"I Will Not Resign!"
Student Gov't Notes

By Sam Kwak
Contributing writer

I will not resign," was President Putney's decision following a non-binding paper ballot questioning the motion that, "Mr. Putney should remain as the president of Student Government.

This motion was made at Tuesday night's Student Government meeting following the reintroduction of similar discussion from last Thursday's Executive Session. Representatives of the body felt that due to Mr. Putney's involvement in the Davis device incident of weeks past, perhaps it was no longer appropriate for Mr. Putney to continue in his office.

Some representatives felt that Mr. Putney should resign his office for several reasons. They believed he had damaged his credibility with students and administrators. This decrease, they argued, might make him less effective in his role. Additionally, it was felt that it could be an embarrassment for Babson to have a student found guilty of participating in such an activity in its highest student elected position.

The balance of the body, save for the one representative who abstained, felt that Mr. Putney should remain in office. They argued that Mr. Putney had received sanctions from the Student Judicial Board which were appropriate given the level of involvement and that he could still be credible and effective. Many upperclassmen made the point that Mr. Putney was the most effective President that they had seen in Student Government. These accomplishments, they believe, clearly show his ability to lead effectively.

Mr. Putney made his decision based on the fact, "I did not want to let..."

Two commercials for the Toyota Tercel were filmed in front of Coleman Hall on October 26, from 7:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Babson was chosen for its "collegiate New England setting" as well as its cooperation with the many companies involved in the production.

At 7:30 a.m. the main crew arrived in front of Coleman Hall, and by 10:00 p.m. had finished the first of two commercials. Mike Zeko, the Creative Director for G.D. Fisk, Inc., one of the advertising agencies Toyota uses, created the ideas and scripts for both commercials incorporating Toyota's new slogan "We deliver value today and tomorrow."

The first commercial shows a 1986 Tercel side-by-side, a 1986 Ford Escort comparing the original and resale values of both cars. According to Mr. Zeko, the commercial stresses that although the Toyota cost more in 1986, its resale value today is considerably higher than the Escort's.

According to Bob Gilmore of Gilmore Associates, the crew will spend approximately 10 hours filming, one day of shooting, and two to three days of "touch-ups." These "touch-ups" include adding false lights, props, music and graphics.

Gilmore Associates has also done production work for Mutual of New Haven, Stop & Shop, Texas Instruments, DEC and the Boston Herald.

Davis Device Incident Unfolds
Students Under Judicial Board Review

By Lisa George
Contributing writer

The Babson College Student Judicial Board is presently in the process of trying the 21 students involved in the "Davis device" incident. As we go to press they have tried 14 students, including Ted Putney, Peter Courcounides, Robert Haxton, and Darren Gidds. The remaining students wish to keep their names withheld. The students involved wanted to get the campus enthused for Homecoming and claim there was no malicious intent involved. They are concerned that people are making judgments based on rumors instead of facts.

On Thursday October 17th at "start homecoming off with a bang" numerous students assembled "Davis devices" consisting of day old cold water in 2 liter bottles, Physics Professor William Fyfe's salt gives the devices would react as a "giant icicle" by making bottle they overpressurized at the factory. There were 12 "Davis devices" placed around campus, and according to Bill Chisholm, an involved student awaiting his hearing, "the 12 "Davis devices" were placed in areas chosen specifically not to embarrass the community."

Ted Putney, Student Government President, was the third student tried. The sanctions handed down to him by the students on the Judicial Board are: loss of housing, the banning from Coleman and related activities, disciplinary probation until graduation, unspecified fines (to compensate for the overtime worked by Public Safety), 15 hours of community service to Buildings and Grounds, 15 hours to the Boston Burn Institute, and in request to resign from all positions in clubs, organizations, and committees. As for the last sanction, it is Putney's understanding that the Board has no jurisdiction to enforce his..."

B.S.F.C.U. Hosts Conference

Dave Rautkys
Contributing Writer

The Babson Student Federal Credit Union is pleased to announce that Babson College will be hosting this year’s Eastern Regional Conference for the National College Student Credit Union Council from November 10 through November 12. The staffs of the 24 student run credit unions, including Georgetown, Columbia, Rutgers, and the University of Pennsylvania will be attending the conference. The B.S.F.C.U. is proud to be holding this years event.

The program will include speakers from the corporate and government sectors. American Express and Manufacturers Hanover will be sending representatives to deal with the special issues that credit unions face. Also present will be, recent Bush appointee, the Honorable Elizabeth Burrhart, Chairman of the National Credit Union Administration. This presents a great opportunity for college credit unions from across the country to gain input on how the best run their organizations from a diverse group of qualified sources.

Credit unions are truly unique institutions. Each credit union is owned by the members, and it is a non-profit organization. All of the student workers are unpaid volunteers, which helps greatly in reducing costs. Also, this helps the students develop a real sense of pride in what they are doing. The special spirit of community in each credit union, and this conference helps to promote these ideas.

The members of the B.S.F.C.U. feel that this represents another unique chance for Babson to excel. James A. Chong, President of B.S.F.C.U., stated that “Hosting this conference will be a great opportunity for the employees of the B.S.F.C.U. to share our business experience, as well as display our commitment to the national college credit union movement.”

One of the most important observations about the upcoming conference is the credit union philosophy which stresses the importance of the members. This is the underlying focus in all credit union decisions. If you have an account, you are part of what goes on within your bank. So all members of the B.S.F.C.U. should be ready to take pride in this upcoming event!!!

In Search of Mailing Labels

A Focus on Student Business

By Bob Collins
Managing Editor

Marcel Tad and Shefali Desal are two friends who purchased Birthdays To Go from departing seniors in 1987. The two also formed This Bud's For You, a flower business that delivers carnations and roses for Valentine’s Day and graduation. Birthdays To Go is a business that provides cakes, soda, napkins and plastic utensils, and party favors for 6-8 people during a student's birthday away from home for only $21.95.

Marcelle and Shefali market their company to student's parents through the use of mailing labels that were previously supplied by the school, however, now it seems that the administration has put a hold on releasing such valuable information.

According to Craig Nesta, VP Licensing, the administration is only discussing policy regarding the release of mailing labels to student businesses. It seems several students were selling the lists to outside companies for very lucrative sums. Nesta told me that he is working with the administration trying to get labels for current businesses, however, he feels that there is a 95% likelihood that future businesses won't receive labels.

This mailing label dilemma has seriously affected the girls business this semester, virtually halting business. Therefore, the girls shifted attention towards next semesters 17th birthday. "Bud's (Provider...get it?) for You business. They provide carnations for about $1.50 (depending on seasonality) and also sell roses. The flowers are sent to students with personal notes. Last year they delivered approximately 100, but the girls are expecting an increase next semester, especially since they plan on increasing their variety.

These businesses and the problem that they are now facing has been a valuable experience for Marcelle and Shefali. "We have learned organizational behavior skills. Working with a partner is difficult, especially since we live in different dorms," according to Marcelle. "But it has forced us to learn time management." Shefali added, "and we have learned more marketing skills. Business have given us the practical side of our education."

Both Shefali and Marcelle are accounting majors, and both aspire to one day own and run their own C.P.A. firm. As far as the two businesses are concerned, they have considered the possibility of selling them next semester, as seeing how Shefali will be graduating, otherwise Marcelle may continue to run them by herself.

I asked the two what advice they would give to other students looking to start a business, and they both warned students to research Babson before you start, especially in light of the mailing label question.

however, Marcelle said, "It's a great learning experience, profitable and fun." Furthermore, shefali pointed out, "It looks great on your resume."

compliance. The Board was told that one student due to a request from Tad Putney, remove Meg Gibbs for personal reasons.

According to a letter from David Van Sice, Chairman of the Student Council, Board, Mr. Putney was charged with "conduct unbecoming a Babson student", and had participated in the distribution and production of the devices and was cited appropriately for a person in [his] position.

President Putney placed his "Davis device" deep within a set of bushes between Bryant Hall and Knight Parking lot. He acted in the spirit of a dorm activity with absolving this position to harm anyone.

According to Putney the incident transpired as follows, "Jaye Hackett from the Public Safety called at 4:30 in the morning to tell me that he knew nothing about it; I said yes. At 4:41 I called Pete Coumounduros, and gave him the details on the situation which had gone far beyond the point of interest to the Babson community. I called Jay and told him that he was in the best position to deal with him in Pete Coumounduros' room; both Peter and I tried to help him understand how many devices were out there and their location. At that point there were 12 out there, 6 had gone off as of 4:35. Public Safety had the remaining 6." Hackett is unable to explain the reason for the fact he is the main complainant in the case.

Many students have questioned whether Mr. Putney received preferential treatment due to his father's administrative position and the fact that he is related to both Roger Babson and Richard Knight. In this respect, Pete Coumounduros also said, "Judging by the sanctions, absolutely not, I think they were the most severe set of sanctions anyone involved in the incident has received at this time." According to Tad his father is "absolutely not involved in the disciplinary actions. He was pulled from that role at 7:30 in the morning."

Regarding his accomplishments as President of the student body Putney said, "a lot of talk was avoided because of me. My role was trying to get the relation to Babson and key administrators has allowed me to exercise student wants and voice."

"Our goal was to meet the representatives also discussed President Public Safety at greatly increasing school spirit. Rob Halpern, a student, said, "We have to give ourselves credit for that."

"Well, I didn't expect the deadlines for the papers to be as late as they were."

"I don't think the students are in favor of the device."

"The students have not been very enthusiastic about the device."

"The students are not in favor of the device."
To Babson Community,

The past week has been the most challenging one that a number of people will face while here at Babson. It has been a challenge with widespread effects which I hope will not diminish in our memory.

My involvement in the "David Decker" affair is unfortunate and illustrates the worst judgement decision I have made. I have received my sanctions from the Judicial Board and now wish to immediately focus on continuing my education at Babson, through Student Government and other student leaders. The incident and its consequences have brought Student Government to a halt, but that will change immediately.

In light of this event, I would like to address a number of different student groups on campus:

1.) To the Administrators in overall charge of the incident:

Although it may be considered "part of your job," again I do not envy the position you were placed in. It is my sincere hope that incident can be quickly put behind us and we can move on to more pressing issues.

2.) To Student Government - Each Representative and Executive Board member was also placed in a difficult situation. I have responded in the manner which you needed to. The formal and informal poll of all your constituents made for a true representative vote at Tuesdays meeting. Now having spoken extensively with you about the incident, I look forward to next weeks voting which I should bring with it a revival of the energy which we had prior to the incident. Your support, concerns, and questions throughout the last week have been of great value to me. Thank you for it.

3.) To those who desired my resignation: Although I certainly understand many of your concerns and questions, it is fair to say that neither I nor a majority of Student Government agreed with you. What are you going to do from this day forward? I am sure there are many different answers to that question. However, I strongly encourage each of you to consider putting the issue behind you. For many of you, this is your Senior year - I hope you do not want to spend your final days here at Babson fighting a battle that will only hurt the school and your memories of college.

I am more than willing to talk to any of you if you have anymore questions or comments.

And, to the extra campus, I apologize for my involvement in the incident. Unfortunately, it occurred and now has been dealt with accordingly. I can not stress enough that we are a Student Government, not put it behind us a move ahead to a brighter, better, and more enjoyable aspects of college life!

Sincerely,

Ted Putney

FREE(P) SPEECH

I firmly believe that the Student Government representatives voted their constituents beliefs and not their own. I applaud their unprecedented efforts to meet with their constituents and uphold, so effectively, the responsibilities they have been charged with. It is my sincere hope that this commitment shall continue in the future. Congratulations on a job well done.

Now that the issue has been discussed so thoroughly for the last three weeks and every student has had the chance to express their point of view to the representative and the elected Student Government representatives have so overwhelmingly voted to stand behind Mr. Putney we should do the same.

Let us move on in attempts to continue to affect the positive changes we have begun.

Sincerely,

Lon P. Ross

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

An Open Letter

To the outraged member of the class of 1990:

I would like to express my congratulations over your bellicose letter to the editor regarding the Judicial Board's investigation of SGA president Ted Putney. You have rejuvenated, rekindled the irrationality in the extreme, and your statement should be questioned.

First, your suggestion that Ted's relationship with his father has been used to interfere with the investigation borders on slander. Your use of the name "Jessie Jr." (which is not even correct) is obviously used to accentuate that suggestion. If this desperate potshot is any example, we can only assume that you are someone with limited reasoning capacity and a high degree of flailing belligerence.

Secondly, your belief that Ted should resign is unjustified because of this incident is preposterous. For one thing, the involvement in the incident bears no relevance to his ability to exercise presidential duties. Ted has a record of accomplishment. Furthermore, he far outweighs any negative impacts of the noise from this episode. Face it. School spirit has been rejuvenated to a point that Government meetings have become more efficient for the interchange of ideas. SGA has worked to bring the new president closer to the students. Anybody who has a clue as to what has been going on at campus this year knows that much.

This progress is due in no small part to Ted's dedication and forthrightness.

Granted, judgement errors were made by some of the individuals involved. But Ted exercised some common sense in assuring that no one could be hurt by the devices. This incident was well undertaken with the intention of making a change, not of causing harm to anyone. Maybe it wasn't a perfect decision for an elected official to undertake such an activity but this also shows that Ted is not worried about personal aggression. This is a good age, but wants to take part in campus fun, just as anyone else.

Incidentally, I honestly don't know what is such a big deal about school spirit. Except for those individuals who are too afraid, or too "cool" to take part in it. And, that spirit would come to exist if your recommended solutions came into being.

Lastly, I must express my disgust at the cowardice that you have exhibited in your refusal to take responsibility for your own opinions and sign your name to the article. I sincerely recommend to you that you think a little harder and consider the "burbling" forth and stammering off of a sly emotive, ad homonym attacks. This is something which your knowledge is minimal.

Sincerely,

Commuter Student

Prof. Godtfredsen: Scared?

It is this mentality, this kind of personal attack, this nothing to do with the individual's political values that should be deplored at Babson or any college or university. We, however, earnestly tried over the years to teach that prejudice and bigotry in all forms are not only wrong morally, but undermine a society that believes in equality, respect for the individual person regardless of his or her age, gender, race, religion, or sexual preference. This all implies that any form of derision in which stereotypes the individual by class, physical appearance, or counter to the principles we hold dear. What would happen, Mr. Godtfredsen, if I graded a student considering him 'fat and ugly'?

I write this response to you because I personally want to be on record that we need more to challenge students who make prejudicial remarks act upon them. I continue to hear male students make anatomical jokes about women at Babson; I hear our students speak toward our international students. I have heard heaving toward gay students.

And all of this is based on contempt and ignorance. I have offered as truth. To be truly a person, a man, a human being, is to express tolerance and sensitivity to all individuals regardless of all Russian, or all Jews, or all women, all Babson students.

Many of us place a high priority on the activities and quests of entrepreneurs. We hold readings, seminars, and these individuals because of their INDIVIDUAL achievements regardless of age, gender, race, weight, etc. Jefferson spoke of the market place of IDEAS just as we stress the value of commodity. Which etymologically means to petition with others in the marketplace, not destroy them.

Please, Mr. Godtfredsen, if you are going to attack Democrats and laud Republicans, find the time for a fair truth, for some day you may actually have to work with Republicans. maybe even a Kennedy, people with different ideas.

When you make such statements as "the liberal's like 'blood-hungry liberals' you are causing.

--Professor Laurence Godtfredsen

A Realist

You have got to be kidding me! How did you ever get to where you are with snatching a mistake? Where were you during my life when I needed that perfect role model? For my own part, I have never been known by a person who has not made a judgment error in their life. How can you pretend to be so pious? Have you never been given second chance? That second crack at the keg? You say no, I say you are a liar. We are all Babson students, a we live in the same community, we must protect our own. Am I saying that misconduct should be overlooked? Am I speaking in the language of anarchy? Of course not. Everybody makes a mistake (for God's sake, forbid, two) some time during their college career. I'm sure people get caught and others do not, does that make the latter a better person?

In my opinion, and from what I got to with Democrats, maybe even a Kennedy, people with different ideas. Sensationalized. From what I understand, these "devices" were placed in areas where people do not generally go - coupled with the fact that it was done in the middle of the week. Wednesday night shows that there was obviously no desire on the participants' parts to cause injury to anybody. My guess is that the students decided to create a buzz on campus prior to the homecoming weekend. We see their methods may be in question it is clear their intentions were not malicious in nature.

Last, look who was involved. These people have worked too hard to try and negate their efforts with something as silly as this. As everybody knows, the student government were from Coleham. Is there a reputation for disrespect for Babson? I should say not. Who is there at the soccer games - home and away? Coleman. Who helped lead the crowd during the brouhaha at the back forty? Coleman. Did you ever notice the sign out by the entrance on homecoming day, declaring Babson's position as the nation's number one specialty business school? Did you look close enough to see who made it? Coleman. This year alone, Coleman's pride and spirit have been demonstrated. Is this being accounted for in your letter to the editor last week? Have you forgotten the symbol of this school, the white horse, your memory, she may be blind, but she holds her head up high come rain or shine without sin may cast the first stone. I never had such a great time anyway.

Colen Reacts

To the Editor:

As a Coleman Hall resident, I was bothered with a certain letter toward the people in my dorm and surrounding area. I would like to address this letter to President Ted Putney. First of all, there is no reason to attack anyone based on their relation to his father, a school administrator. His father would not have approved such actions, just like yours or anyone else's would not approve of you drinking while under 21 years of age. I would like to remind you that it was your decision to.waitKey down and would not have found innocent just because of his father's judgment. If he was ever found innocent because of his father, the Judicial Board would be disbanded because that constitutes bis boys and girls be serious. Under that letter to editor, I was born. The manager of mall services, stated that over forty mail boxes were smashed two weeks ago. She also stated that damage done to a postal facility is a federal offense. But I will bet that these vandalism, if caught, get less of a penalty than the Coleman residents. Coleman Hall, obviously the dorm with the most school spirit, is about to be disbanded. The "two-year probation" stated by the Judicial Board will run juniors and seniors until their senior year, and freshmen for their first two years at Babson. Coleman, the freshmen will have some fond memories of college life. If they were a man, I would feel as if I was walking on thin ice for the past two years.

Ted Putney, Student Government President, Pete Colburn, Business Senator, Rob Hazeltine, President of the Business Marketing Association--all seniors in Coleman--have played such a crucial role in this school spirit that it should not be overlooked. Wade Boggs performance suffer for his off-the-field section. No. So why do you think that these seniors' performances are forgotten.

Just for the record, about twenty Coleman residents sang the national anthem at a soccer game, organized a trip to a Patriots game for the school, and organized a trip to Maine to tour the men's soccer team to support Babson during Bowdoin's "intercollegiate" games. Rob Hazeltine, the captain, is organizing both a "Toys for Tots" charity event and a canned food drive for the local food bank. Members of Coleman to participate in. Any other dorms have such credentials equal to ours?

By forcing students to live in Coleman, you force them to make alternative housing and by banning them from sporting events, the students of Coleman will put an abrupt halt to the only source of school spirit in the dorms. Since the administration decided to put the omnipresent school spirit noise around the necks of the Colemanians, I won't be surprised if you can hear a pin drop at some of the school's sporting events. We may be #1 in U.S. News & World Report, but the school spirit department we don't even have a ranking--especially from now on.

I'd like to draw the attention of President Glavin on this letter because he is the only person left that can appeal the given penalties.

Sincerely,
Bob Chinchilla

A Request for Student Involvement

By David DesLauriers
V.P., G.S.A.

From the beginning of American history when John Adams, as Washington's Vice President, first played the notorious role of Senate watchdog, we have been the cry of many a VP. Serving often as a supporter and mediator, who lacks influence and authority, many VPs have slunk into obscurity--their careers consacrated solely by dusty encyclopedias pages. In fact, in more recent history, only a few notable VPs have enjoyed an image in the public eye by means of tax indictments or presidential succession.

Fortunately enough, as Vice President of the Graduate Student Association working with an extremely capable team, I am not asked to watch or mediate. Reluctant to fail prey to the familiar straightjackets encountered by many VPs, however, I have focused on a few particular areas of interest which I will describe shortly in an attempt to give identity to my position.

To begin, the Babson Graduate School and the entire college community is enjoying an unprecedented renaissance of ideas and growth. Directed by a premier business executive and the support of committed and talented faculty and administration, the Graduate Program continues to expand. President Glavin's "Excel Teams" are not only a testament to this resolve to continually challenge to potential of the program but are also an endorsement of the genius and value which our program already offers.

Student involvement is a critical element to this expansion. As the end-user of the program, we are responsible for the provision of feedback and impetus of action which only our perspective can provide. My interests as VP of the G.S.A. center upon these common student concerns which you have already expressed: career investigation and opportunities as well as the development of a visible and clear graduate program identity.

Through the valuable help of many students who have offered insightful suggestions and solutions, the G.S.A. has pursued change in these areas. The Office of Career Services is exploring new ways to provide even more quality recruiting opportunities for the Spring. Shortly, we will be implementing a survey to identify the particular career areas which you would like to see represented by OCS recruiting as well by executives in upcoming "Career Nights." I hope everyone will take a brief moment to respond.

Also, we have become actively involved with the Alumni Office to 1) increase our exposure to the graduate alumni and, 2) to support their effort in developing a strong graduate alumni/student community. On this end, as Alumni/Graduate Holiday Dance is scheduled for early December which we hope will strengthen the contact between Alumni and Students. Shortly, we will implement a new Alumni development program which will effect each one of you: Alumni Class Agent Program. The G.S.A. will establish a communication network among new graduate alumni to strengthen our community upon graduation. I will shortly write to each of you concerning the details of the program.

At this point, I would like to thank all the students who have generously volunteered their time to support the G.S.A. projects. The G.S.A. exists to represent and support the graduate student body for your benefit--please continue to provide your much-needed involvement and feedback.

Right Perspectives

By Timothy W. Escobacci Contributing writer

I am sure that you are all aware of the continuing controversy over gun control. Since most of you have probably only heard the garbage spewed forth by the leftist tabloid trash called the American media, I am going to educate you further in the finer points of firearms liberties.

To make a long story short, the theory of gun control is just another farce of liberal pseudo-logic. The theory they put forth is this: Outlaw guns and you will deter crime. This sounds good on paper but in reality it is a joke and the target of this sick form of humor is our constitutionally guaranteed rights as Americans. People such as Sens. Ted Kennedy and Sen. Metzenbaum bring up a whole slew of questionable data to prove their point. So lets look at their data (otherwise known as Fairytales, Theatrical).

They will argue that it is because of strict gun control laws that other industrialized nations don't have murder rates as high as we do. Mass shootings don't happen in countries like England. Oh really Mr. Kennedy? On August 19, 1987, a man in Hungerford, England went on a rampage with a semi-automatic rifle and three handguns. In his wake he left sixteen dead and another fourteen wounded. Included in the dead was the man's mother. The guns he used were supposedly illegal for the vast majority of British citizens to own. Did Congress Brokaw or Jennings ever report this? No, because it weakens the liberal establishment's argument about guns.

There are, however, statistics that show the United States with a much higher murder rate than other nations. Have you ever wondered how these statistics are gathered? In the United States every wrongful death is recorded as a murdered statistic. This includes suicides, accidental killings and both first and second degree murder. In countries such as Norway, a murder is only recorded when someone is convicted of premeditated homicide. Anything else is not classified as murder.

Even after taking all of this into consideration there may still be a difference in murder rates between other industrialized nations and us. There are, however, many sociological factors that contribute to crime in American society. Poverty, drugs, a failing education system, racism, and the inevitable conflicts that will arise in a pluralistic society top the list. These are all issues that our government fails to address with any imagination or gusto. Our government is set on throwing money into wasteful programs that only attack the symptoms of our problems and not the causes. Until the leadership of this country, especially in the congress, starts tackling our problems with some ingenuity, our woes will continue to grow - guns or no guns.

Are you still convinced? Bear this in mind. The NRA contends that in only about two percent of all crimes committed with a gun was the gun legally purchased. The state of Massachusetts did a study on the same thing. The Dukakis regime found that in less than one percent of all crimes committed with a gun was the gun legally purchased. So much for the myth that the NRA distorts data.

Washington, D.C. has the strictest gun control laws in the land. Washington also has the highest murder rates in the country. Far be it from me to make an inference down the representatives who had given me their support. My decision was also based on the fact that I perceived a strong backing at the conclusion of the discussion.” During the vote, which was drawn out by the drone of passing fire trucks, sixty six percent of the representatives voted that Mr. Putney was the right choice for the CEO.

One hundred ten students packed the Cooper Lecture Room Tuesday. Of these, approximately fifty nine of the students were members of the general body who came out to observe the proceedings and speak their mind. This meeting was by far the largest turnout of non-voting students for a Student Government meeting this year. Next week’s meeting will be held on Tuesday night in Tomasso 200 at 6:30 p.m.

Mergers and Acquisitions will be sponsoring a trip to New York on the 16th and 17th of November. For information, call James Sorodos at 4755.

Features

Geez, what a confusing week. Is it me, or does it seem as though time is on speed? Events have been transpiring so quickly recently that I am having trouble keeping up.

Let's look at the Free Press. This week, the Editor-in-Chief submitted his resignation (again), withdrew his resignation (again), created the position of Managing Editor, and appointed two people to the positions of Staff Assistants. All this in one week! I can't wait until Wednesday night when the #ff7800 hits the fan. Some good grist for my humor mill is bound to result! I'll keep you all posted.

Speaking of posted, I can't wait to find out how I did on my midterms. I've come to the conclusion that I'm allergic to midterms. I've also come to the conclusion that this college needs to change the way that midterms are scheduled. I have a friend who had four midterm exams in two days last week. After the two days, he looked like hell, felt worse, and could probably pass Beliveau's entrance exam with flying colors. Is this how the number one business school should operate? Not only does the pile-up of exams take their toll on the student's well-being, but it also affects the student's grades. How well can you do when you are stressed out to your extremities? While that may be good for the Hefty Cinch-Sak commercials, I don't think it fits on a college campus.

On another note, what exactly is the deal with all of the helicopters lately? I can't go anywhere without hearing the sound of whirring rotors. God forbid a Vietnam veteran spends too much time here. He'll start having flashbacks and be on the top of Tomasso screaming, "Man the guns, boys! We'll all go down together!"

Anyway, voicemail on the fritz (again). Talk about a situation going from bad to worse. Even the people who sold the system don't know what went wrong this time. That's a good investment, yesie-e.

Did anybody hear of the custody case in the news a while back regarding six frozen embryos? This couple, both scientists, created the embryos in a petri dish and then cryogenically froze them for storage (a la Bird's Eye). They later filed divorce papers and started a custody battle for their "children.

I feel bad for these kids. Being told that you're adopted is bad enough, but imagine being told you were defrosted! Actually, this would be a perfect new market for some young entrepreneur to capitalize on. You could be walking through your local supermarket's freezer section and see boxes of Swansea frozen embryos. Just poke a few holes in the foil, set in your microwave on highest heat for three to five minutes and presto!...instant kid.

On a less scientific note, I hope you all had a festive Halloween. Thir's this person I know who thinks that Halloween is the best day of the year. This year she dressed up as a witch. I guess she couldn't afford a costume.

Ooohh, something's burning!

Bad English: Not Bad

By Bob Chichillo
Contributing Writer

Bad English is a newly formed rock group consisting of some old familiar faces. Lead singer John Waite, formerly of the disbanded group The Babies, seems to be a good foundation on which to build a band. After The Babies, John went solo and is probably best known for his hit "Missing You." Other members include disbanded Journey members Neal Schon on guitar and Jonathan Cain on keyboards. Finally, the band is rounded out with Ricky Phillips on bass and Deen Castronovo on drums.

From their self-titled album, a definite "journey'-esque" sound is heard. Such songs as "Possession" and "Tough Times Don't Last" contain many qualities found in both fast and slower journey beats. At times, they can sound like Bryan Adams, new Van Halen (nicknamed "Van Ha-gen"), and Billy Squier overall. John Waite's vocals, backed by this excellent band, makes the album "a must." Their first hit "Forget Me Not" had its debut video on MTV in the summer. The album entered Rolling Stone's top 50 album chart at number 40 in the October 19th issue, and their current hit "When I See You Smile" is currently climbing the Top 40 charts.

On Wednesday, October 11th, I had the privilege of seeing this band's soldout concert at the Paradise Club in Boston. For those of you who have been to the Paradise, it's a small, intimate setting, and if you ever have the chance to see one of your favorite groups at the Paradise, do not pass it up. Every "seal" for standing area—it is general admission! is good and the stage is no more than 15 yards from the back wall. Dressed in tight, black pants and a black leather vest, Waite, the "red-haired Bond," did not miss a lyric and the band did not miss a note. Bad English played an extremely loud set and, surprisingly, sounded exactly like the album cuts without any "live" distortions.

To the delight of the fans, each band member proved himself an excellent musician, especially Schon, Cain, and Castronovo who each played intense solos. I was very impressed by Castronovo's drum solo especially since, unlike Schon and Cain, he was an unfamiliar musician to me.

For their encore, Waite told the crowd, "For Mick and Keith," and we; into a rousing cover of the Rolling Stone song "Jumping Jack Flash." Bad English seemed confident and were excited to be playing again in front of a live audience. Although we waited one and a half hours longer than the stated starting time, their 75-minute show was well worth the wait.

Diversity At Babson

The group formed in September 1985 with the goal of sharing their musical cultures to create a distinctive band which would appeal to many different audiences through its unique sound and strong rhythmic roots. One of the band's major influences is no less than Bob Marley. The band has played all around Boston, including the Channel, Harvard University, the Hynes Auditorium, Johnny D's and most recently, they have been playing every Sunday night at Club Dread of Molly's. Diversity is being sponsored by the Babson Players, BISO, and the Free Press, as well as Cardinal Key Honor Society. It will be the first time these organizations have joined forces to sponsor an activity, and the event is free to the Babson Community. Also, alcohol will be served with proper identification. So, if your organization wants to help in publicity or set-up, please contact Richard Greif, Babson Players President, at x5458.

Roger Babson Facts

Roger Babson was fascinated by the possibility of harnessing gravity. As he noted, "I've been thinking for years that if we find an insulator for gravity-perhaps an alloy, such as copper and aluminum—we could apply insulation and weights and make a wheel turn without water. We could each have a wheel in the cellar and generate our own electricity." Thus, at the age of 74, he decided to promote research on the subject. To this end, he founded the Gravity Research Foundation.

Naturally, the organization was ridiculed by many scientists. However, such treatment did not bother Babson. Indeed, he stated, "one thing that has saved me has been the fact that it never bothered me to be laughed at...When I was laughed at, it seemed a good joke...I have found the fun to be in the striving rather than in the arriving."

True to these words, Roger Babson continued the foundation and contributed to the research. For example, he wrote that at certain times the forces of the moon and the sun counteract the pull of the earth on the individual. Therefore, Babson advocated that people with heart ailments walk upstairs only when the tide is high because it was less difficult at those times. Unfortunately, despite this enthusiasm, the Foundation eventually changed its emphasis from the harnessing of gravity to the encouragement of scientists to report any finding which may have beneficial applications.

AK Dusts TKE

By Malcolm Milne
Contributing writer

On Sunday, the Back Forty was the scene for the Intramural Fraternity Football Championship. Alpha Kappa Psi and Tau Kappa Epsilon faced off in a match of the undefeated. AK struck first when Charles "Wheels" McCarthy took off on a 69-yard run. The fleet fooled quarterback Scott Murray, then threw a touch pass to Bob Wyman for the extra point making it 8-0. The AK defense forced a punt largely due to sacks by Bob "Bonecrusher" Affinito. After stopping AK at the six yard line, TKE came back with a nine play drive capped off by a pass from QB John Luther to Peter O'Toole. The extra point was stopped by the tough defensive line, leaving the score in AK's favor 8-6. The second half closed with a bang. After a few sacks by Joe Kohenik, TKE found themselves knocking at the door at the twenty yard line with 1:29 left in the game. The defense came up big once again when AK's Jamie Kellner stopped TKE short of the first down. The game seemed over until Charlie McCarthy threw up an interception to Peter O'Toole. This left TKE with the ball and 69 seconds left on the clock. John Luther then ran the ball in to the end zone only to have it called back for "lack of uniform." After Bob Affinito went offside AK rose to the occasion yet another time in stopping TKE four times inside of the ten. AK got the ball and Charlie took off once again for a ninety-eight yard run. The extra point fell short with Way Out Willy diving short of the pass. TKE's final play was snuffed leaving AK the victors, 14-6 and undisputed Intra-Fraternity Football Champions.

This Friday Babson will be hosting Western Connecticut State University at 1 p.m. It may be the last home game of the year so get out and support our team.

Soccer Ends Regular Season With A Win

By Glen Horner
Contributing Writer

The men's soccer team suffered an upsetting loss this past week. On Saturday, archival Brandeis handed Babson its second loss of the season. The score of the game was 1-0. The Brandeis goal came early in the second half.

On Tuesday, the team ended its regular season with a 2-1 victory over WPI. Bob Pipe and Terry Jackson scored for the Beavers. Netminder Steve Webber suffered a broken finger during warmups and was only able to play for the first ten minutes. Freshman Kevin Sampson took over and played a solid game. It is not known yet if Webber will see action between the pipes Friday. Babson's record now stands at 11-3-3.

Despite this weekend's loss, Babson was selected to participate in the N.C.A.A. tournament. The Beavers received the #2 seed in the New England region, behind Plymouth State. This Friday Babson will host Western Connecticut State. The game will start at 1:00 p.m. If Babson is to emerge victorious from this contest, they will play the winner of Plymouth State vs. Salem State, on Sunday.

The Beavers N.C.A.A. playoff berth marks the second consecutive season Coach Jon Anderson's team has reached post season play. Captains Tom Fisher and Troy Thede have been instrumental in helping Coach Anderson guide this young team.

Although the Beavers' success has been a team effort, a few other individuals should be mentioned. Goalie Steve Webber has been spectacular all season long. Webber has posted nine shutouts this season. He has been supported by a strong defense, this squad consists of Tom Bullock, Paul Fitzgerald, Matt

Babson Association of College Entrepreneurs

Wednesday, November 8, 1989
Jordan Furniture Brothers

6:30 pm, Trim 201-202

Barry & Elliot will be discussing their current marketing strategy and the role it has taken in their huge success with Jordan Furniture.
The familiar slogan around Babson stating that "we are number one," has a chance to come true once again. This Friday, the men's soccer season battles Western Connecticut for the first of a series of victories which may eventually lead to another NCAA Championship. This year's men's soccer season has contained a plethora of excitement, and has provided reason for sideline madness.

Ah, sideline madness...other wise known as the vivacious cheering of loyal sports fans. The potential effects of a supportive crowd are far too valuable to be measured, especially during close games at the men's soccer team has had all season long. I am sure that both teams feel this; they have earned home-field advantage. As all coaches know, home-field advantage can be that one small factor. This factor of the home crowd has even won official recognition. In Seattle, the Seahawks retired the number 12 to represent their supportive home crowd. Now more than ever, men's soccer needs sideline madness! That extra player, in crowd support, can carry out the game. Coleman taunts and unnerves the opposing goalie's keeper, in the hopes they can take his concentration off the game. Baseball Team Sponsors Lip Sync

Kevin Leggertt
Contribution writer

On November 4, the Babson baseball team will sponsor the fifth Annual Air Band Show at Knight Auditorium. This lip-sync show has become a mainstay on the Babson College calendar. What is unique about this special event is the fact that the students enjoy an entertainment evening while supporting one of the school's teams.

For the past five years, the baseball team has held a show once per semester. The students who perform are not limited to being part of the Babson community. Since flowers are distributed by the team, there have been a host of acts from many neighboring schools.

The idea of having an Air Band show was created in order to alleviate some of the expenses that the baseball team incurs. Specifically, they have applied the money towards financing their annual pilgrimage to Florida during spring break.

This year, however, their plans are different.

When I asked tri-captain Jeff Ewing what the team's plans were, he said, "Since we are in need of new equipment, our financial resources will be directed towards things the team will have for years to come." The trip to Florida has been canceled due to the opening of the new athletic center. The primary reason why the team went south in the past was to work out in a warm locale while it was still cold at Babson. Now they have a brand new facility which will serve their purpose just as well.

Since the team needs a batting cage and a pitching machine, it only makes sense to distribute the funds towards these very expensive items.

Besides, what better way to prepare for a new season than in a new athletic center?

Realizing that every student on campus, especially new ones, may not be aware of the show, I asked tri-captain Michael O'Connor how he intended to publicize the event. "We plan to post a sign up in Tram as well as distribute flyers on campus and at other schools in the area."

Specifically he mentioned posting flyers at Pine Manor, Regis, Wellesley, and Lasell.

As you may have guessed, the team will be charging admission. Before 10:00 p.m., they will charge two dollars and after that, three dollars. Not only will this money go to the team, but it will also provide prizes for the acts as well. The top three acts, as voted by the team, will receive cash prizes incremented by their respective positions. This should add a bit of incentive to those students thinking of entering. Besides being in the spotlight at Knight Auditorium, they could win money.

Since there are no other events currently planned for that weekend, the baseball team expects and hopes for a large turnout. Hopefully, they will get their wish for this is truly a worthwhile event to attend.

The Babson Alliance of Gays, Lesbians, Bisexuals, & their Friends

The BGLA is an organization attempting to meet the needs of Gay, Lesbian, Bisexual and questioning students at Babson College by offering various social, informational and supportive services. These are designed to promote a greater understanding of individual sexual preference and alternative lifestyles.

The BGLA is one of the many schools in the Boston area affiliated with BILA, the Boston Intercollegiate Lesbian & Gay Alliance. Through them, Babson participates in many college events sponsored and attended by the gay community of college students.

Meetings for the BGLA are held twice monthly on Wednesday evenings at 7:00 PM in the Health Center conference room. Many interesting events are planned for the remainder of the semester. We encourage any student or faculty member interested in the BGLA to attend.

Additional information can be obtained by writing Box A, contacting Carole Worsz at Ext. 4257 or calling our answering machine at 237-3346, which will announce upcoming events at Babson and around Boston.

Men's Ice Hockey Colorado Bound

By Joe Capprnini and Nick Bokavich
Contributing writers

This year Babson Hockey team is looking forward to a very successful season. Having a mixture of old and new players, Babson’s outlook seems to be strong. Last year Babson ended their season in the semifinals of the N.C.A.A. Tournament losing to R.I.T. in two very close games. This year Babson is hoping to go even farther than last year.

Leading the Beaver’s offense this season will be seniors Jamie Rice and John Herlihy. They will be centered by the nifty newcomer Danny Pompo. Babson is also looking for continued offense from juniors Mark Allen and Danny Hunter as well as sophomore Sean Finnegan.

The Beavers return all of their defensive squad this year, and are looking to improve their goals against average. They are led by senior captain Jim Creamer and junior defenseman Nick Bokavich. When asked about the defensive core this season, Bokavich commented, “I think that we are stronger defensively this year... a lot of the guys are used to playing with one another, and that makes things a lot easier for everyone.”

So far in the pre-season Babson has gone 2-1. They beat both S.M.U. and Curry while losing a tough game against Northeastern. This Thursday, Babson will be taking off to Colorado Springs, Colorado to play a two game series against the Air Force Academy. On November 11th Babson has their first home game against Union. Babson knocked off Union in the Nationals last year, so they will be looking for revenge. This game should be a tough one for the team, so they would appreciate some fan support.

Bookie Takes A Beating

By Tom Bruderick
Staff Bookie

I did not get off to a good start last week. I lost to Steve Ryan. Steve had an 8-6 record while I staggered with a 6-8 record. Congratulations to Steve, who won $10 for last week’s victory.

I do hope that my loss last week encourages more people to enter this contest. Only a few people have shown interest in the possibility of winning $10. I do encourage more of you to enter! Just send your name and phone number to Box 500 or call me at x178.

I think this week’s spread is pretty tough. My best bet of the week is the Bills -3 1/2 over the Falcons. I guarantee this victory. This week’s contestants are Bill Webster, Good Luck, Bill! Remember, contact me if you are interested in participating in this contest.
