SGA meetings.
2. Publicize all SGA sponsored events.
3. Help with publicity for other student groups.
4. Chair the Publicity Committee.
5. Chair the Computer Center Advisory Board.
6. Chair the Library Advisory Board.

All-Day Indoor Winter Beach Fest!

All-Day Indoor Volleyball Tour

"boardwalk" activities!

---

1995-1996 Student Government Executive Board Time Line:

Wednesday, February 1st -
Nomination Papers available Monday, February 6th at the Information Booth located in Hollister.

Thursday, February 2nd
Executive Board Information and Q&A Session with current E-Board. Trim 207-208 at 6:30.

Monday, February 6th
Nomination Papers due back in the SGA Office by Noon.

Tuesday, February 7th
Speeches due in the SGA Office by Noon on a Mac disk.

Tuesday, February 7th
Candidate Speech Night. 6:30pm SGA meeting - Carpeted Section. Trim

Monday, February 13th & Tuesday, February 14th
Primary Elections held in Trim 11am-6pm.

Thursday, February 16th & Friday, February 17th
Candidate Elections held in Trim 11am-6pm.

Tuesday, February 21st
Elects observe House meeting- 6:30pm Trim 207-8.

Saturday, February 25th
Electoral Party at Knight Auditorium- 10pm.

Tuesday, February 28th
Elects are sworn in at the House meeting- 6:30pm.
To Seniors of Babson College:

It has come to my attention that Babson is going to send us off into the world with a final insult. Now, we all have complaints about the school and the way the administration deals with our problems on campus. But this, I am about to discuss if something that we will carry with us forever. Up until this year, the Graduating Class of Babson have gone out after having a Senior Week, a way to celebrate and say goodbye to old friends. Because it is hard to punish people who are not here, the classes of '94 and '91, the Class of '95 is now made to pay the price for their offenses. Previous destruction of property by the earlier classes means that we are automatically found guilty of committing the same offenses before we even commit them. This sounds vaguely of guilt by association, and a lot like persecution of innocent students. I have worked very hard for the past year on doing well, and now I will be denied the opportunity to say goodbye to my friends. Senior Week has been an established tradition for the past several years.

The second thing that the abolition of Senior Week does is create a problem in the way diploma. Babson portrays a classy image. We want to look like a polished, professional institution. We also want to part with traditions, but because there is no Senior Week now, our image and traditions are going to be tarnished. What do I mean? Until now, all of our diplomas have been professionally created, and our names and honors have been written by a calligrapher. The uniqueness of the hand-done diploma creates pride of ownership. I want my diploma to be unique, because I was the one that earned it. My problem? Because Senior Week is gone, the school can no longer have our diplomas ready for graduation. So, they are going to mass produce our diplomas on a laser printer. This is an insult, I have worked hard and long to earn my degree. I have EARNED IT! And they want to make the symbol of my hard work, like they would a handout, or a flyer! I didn't work so hard to get stuffed in the back pocket like this.

Mr. Glavin, I totally disagree with this year's Senior Week in the strongest possible terms. You have made a poor command decision, and you are making soon-to-be-alumni very angry. I will look back on my senior year, and remember how much I was treated. I can guarantee that I won't be giving contributions to the school. I wanted to be proud to be an alumnus of Babson, but it's the last, final send off that I will remember. Mr. Glavin, you have done a very bad job in handling the Senior Week for the class of '95. For those of you who please support the initiative to at least get our diplomas done right. Senior Week is more than a tradition, but I think our diploma is to last me forever. And I WANT IT DONE THE RIGHT WAY!

I am more than willing to discuss this topic, and possible solutions. I can be reached at (508) 650-1019.

Brian Kiskowski
Class of '95

Dear Brian:

I agree with, and support you 100%. But please do not blame the giving contributions to running on the school for some time now, and acts solely as a agent for the Board of Trustees as a human fund raiser. As a lead- erless institution, run by secretaries at best, we should not be sur- Prised by such foolish notions. I am as upset as you about senior year, and feel that SGA should take the responsibility to plan some- thing off campus if need be. We could rent a hotel on a beach somewhere and have senior week despite our administration's attempts at penal action. After all, I'd have to have Babson with finals being the last thing to remember this place by.

Regarding our diplomas, if Babson is determined to offer its future alumni, so be it. Their attempts to save a few dollars now will come back to haunt them as more students like you and I pledge never to donate. I wish you luck, and I encourage that both Seniors and underclassmen alike contact your representatives in the Senate, they've taken it from ev- eryone.

Dear Editor:

I recently noticed while looking through the course book for this spring that finance instructor Donald Santini was still teaching out of the textbook, you will have to advise other students to do duty out of his classes. Donald Santini has an excellent knowledge of the Financial Department but continues to teach due to his contract. He never plans to teach again and he acts like it. He is perhaps the poorest professor here at Babson, and a disgrace to the faculty. Attached is a copy of a letter which I sent to his boss last year. Nothing ever came of it, but if you could please print it in the Free Press maybe someone will read it and be lucky enough to drop out of his class. Thank you.

To: Ms. Diane Herrington

This is the written documentation of my experience with Prof. Donald Santini.

The course I enrolled in is XXX. On XXX the semester long project was due. I had been working on a company all semester. I was asked to find a company, I approached the final stages of the project, that this company did not fit in with the Finance Department as a human fund raiser. As a lead- erless institution, run by secretaries at best, we should not be sur- Prised by such foolish notions. I am as upset as you about senior year, and feel that SGA should take the responsibility to plan some- thing off campus if need be. We could rent a hotel on a beach somewhere and have senior week despite our administration's attempts at penal action. After all, I'd have to have Babson with finals being the last thing to remember this place by.

Regarding our diplomas, if Babson is determined to offer its future alumni, so be it. Their attempts to save a few dollars now will come back to haunt them as more students like you and I pledge never to donate. I wish you luck, and I encourage that both Seniors and underclassmen alike contact your representatives in the Senate, they've taken it from ev- eryone.

Dear Brian:

I agree with, and support you 100%. But please do not blame the giving contributions to running on the school for some time now, and acts solely as a agent for the Board of Trustees as a human fund raiser. As a lead- erless institution, run by secretaries at best, we should not be sur- Prised by such foolish notions. I am as upset as you about senior year, and feel that SGA should take the responsibility to plan some- thing off campus if need be. We could rent a hotel on a beach somewhere and have senior week despite our administration's attempts at penal action. After all, I'd have to have Babson with finals being the last thing to remember this place by.

Regarding our diplomas, if Babson is determined to offer its future alumni, so be it. Their attempts to save a few dollars now will come back to haunt them as more students like you and I pledge never to donate. I wish you luck, and I encourage that both Seniors and underclassmen alike contact your representatives in the Senate, they've taken it from ev- eryone.

Dear Brian:

I agree with, and support you 100%. But please do not blame the giving contributions to running on the school for some time now, and acts solely as a agent for the Board of Trustees as a human fund raiser. As a lead- erless institution, run by secretaries at best, we should not be sur- Prised by such foolish notions. I am as upset as you about senior year, and feel that SGA should take the responsibility to plan some- thing off campus if need be. We could rent a hotel on a beach somewhere and have senior week despite our administration's attempts at penal action. After all, I'd have to have Babson with finals being the last thing to remember this place by.

Regarding our diplomas, if Babson is determined to offer its future alumni, so be it. Their attempts to save a few dollars now will come back to haunt them as more students like you and I pledge never to donate. I wish you luck, and I encourage that both Seniors and underclassmen alike contact your representatives in the Senate, they've taken it from ev- eryone.

Dear Brian:

I agree with, and support you 100%. But please do not blame the giving contributions to running on the school for some time now, and acts solely as a agent for the Board of Trustees as a human fund raiser. As a lead- erless institution, run by secretaries at best, we should not be sur- Prised by such foolish notions. I am as upset as you about senior year, and feel that SGA should take the responsibility to plan some- thing off campus if need be. We could rent a hotel on a beach somewhere and have senior week despite our administration's attempts at penal action. After all, I'd have to have Babson with finals being the last thing to remember this place by.

Regarding our diplomas, if Babson is determined to offer its future alumni, so be it. Their attempts to save a few dollars now will come back to haunt them as more students like you and I pledge never to donate. I wish you luck, and I encourage that both Seniors and underclassmen alike contact your representatives in the Senate, they've taken it from ev- eryone.

Dear Brian:

I agree with, and support you 100%. But please do not blame the giving contributions to running on the school for some time now, and acts solely as a agent for the Board of Trustees as a human fund raiser. As a lead- erless institution, run by secretaries at best, we should not be sur- Prised by such foolish notions. I am as upset as you about senior year, and feel that SGA should take the responsibility to plan some- thing off campus if need be. We could rent a hotel on a beach somewhere and have senior week despite our administration's attempts at penal action. After all, I'd have to have Babson with finals being the last thing to remember this place by.

Regarding our diplomas, if Babson is determined to offer its future alumni, so be it. Their attempts to save a few dollars now will come back to haunt them as more students like you and I pledge never to donate. I wish you luck, and I encourage that both Seniors and underclassmen alike contact your representatives in the Senate, they've taken it from ev- eryone.

Dear Brian:

I agree with, and support you 100%. But please do not blame the giving contributions to running on the school for some time now, and acts solely as a agent for the Board of Trustees as a human fund raiser. As a lead- erless institution, run by secretaries at best, we should not be sur- Prised by such foolish notions. I am as upset as you about senior year, and feel that SGA should take the responsibility to plan some- thing off campus if need be. We could rent a hotel on a beach somewhere and have senior week despite our administration's attempts at penal action. After all, I'd have to have Babson with finals being the last thing to remember this place by.

Regarding our diplomas, if Babson is determined to offer its future alumni, so be it. Their attempts to save a few dollars now will come back to haunt them as more students like you and I pledge never to donate. I wish you luck, and I encourage that both Seniors and underclassmen alike contact your representatives in the Senate, they've taken it from ev- eryone.
Dear BabTelCo,

I am writing this letter in regards to the notice which came attached to my most recent BabTelCo Statement, stating:

Due to recent software upgrades some local area calls were inadvertently charged. Please pay the amount shown on the bill, we will Automatically Credit you back on the next monthly statement. Thank you.

As a senior at Babson College, I strongly believe that I have learned a great deal about how a business should be operated. When I received the above quoted notice stapled to my bill, I was outraged! Before getting into the negative, I will commend the telephone office for at least trying to remain on top of software technology, but the positives end here. Knowingly charging someone for something that they legally do not have to pay is unprofessional, unethical, and if it matters to anyone involved with the operations at the phone company, ILLEGAL. Do the people running the phone company think their customers are stupid? My experience with BabTelCo leads me to believe that they are operating their business as a monopoly, and I felt compelled to speak out for the students at Babson who, unfortunately, do not have another alternative for phone service on campus. I think this fact should be brought to the attention of those responsible government institutions which regulate the major phone companies such as AT&T, MCI, and NYNEX. For most college students, money is tight to begin with. By paying the full amount shown, and then getting credited at a later date, the phone office has now become a financial insituation for my money. Is BabTelCo planning on crediting our accounts plus the interest we could have earned on our money elsewhere? What gives them the right to have access to our money that is rightfully not theirs?

I will acknowledge that this issue has been dealt with strongly, but if the leader in Business Schools can't manage to operate a business in a professional, ethical, and legal manner, I do not believe they should be teaching their students in the future. If you or anyone you know has any feedback on this issue, I would be happy to hear from you. In addition, I have absolutely no intention to pay the telephone statement I have received until it has been properly adjusted. I do know failure to pay outstanding balances can result in $25.00 late charges and/or various registration/ enrollment complications. A late charge of $25.00 applied to balances of less than $100 results in a 25% or higher interest rate. I think BabTelCo should look into "ousy interest rates" before simply applying these late charges. BabTelCo should decide upon a single, legal interest rate to charge against its part due accounts. If my academic status is hindered in the least way or I am charged the $25 late fee for paying this incorrect statement, lawyers will get involved. I do not mean to sound threatening, but I can't afford to have my academic status jeopardized over this issue. I am not the only student outraged at this issue. I have spoken with many students in the Babson community who have also displayed opposition towards this recent development at BabTelCo.

Sincerely,
Clifton D. Berner
President, Babson Free Press
Dean of Students
Better Business Bureau of Massachusetts

When I graduated from High School and applied to College, I was told that I'd be in the "Class of 1995." I remember thinking to myself "Wow, that's halfway into the decade." I wasn't even quite sure of what I'd make it to the end of 1991, let alone 1995. I realized about a month ago, however, that no matter how much I tried to push it back, it just wasn't going to happen. I turned on MTV last night to watch some videos, and I came to find that MTV doesn't play videos anymore. It seems that in 1992 between the cartoons, the talk shows, interviews, and dancing, there just isn't any time for videos. When they finally did play a video (sometime between four and five in the A.M.) I'd never heard of the song. I watched the way they were all dressed and I found myself saying things like "They look ridiculous," or "Why don't they pull their pants up?" Then an old Duran Duran video would come on, or I'd flip to a rerun of "Chachi-in-Charge" and turn to a freshman as if to say: "You had the eighties, in the eighties, they knew how to make TV!" But it's not the eighties. It's 1995, and last week I moved all my stuff into my dorm room for what would be the eighth and final time. I couldn't help but think to myself that somewhere, there must be a freshman packing just like me; but he's not "packing just like me." He's packing for his second trip to Babson, with six still remaining. At some point, three years from now, he's going to be writing this editorial and not me. And then, as now, the times will continue to change. My concern, however, is not with 1998, but with 1995. Because in four months I will go from being a Babson College student to being a non-donating Babson College Alumnus."

Bill Theohiou
Editor-in-Chief
Announcements

HEALTH CENTER SCHEDULE
Stop Smoking Sessions Held Every Thursday, from 4:30PM-6:00PM
February 9
On the Road to Freedom-Decision Process
February 16
On the Road to Freedom-Studying Your Habit, Building Motivation
February 23
Wanting to Quit-Coping With Urges, Making A Plan
February 28
QUIT DAY
Call 8257 for more info

The 13th annual Eastern Mass. Championship 10KM Road Race will be held on Sunday, March 19, 1995. The event, which features computerized finish line timing, 2 and 4 mile water stops, and splits provided at each mile, is sponsored by the B’nai B’rith Sports Lodge and is open to all runners. The race will kick off at 1:00PM at Memorial Park in Needham. Entry fees are $7.00 per entry and $9.00 on the day of the race, with proceeds going to B’nai B’rith. The first 100 entrants will receive a free T-shirt. Call Andrew Blume for more information at 237-9539

B‘NAI B‘RITH 10K ROAD RACE

SOPHOMORES: CLASS OF 1997

Internships lead to experience. Experience leads to jobs. Jobs lead to money. Money leads to smiles. Hey Sophomores, don’t you want to smile? Apply for an Internship NOW. Visit the Office of Career Services on the third floor of Hollister. For more information, OCS and the Class of 1997 are sponsoring a Q&A session with Internship Counselor Sue Wang on Monday February 6 at 7:00PM in Gerber 211. Keep your eyes open for more info or call 5281.

HORN GALLERY USAGE FOR 1995-96
Throughout the year requests are made by faculty, staff, and students for the use of the Horn Gallery for exhibitions and special events. Please be aware that the gallery schedule is established a year in advance, and it is impossible to accommodate these requests on short notice. Planning is underway for the 1995-96 academic year, so if you foresee a need for the Gallery in conjunction with any courses, or are a student organization interested in using the gallery, or know of someone or something you would like to share with the Babson community, please contact Andy Martinez at 8270.

VALENTINE'S DAY-CARNATIONS-VALENTINE'S DAY

Someone special? Secret Admirer? Special Friends? Let them know you care with Carnations. The Class of 1997 will be selling red and white carnations for $1.00. For a buck, you can get a flower and a card sent to that special someone on February 14th. For Carnations in Trim during lunch and dinner on February 8, 9, 10.

BABSON PLAYERS AUDITIONS
Godspell, the Players’ spring musical. Auditions will be held Monday February 6, in Trim 295 at 6:00PM and Tuesday February 7, in Knight Auditorium at 6:00PM. Good luck to all.

The Babson Free Press would like to congratulate Kevin Decesare on his promotion to Free Press Paper Boy. Also we would like to thank Mike Gillis for his twelve years of faithful service.

The Babson Free Press
Bill Theofiliou
Editor-in-Chief
Scott Sarris
Managing Editor
David Kopchick
Business Manager
Adam Beck
Production Manager
Larry Ganti
News Editor
Sarena Kao
Features Editor
Cris Conception
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Brett Larson
Sports Editor
Jill Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor
Kevin DeCesare
Layout Assistant/Circulation Mgr
Paul Coobergh
Advertising Manager
Jeremy Weiner
Advertising Representative
Bob Cincicola
Photography Department
The Babson Free Press is a weekly newspaper published by the students of Babson College. Our production facilities and administrative offices are located in the basement of Park Manor Central. The deadline for camera ready artwork is Tuesday at 5:00 PM prior to any Thursday publication date. The Babson Free Press reserves the right to refuse any advertisement and assumes no responsibility for mistakes in advertisements; however, we will reprint any part of an ad that is printed incorrectly if reasonable notice is given.

Subscription Information
Yearly subscriptions are available for $25. Please send a check or money order to:
The Babson Free Press
Box 140
Babson College
Babson Park, MA 02157
Tel: (617) 239-4229
FAX: (617) 239-4460, Box 140

The coolest place west of Boston
Eagle’s View Guide to Boston College, 1994

Babson’s new #1
Pizza • Nachos • Skins
cooked Fresh ’til Midnite!

107 R Union St. (Behind BayBank)
Newton Centre, 964-6684 - 1 mile off Rt. 9

Live Music
Rock, Blues, Altern.

10¢ Wings
Mondays
9 to 11 pm

$1 Drafts
Everyday!

Burgers • Sandwiches • Pizza
Steaks • Pasta • Everything else

The Babson Free Press
Bill Theofiliou
Editor-in-Chief
Scott Sarris
Managing Editor
David Kopchick
Business Manager
Adam Beck
Production Manager
Larry Ganti
News Editor
Sarena Kao
Features Editor
Cris Conception
Arts & Entertainment Editor
Brett Larson
Sports Editor
Jill Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor
Kevin DeCesare
Layout Assistant/Circulation Mgr
Paul Coobergh
Advertising Manager
Jeremy Weiner
Advertising Representative
Bob Cincicola
Photography Department

The Babson Free Press is a weekly newspaper published by the students of Babson College. Our production facilities and administrative offices are located in the basement of Park Manor Central. The deadline for camera ready artwork is Tuesday at 5:00 PM prior to any Thursday publication date. The Babson Free Press reserves the right to refuse any advertisement and assumes no responsibility for mistakes in advertisements; however, we will reprint any part of an ad that is printed incorrectly if reasonable notice is given.

Subscription Information
Yearly subscriptions are available for $25. Please send a check or money order to:
The Babson Free Press
Box 140
Babson College
Babson Park, MA 02157
Tel: (617) 239-4229
FAX: (617) 239-4460, Box 140

The coolest place west of Boston
Eagle’s View Guide to Boston College, 1994

Babson’s new #1
Pizza • Nachos • Skins
cooked Fresh ’til Midnite!

107 R Union St. (Behind BayBank)
Newton Centre, 964-6684 - 1 mile off Rt. 9

Live Music
Rock, Blues, Altern.

10¢ Wings
Mondays
9 to 11 pm

$1 Drafts
Everyday!
To: Campus Community  From: Public Safety

Campus parking policies will be strictly and uniformly enforced to ensure that all members of the Babson Community—students, faculty and administrative staff—may use the spaces that are available for them. Last year’s parking policy survey indicated the community’s commitment to the enforcement of parking regulations. The Department of Public Safety and the Cabinet wish to emphasize to ALL members of the Babson community the importance of observing these regulations.

TOWING: Illegally parked vehicles in fire lanes, medical, and handicapped areas, visitor or admission areas and parking lots not designated for their use, will be ticketed and towed on the fourth and each subsequent violation. — Owners of vehicles towed three times in an academic year may be subject to disciplinary action. ALL violations will be billed through the Accounts Receivable Office. All Charges for towing and storage are the responsibility of the owner. The college assumes no liability for damage to vehicles either during towing or storage.

APPEALS: For extenuating circumstances, undergraduates may appeal to the student traffic court. Forms and information may be obtained at the Hollinrider Information Booth and employees and graduate students may submit an appeal to the traffic clerk. These forms may be obtained at the Public Safety Office.

REGISTRATION AND LOTS: All Babson Community members who drive or park on campus are required to register their vehicles with Public Safety. Out-of-state vehicles must be in compliance with C90 sec. 3 of the Massachusetts General Laws. Students who reside in campus residence halls (with the exception of Bryant, Westgate or Woodland Hill) must park in the Trim or Coleman Lots.

Bryant and Westgate residents must park in Bryant Lot, residents of Woodland Hill may park opposite Building 1, 2, 3A or in the Woodland parking lot.

SNOW REMOVAL: Vehicles hindering snow removal operations will be towed. Generally, vehicles parked in unauthorized areas will not hinder snow removal operations.

VACATION PERIODS: During school vacations, students should remove their vehicles from campus. If this is not possible, vehicles may be left in the Trim Lot in the area closest to the Central Services Building. Please notify Public Safety if a vehicle will be left on campus for an extended period of time and provide a contact person to be notified for vehicle removal.

DAMAGE OR THEFT: Owners of vehicles should take reasonable care and precautions in securing their vehicles. Babson College is not and cannot be responsible for personal property or motor vehicles.
Developing tomorrow's business leaders today at CALDOR

Corporate Headquarters Executive Training Program

In fact, our future is the future of our people. They're the kind of people who know where they're going and want to get there fast. Creative, ambitious and smart. Self-starters who seize opportunity and run with it.

Our Executive Training Program gives you that opportunity. It is designed for college graduates who want to stand out in big business and excel in our growing $2.8 billion corporation.

CALDOR prizes individuality, applauds diversity and recognizes achievement. The following opportunities are available at our CALDOR Corporate Office located in Norwalk, CT: Assistant Buyers,

Merchandise Distribution Analysts
Financial Analysts
MIS Programmer Analysts and more.

Join us and make the transition from the academic world to the business world with the Northeast's fastest growing retailer.

We'll be on campus interviewing:
February 21, 1995.

Please drop off your resume at the Office of Career Services by Tuesday, February 7, 1995.

CALDOR is an equal opportunity employer.

Our People Make the Difference

The Babson Free Press
By Serena Kao
Feature Editor

With only 5 more weeks remaining until Spring Break '94, many of us are still undecided where we should spend the 10 days of our "break from Babylon" (beginning the 16th of March and ending on the 19th). Beginning this week and continuing for the next 5 issues, I'll be helping you make this decision, a decision you'll never regret.

At this moment in time we are experiencing winter in Wellesley. As we all rush to our next class or speed back to our heated dorms, we all dream of being someplace warm, someplace exciting, someplace like Cancun, Mexico. Cancun is not only the most popular beach resort in Mexico, but perhaps in the world. It's the Mecca of beach-bumming, the place for margaritas in the sand and extreme sun-worshipping. Thousands of Spring Break revelers flock to Cancun every year, which isn't surprising considering its dazzling white beaches of cool, clean, powdery sand, and the crystal clear turquoise and emerald colors of the beautiful Caribbean waters.

Americans feel right at home in its vast array of English-speaking malls, restaurants, discos, and shopping malls. For those who thrive on adventure, Cancun offers parasailing, wave- running, jet skiing, and a number of other activities at reasonable prices. Take advantage of Mexico's coral reef, one of the longest barrier reefs in the world. Snorkeling and scuba-diving are a must, even for those who don't like getting wet. One of the two most significant reasons I believe Cancun to be the ideal vacation spot is because I'm tired of being asked for J.D. and as soon as you arrive they welcome you with Coronas on the ride from the airport to your hotel. In Cancun there is no drinking age. The second reason would be the exchange rate. At the present time the rate is 4.50 for each American dollar! That's mucho pesos!

With its high-tech sound and lighting systems, Cancun clubs are like no other in the world. Las Vegas shows are the premier each night at the major discos like Christian's, Daddy O's, La Boom and Tequila Rock. And on certain nights they offer up to $700 for the hottest bodies in their bikini contests. So don't forget your camera!

Time is running out, so book soon, otherwise there may not be availability for certain flights or hotels. Prices can range anywhere from an average of $320 - $960 (based on double occupancy) depending on which hotel you choose. Certain places on campus, such as Horn Library, offer fliers and phone numbers for further information. The best prices and discounts are offered to college students and usually provide package trips, which include round trip airfare, 7 nights hotel, airports/hotel transfers, all hotel taxes and gratuities, and the impeccable services of reps on location.

As you conclude this article, try to imagine this paradise island in your mind. Close your eyes and picture yourself sipping a pina colada, watching the sunrise over the Caribbean waters, and wishing that Babylon was in Cancun. Now open your eyes and look around. Babylon College can never be in Cancun, but you can, and hopefully you will.

---

90210 CORNER

BEVERLY HILLS 90210
By Josh & Hecho

For all of those loyal 90210 watchers who missed this week's episode, kick yourself for missing this one! Fortunately you have the Babylon Free Press to thank because from now until the show is canceled, we're going to give you a great update. Not only will you read about what's happening with Brandon and Kelly but you'll also read a piece about Melrose Place. Unfortunately Melrose was canceled last Monday, boo hoo!

Who says you can make it big in Hollywood? Dylan, who went from a poor man to a rich man to a poor man again, is once again a millionaire. And who else is going to be the first one to get her hands in his wallet but the new girl, Valerie. Just when we thought Brenda was finally gone, Valerie has sprouted in her place. Dylan offered her $10,000 a year sleeping with her (actually, for helping him get his money back) and she had the nerve to ask for more. After she left his pad, he went on a shopping spree and spent about a grand on a black, tight, low-cut, tight, leather outfit. Wipe that drool, boys! David and his girlfriend now have opened up their own club and Donna's boyfriend, Ray, was the performer tonight. Coincidentally, a record company wants to sign him and the one who meets with him to make the deal is Ariel. Don't remember her? Think back to MTV, Carrie is her real name, think back many episodes ago when David was caught messing with her in their limo with Donna. Wipe that drool boys!

Thanks to David he warned Ray about Ariel and her scheme backfired.

Our little angel Andrea, who by the way lost about 25 pounds, is playing a little loopy goosy with another guy. What happened to Jesse and her baby?

And what about the cult man, Kelly's professor? A rally was held in his honor because he was fired for preaching all of his cult crap. He controls the students, especially Kelly. Poor Brandon, he better watch out because next week the cult man puts the moves on his girl. Wouldn't you guys like to see a threesome? Wipe that drool, boys!

And last but not least, let's end this update with Brenda, oops! I mean Valerie...She's offered more money by the investigator, who got Dylan's money back, to help him with another job. Next Dylan calls her a hooker and she replies, "I'm not a hooker, but if I was you couldn't afford me." Wow! She's actually worse than Brenda. We didn't think that was possible!
Weekly World News

Tomasso Hall

By Skip
Dean of Detergents

Well, it’s that time again. Winter Break’s behind you and all eyes are now set upon the Spring. The days are getting longer and the sun has already started to get higher in the sky. Soon the robins and the peppers will be back. The crocuses and daffodils will be inching their way skyward in search of the sun’s new warmth. And talks of Spring Break and Graduation will be filling the air. Before you know it, it’ll be May and, for you Seniors, your 4 years at Uppie U will be history. Sounds great to me but the problem is that I’m supposed to be going backwards not forwards, and I’m supposed to be bringing the news that you missed while on break, not romanticizing about the up-coming good weather.

So, it’s back to reality and let’s see, what did you miss…?

The top story had to be Adolf Hitler’s body being discovered in a great big block of ice. The WVN completely shocked the world when they reported on their Dec. 28 issue that Dr. Herman Gruber and his crew had dug up the Nazi kingpin in some isolated section of the German Alps. The amazing thing here is that the discovery actually went unnoticed for 6 whole days. Being in the field of cryogenics and dealing with frozen stuff every day, Gruber didn’t pay any special attention to his discovery. It wasn’t until one of his associates peeked through the ice, recognized Hitler’s face, and alerted Dr. Crobroe. “I had to agree with my partner,” said Gruber. “Our next step was to drill through the ice and pinch some flesh from the neck and arms and a few strands of hair from the head. DNA tests matched perfectly with samples found on Hitler’s wardrobe after the War,” said the elated doctor.

At this very moment, Dr. Gruber is patiently awaiting word from the German Government as to what he can do with the frozen Führer. Obviously, he would like to thaw him out and solve possibly the greatest mystery of the 20th Century, “The Cause of Hitler’s Death.” The good doc has even made mention of trying to revive Hitler if at all possible. But for now, Gruber can only hide his time with a great big hunk of frozen dictator, hoping that the German Government will get back to him soon.

Now off to South America, where the WVN, in their Jan. 10 issue, exposed the Chilean Government’s plan to send a satellite into orbit using a giant sling shot as the rocket launcher. Dr. Luis Montoya came clean and admitted that his plan, also known as “Operation Slingshot,” will take place sometime in the Spring. Montoya’s super-space device, known as the “Dura Stretch Sling Launcher,” consists of two reinforced steel pillars built into a steep mountainside. A super strong bond of specially developed rubber is connected between the two pillars, creating a whole sling shot capable of launching a small satellite into space. This project has actually been in the making since 1975 but Dr. Montoya never found a variety of rubber that would work, until his chemists created “Dura Stretch Rubber” last year. Anyway, for every super genius plant there’s always a “doubling Thomas,” and in this case it’s some nukem from Russia named Dr. Igor Domanitch (who incidentally, has to be a reader of the WVN “cause he would be known about the plan). Well, this stick-in-the-mud doesn’t think that rubber is a substitute for rocket fuel and doesn’t think the satellite will receive the proper thrust to overcome the Earth’s gravitational pull.

Of course, Dr. Montoya just chuckles at Domanitch’s negative comments because he’s thinking in terms of normal rubber and has yet to see what “Dura Stretch Rubber” is capable of. Stay tuned.

Well, speaking of blasting off, I think it’s time for me to do the same. See ya next week.

Country Focus: India

By Serena Kao
Features Editor

If you take a look around campus I’d bet there’s a good chance you’ll see quite a number of students from India in our neighborhhood. Here at Babson College there are about fifty Indian students currently enrolled. Since last year the percentage has risen about thirty percent, and the reason is not hard to explain. Exposure to American society. Here in America there are finer opportunities and various aspects which attract people from all over the world to come here. In Pakistan, there are currently about 100 million people living there, compared to 900 million living in India.

I asked him what his first reaction was when he came to America, and if Babson has met up to his expectations. He explained to me that he found America to be a little overrated. Here you are totally independent as opposed to Pakistan, where everything is done for you. He enjoys the freedom, the fact that you can speak in class without even raising your hand, and most of all, the night life in Boston.

Most of the students from India come to our number one business school to major in Finance. Some even choose International Business. After graduating they usually return to India and join the family business, as is often initially planned before coming to America. As more and more Indian students are returning and are seen as successful individuals, more people in India are convinced that Babson is the way to go.

A majority of the students decide to move off campus only because of the atmosphere and the food. The living conditions are much better for them, as they prefer boosting over dormitories. Those from India are also vegetarians and after putting up with Trim for a year, they need a change of a variety.

In conclusion, I’d like to thank my fellow Indian friends, who choose to remain nameless, for taking their time to put up with my nagging questions. I’m also happy to say that with more international students becoming enrolled at Babson our campus is becoming a very pleasurable place to live.

The Babson Free Press

February 2, 1994
ACROSS THE CAMPUS

Van Winkle - A Tower-Jude cutting down? Keeping healthy…no more "No dozes" wake up for B-Law. Is 9:30 too early? I’ll call you up every morning. No drinks on Sundays? Have you learned anything new from it? Dennis-confused Annabelle, Happy Belated Birthday…The Big 18! Three more years and you’ll be legal. Not that it matters now anyway? Hey Great Lord, we miss you! A Tower isn’t the same without you. Poor Guinevere Poor Sharon. Sheldon will be back in a few weeks to comfort you. We got new men in A Tower girls! Eduard, lovely hair cut…where did you go this break? The temple? We’ll just call you Buddha or Mr. Clean, Eutice, how did you make it to the 24 hour store in front of M-80? Did you eat their delicious sandwiches? No go on skiing, maybe the weekend. Definitely M-80!!! Evelyn and her teeny worry ears. Just keep teasing your hair and no one will even see them!

B Tower- Thosai Soldier, the Dance Ensemble won’t be the same without you! Still waitin’ for that phone to ring! Did you break your fingers or something? Or how about this one- you didn’t pay the bill yet? No Egghead! Doins’ the K-12? You’re one week ahead of me. Depression is definitely a factor this semester. Looks like it won’t be happening next semester because…??????

C Tower- Goat Lord! Also made the ultimate mistake of not putting you in their fashion show.

Ya know, even two seconds can be a moment of glory Daddy. The room may be quiet and the floor may be lame but you’ll turn in it-side out. Thought you weren’t go-ing to M-80 for a whole hoot? What is this? No will power? Central Park, Wormhead, Bluntman, you are a solid, you are a solid, that’s all I hear these days. When are you gonna de-mote and throw that head? The tan is fading so don’t call me Pedro, just call me Bonk. Oh yeah, get that Julio off her message board. Keenan, how’s C Tower? Not that it’s new for you. On second thought, how’s the dungeon? Stack the fridge with some Diet Pepsi for your future guest. Youraised me, now I raid yours.

Punney – Phil man, check out the new Indo chick. Too bright. Maky, what’s under the bed? Clean it up! Patrick, no more! Go out and get some yourself! What’s the record? Maky, don’t pee in your bed man! Use a hose…typical M-80. Chills from Punney…Brtrrrrrr. Brtrrrrrrrrrrrrrrr. This is definitely the coldest win-ter we’ve had at Barnum. Nicole and Stacey, Yasss! The hormones are definitely kicking in this semes-ter, what’s your date? New York Times Trojan Man has gone wild. Don’t worry, we’re all closet heterosexu-als. With us it’s the seventeenth. Happy Belated Birthday Bill, hope you’re using the titty cup. Europe? This could be the last thing extremely dangerous. It all begins with one club, then BOMB! M-80, then BANG! Avalon, then BING! THE TUNNEL!! You’d love the unisex bathrooms they have there, they’re just like forest.

Welcome back

McCallough!!! I hope everyone had a terrific break (or one week off for the hockey players)! Happy Birth-day to many new 21 year olds: Phoebe, Earl, Bill, Katie McCarthy. It should prove to be a great semester. How was Abbott Rd? Only about four Juniors were present, huh? Hey Jeff, did you find your CD’s! Where’s Babo, Scottie? Tough being the bad guy…ask Bill for advice. In and out of B2…Steph’s back. Don’t ask. Hey Aaron, how’s the light switch? Joe B, is the van all ready to go? Big Jugs…great show. See you again in a couple of weeks. Find out why you should party on your B-day in A7 B1…halogen lamp??

Keith-

RRRRRRRRRRRRole another one, just like the other one. Hey Eric wanna drink?

Publishers -

No more Mojo Man! What’s the world coming to? A lot of people say you look different. Is it your hair? Your new clothes? Whatever it is they say you’re lookin’ good.

Forest -

Frappe, Yasss! Stop buggin’ the ladies in Punney! Whatever happened with the bled in Van Winkle A Tower? Albert, did Maureen leave yet? Tommy, did Maureen leave yet? Maureen, did you leave yet? What’s the deal on skiing guys? Alby, Tom & Jerry…just do it. The bet is your celly for never seeing an ounce of drol on your pillow again (unless it’s yours of course). Tommy, the holes in your jeans are getting bigger and bigger. It is because what’s in your jeans are getting bigger and bigger.

Coleman North-

Karen, no more late nights, you need to sleep. Chill out girl! More overtime till 12:00 a.m.? Yeah, interesting sights out there eh? Sights and sounds of Thailand. Germaine, what’s with the Dennis? They’re attacking Baboon! We should stand in front of Horn every morning after Preb & Stats just to get a closer look. Four freakin’ classes! Damn that’s a record! Forget breakfast. Don’t take an earlier class. 7 a.m., that’s unheard of! You’re even too timid to go out anymore. Gavin, Bullock, did your roommates men-tioned anything to you about in urinist’s fee? Or do you think it’s rub- bish? Hey roommate, you lost the bet. There’s no way you can stop, it’s unavoidable! The dreams keep getting winder and winder, they’re heating up!

Coleman South-

I’m getting desperate eh! Last one eh? You owe me a pack…funk that! A carton! Cooks, where are you? If you’re ever run- ning on the track in the gym be sure to look down. If you see someone lifting the 200 lb, weight then kick him. By the way, did you finish the Godivas or did you save some for me?

To all of those cool guys, feel felt out.

If you haven’t seen the fliv- ers yet and you want to be a part of the club, just submit your entries to Box no. 1148 or in the Features Section down at the Free Press. The Baboon Free Press is offering to pay anyone who will write for the entire X-Campus. Call 63226 or 4322 for more details.
Outland

And boy, I'll bet we won't regret that we told them to fix the debt.

For years on end we scuffled in. We took much more than we put in...

And now they say the bills come due. They say: 'Don't sweat it.' It won't be you. We'll go pump some other chump. Let little guys, just Donald Trump...

I trust them full. They never quibble. They served free lunch, and I sure needed it then.

But they'll get it paid, and I'm relieved. They sure won't be cowed.

And our they say the bill's come due. They say: 'Don't sweat it.' It won't be you. We'll go pump some other chump. Let little guys, just Donald Trump...

Quick Higgins, call the institute! I think we've discovered the perfect ouJuror!!

THE FAR SIDE

"Go back to sleep, Chuck. You're just havin' a nightmare — of course, we are still in hell."
Deep Thoughts

WHEN YOU die, if you get a choice between going to regular heaven or pie heaven, choose pie heaven. It might be a trick, but if it's not, ummm, boy.

Calvin and Hobbes

by Bill Watterson

NON SEQUITUR

BY VIEW

THE WORST BOOKING IN CAW BUSINESS HISTORY...
An Open Letter to the Babson Community

February 2, 1995

Fellow Students:

Every semester we all hear the familiar complaints about the poor quality of the social situation here at Babson. Last Fall I noticed what seemed to be an abundant amount of criticism, by word of mouth and other means toward those who should be able to change things for the better.

What I missed however were any down to earth suggestions for improvement that we could have applied. In this way, I think we have all fallen into a social rut on this campus, and the system we presently use can't get us out of it. So when you find yourself complaining about another stupid theme weekend or party, ask yourself what you would want to see instead. Feel free to tell someone else your ideas for something better, but then do it through CAB.

The Campus Activities Board provides an outlet for those who are not satisfied with the more established events, and have ideas on what they think would be better. Many times these new events become popular, such as the Drive in Movie CAB now shows each Spring Weekend. But accomplishment on a grand scale is not our mission. If we can make one person enjoy their college life a little more, we have succeeded. You might think you are the only person on this campus that likes, say, country music; But until you get an event featuring country music started, there won't be one, and nothing will have changed. Allow us to help you make life at Babson more enjoyable.

If you are interested in joining CAB or if you have suggestions, you can call our office at X5292, myself at X6535, Dan Trafton at X6555, or Jason Sisto at X6550. Membership is open to anyone who is interested in making a difference. CAB will also be distributing surveys tonight and tomorrow night at dinner. Please give us any information you can. What you tell us now will be reflected in future events.

Thank You,

Stephen Marshall
Vice-President, Campus Activities Board
DRUNK DRIVING DOESN'T JUST KILL DRUNK DRIVERS.

If you don't stop your friend from driving drunk, who will? Do whatever it takes.

FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK.
Legends of the Pitt and Fall

By Kris Concepcion
A&E Editor

If there's only one reason to watch Legends of the Fall, it should be blatantly obvious to you, and it's Brad Pitt. If you're a diehard fan of Hollywood's hot hunk, then you will love this movie, for there are scarcely any scenes where Pitt doesn't appear in his long-maned glory. However, that is all this movie is. While the film includes notable likes Sir Anthony Hopkins and Aidan Quinn, their function as mere catalysts for Pitt's mood swings, of which there are a lot. We see Pitt as a brooding tortured soul looking for himself (the performance makes his angry Louis from Interview With a Vampire look petry). We see Pitt as a cool, mystical cowboy. We see Pitt as the self-assured leader of a crumbling family. Brad Pitt isn't a bad actor, but his presence can become annoying unless you're hopelessly infatuated with him.

Legends of the Fall centers around the early 20th century lives of Col. Ludlow and his three sons. Hopkins plays the venerable father, a retired colonel who experiences a is a good example of how the presses can build up. "Can't buy what I want because it's free? Can't be what I want because I'm me." Suicide is also a recurring theme on this album, and Vedder doesn't quite allow us to decipher whether it's a prelude to things coming up or just some of his troubles. On "Immorality" he sings, "As privileged as a whore ethical in demand by public shows/ Swept out through the cracks beneath the door" and its final haunting lyric, "Cannot say long/ Some die just to live." Unlike past songs like "Rearviewmirror" or "Even Flow," Vedder makes the listener feel the pain of genuine pain in Vedder's voice on all of the songs. It is in that manner that the listener can release and heal their own sorrows. It's just too bad that Vedder has to be a sacrificial lamb in order to do so.

The Siege Revisited

Anonymous

Sitting on this lonely plain surrounded by tattered flags of armies who broke themselves on this tower I beseege.

It is a magnificent fortress, seen for leagues around, hideous with its distant beauty and its treasures promised.

But I do not want gold or fame There is a sacred chapel within granting happiness and warmth that I so desperately need.

I have no knowledge of war and of strategy I know not. I have but a weary sword without a shield for a mate.

I look to the moon and stars for signs of luck, good or not but the moon does not shine, and I feel winter coming soon.

The Devil's Gone From
The Second Coming Of The Stone Roses

By Cris Concepcion

OFF CAMPUS

A Man of No Importance

Albert Finney stars in a touching comedy about an Irish bus driver in a small town with a burning passion for the plays of Oscar Wilde.

The Gig Guide

Throwing Muses

February 3

Kevin Herten and her seventeen piece rock band have been making a name for themselves with songs of female angst that soar rather than scream. They headline the Safe and Sound Concert, a fund raising benefit for the RockTheHill charity at Show's at the Middle East in Cambridge's Central Square. Doors open at 8:30.

Simple Minds

February 25

Have you forgotten about them? The Brat Pack-era pop musicians who made a name for themselves on the Breakfast Club soundtrack, they're coming to Avalon. Doors open at 7 p.m. and tickets are $17.

The London Suede

February 15

Supporting their new album Dog Man Star, British alternative pretty-boys The London Suede are coming to avalon with American Music Club opening.

The MFA 125th Birthday Celebration

The Museum of Fine Arts, 465 Huntington Ave. Boston

This Saturday, February 4, the Museum of Fine Arts will be celebrating its 125th Birthday with live musical performances, gallery tours and family activities. An installation of 44 impressionist paintings from Claude Monet will also be on display. Admission to the Museum will be free for the whole day.

Brassner Free Press
ARTS & ENTERTAINMENT

A Gathering Of Speed Tribes

By Cris Conception
A&E Editor

The opening scene of the landmark Japanese animation movie, Akira, opens with a high speed bike war in the middle of technopolitical Neo-Tokyo. It's all neon, glitz and glam, adjectives that we can easily attach to the country that brought us Sony, Comme de Garçons and Power Rangers, but it's also rebellions, foul and violent, qualities that aren't as easily associated. After all, punks like these don't fit into Japan's harmonious image. A nation noted for making an art out of teamwork, it seems like Japan has made a deal with its citizens. Play with the team, don't make waves, and you'll get lifetime employment, a steady wage and an apartment the size of skateboard. So what is life like for those who want to be individuals and reject the deal?

Kari Taro Greenfeld, a contributing writer to hip-err_ILriting magazines like The Face, and The Monotonous Mood Music

By Peter Merica
Staff Writer

Mazzy released her latest album, "Unreefected," and this month's release, "Faded Into You," has a similar sound. Mazzy has been around the scene for a while now, and the album shows her growth as a musician.

Sundown's debut album, "The Jesus and Mary Chain on Sometimes Always," is a loud, fast-paced rock album. The band's sound is a mix of shoegazing and post-punk, and the album is full of catchy hooks and well-crafted guitar riffs.

The album opener, "Faded Into You," is a brilliant song. Its acoustic guitar riffs are layered with Roback's guitar, and the result is a beautiful, dreamy sound. The song's melody is catchy, and the lyrics are poetic and meaningful.

The Babson Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual Association

WE'RE DANNN FESTIVE!

Ext: 2001. Dial 9490 to access voice mail.
Box #: 2142
How Did You Keep Warm Over Winter Break?

By Kelly A. Gryneel

Matt Shea '95
"Winter session... What only three classes this semester?"

Mike Blumberg '98
"Hell is nice this time of year..."

Bahadir Candan '97
"Oh, well I don't want my mother to find out!"

Craig Derryberry '96
"Bought new gloves!"

Mark Makus '95, Jeff Plohaick '96
"Morphine and Perchocet"

David Beck '97, Amanda McCauley '97
Rick DeCoste '96
"HER!"

Erik Masei '95
"But I didn't really do that!!"

Josh Jacobs '95
"I don't quite remember..."
in a thousand years,
what will they say about us?
that we put 1028 bits on a computer chip?
that we could clap on, and clap off?
that we all had riding lawnmowers?
or that we helped our homeless
fed our children
stood by our sick
that we cared for each other
in a thousand years,
what do you want them to say?

thanks.

The United Way.

for donation information call 1-617-482-8370
Women's Basketball Vents Anger on Bates

By Doug Peterson
Staff Writer

The Babson Women's Basketball Team rebounded from a disappointing 60-56 Thursday night loss to Salem State, ranked #1 in the NCAA Division III New England poll, by punishing the Bates Bobcats on Saturday. Anxious to resume their winning ways that they thought this season produced a game-winning streak, the Beavers teased the Bobcats by allowing them to keep up for 35 minutes before finally triumphing 68-60.

Bates opened the contest in a specialized Box and one defense. This strategy singles out one proficient player and allows her woman to woman coverage, while the remaining four defenders play a zone around the painted area of the floor. On Saturday, the Bobcats hoped to slow down Babson scoring leader, Michele Merten. The maneuver worked, as the Beavers had difficulty getting the Senior the basketball early in the game. However, Michele's teammates, perhaps insulat and challenged by Bates' ignorance of their capabilities, capitalized. Freshman center Beth Giovannianni and the rest of the squad exploited the Bobcats' diminished front-line strength, typical of most Box and one defenses, by attacking from the baseline and crushing the offensive boards.

Still, the defensive gimmick and opportunistic transition offense allowed Bates Coach Jim Murphy and his team to maintain withstanding driving distance of the Beavers. Midway through the first half, Murphy must have second-guessed himself and decided to contain the entire Babson squad, as he changed to a woman to woman defense. Unwittingly, Murphy also may have reckoned that he had overrated Merten's abilities and that she never saw straight coverage. He erred. After a short rest, Merten returned and took advantage of the Bates mistake. Offensively, she dominated the paint by racking up short jumpers and powerful lay-ins, versus a helpless Bates front-line.

Babson's ladies pulled to a generous ten point lead in the second half. Yet, a Bates run near 30 minutes remaining, that featured a pair of three point field goals, tightened the score to Babson 59, Bates 54. Babson coach Judy Blinston may have considered slowing down the game's pace and riding the short lead to a humble victory. Instead, Blinston instructed the Beavers during a time-out to crank out the pressure as they adopted a full court, woman to woman, trapping press. She succeeded. The aggressive defense immediately forced two turnovers out of a surprised Bates team.

At 2:23 remaining, Giovannianni scored and converted a foul shot to make the score Babson 67, Bates 56. Time was running out on the Bobcats. The Beavers mercifully invited a final come-back as Eileen Corrigan, Maura Fleming, and Giovannianni, combined to miss four of five free throws. But Bates had nothing left.

The Bobcat Coach's mistake of not maintaining specialized coverage on Merten, may have proved lethal as the senior ended with 28 points. In fairness, however, the entire Babson squad played so well that Bates was finished either way.

Our ladies play at home again tonight vs. Smith and February 4 vs. Wheaton.

Icemen Re-gain First Place

By Jeff Patterson
Assistant Sports Editor

The Babson Ice Hockey team has won two games since our last issue. Just before the Christmas break, Holy Cross College visited the Freeze Center to resume a brewing rivalry with Babson. Just as expected, this was a battle to the death. Despite Babson's edge in the struggle between the two travel partners, the game was scoreless midway into the second period when Babson got on the board. The game continued with Sean Condon making several key saves in net. The contest did get a little heated at the end, as the 4-1 score began to frustrate the visiting Crusaders. This big win sent the team into the holiday break on a positive note.

Moving on, Friday, January 6 saw the icemen in action for the first time in 1995. The opponent for this non-league contest were the Beavers of UMass-Boston. Possibly because of the long layoff between games, the icemen appeared to be disoriented on the ice, especially in the defensive zone, although they did jump out to a 3-0 first period lead. In fact, they actually played quite well for the first fifteen minutes of the first period.

The rest of the game, on the other hand, left a lot to be desired. The game took an appearance of an Arena Football game, as goals piled up on the scoreboard at an alarming rate. UMass-Boston went up 4-3, down 8-6, and even tied 8-8 in the final period. Babson finally tied the game again midway through the third period. After a faceoff victory by former Babson great Jay Riley放在 his career Babson goal, Dave Woodward picking up five points, Mike Donahue picking up four, and Anthony Baroni making his season debut in net. This was a total team effort with fourteen different players finding their way into the scoring summary. Although somewhat hampered by the style of play employed by the visitors, the team was extremely pleased with Saturday's results, as well as Friday's.

January 20 and 21 found the icemen back on the ice for the second time in a week. The opposition this time was the Boston University Terriers. The Terriers came into the game without a win in the Beanpot, and Babson responded with a 7-4 victory to tie the Terriers for third place in the Beanpot standings. Babson is currently tied for third place in the Beanpot standings with Northeastern University and Boston University, each with a 4-3 record. The Terriers are also 4-3, but Babson has the tiebreaker advantage due to a 7-4 victory over Boston University.

Icemen's next opponent will be the Harvard Crimson on Saturday, January 27 at 7:00 p.m. The Crimson are currently in 8th place in the Beanpot standings with a 2-5 record. Babson will look to improve their record to 6-1 in Beanpot play with a win over Harvard.
STORST

PAGE 23

VOLUME 53 ISSUE 1

FEBRUARY 2 1995

"The General" Leads Babson To Eighth Straight Victory

By David Onorato

Staff Writer

The Babson men's basketball team has run off eight consecutive wins, to increase their record to 13-3. This blazing start has catapulted the team to #4 in the New England NCAA Division III poll. A week ago Babson faced Salem State, its toughest opponent of the season. Salem State came into The Webster Center ranked #7 in New England and the game lived up to the advanced hype. Both teams came out playing aggressively and managed to light up the scoreboard with their strong offense. Salem State was tough through three quarters of the game, until the Beavers pulled away on a run to a convincing 105-94 victory over the Vikings.

One of the reasons for Babson's success has been a steady play of Sophomore point guard Michael Kingsley. Kingsley, who was named CAC Player of the Week before the Salem State game, continued to amaze the crowd with his deadly shooting and acrobatic moves. Kingsley poured in 26 points on the offensive end, but his greatest achievements do not appear on the box score. For example, at the end of the first half, Salem State had the ball with seven seconds remaining and they were in a position to cut Babson's lead. Kingsley immediately stole the ball, raced down the court and scored a layup just as the buzzer sounded. Every time Salem State gained some momentum, along came "The General" to crush their hopes of a comeback.

"This was a huge game for us," Salem State is a ranked team and the only other team we have played this year that can be compared to Salem is WPI (in Division III)" said Kingsley. "Looking ahead at our schedule, Tufts is our toughest game. Their is no reason why we can't win the rest of our games. We just have to beat the teams that we should beat. We have a good shot at the NCAA Tournament. Coach always says, 'It's in our hands.'

This year has not been an easy one for Kingsley. Early in the season he was suspended for the Springfield game on December 6th, because of an incident that took place in practice the day before. Since his return from the suspension "The General" has been on fire. He is averaging more than 20 points and almost 7 assists a game. When asked if he feels like he is becoming a leader on the floor, Kingsley responded, "Definitely. I have had to overcome a lot of stuff. I mean, I didn't even know if I would be playing. The Springfield game that I sat out forced me to look in the mirror and grow up. Coach wants me to be the general and I am just playing my role.

Undefeated against Division III teams, the Beavers are rolling towards a birth in the NCAA tournament. The men play Middlebury at home tonight and Western New England next Thursday. With "The General" in charge and calling the shots, there is no telling how far this team can go.

Who Played San Francisco on Sunday?

By Brent Larson

Sports Editor

The majority of the conversation about this year's Super Bowl was concerned with the Bud ad where frogs talked, not the actual game. Is this surprising? No, considering most people turned the game off after the first five minutes to watch Babson Men's Basketball take on Clark, on The Sports Channel.

For San Diego, the game was officially over when Orn Grah- ham flipped the commemorative coin and the key mistake was made. San Diego called "tails." When the coin landed "heads" the game was over. Dejected, the Chargers never could climb out of the hole that Orn Grah- ham had put them in.

The first of a record 6, touchdown passes from Steve Young, came only one and a half minutes after Orn had sealed the Chargers fate. The pass, which was officially 44 yards, was caught by Jerry Rice, a favorite of Young. Rice, who injured his shoulder in the first quarter on a reverse play but was able to continue playing, totaled a respectable 199 yards receiving, on ten receptions. He also scored three touchdowns. These numbers would usually result in an MVP award, but no, this game belonged to Steve Young.

Young had a record breaking night, throwing for six touchdowns, completing 66.7% of his passes attempts, and more than doubling his playoff total passing yards, with 325. One of Young's other accomplishments, that went relatively unnoticed, was that Young led all players in rushing with 49 yards. These numbers give you the reason why Young was chosen as Super Bowl XXIX Most Valuable Player.

Well, one thing positive did come out of this Super Sunday. Bud continued its domination of the Bud Bowl with a come from behind victory. Hopefully the next AFC team to represent the league in the biggest game of the year, will come from a small town called Foxboro.

The Babson Record Book

- Men's Basketball 13-4
- Women's Basketball 12-4
- Women's Swimming 4-6
- Men's Swimming 7-2
- Ice Hockey 4-6

Sports

Trivia Question of the Week

Congratulations to three people who actually took the time to call Derek Finkelstein for the final time, and had the right answer. By the way, you should feel free to continue to call Derek. It makes him feel good to get messages.

This week's question: Due to the start of the NHL season finally, name the last two Boston Bruins captains prior to Raymond Bourque. (Hint: It's not Ray Neufeld and John Carrier, or John Blue and Pete Fecer.)

The first three people to call Jeffett at #7/22 after 7:00 PM on Thursday with the correct answer will win a medium pizza with one topping and a Coke, compliments of Domino's Pizza. In addition to your answer, please be sure to leave your name, telephone number, and mailbox number. Good luck!!
Babo Women Crush Norwich

By Derek Finkelman
Staff Writer

Determined is the only word capable of describing the Babson College Women's swimming and diving team last Saturday, as they stepped off the bus eagerly to end their three-week losing streak against rival Norwich University. Fresh off their ten day "training" trip to Australia and two weeks of grueling double practices back at Babson, the team suffered close defeats to the likes of Bates, Brandeis, and M.I.T. On Saturday, the women would accept nothing less than victory.

The 400 yard medley relay team, consisting of first year student Jen Williams (backstroke), senior Sam Grimes (breaststroke), first year student Vivian Tjio (butterfly) and junior Gwen Oliniski (freestyle) destroyed the Norwich team by thirty seconds, finishing with a time of 3:46.91. In a similar fashion, Grimes later destroyed Babson's 400 yard individual medley record with a time of 5:09.69. This event, which requires the participants to swim 100 yards of each stroke, is considered by many to be the toughest of all swimming events. Sam, however, was up to the challenge and bettered the old mark by over six seconds.

The next event saw the Babo team of Williams, senior Kim Devlin, and junior Marianne Sullivan capture 1-2-3 honors in the 200 yard freestyle. Furthermore, after seniors Cassia Jank and Heidi Lange finished 1-2 in the 50 yard freestyle, the women held a commanding lead, 40-12.

Babo's senior diving contingent of Jordan Schneiderman, Lisa MacAuliffe, and Jen "The Goalie" Archambault kept the winning tradition going, capturing 16 crucial points against their invisible opponents. In a previous meet against Brandeis, the trio enjoyed incredible success, with Schneiderman and MacAuliffe qualifying for Division III Nationals and Archambault qualifying for Division III New England. The 100 yard butterfly followed the diving with Tjio and fellow first year student, Sara Miller, garnering first and third honors, respectively.

At this point, with Babson's lead extended to 77-20, Coach Richard Ecklov decided to wind the rest of the meet exhibition as so not to run up the score on the Cadets. During the post-meet press conference, Ecklov was delighted with his team's performance and even offered this bit of intellectual prose to his swimmers, "Furrry up and get ready! I don't want to be stuck in Vermont all my life."

And with that quote, the coach and his swimmers boarded the bus, about to embark on a five and a half hour journey back to Babson, with only a boring Warner Miller skiing movie to keep them company. Be sure to support the men's and women's teams in their final home meet of the season this evening at 6:00 PM. The teams will be facing Bridgewater College and will need as many fans as possible.

Team Notes: Three Babo women's records were broken during the M.I.T. meet, including first year student Vivian Tjio in the 50 yard freestyle, (26.79), first year student Jen Williams in the 200 yard backstroke (2:30.78), and senior Sam Grimes in the 200 yard breaststroke (2:37.44). Congratulations on your fine performances...It's great to have you back Julie! We missed you!

Men's Swimming

Continued from page 1

Coulon once again turned in fine performances in the 100 yard butterfly, finishing in first and third place, respectively. After the race, Coulon noted, "On the final length, it was all emotion, because I sure couldn't feel my arms." Well said, Mike.

Babo eventually went on to defeat Norwich by a score of 135-94, making the nine and a half hour bus ride back to Babson all the more enjoyable.

In previous action, the men in the green and white earned back a little respect against the powerful team from The United States Coast Guard Academy. In front of a jam-packed crowd of 428 at the Morse Natatorium, the Babo swimmers turned in their finest outing of the season. Practically every performance was a season's best, leading coach Richard Ecklov to comment, "I told them I wanted to see some fast swims, but I didn't think they would take me seriously."

Although the score ended 138-100 in favor of Coast Guard, Babo won the most important event of the night, the 400 yard freestyle relay. Coast Guard miltarized Babson in last year's relay, so it was important for the relay team to display some pride. Freshman Diego Alcalde fell off the relay in strong fashion, splitting a time of 49 seconds. Diego was followed by fellow freshman Boland, who also swam a 49. With Babo now down by a full body length, Jim Mersmann swam the third leg of the relay. Mersmann was a man possessed. With intensity in his eyes and veins in his feet, the minor from Connecticut eventually caught and surpassed his Coast Guard counterpart, Jim's brother, Ruy, who also swam the anchor leg and nailed each turn perfectly. With all the Babo fans screaming at an incredible decibel level, Ruy out-touched his opponent by just under eight-tenths of a second.

The Babo team erupted with joy and former swimmer, alumni Todd Kleparis, leaped from the stands to once again throw coach Rick in the water. As a consequence, Rick once again banned his former swimmer from competing at the New England's (New England Championships).

Marketing, Business & Computer Science Majors

Your goals, Our resources... a successful integration

Account Manager Trainees

These positions involve a comprehensive training program which would acquaint you with all aspects of branch/administrative operations, marketing support and product lines. After training, you would be prepared for managing and marketing computer systems, value-added services and network solutions to new and existing corporate accounts. Your degree, energy level and communication skills will qualify you. Formal computer skills and/or experience with sales, marketing, fund raising or equivalent leadership in extra-curricular activities is strongly desired.

If you are interested in exploring a career with us, please forward a resume to:

Office of Career Services

Candidates who meet our criteria will be contacted for an interview. An Equal Opportunity Employer M/F/D/V

The Babson Free Press
Sarian Files

By Scott Sarian
Managing Editor

Dann. As upset as I was that another Super Bowl turned out to be nothing more than a large social event, I was even more outraged that I was not Ed McMahon's $10 million dollar winner. I mean, I was granted confirmed contestant status, and received personalized letters every week. Oh well, onward and upward.

Baseball's decision to use replacement players may bring a return to the game of some former heroes. Atlanta approached 55-year-old Phil Niekro about playing, as did the Astros to their former catcher Alan Ashby. Both declined, but it makes you think we may soon answer the question, "Where have you gone, Joe DiMaggio?"

One old star who may play should scouts be used is J.R. Richard. Once a star pitcher for Houston, a stroke forced Richard to leave baseball in 1979. He has been homeless for nearly two years now, living under a bridge near Houston, and sure could use some of the money baseball has to offer.

During Sunday's Kaeser-Sumg game, NRC showed a graphic stating, "Third Quarter Scoring: Phoenix Suns 16, Patrick Ewing 14." I couldn't help but think of the classic cartoon, where the announcer says, "Gashouse Gorillas 98, Bugs Bunny 97."

Did anyone else miss seeing the Bud Bowl during every quarter of the Super Bowl?

Since the 49ers apparently have mastered all the aspects of football, maybe the defense can spend the offseason learning how to be humble. Jerry Rice could teach the clinic.

The "Loch Ness Monster" Lacher quickly gathered a cult following on Causeway Street, after his brilliant first three games as the Bruins new goateed star. His stellar play may prevent Evgeny Babchikov from joining Boston, which can only cause headaches for the Providence PA announcer.

Former Heisman winner Charlie Ward opted for a career in basketball over the NFL. Through the New York Knicks' first 41 games, Ward has played a total of 20 minutes, scoring 3 points. Not an average of 3 points per game, just 3 points.

This past Christmas, the Chi company came out with Chia Turtles, Chia Frogs, and Chia Pigs. One product lined up for release next Christmas is the Chia Rodman, which will be sold with eight different colors to color your Chia Rodman's hair.

As a side thought, when Rodman colors his hair orange, maybe someone should grab his head and twist it off, claiming they were trying to rebond the hair. Would any court ever fault a person for that?

Next Monday, February 6, marks the 100th anniversary of the birth of Babe Ruth. Unfortunately for Red Sox fans, only his curve lives on.

"Call Ripken Jr. plans to honor baseball's picket lines, which would bring an unfortunate end to his consecutive game streak, currently at 2,009. Did Lou Gehrig ever need to ponder breaking a picket line to play?"

And so ends another Sarian Files. Until next time, when we hear Cam Neely say, "It sure does hurt to floss with a hockey stick," it was your pleasure.

One-on-One with Dominique Wilkins

By Scott Sarian
Managing Editor

We are approaching the midpoint of this 1994-95 NBA season, and the Boston Celtics have been playing exactly as expected poorly. As this team struggles to overcome its mediocrity to reach the elusive .500 mark, the team's co-captain, Dominique Wilkins, finds himself in the midst of a controversy with coach Chris Ford. Ford feels some players (though declining to name names, Wilkins is his main target) are "ego-maniacs," and playing for personal stats and not team victories. Wilkins has fired back at Ford, as the Celtics seem for self-destruction. I spoke to "Nique just two days before this turmoil began, as he initially answered some of the questions which he later answered differently, throwing the team into its current troublesome position.

SS: You've played nearly half of the season now with the Celtics. How would you assess the team's play thus far? (Remember, this interview was done just before the team lost to Miami by 28 points. Since then, among other things, Boston lost at home to the Clippers, and Wilkins publicly blasted his teammates and coach.)

DW: The team's been OK, but I think we could definitely play better. A lot of that has to do with the health problems we've faced. There's a lot of room for improvement, I think.

SS: To go somewhere in the playoffs, what do the Celtics need to work on the most to improve in the second half of the season?

DW: Our team defense has been lacking, and the team rebounding needs a lot of work. That and staying healthy are our biggest points if we can improve on those points and not get injured, we'll be in good shape.

SS: Are you satisfied with your personal playing so far with the Celtics?

DW: At first, maybe I wasn't, but since the Texas trip (where Wilkins averaged over 30 ppg, including 43 points against the Rockets), I feel better about how I've played. I think my game's coming along well. Things started a little slower than I wanted, but hopefully that's behind me now.

SS: Boston has 6 or 7 new players, including yourself, this season. Do you feel you've been able to play well as a team with that many new players?

DW: I think we've started getting a good team chemistry here. It takes time to build a team that flows so well. Staying healthy allows all of us to work into a good rhythm.

SS: Some people insist it was a mistake to sign you for 3 years, that your best years are behind you. How would you respond to such comments?

DW: I think that's a bunch of BS. No one considers a person as an individual; so many people think once you're over the age of 30, you're done all of a sudden. Not to brag, but most people can't do what I'm doing at the age of 34, much less at 34. Anyone who thinks age is a factor should go talk to Robert Parish.

SS: You've played a rather injury-free career until the Achilles injury a couple of years back. I know you've had a few injuries recently, including an ankle injury. Is this something that comes with age?

DW: I don't think so at all. I don't believe in any injury bugs. With basketball being such a contact sport, you're bound to get an ankle stepped on here and there. It just comes with the game.

SS: You seem like you've become quite the star quickly in Boston, doing small appearances and endorsements. How do you feel fans have treated you, and how do you like playing in Boston?

DW: Boston is a fantastic city. The fans have always treated me great here. The organization's great; everyone's been great to me. I'll probably be finishing my career here.

SS: Are we approaching the point where the Celtics will have 12 cars for 12 players, borrowing the phrase from the late '90s Red Sox teams? The answer will show exactly how great of a leader Dominique Wilkins can be for the Celtics.

The Boston Free Press

Celtic Co-Captain Dominique Wilkins

One-on-One with Dominique Wilkins