To Babson's newest friends and their families.

Welcome to Babson. The following is a number of questions we, as freshmen labored over during orientation weekend. Although we can’t compare to Dr. Ruth, we have included how we, as upperclassmen, would answer them today. I hardly know anyone at Babson.

Don’t worry about it! In the next week, you are going to meet more people than you can remember the names of. The key to success is to smile and say hi, even though you have no concept of who this person is. It gets easier as you get older.

There is no way on earth that I will be as smart as everybody else is.

Probably not. But let’s face it: who wants to be the smartest person in the class and face ostracization by your peers? Seriously, just remember that you are paying a lot of money, and get as much out of it as you possibly can.

Every one else went to posh private high schools. How can I compare?

This is simply not true. About half of your classmates went to public schools. Even the Free Press is a minor. If we can get along, anybody can. It does not matter where you come from, only what you are.

Upperclassmen will pressure me into drinking and doing drugs. How can I be accepted while still being myself?

You’ll find there isn’t that much pressure, and if you just say, ‘no thanks’ people will respect your decision.

How can I talk in front of a class without making a buffoon out of myself?

It is easy. Just think about what you are going to say before you say it, raise your hand and talk. That’s all there is to it. Your self-consciousness is your worst enemy.

I live at Green Gables, and am not going to meet anyone - especially guys.

This is easy too. Talk to the people you meet in classes, go to the library, at Trim. Just smile and talk to people. Friends are easy to make here. It almost happens without even trying.

I am a commuter, and I am afraid I’ll be segregated on campus from the rest of the students.

WRONG! It is simple to get involved. You can belong to any residence hall by paying dorm dues enabling you to attend their parties, intramural sports, sports, etc...

Everyone is telling me to get involved outside of the classroom. I don’t know where to start.

Simple. Join the Free Press! Or, start at the Student Activities Fair on Sunday. Get a feel for the different organizations, meet some members, and see what is right for you. There are more than forty to choose from. The Student Activities Office will always help you to decide what to join.

Every roomate hangs Frank Zappa posters all over the room - what should I do? (This is a true story.)

Don’t panic. Don’t try to change your roommates right away. Try to talk to them to see if maybe you can agree on an arrangement where you don’t have to see them 24 hours a day. (i.e. the closet, inside the bathroom.) If you start to lose control, talk to someone - toy R.A., H.R., advisor or friend. There is always someone to talk to.

School administrators and professors intimidate me. How do I talk to them?

Everyone on campus has office hours and you’ll find the administrators are extremely helpful, even anxious to help. If you ever feel alone, find someone.
WELCOME!

By William F. Glavin

To the New Students in the Babson Community:
On behalf of the College, I would like to extend our most sincere and warm welcome to all of you.

The theme for this year is "A New Beginning." The orientation program that you will be involved in for the next four days is structured to expose you to the broad educational opportunities of Babson, and to integrate you into the life of the Babson community. We need to create an environment in which all individuals live harmoniously, work productively, benefit from one another's differences, and practice mutual respect. We expect all of our incoming students to be part of this environment.

It clearly is a new beginning for many things at Babson. We have a new million-dollar Recreation and Special Events Center opening this fall, we have a new faculty advising program, we have a new structure for our Residential Life Staff, we will be undertaking a strategic planning process involving all constituencies in the community, and many more things. It is also a new beginning for me. I am looking forward to my first year as the ninth President of Babson College, just as much as you are looking forward to your first year as a Babson student.

Mrs. Glavin and I hope to personally meet many of you and would hope that you take the time to stop and say hello to us on campus.

Welcome aboard!

William F. Glavin is the President of Babson College

GET INVOLVED

By Tad Putney
Contribution Writer

Congratulations on your completion of the challenging "college seeking" process. With all of those applications, campus tours, interviews and decisions behind you, now it is time to focus on making the best of your Babson life.

What does Babson have to offer you? The answer is a lot, but I would rather ask yourself what you want to do here at Babson. What is that certain talent you have? Can you play a trumpet to psyche up the crowd? Do you have a knack for writing songs? (There is soon to be a competition for a school song.) Or are you a more "behind the scenes" type of person interested in organizing events?

Well, Babson has an atmosphere which is perfect for the emergence of student leaders in all facets of college life. Whether it is in Student Government, your residence hall or the Commuter Student Association, a particular organization or at an athletic event your energetic involvement is important to all of your peers.

With most of you coming from smaller schools than Babson, you may fear being "lost in the shuffle" or "just a number." Do not allow yourself to feel that way. Get involved.

Although many people (both student and staff) are here to help you at Babson, it is really you that will determine how enjoyable your college life will be. At Babson, you can help control the environment around you. So, don't sit back - stand up, get involved and most of all, enjoy yourself.

Tad Putney is the President of Babson College's Student Government.

Take a Walk to Truly Yogurt!

When you think of all the options you have for a study break, it's not difficult to see that frozen yogurt is your best bet. It won't weigh you down like other desserts, and it tastes good, too. But most of all, we're nearby... and just a quick step away from ice cream.
