Babson Security recovers stolen computer equipment

By JIM TABNER

The recovery of approximately $3,000 of computer equipment, stolen from the Babson Campus on two separate occasions, was announced by Babson Police Chief Robert Dragiace.

"At this time, we've recovered two computer terminals, two power packs, two audio couplers, and a video terminal," he said.

The equipment, stolen from the Babson computer center on September 4 and November 9 of last year, was recovered January 9 at a Newton residence.

Two suspects, aged 19 and 18, were taken into custody, and charged with possession of stolen items. The cases are pending outcome.

"The two suspects were charged with possession of the stolen equipment," said the Chief, "but we are unsure whether the suspects actually stole the equipment."

The investigation for the recovery of the stolen equipment was handled by the Babson Police department, as well as Police Departments from Wellesley, Newton and Boston.

"Drapau gave this account."

"The first clue in the case occurred, when an unknown party released into a Newton Police Department Station and announced that he believed he had been sold a "hot" terminal."

"Boston Police officials checked the serial number on the terminal, and found that it was Babson equipment. However, there was one slight problem:"

"The party who brought the terminal in could not be located, and he left his last name only. Working frantically with "hot" terminals, Babson Police officials the man was tracked down."

"At At M.A. January 9, 1976, the gentleman led Lieutenant Donald Perkins of the Babson Police Department, Detective Normine of the Newton Police Department, and myself to a Newton residence."

"We waited all day, and finally at about 9:30, two suspects and the stolen equipment were in custody." See COMPUTERS page 6

Putney announces new manager of Bookstore

By BILL SHANNON

Lawrence E. Carr will become the new manager of the Babson Bookstore Monday, February 9, when the present manager, Charles Maczini, retires, according to Jesse Putney, Vice President for Financial Affairs.

A graduate of UMass, Carr is presently in charge of the book and record department at MIT.

"While I don't expect Carr to turn the Bookstore upside down, I am looking forward to a general updating of the store. Better in terms of physical appearance and in merchandise lines offered. I hope more people will get out of just going in to browse," said Putney.

The Vice President went on to say that 157 applications for the position were received, from which 20 candidates were called in for interviews. They were interviewed jointly by Putney and Maczini, student representatives to the bookstore.

After this, two applicants were chosen for a second interview with President Ornensen and the bookstore advisory committee, which jointly made the final decision.

"We were looking for someone with proven management ability," said Putney. He felt that Carr was well-qualified for the job and showed a great interest in the Babson community and in making changes in the bookstore.

Reisman said, "The interviewers gave us the opportunity to hear the good points and bad points about the store, along with many ideas on how to improve it."

Last year, the five member bookstore advisory committee established a two member subcommittee, made up of Putney and Reisman, to find the new manager for the bookstore.

Advertising was done in national newspapers including the Boston Globe, and in a publication called "The Bookstore Magazine."

Maccini will spend two weeks with the new manager in order to acquaint him with the job.

Student Government Elections

Due to a misprint in the Student Government Constitution, the Student Government elections have been postponed temporarily.

The Student Government and the FREE PRESS apologize for the inconveniences to those students who are currently running for offices.

For further details on the action taken by Government President Howard Simpson, see his letter to the Student body on page two.

Government gives nod to recycling program

By BOB BLOCK

The Recycling Committee received a majority vote from the Student Government at Tuesday's meeting to go ahead with a recycling project.

Representatives Brian Strawbridge and Doug Mittelman, who have been at work on the project, addressed the assembly.

"We have been in contact with other schools such as MIT, Harvard, and Boston College, and have witnessed some recycling programs," said Strawbridge. "We will be recycling newspaper, metal, glass, and aluminum," he added.

The project will include seven dumpsters from the town of Wellesley, five to be placed behind the Buildings and Grounds shed, one in the Waban parking lot, and one near the Beaver Brau.

There will be barrels on each dorm floor for all recyclable trash, and one fifty five gallon drum in each dorm, into which the barrels will be emptied.

Why are they smiling?

Did you ever notice that the people who work in Trim Dining Hall smile a lot?

And well they should: if you had to look at all those funny I.D. pictures, wouldn't you be grinning, too?

Some things are guarded with the utmost secrecy - the Babson I.D. used to be one of them. (Right up there with your driver's license, your Bobby Vinton T-shirt, and your re-elect Nixon button.) And, if per chance somebody caught sight of the embarrassing photo, it would be heralded with all sorts of disclaimers.

But no one gets out of this jam, so steel yourself to it. So what if your eyes are closed, your hair looks green, you're half out of the picture, or you're wearing a blue plaid shirt and a brown plaid tie? No one's going to give you any sympathy.

So you can try to get around the excruciating moment when someone will scrutinize that plasticized disaster.

1) You can cover the picture with your thumb, or 2) you can recite the number yourself, or 3) you can try to put the meal sticker over your face.

It'll never work. Why not? 1) They'll tell you to move your thumb, 2) they'll never believe you, or 3) the adhesive is permanent. ( Haven't we all tried that one already?)

You just have to accustom yourself to the idea that someone will examine the photo, stare at you, and try to imagine that the two perceived images should look alike. Okay, I guess anyone can get used to that.

But woe to the unfortunate gate-keeper who yells, "Hey, guys, there's a live one for you!!!"

Famous Last Words.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

Looking back on last semester, I concluded that the hours kept by the Dry Dock were terribly erratic.

After one semester, it is apparent that Mr. Kheg has yet to realize his obligations and responsibilities to the Babson student body. Unfortunately, the Dry Dock was closed last Friday at 1:30 and I feel that this shows a gross negligence and disconcern on the part of the Dry Dock management.

Perhaps some deterrent measures could be taken to remedy this chronic problem.

Sincerely,
Scott D. Johnson

To the Editor:

Posters for the Student Government Election have been up on the walls for only one day already and they are already under attack by the vandalism. I find this an extremely juvenile and disgusting way to express an opinion about a candidate. Aids from damaging a poster that someone worked hard on, all that action does is create sympathy for the candidate whose poster is destroyed.

If you don't like a candidate, then don't vote for him. Ask your friends not to. But don't海报 his posters either.

Sincerely,
Jeffrey Compton

To the Editor:

I would like to take this time to announce my candidacy for the office of the President of Student Government.

As a representative of Babson at this year's regional conference of the American College Student Action Congress (ACSC), I was able to attend various workshops concerned with the creation and election of college union. I have brought these ideas back with me to be used in conjunction with our own research in the implementation of a community center. I am elected I will be able to continue to work with the trustees and corporation members of the Student Affairs Council on this project. Continuity is important it time is not to be wasted.

A community center would be most beneficial to the entire Babson population, faculty, administration and students alike. Communication and interaction between various committees and organizations would be greatly improved with such a central location. The advantages are endless; the question remains is there a definite need? Have we badly do the students want it? I feel the student interest is there. If you agree, support me by voting by hand on February 29 or 29 on and February 4 or 5.

As president of Student Government I would work to bring the campus together to create a degree of interaction between faculty and student, between the Student council and Student Government. We have a small school we have to work together to do big things. With your support I would like to do it.

Sincerely,
Barth Holway

To the Editor:

Why are they smiling?

To the Editor:

It is my unfortunate duty to inform the Babson community that the scheduled Student Government elections must be postponed temporarily.

Due to a misprint in the Constitution, the requirements for the office of Secretary were incorrectly stated. The Constitution erroneously stated that 16 credit hours must be completed by a candidate before he or she can run.

It has been ascertained by going back to the original documents that the Constitution should have read "The candidate must be a full time student not less than 4 semester immediately preceding the semester during which the candidate runs for office."

A full time student is anyone having completed at least 12 credit hours.

Because of the late hour, I am not able to contact all the members of the election committee, and so I therefore take full responsibility for postponing the elections.

Some of the implications of my actions are:

1) full financial responsibility to the FREE PRESS for the candidates' ads placed in this edition.
2) full responsibility to the Student body for the misunderstanding.
3) full responsibility to the candidates for the inconvenience this decision may cause their campaigns.

The Election Committee will meet as soon as possible to decide when the elections will be held. A letter will be placed in every student's mailbox by Monday, February 5, with specific details, including a revised election schedule.

I want to thank those students who called my attention to this mistake and to the FREE PRESS staff for their cooperation in this matter.

I again apologize for the confusion and trouble this will cause, as always, I am Respectfully yours,
Howard B. Simpson, President of Student Government

To the Editor:

I have been with BSRO, I have gained the opportunity to create a good communication rapport with the Assistant and Vice Presidents of Babson, in addition to most of the Deans.

It is my opinion that as Vice President of Student Government, I will be able to make the administration aware of the situation with the hope that together we may remediate it.

Some time ago, Babson students were given the opportunity to join the Academic Committees for each division. Currently there are seven members at large and student representatives I am elected I will be able to continue to work with the trustees and corporation members of the Student Affairs Council on this project. Continuity is important if time is not to be wasted.

How much do you know about Student Government? You deserve to know more. We need greater efficiency, we need better attendance and involvement at meetings, we need to follow-up on campus problems.

By facing important issues such as these, governments can contribute to the life of a campus community. For this reason, I, as a junior, do not feel I am too Young to run for a position in the Student Government.

December graduates receive degrees at winter ceremony

by CINDY COUSIN

Sixty-nine seniors were awarded their Bachelor of Science degrees at Bason's winter commence ceremony conducted on December 20th. It was an emotional high for many of the students, according to Everett Stephens, Vice President of Public Affairs.

"Graduation went very, very well," said Stephens. "Attendance was very favorable, with a nearly perfect turnout among the December gradu- uates. An excellent showing of students, faculty, alums, family, and friends filled the bottom of the hall."

Those who were graduated were very pleased with the commence- ment, although it did not carry as much pageantry (i.e., a large, colorful procession, the awarding of honorary degrees) as the May graduation, explained Stephens.

President Ralph R. Simonson II was the commencement speaker. His address, titled "Some Things We Never Taught You," focused on three areas:

First, he discussed the importance for each student to make a "long- range personal plan." By combining a self-appraisal and an evaluation of the opportunities which helped to define the special niche that

New position created at Career Counseling

by CHRISTOPHER SPRAGUE

The scene for the Career Counsel- ing Office is much more colorful with the addition of Steve Stepaniak. Although she prefers to be called Tricia, her official title is Director of Career Development. As such, she is responsible for planning workshops and training the Director of Career Counseling, William Wrenn.

In defining her role at Bason, she said, "At Bason, the purpose of the work is to help the student with a career," she explained.

"Career planning is a life process we work to help students toward a better understanding of what they can offer to, and learn from, a career," she explained.

Among her other duties, Stepaniak is in the process of developing the careerms, which will help us determine what we want to do with the rest of our lives," she continued.

"I see myself as a facilitator assisting students toward a better understanding of what they can offer to, and learn from, a career," she explained.

"One of the candidates promised to legalize the COMPLEX if he wins??!!" She added.

"Riddle may be a great idea!" She added.

"I am proud to be at Bason," she added.

"I am truly looking forward to the winter semester. I am working hard to make sure that the students are happy and that the work is done," she explained.

A graduate of Dean Junior College and Springfield College, Stepaniak focused on Sociology, Psychology, and Anthropology during her education. Following a brief stint of volunteer work, she continued her education at Boston College. There she received her Masters Degree in Education.

During that time, she worked as an intern in the college's Career Develop- ment Office. As short as time goes, I recognized the need for Career Counseling and I felt that with my background I was qualified for it," she said.

Stepaniak is a member of the following Business and Career Re- development organizations: The Wo- men's Professional Club of Eastern Massasachusetts, Business and Pro- fessional Women of Wellesley, and the Eastern Massasachusetts Career Placement Organization.

"From these organizations I learn market trends, the needs of candidates needed by business, and I bring attention to Bason," she added.

"When asked to sum up her work, she said, "It's fun." We hope it stays that way.

The cargo was loaded onto a great ship and the ceremony, according to Stephens, was well attended.

Hopes for a December 1976 gradu- ation took place at this point. "With the way the calendar is now, it would be impossible to schedule a com- mencement ceremony," said Ste- paniak.

"If it were possible to push the calendar back a couple of months, we could schedule the ceremony," she said.

"But I think that if the majority of the students want to graduate when they should have one, we will schedule it," she added.

It may be possible to include the MBA students in the next December ceremony. Thomas LeLon, dean of the School of Business, explained that if he had advance knowledge, he would try to schedule an exam that MBA's would be a part of graduation.
Volunteers to offer students new opportunities

by CHUCK OLIVIERI

In the very near future, Babson students will have the opportunity to test their business skills before graduation. A group called the Babson College Volunteers is working with the Massachusetts Internship Office (MIO) on a program that will enable students to gain practical experience in many fields.

As the name "Volunteers" may suggest, the program will be different than any that Babson has been involved in before. Funded by ACTION/VISTA, its purpose, according to the MIO, "is to facilitate volunteer placements within a limited number of Boston and Springfield colleges.

Debbie Smith, a VISTA volunteer, will coordinate the campus volunteer programs at Bunker Hill Community College, Lesley College, Tufts University, Wellesley College, and at Babson. Students from the five colleges will be involved in fifteen agencies in the Boston area.

According to the MIO, since the project is funded by ACTION/VISTA, the "participating agencies must serve either low income areas or disadvantaged groups such as the handicapped." In the participating agencies, "positions will be available in the fields of mental health, criminal justice, tutoring, day care, recreation, and services to the elderly and handicapped."

At Babson, Steve Black has devoted much of his time to organizing the Babson College Volunteers. According to Black, he began working with the United Way. The then attended several conventions at Harvard College, confronting with student volunteers from Harvard, Boston University, and other schools.

"Last semester," Black continued, "VISTA received a grant to work with five Boston-area colleges that didn't already have volunteer programs. Babson was definitely one of them."

"Debbie Smith, a VISTA volunteer, was sent to work with us. In February, two more volunteers will be added to the program," he said.

Both the MIO and Black explained that Babson was chosen because it is believed that its students could aid in "areas of business management, public relations, budget and grant proposal writing." Black said, "Many of the agencies have funds, but lack the expertise needed to carry out their projects."

One such program in which Babson students would be involved is Morville House, a low-income housing residence for the elderly in Boston. Black explained, "The people want to set up a store front food co-op to serve the elderly at affordable prices." This is one project where the funds are present, but the skills are not. Aiding people such as these will not only help them, but it will also give students experience in taxes, budgeting, and other areas and provide them with letters of recommendation for their files.

Black also mentioned that "all of the agencies are in the Boston area; many are right on the Green Line of the MBTA."

"At the beginning," Black said, "there was a question of whether or not Babson students would like to do volunteer work."

During an organizational meeting on Tuesday, several students signed up. Black cited this as a good beginning.

He stressed the fact that a student need only devote as much time as he or she wishes. He gave the following example.

"The Indians in Boston are a shy, reserved people," he said. "There are many things that can be done for them. Many of them who are seniors in high school don't apply to colleges because they don't know how or are afraid to fill out the applications. Just an hour a week could help in a case such as this."

Black hopes that volunteer field work will also lay the groundwork for further field studies. He added that several professors have come up with an idea which would use this volunteer work in certain fields as an option to doing traditional term papers and projects.

Tuesday night, Black will go before Student Government with a proposal to charter the volunteers. "At the present," he said, "we aren't definite about these plans. We don't qualify for government funds yet, but we may have a need for them in the future."

Eventually, Black would like to see monthly meetings involving all five of the participating colleges. "First, though," he said, "we don't need to get more Babson students as volunteers."

According to Black, a recruitment day will take place Friday, January 30, from 10:00 to 4:00. It will be held outside the Student Activities Office (the office through which Black has worked). Along with pamphlets and booklets on the program, Debbie Smith, of VISTA, will also be present to answer questions.

So, anyone who might be interested in working in recreation with underprivileged children, or, in helping the elderly by donating his time, knowledge, and skills, should stop by the Informal Lounge and volunteer.
Babson Mailroom adds additional mailboxes

by BILL SHANNON

Seven hundred new boxes were added to the Babson mailroom over Christmas vacation. This gives every student their own box, according to Deirdre Gustavson, head of the mailroom.

The new system will go into effect in about three weeks, and will be set up in alphabetical order. This means most students will be given new box numbers, said Gustavson.

"It will make things more convenient," she said, "not only for the students, but also for those working in the mailroom. In addition, it gives the room a nicer atmosphere." According to William Doughlin, controller, costs for the renovations have not yet been determined.

Former Administration Building gets new name

by BRIAN STRAWERDGE

The former Administration Building has been renamed Mustard Hall, in honor of Mrs. Edwin Babson Mustard, according to Mrs. Jesse Putney, vice president of financial affairs.

Mrs. Mustard is the only daughter of Roger Babson, founder of Babson College.

"We felt this would be the most appropriate way to honor Mrs. Mustard for her many years of generous support to the college," said Putney.

The board of trustees unanimously voted the change, added Putney.

Most recently, Mrs. Mustard addressed last year's Founder's Day audience, in commemoration of Roger Babson's 100th birthday.

This building played a significant role in the history of Babson College, being established as the administration building when the college was founded in 1919, according to Putney.

Mustard Hall will be used to house career counseling, undergraduate admissions and ten faculty offices to be located on the second floor. The building is presently undergoing renovations which will be completed by late spring or early summer.

College adopts new employee parking plan

by JIM TINKHER

A new policy concerning employee parking violations has been adopted by Babson College, according to Jesse Putney, vice president for financial affairs.

The policy, effective January 19, allows each employee one violation per semester. After the first violation, employees will be billed accordingly for each additional violation.

"In the past, we were able to maintain a fairly tight control on the number of employees who receive parking citations, but in recent years, we've had trouble with a few people, leaving us no other alternative but to adopt such a policy," said Putney.

Putney stressed that the majority of employees were cooperative in the past regarding parking regulations.

"We're mainly concerned with the few who consistently violate our parking rules and regulations," he said.

The new policy, similar to the parking policy which Babson students are required to follow, was adopted after student government and other groups voiced concern over the number of unpaid employee parking citations.

"For years, Elliott McBride and myself were concerned about the growing number of employee violations, but after the students showed some concern, we felt in all fairness to them we must adopt such a policy," Putney said.

If an employee feels that he or she was unjustly given a citation, Putney will hear any appeals.

"I'm serving the same function that Student Traffic Court serves when dealing with student violations," said the vice president for financial affairs.

Babson Police Department has adopted a new plan in an effort both to enforce the new policy, and enforce existing parking regulations, according to Lieutenant Donald Parks.

"Effective immediately, there will be an overall increase in the number of officers on duty," said Parks, "so that we will have officers on duty seven days a week.

The increased patrols by security officers means that ticketing will be done more frequently and also on weekends.

The equipment was in generally good condition, although some repairs will have to be made before the equipment can be reused.

The equipment needs no major repairs, just a few minor adjustments, according to Drapko.

It is not known exactly what purposes the suspects were going to use the equipment, but according to Drapko, the suspects were using it for an "amateur radio operations." At this time, it is not definitely known whether any of the suspects were in any way connected with Babson College.

We've investigated all parties involved with the work, and it is believed that no one is in any way connected with Babson," concluded Drapko.

Government

"This could be one of the largest recycling programs in the country," stated Strickland. "The gain will do a tremendous amount for the image of the school," he added.

President Henry Dowd announced that all money from the recycling program will go to Student Government. The initial investment of $1500 taken from student funds is being used to purchase the recycling barrels. Babson College throws out about 30 tons of trash each week. At this rate we should have a return on our investment of about $750 at the end of the current semester," he explained.

"Also, there will be recycling barrels next semester in all秘密ary's offices, and in all prof's offices," added Mittelman.

Representative John McCauley questioned the use of student funds for the recycling program. "Student funds are supposed to be for the benefit of the entire campus, I believe that the administration should have entire responsibility for such a project."

President Howard Simpson explained, "I believe that this project is a student activity and it will benefit everyone on campus from an ecological standpoint."

Simpson added, "We shouldn't go into this venture with the idea that we will make money. If we break even we will have come out ahead.

Simpson told the representatives of a meeting of the Executive Committee, Blue Key, and Cardinal Key concerning the scheduled dates for the upcoming primaries and elections.

"The consensus opinion was that although there was little time for students to announce their candidacy, most students were aware of the elections and had sufficient time to think about running."

The representatives voted 18-3, with abstentions in favor of keeping the primaries and elections on the scheduled dates.

Simpson also announced that at the present time there are two candidates for President, two for Vice President, one for Treasurer, and one for Secretary.

Gary Lee, representing the Social Committee, announced that the next scheduled event will be on February 21 when the James Cotton Band will perform.

Secretary Mandy Seibler explained that due to graduation there is a shortage of off-campus representatives. All those interested should contact a government official. Also, elections for representatives in Woodland and in McCullough will be held by the end of the week.

In new business, the Student Government body voted by majority to allow Cardinal Key, in conjunction with the Theatre Guild, to sign a contract for a theatrical group to perform during student week of February 29 - March 6 for the Focus on Women week. However, this is pending approval of Ways and Means.

President Simpson also announced that he and Rich Stilman, editor of the Free Press, met with administration officials to discuss ways of alleviating the problems of scheduling reservations for meetings.

"Administration is going to hire a single person who will have the responsibility to schedule any facility room on campus," explained Simpson. "Also, the Free Press will publish a two week calendar of events that can be pulled out of the publication. It is hoped that the calendars will begin to be published within the next few weeks," added Simpson.

Letters

My experience in Student Government includes being student representative in my freshman year and in this year, and as a member of the Ways and Means Committee for the past three semesters. This committee works closely with the Treasurer in designing the Government budget and then making sure that the financial aspects of Government are in order.

I feel that having been connected with the financial affairs of the Student Government for the past year and one half has given me the much needed experience that is required if one aspires to the Office of Treasurer.

I plan to keep the student body fully aware of how all of their money is being allocated. I also intend to allocate all the monies in which it will as beneficial as possible to the whole campus.

Respectfully yours,

Benjamin H. Moore
Candidate for Treasurer

I hope you'll give me the opportunity to serve as Student Government Secretary to supporting me on February 4 and 5.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth A. Salvucci

To the Editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to introduce myself to the Babson Community. I am Elizabeth A. Salvucci, candidate for the office of Secretary to the Student Government. I am currently a second semester sophomore and have served on many committees and have worked for various organizations. I am a member of Student Affairs, a Commuter Student Association, and a member of the task force for a College Union. Although I recently moved on campus, I was a member of the Community Student Association, and served as secretary to the CSA this past semester.

I choose to run for secretary because I feel a strong and responsive student government is of vital importance to the Babson community. I view the job of secretary as involving two main functions. My first responsibility will be recording minutes, typing correspondences, agendas, notices, etc. Through my work in the student government office this past year and my work on the CSA I am well equipped with these responsibilities.

My other primary function will be to have as member of the executive committee, to continue to make student government an effective and responsive organization. It will be the responsibility of the executive committee to promote the interests of the Babson Students, and to present these interests to the administration and faculty, so that Babson College can be a community which best serves the interests of all students.

Beavers basketball team brings their record to 4-4
by MARK PYSZNICK

The Beavers Basketball team brought their record to 4-4 over the semester break by winning the Gordon Invitational Tournament, and then dropping games to Bentley College and Suffolk University.

During the first week of school, they continued to play at the 500 percentage level by beating Lowell University 87-74 last Tuesday at 7:30, and losing to the University of New Haven at home, 82-65 last Thursday.

The Beavers looked shaky in the opening minutes of the Lowell game, as they were down 12-4 before they started to play basketball. They managed to tie the game toward the middle of the half on the shooting of Ken Masters, Phil Tower and Chris Johnson, before they took the lead for good.

Babson built the lead to as many as eight points before the half ended on the shooting of James Lawson. Then the Engineers cut the lead to five at the half, 37-32.

Babson poured it on strong in the second half, as several players contributed to the victory. The most notable players were Senior Captain, Steve Owen, and Junior forward, Daniel Kael. With their play, the Beavers upped their lead to eighteen before Lowell came back at the end of the game.

The University of New Haven was just too much for the Beavers to handle on Thursday. The Beavers were in the game for the first fifteen minutes before New Haven caught fire. Aided by the tough rebounding of Steve Owen, plus the fact that New Haven was in early foul trouble, the Beavers went into the second half with a 39-36 lead. However, that lead quickly vanished in the early minutes of the second half as New Haven out rebounded and out hustled the Beavers as they rolled on for the victory.

TIP-OFF FACTS

Chris Johnson is the leading scorer on the team with 228 points in eleven games for a 20.7 average. Next is Captain Steve Owen with a 16.4 average and Daniel Keel with a 7.9 average.

Johnson also holds top honors in the rebounding department with 104 bounds followed by Keel with 93.

Ken Masters leads the club in assists with 83 including 9 Against University of Lowell. Owen is second with 39.

Hockey team loses five straight games
by JOHN HUGGINS

The Babson hockey team, after winning two of its first three matches, has settled into the depths of a five game losing streak.

Although all five games have ended in defeat, the Beavers' quality of play has often been excellent.

At Stoners, Connecticut, the Beavers outplayed UConn's opponents into overtime before succumbing. The University of Connecticut scored the winning goal in a 6-5 decision while Beaver defenceman Danny Terrio was in the penalty box, the victim of a hastily disputed tripping penalty.

The Beavers were almost unanimous in their analysis of the penalty call.

"It was a close decision [whether or not to call the penalty], but you just don't call borderline penalties in an overtime period," said Babson Coach, Rick McCarthy.

Unfortunately for the Beavers, referee Joe Buchholz did call it. Buchholz you may remember, was the young kid who penalized every penalty against Babson in the third period of last year's game at West Point. He almost singlehandedly turned a 2-0 Babson lead into a 3-2 defeat.

The next three losses in the losing streak were games the Beavers would like to forget.

Brackport State, the school Babson defeated for the NCAA regional soccer championship, came to Nation next time and turned a 2-0 lead into a 3-2 upset. The Beavers let in the winning goal in the final moments of play.

Colby College brought in a squad comprised of last skating forwards and a key-and-side defensemen, and somehow managed to rout the Beavers 9-1 to send Babson down to its fourth consecutive defeat. Hunter Judson looked good in the Beaver net, despite allowing five goals in two periods.

Against Merrimack, the Beavers had the chance to show how they match up with the best team in Division II hockey.

Although Babson lost 3-0, they skated, checked, and hustled as well as Merrimack.

It was Babson's best played game of the year.

Merrimack scored less than three minutes into the game and scored twice more in the last six minutes of the match.

Beaver goalie Brian Pawar stopped 43 shots in a tremendous performance. Nineteen of those saves came in the third period.

Pawar stopped for Merrimack breakaways, and even saved the rebound shot on a breakaway drive that careened in front of the net.

He also made clutch saves during several nemetho scrambles.

The shots that eluded Powers came on a partial breakaway, a fifth rebound shot in front of the net, and a deflection (by his own defenseman) of a shot from behind the net.

Beavers 7-2. Babson never seemed to get untracked, and body checking was nonexistent in the Beavers' poorest performance of the season. Two Mark Peayer goals were the Babson highlights.

Intramural Hockey

After a year's sabbatical, the Bas- son Intramural Hockey League has returned to action. The four team league plays every Tuesday and Thursday night at the West Suburban Arena in Natick.

Last Tuesday, 50 players of various skills and sizes gathered for practice. Rick McCarthy, Director of Intrame- rals, formed the teams according to ability.

The first games have been fair even with players being switched around to ensure a fairly even contest. Since there are only three goals, they are switched to even out the teams.

Babson Hopsters score an easy win

by MARK PYSZNIK

Coach William Olson's Beavers brought their basketball record to 6-5 with an easy 75-63 win over the Camels of Connecticut College last Saturday night here at Peavey Gym.

Employing a tough man-to-man defense, the Beavers were able to jump out early in the game to a commanding lead over a weak Camel team.

Holding a seventeen point bulge, Coach Olson felt secure enough to put in his second team to play the remaining ten minutes of the half.

The second unit committed several miscues due to their rustiness, but they brought the team into the locker room with a 36-22 lead.

Swimsters continue their winning ways

The finnem of Babson brought their regular season record to 4-1 with victories over Norwich, Trinity, and Holy Cross after the break. Their only loss came at the hands of a powerful Coast Guard team.

After a season opening victory over WPI., the finnem team had a month and a half layoff before taking on Norwich University. The Beavers handled their opponents easily, as shown by the final score of 76-37.

Babson took first place in the first six races, putting the meet away before it really got started.

The medley relay team of Ed Gooden, John Saint Amour, Bruce Levering and Rich Braverman started things off on the right foot by recording the best time of the season in that event with a 4:02.5 time.

The Beavers also swept the 200 yard and 500 yard free-style events. Paul Gelinas and Richard Houle also took the first two spots in both diving events. Babson brought final tally to 76-37 with a meet ending victory in the 400 yard free-style relay.

The next meet was against a tough Coast Guard squad which was one of only three teams to beat Babson in dual meets last year. The Beavers took first place in six out of 18 events, but fell to the outstanding depth of the Beavers.

Gelinas took both diving events again and Eric Durban finished first in both the 500 and 1,000 yard freestyle events.

The Beavers pushed the Bears to two record breaking performances. They bettered the existing times in both the 200 yard individual medley and the 200 yard breaststroke.

The final score showed Babson close to the Coast Guard with a 53-50 score.

The next dual meet placed the Babson against Trinity College. Trinity's small squad never stood much of a chance as they were handily beaten 81-30.

The Camels kept the score respectable in the second half, as they did not give up, but rather played as if the score was significant. Lionel Collin scored twenty-two points to keep the Camel team in the game.

However, the Beavers were able to hold off any attempt to cut their lead. Led by the shooting of sophomores Chris Johnson and Phil Tower, plus the ball handling of Ken Marsters who had seven assists, Babson coasted home for the win.

Perhaps the most amazing fact of the game was that Connecticut College did not go to the foul line, as the Beavers committed only eleven fouls in the entire game.

Next game is tonight against WPI. at home with the top off at 8:00 p.m.

Babson took the top spot in every event but the final 400 yard freestyle relay. Both Babson entities in that event were unclassified.

Babson almost matched that performance in their latest dual meet. They took the top spot in all but one event in Tuesday's match up with Holy Cross.

Hockey Beavers down Wesleyan in overtime

by ED SIMMONS

Tom Kelley's goal at 6:54 of the overtime period against Wesleyan, a 6-6 tie and a five game winning streak for the Babson icers. This brought to Babson's record to 3-0-6 for the season.

For Kelley it was his third goal of the night completing the first hat trick for Babson this season. His linemate, Mark Taylor, hit the light twice for Babson. Along with center Dave Hutchinson, he combined for 5 goals and 6 assists.

Babson started quickly with a Delbert Adams tip-in off a Dan Terrio stop shot just 47 seconds into the game.

Wesleyan countered with a power play goal of their own to end the second period scoring. The teams were deadlocked at 4:47 a goal going into the final stanza.

Before the final seconds were gone, the Beavers charged toward the Wesleyan goal. Paul Macer and Mark Taylor were the main threats on the power play.

Babson pulled ahead with just 38 seconds into the period. Again Wesleyan came back at the 6:29 mark to tie the game.

Kelley got Babson's last goal of regulation time with an assist going to Taylor. The Cardinals tied it up with less than four minutes remaining to finish the scoring.

Wesleyan held off a Babson power play at the closing minutes to preserve the tie.

However, Kelley's game winning goal came on a power play. Taylor and Hutchinson got assists on the tally.
