Dill Welcomes New Students

(Editors' note: The following speech was presented by President Dill at Knights Auditorium on Thursday, September 5.)

What does a program officer working on issues of prison reform for the Ford Foundation share with an evangelist to North Dakota, a State Department policy analyst, the owners of Procter & Gamble, bankers at a bank in Boston, a professional photographer in Tennessee, and real estate developers in New York and New York City?

Can the president of Pepsi-Cola USA have any sympathy for the individual who has developed a line of clothing to help promote Coca-Cola? Or does Edsel Ford have any time for the seasoned executive at Chrysler, or a rising member of the American Motors management team? If you shop at Rbitebgs at the Grand Canyon, in the Beverly Hills Computer Store, in Montana's VIGA chain, or at the main department stores in Knoxville, Tennessee, or Greenhouse, South Carolina, or a number of major retail stores in Venezuela—or if you seek investment advice from Boston to San Diego, are there common threads?

There are: all these references are to Babson graduates, showing in a very limited way the great variety of lives and careers that your predecessors have built from their educations and experiences here. This variety is what I want to comment on, because it has a bearing on what you should look for and on what we want to try to offer you.

The variety of directions that graduates have taken should give pause to some of you who have arrived at Babson with very specific and narrow thoughts about what you will study here and what you will do afterwards. If you have such narrow plans—even if you have a sure shot and all the right incentives for taking over a family business—look beyond the things you or your advisors think are essential.

The undergraduate years are not a time for specialization. In courses and in your career activities, college is a time to explore in new directions. Ten years from now you may not really want to be an accountant, an IBM district manager, the owner of your own enterprise, or even Dad’s successor. Even if your interests held the world around you is going to change. My generation, which knew computers and robots in college only as science-fiction fantasies, has had to come to terms with both before we reached mid-career. You—graduating in an era which has downsized the study of languages, geography, and other cultures—can be sure of living your lives in a very internationalized, very interdependent world. Even if your choices of courses and activities seem obvious to you, you should look toward some very well defined career goals, hedge by seeking breadth.

Some of you are the opposite extremes. You chose Babson for reasons other than its management focus, and you may be worried that what we offer leads only to business careers. The record shows otherwise. Our board chairman, an alumnus, is a distinguished Boston lawyer and only one of a large number of graduates who have gone on to law school. Joining the evangelist and photographer are college professors, writers, government officials, and masters of one of the most difficult management tasks—being full-time parents.

Learning the things that are important for managing means learning things that are important for many other careers—to solve complex situations as a problem-solver or as a developer of opportunities, to use words and numbers well in the difficult art of communicating with others, to understand the mix of cultural and technological forces that are shaping our futures, to appreciate political and economic ideas which underlie a free society, to learn to persuade and to lead, and to have a sense of values and place in society when faced with ethical choices or questions of civic responsibility. Learning to manage, as we try to have you do it at Babson, involves your studies in liberal arts as well as in your courses in business. It involves your extra curricular as well as your academic commitments. It is liberal education with a concern for practical outcomes.

The variety of things our graduates have gone into, finally, underscores another dimension of what Babson encourages—an entrepreneurial spirit. All of us at the College take pride in the campus activities and businesses that developed while students are still enrolled—in fact, we have already had exposure to some of you who are bringing businesses you already have underway to Babson. We are glad that IBM, John Hancock, Merrill Lynch, Bank of Boston, and Atlas-Lay hire our graduates; but we do not keep score as some schools do according to how many graduates land with the Forbes 500. Babson makes an extraordinary contribution through supplying talent to medium-sized and smaller firms, many of which offer opportunities for challenge and experience that large firms seldom match. And Babson expects continued growth in the percentage of alumni (now about 1 in 5) who eventually start businesses of their own.

Campus Capsules

Democrats may become extinct at Brigham Young U. where in just two years the BYU College Democrats has grown from a club with more than 100 active members to one which is "virtually non-existent." One observer says the Democrats have fallen on hard times because it is currently fashionable to be conservative and Republican at BYU.

College textbooks is a $1.3 billion a year industry, according to the Association of America Publishers. Sales rose 4.1 percent in flat market in 1984, mainly because of inflation.

A New Divestment Movement is set to hit campuses this fall. The Young Conservative Foundation has already organized on more than 30 campuses in seven states in preparation for its Save the Oppressed People Committee (STOP) Campaign - an effort to persuade American industry from doing business with the Soviet Union, employing tactics similar to the student anti-apartheid movement.

Academic quality is more important than financial aid for those moving to a college. The College Board reports that, among high school seniors with the top SAT scores, scholarships led fewer than 20% to choose one college over another.

Breaking the mold: Of the 12 million college students in the U.S., only 2 million are full-time, living on campus and aged 18-22.

Ending a 14-month investigation, the U. of Southern California expelled 17 students for attempting to change their grades through payoffs to employees in the records and registration office.

Study Coming to Babson

In the next few weeks, Babson College students will be selected to answer a few questions about how much money they spend while going to college in Massachusetts. The information will be used in a study designed to show the importance of the independent colleges and universities in Massachusetts to the state's economy.

The questionnaire about student spending is short and easy to answer. No one will be asked to give their names and the information will be pooled with similar information gathered from other Massachusetts independent colleges and universities students. The Social Welfare Research Institute at Boston College in conducting the study for the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities in Massachusetts (AICUM). All of the association's member institutions, including Babson College, will participate in the study.

In addition to the information on student spending the study will include data on how much the colleges themselves spend on items like salaries, maintenance and capital expenditures.

A similar study conducted for AICUM in 1983 showed that the independent colleges and universities and their students generated a $7.9 billion impact on the Massachusetts economy.

New Student Profile

President's Welcome

You are good candidates for success--that you would have not passed the hurdles that Dean Carver and his admissions staff have set. We cannot predict, in a diverse and fast changing world, where your best opportunities and challenges will lie. Our hope is to send you out with a better sense of what that world is like and of how it is evolving--and with skills and tools for coping with it. We cannot guarantee your success at Babson or afterwards, but we are committed to working with you to develop. Our goal is to prepare you in both a "mind-on" and "hands-on" way for the mix of things that represent accomplishment and contribution through career, participation and effect as a citizen, and fulfillment in continuous individual growth satisfaction.

Free Press Guidelines

1985 - 86

The Free Press is the student-run weekly paper on campus. As a major source of communication on campus, we have three responsibilities. First, we report the news. Second, we zero-in on interesting highlights of the college. And third, and most importantly, we are a vehicle of student opinion among students and to the trustees, administrators, and faculty. The following guidelines will help you get the most out of the Free Press.

DEADLINES
The deadline for all material is Monday, NOON, for publication the same week. The deadline may be extended by the appropriate editor as circumstances dictate.

ARTICLES
The Free Press covers all major events on campus. However, if you feel that there is something significant that should be reported, please contact one of the editors. If submitting an article, please type double-spaced and include your name and telephone number. Articles may be sent through the campus mail to Box 140.

FLASHES
Flashes, or personal messages, should be sent to Box 140 by Tuesday. Wednesday flashes will not be accepted. The sender’s name must be included. The Free Press reserves the right to edit flashes due to space constraints.

CLUB CORNER
It is up to the individual organizations to publicize their events and meetings. The ideal way of publicizing your organization’s activities and special events is through Club Corner, a weekly feature in the paper. All articles for Club Corner should be typed and submitted to the paper by NOON on Monday. All Club Corner notices are subject to space constraints.

OPEN FORUM
Open Forum is a column for members of the Babson Community to express their ideas in a longer format than that in a “Letter to the Editor”. Please follow guidelines for submitting articles. Please limit Open Forum to a maximum length of 500 words.

Our two-cents worth

The Freep Speaks

Well, it’s that time of year again. All those lucky new students get to hear what seems like endless advice from every person on campus. Just so we don’t feel left out, here’s the Freep Press’ two-cents worth:

1. Introduce yourself to your roommate. It will make the next nine months easier. It’s not that difficult...just extend your hand and offer a welcome.

2. Get to know your professors outside of class. They’re people, too, and you may find that some of them are pretty interesting.

3. Say hello to someone you’ve never met who looks intriguing. You never know what might happen...

4. Scoping is a national pastime at all orientations. Join in!

5. Go to a fraternity or sorority party even if you have no intention of joining. It’s a college experience that cannot be missed.

6. Get involved. We know, we know, everyone and his brother has told you this. It’s true, though. The “Babson Experience” comes from community.

7. To learn why Babson is Business, join the Babson Student Federal Credit Union. It’s an incredible operation.

8. Don’t set yourself on a career or major too soon. Who knows? Maybe you’d like marketing better than accounting or finance.

9. Join the Freep Press! (Of course we’re going to advertise ourselves.) Here’s an organization where you can belong, no matter what your interests. Visit us in the basement of Park Manor Central.

10. Don’t feel you have to hang around the campus all the time. The World’s Greatest City is twenty minutes away (not to mention dozens of other colleges).

11. Go to any Babson sports event and be an athletic supporter.

12. Finally, have a positive attitude and a fresh outlook and get involved!!! Good luck for a fun and successful year!
UPCOMING FILM RELEASES

THE DOCTOR AND THE DEVILS

Based on a screenplay by the poet Dylan Thomas, adapted by the Academy Award-nominated writer of The Dresser, Ronald Harwood, Brookfield's The Doctor and the Devils is a gothic thriller inspired by the real-life exploits of the famed 19th Century grave-robers Burke and Hare. The story Dylan Thomas told in his richly imagistic screenplay for The Doctors and the Devils is an often shocking meditation on life and death, and on the perennial question of whether the end justifies the means. Timothy Dalton stars as Dr. Thomas Rock, an unorthodox anatomist who refuses to obey the rules of the Victorian medical establishment. In his quest for scientific truth, Dr. Rock unwittingly falls in league with a team of "resurrectionists," Fallon (Jonathan Pryce) and Broom (Stephen Rea), who are more than willing to supply him with dead bodies - fresh ones. To be released in October.

ENEMY MINE

One of the most powerful and unusual films of this or any year, Enemy Mine is a story of conflict, friendship and visionary drama set against a vast interplanetary backdrop one hundred years in the future. Enemy Mine stars Dennis Quaid and Louis Gossett, Jr., as enemy space pilots in a distant sun-system. Quaid plays Davidge, a battle-hardened Earthman. Gossett is Jeriba Shigan, a Drac from the planet Dracora, physically strange to human eyes, he is in fact a complex being, the proud inheritor of an ancient culture. The two natural enemies are dog-fighting when they crash on a hostile planet, Pyraine IV, which is perpetually bombarded by meteor storms and inhabited by deadly carnivores. The fate of Davidge and Jeriba depends on their ability to overcome their inherent hatred - and on their instinct to survive. What evolves is a drama of elemental emotions - love and hatred, friendship and honor - set against a background of elemental grandeur and savagery. Presently set for a December release.

POETRY

Chasing, dancing, leaping, creeping, from old life into new, wondering what I think of you, unseen dreams, and newfound schemes, two lives emeshed, embroiled, enhanced at last, and suddenly heart snarled, held fast, no turning back, no letting go, too late to run too soon to know if all is well, yet time will tell it all, and softly in the night i call your name. nothing quite the same amidst this total rearranging, as everything about me is shifting, moving, changing.

"My Money Keeps Me Poor"

-- Pete Townsend
NEW MOVIES DUE OUT THIS SEMESTER

THE JEWEL OF THE NILE

This sequel to 1984's blockbuster hit Romancing the Stone promises to deliver the same winning elements as its predecessor: romance, comedy and adventure on exotic locations.

Joan Wilder (Kathleen Turner) always thought it would be just like the ending of one of her best-selling novels: the villains are routed, the heroine falls into the hero's arms, and they go sailing off into the sunset together. But that's not what happened when she and Jack Colton (Michael Douglas) sailed off together after their thrilling South American adventure in Romancing the Stone. In fact, things are looking very rocky for the screen's favorite romantic couple...

Until they encounter the mystery of the Jewel, and find themselves caught up in the wildest adventure of their lives -- due out in December.

JOSHUA THEN AND NOW

Joshua Then and Now is the warm, funny story of a lazy, free spirit who traverses two continents in hot pursuit of life, love and success. James Woods (Once Upon a Time in America) stars as Joshua, a writer and media personality who spends a day looking back on his turbulent life when an outrageous scandal threatens him and his family.

Spanning four decades, the film shows his relationship to the two people he loves most: his hilariously profane, street-wisefather, played by one of America's finest comic actors, Alan Arkin, and Pauline, played by leading Canadian-born French actress Gabrielle Lazare -- the golden girl who marries Joshua and introduces him to the world of wealth and influence he has always despised. Joshua Then and Now is to be released this month.

COMMANDO

Coming off the box-office and critical success of The Terminator, Arnold Schwarzenegger stars in Commando, a Silver Pictures Production for Twentieth Century Fox.

Schwarzenegger plays Colonel John Matrix, the former leader of a special operations military group who is forced back into the world of political intrigue and adventure when his daughter is kidnapped. Embarking on this last mission against his will and in the face of staggering odds, Matrix has a slim chance, and a reluctant ally: a stewardess named Cindy, played by Rae Dawn Chong. Commando is due out in October.

PLENTY

Meryl Streep stars in Plenty as Susan Traherne, an heroic Englishwoman haunted by memories of the passion and idealism of her wartime experiences as a fighter in the French Resistance. When the war is over, Susan feels that she is standing on the brink of a new and better world, only to find that her dream is at odds with the prosperous but spiritually bankrupt society of postwar England. In an age of plenty, Susan is hungry for more...

Two-time Oscar winner Meryl Streep is generally acknowledged to be the foremost American actress of her generation for such tours de force as Kramer vs. Kramer, Sophie's Choice and Silkwood. In Plenty she undertakes a new kind of role as Susan Traherne, a woman who pursues her ideals with reckless disregard for propriety, and sometimes for the well-being of the people she loves.

The men and women whose lives she touches are played by an all-star international cast that includes Charles Durning, Tracey Ullman, John Gielgud, Sting, Ian McKellen and Sam Neill. Plenty will begin theaters by the end of the month.

BAD MEDICINE

Against his will, Jeff Marx is studying to be a doctor. And the biggest surprise of all is that he's going to fall in love -- with his work.

Twentieth Century Fox's Bad Medicine, starring Steve Guttenberg, Alan Arkin and Julie Hagerty, chronicles the comic misadventures of an American medical student from a distinguished family of doctors who has been prepared by a lifetime of parental expectations to carry on the "Dr. Marx" tradition. Unfortunately, his G.P.A. precludes his studying close to home -- or anywhere else in the United States -- and Jeff finds himself training at a wayward Latin American institution run by a dictatorial Latin American, Dr. Ramon Madera. The film is set for a November release.

Oh, the merits of success. Like the John Wooden UCLA hoopers of the sixties, when you play soccer at Babson College, one thing you don't lose track of is winning. Quite simply, there isn't much time to dwell on losses because they just don't happen that often for Babson's booters. That's why when Babson finished 8-5-2 in 1984 it was looked at, believe it or not, as a mediocre year at best. Here is a tradition that has etched itself into its own little stone. Since 1967 Babson has maintained an overall winning percentage around 800.

Babson soccer has always found a way to succeed and one can bet 1985 will have feet seeing once again. The team will enter the year with three scorers and two defensemen (all starters) lost to graduation and an interim head coach (Pete Ginnagar) replacing seven-year mentor Bill Rogers who resigned in August.

Defensively, the green will look to junior Dan Caldicott for scoring. The forward was an All-New England back last year and had opponents resembling Barney Fife guarding Hill Street Station on most of his bids. He is ranked 21st on the all-time Babson scoring list with 10 tallies. The 5'8" Caldicott is the leader up front, very quick and scores the big goal. Sophomore John Wallace will complement "Caddy" along with senior Alex Von Cramm. Von Cramm split time last year between the front and back lines and should fill the same role this season. Babson freshmen always enter the scene with immediate impact and talented forward contribution will come from all-staters Scott McHardy (New Hampshire), Kevin Doucette and Jeff Zettarian (both Maine). Manning the midfield will be a veteran crop led by senior Gerald Filipione. "Pone" follows a pipeline of enduring Braintree, Massachusetts soccer players to Wellesley during back 10 years. He'll be flanked by other vets in juniors Rob Rocheleau and Dan Egan and sophomores Gino DiStefano and John Chitoulis. DiStefano came on like gangbusters last year and was seeing regular duty midway through the season. Freshmen to watch include Sean O'Neill (Vermont), Danny Madden (Mass.), Neal Sokomon (New York), and Dana Norton (Needham).

Returning All-American and captain Mark Sullivan will patrol the backfield and there aren't many better in any division. Babson scored 17 goals in 1985 so one knows New England's premier defensemen had a lot to do with Babson's six shutouts while keeping opponents to an average of one goal a game.Seniors Shawn Andrew and John Vigue will team well with Sully along with Von Cramm. Newcomers Paul Oitberg (Loomis Chaffee), Peter Gardner (Florida), and Reed Ereckcunde (New Jersey) will also work into the system.

Senior Rob Muscaro was Babson's regular goalie last year appearing in 12 games. Junior Dan Poulin has also played well and will push hard for game honors with Muscaro. Freshman Dave Farris from Lexington may also see some minutes.

Men's soccer is eager to prove its dominance.
